18 Sec. 22.05.020. COMPOSITION AND GENERAL POWERS OF SUPREME COURT.

19 (a) The supreme court is a court of record and consists of five 20 justices including the chief justice.

21 (b) The supreme court is vested with all power and authority
22 necessary to carry into complete execution all its judgments, decrees 23 and determinations in all matters within its jurisdiction, according 24 to the constitution, the laws of the state, and the common law.

25 (c) The supreme court may prescribe by rule the fees to be 26 charged by all courts for judicial services.

27 * Sec. 61. AS 22.10.020 is repealed and reenacted to read:

28 Sec. 22.10.020. JURISDICTION OF THE SUPERIOR COURT. (a) The 29 superior court is the trial court of general jurisdiction, with

1 original jurisdiction in all civil and criminal matters, including 2 probate and guardianship of minors and incompetents.

3 (b) The jurisdiction of the superior court extends over the 4 whole of the state.

5 (c) The superior court and its judges may issue injunctions,
6 writs of review, mandamus, prohibition, habeas corpus and all other
7 writs necessary or proper to the complete exercise of its jurisdic-
8 tion. A writ of habeas corpus may be made returnable before any judge 9 of the superior court.

10 (d) The superior court has jurisdiction in all matters appealed 11 to it from a subordinate court, or administrative agency when appeal 12 is provided by law. The hearings on appeal from a final order or 13 judgment of a subordinate court or administrative agency shall be on 14 the record unless the superior court, in its discretion, grants a 15 trial de novo, in whole or in part.

16 (e) An appeal to the superior court is a matter of right, but an 17 appeal from a subordinate court may not be taken by the defendant in a 18 criminal case after a plea of guilty, except on the ground that the 19 sentence was excessive. The state has no right to appeal in criminal 20 cases, except to test the sufficiency of an indictment or information 21 or to appeal a sentence on the ground it is too lenient.

22 (f) An appeal to the superior court may be taken on the ground
23 that a sentence of imprisonment of 90 days or more was excessive and 24 the superior court in the exercise of this jurisdiction has the power
25 to reduce the sentence. When a sentence is appealed by the state on 26 the ground it is too lenient, the court may not increase the sentence 27 but may express its approval or disapproval of the sentence and its 28 reasons in a written opinion.

29 (g) In case of an actual controversy in the state, the superior

1 court, upon the filing of an appropriate pleading, may declare the 2 rights and legal relations of an interested party seeking the declara-
3 tion, whether or not further relief is or could be sought. The decla-4 ration has the force and effect of a final judgment or decree and is 5 reviewable as such. Further necessary or proper relief based on a 6 declaratory judgment or decree may be granted, after reasonable notice
7 and hearing, against an adverse party whose rights have been deter-8 mined by the judgment.

9 (h) The superior court, in an action for divorce, separation, or 10 child support, affecting inalienable stock in a corporation organized 11 under 43 U.S.C. 1601-1628 (P.L. 92-203, Alaska Native Claims Settle-12 ment Act), may order the stock transferred to the spouse, a child, or 13 a guardian or custodian for a child, but may not order it sold on the 14 open market or transferred to other persons.

15 (i) The superior court is the court of original jurisdiction
16 over all causes of action arising under the provisions of AS 18.80. A 17 person who is injured or aggrieved by an act, practice or policy which 18 is prohibited under AS 18.80 may apply to the superior court for 19 relief. The person aggrieved or injured may maintain an action on 20 behalf of that person or on behalf of a class consisting of all per-21 sons who are aggrieved or injured by the act, practice or policy
22 giving rise to the action. In an action brought under this subsec-23 tion, the court may grant relief as to any act, practice or policy of 24 the defendant which is prohibited by AS 18.80, regardless of whether 25 each act, practice or policy, with respect to which relief is granted, 26 directly affects the plaintiff, so long as a class or members of a 27 class of which the plaintiff is a member are or may be aggrieved or 28 injured by the act, practice or policy. The court may enjoin any act, 29 practice or policy which is illegal under AS 18.80 and may order any

1 other relief, including the payment of money, that is appropriate.

2 * Sec. 62. AS 22.10.040(4) is amended to read:

3 (4) if the court finds that the defendant will be put to 4 unnecessary expense and inconvenience, and if the court finds that the 5 expense and inconvenience were [WAS] intentionally caused, the court
6 may assess costs against the plaintiff.

7 * Sec. 63. AS 24.30.036 is amended to read:

8 Sec. 24.30.036. FISCAL NOTES ON BILLS AFFECTING STATE RETIREMENT

11 be attached to the bill an analysis of the long-term and short-term 12 costs to the state if the bill is adopted, as well as the impact of
