FISCAL NOTE ANALYSIS

STATE OF ALASKA
2023 LEGISLATIVE SESSIONAnalysis

This bill amends and eliminates some statutes related to Deferred Deposit Advance (DDA) loans, known as "payday loans", and moves those loans to be a loan type under AS 06.20, the Alaska Small Loans Act. The legislation change significantly reduces the interest rate that can be charged on DDA loans.

The Division of Banking and Securities currently licenses 19 DDA licenses; these licenses have a biannual renewal fee of $3,000. If this legislation is adopted, the division anticipates a reduction in revenue of $57,000 biannually or $28,500 annually. If this legislation is adopted some DDA licensees may choose to apply for licensure under the Alaska Small Loans Act which has an annual renewal fee of $1,000; those potential revenues are not included in this fiscal note as they cannot be determined at this time.

The division anticipates a minor regulations package should this legislation pass. These costs will be absorbed in the division's FY2024 budget, which includes planned Department of Law costs.
