FISCAL NOTE ANALYSIS

STATE OF ALASKA
2026 LEGISLATIVE SESSIONAnalysis

HB 133 establishes statutory payment deadlines and interest requirements for state agencies related to contracts, grants, and reimbursement agreements. The bill requires agencies to pay contractors within 30 calendar days of receiving a compliant payment request for satisfactory performance and establishes interest penalties when payment deadlines are not met. Similar payment timelines and interest provisions are established for grants and reimbursement agreements with nonprofit organizations, municipalities, and Alaska Native organizations, including shortened timelines when federal funds are used. The bill also requires agencies to issue written notice within eight working days when payment is withheld due to noncompliance or performance deficiencies and to make payment within 21 calendar days after corrective actions are completed.

The Department of Public Safety administers a range of contracts, grants, and reimbursement agreements across its divisions. The department currently processes payments in accordance with existing state and federal requirements and makes reasonable efforts to issue timely payments once compliant documentation is received and performance requirements are met.

HB 133 does not create new programs, expand enforcement responsibilities, or require additional services to be delivered by the department. The bill formalizes payment timelines and notice requirements that are largely consistent with existing administrative practices. While the bill places these requirements into statute and introduces interest obligations for missed deadlines, the department anticipates that any additional administrative effort associated with compliance can be absorbed within existing resources.

Based on current operations and anticipated implementation, the Department of Public Safety does not expect this legislation to result in additional costs requiring an appropriation. Therefore, this fiscal note reflects no fiscal impact to the department at this time.
