

POSITION PAPER

ON

CS FOR HOUSE BILL NO. 174 (Finance)

Rec'd 5/12/81
after bill was reported
out of HFC

"An Act relating to aid to families with dependent children; and providing for an effective date."

CSHB No. 174 is intended to increase payments to families receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) monthly cash assistance, and to add AFDC coverage for pregnant women with no other qualified children. The bill, as amended in both the House Committees of Referral, has been informally reviewed by Federal AFDC program authorities and appears to them to comply with regulations and case law. However, the amended current wording of Sec. 3, offered before House Finance by the sponsor, may not clearly authorize the payment levels intended by the sponsor. We have asked for a legal interpretation of Sec. 3; pending receipt of that interpretation, we are assuming that the following chart does accurately present the increases intended by the bill. (This chart was presented to the House Finance Committee as part of our position paper on CSHB 174 (HESS). In testimony, the sponsor concurred that the chart accurately presented his intent.)

	Current Payment	Payment after 7/1/81 w/out CSHB 174	Payment if CSHB 174 enacted
First child, with non-needy relative	$200	$222	$247 (+25%)
Second child	$200	$223	$248 (+25%)
Each additional child	$ 57	$ 63	$ 78 (+15%)
One child and needy relative	$457	$508	$551 (+43)
Second child	$ 57	$ 63	$ 78 (+15%)
Each additional child	$ 57	$ 63	$ 78 (+15%)

This position paper and attached fiscal note assume that CSHB 174, as amended, calls for the increases described above. (We are being particularly careful to state all increases precisely, for AS 47.25.320 is a very complicated statute, and the legislative amendment made to it last year was in fact subject to differing interpretations.)

The current maximum payment levels for children in the home of non-needy relatives (such as living with grandparents or aunts and uncles) are half, or less than half, the payment levels determined by the Department to be necessary to provide for the direct costs of maintaining foster children in licensed private foster homes. Even after the July 1, 1981 cost of living increase, the maximum AFDC payment made to a mother and one child will be approximately $83.00 less per month than the federal CSA poverty guideline for an Alaskan non-farm family of two. Maximum payments to a two person family in AFDC are currently $16 a month less than is paid to a single needy blind, disabled, or elderly adult. By those simple measurements, an AFDC maximum payment increase would seem justified.

Coverage for a needy pregnant woman is optional under federal AFDC regulations; 34 states currently offer this coverage. Until the option was deleted in 1976 as a cost-containment legislative action, Alaska's AFDC program included pregnant eligible women. The 7/1/81 single person AFDC maximum payment, set administratively will be $286. With the $20 special needs allowance established by Sec. 2 of CSHB 174, a pregnant woman with no other income would receive a $306 AFDC payment each month. In addition to these regular monthly payments, each AFDC-eligible woman would be automatically entitled to Medicaid coverage. Mandating this optional coverage would accomplish by a different method the expansion of pregnancy-related health care proposed by Sec. 1 of House Bill No. 330 and by HB 41.

Almost all of the 34 states offering this AFDC coverage pay a pregnant woman a special needs allowance for such items as clothing, diet and vitamins, and/or layette items. The arguments used most often by these states to support offering both this coverage and a special needs allowance tend to be supported by our own experience when Alaska's AFDC program had this coverage: pregnant single women tend to be young and without income. Without financial assistance, this group of women tend to be especially liable to abuse-producing living situations and dependency. Obviously, lack of adequate income can also create health problems caused by stress, poor living conditions and inadequate diet.

The Department does support the concept of increasing AFDC benefit levels, and it does support the concept of improving the availability of pregnancy-related health care to needy Alaskans.

III. ANALYSIS (See Fiscal Note Preparation Instructions, Section III)

(1) Existing Cases

(a) The FY 82 budget request calls for 7078 families to receive an average payment of $521.22. 25% of these families consist of an average of 1.60 children living with a non-needy relative. Each of these families would experience a $40 per month payment increase ($25 for the first child, + .60 x $25 = $40). The total FY 82 cost of these families would be 849.6 ($40 per month per family x 1770 families x 12 months).

 AGENCY DHSI, DPA
 PHONE 465-3747
 Original: Legislative Finance
 cc: Budget and Management
 Prime Sponsor (First Legislator Named) [Signature] 5/18/81

(b) 75% of the anticipated families, or 5308 families, consist of a needy relative and children, an average 2.80 persons per family. Each of these families would experience $70 per month payment increase ($43 for the first person + $15 for the second +  $.80 \times $15 = $70$ ). The total FY 82 cost of these families would be 4,458.7 ($70 per month per family x 5308 families x 12 months).

(c) The total AFDC BRU cost for payment increases for existing cases would be 5308.2 (2654.1 state, 2654.2 federal).

(2) New cases: Payment Increases

(a) In the AFDC program the statutory maximum payment levels are also the qualifying standards for entry into the program. CSHB 174 would increase some of these standards. For example, the maximum countable income a needy applicant with two children can have and still qualify for AFDC payment is currently $514. (This also would be the recipient's AFDC payment if he or she had no other countable income.) The effect of CSHB 174 and of the existing cost-of-living provision in statute would establish a new qualifying limit of $629 for this 3-person family.

It is reasonable to assume that there are Alaskan families who have countable incomes over the current standards but under the higher proposed standards, and to assume that some of these families would choose to apply and would meet all other eligibility factors. However, there is no data, either within the past ten years of AFDC program utilization or from any other source, that indicates whether new families would enter the program, or if they would, in what numbers.

Indeed, the payment increases during the current year were almost the same size as those proposed in CSHB 174. Actual program utilization figures since July 1, 1980, show no growth in number of cases beyond what was anticipated without the payment increases. For this reason, we have no grounds to assume any new cases will enter the program if CSHB 174 were to be enacted.

(3) New Cases: Pregnant Women

Addition of pregnant women to the AFDC program would add new cases. No data exists to provide anything but an "informed guess" estimate of 286 new cases in FY 82. (See fiscal note, HB 330) This new case-load would impact 4 BRUs as follows:

(a) AFDC BRU:

286 new cases per year x $306 average payment per month x 6 months per case = 525.1 in FY 82 costs (50% federal, 50% state funds). The $306 payment consists of the $286 maximum individual payment plus a $20 special needs allowance for dietary needs. (See Position Paper). We assume the maximum payment to each recipient based on our pre-1976 pregnant woman caseload, in which most recipients had no earned or unearned non-AFDC income.

(b) MEDICAID BRU:

Each of the 286 new cases would receive Medicaid coverage at an average cost per case of $1500, increasing Medicaid expenditures by 429.0 (214.5 State, 214.5 federal).

(c) General Relief BRU:

Approximately 95 of the 286 cases added to Medicaid would have been covered under the existing General Relief Medical program, which is totally state-funded. Therefore, GRM BRU FY 82 expenditures would decrease by 142.5 (95 x $1500 = 142.5).

This shift in program coverage would therefore increase federal fund expenditures by 214.5 but state expenditures would increase by only 72.0 (214.5 Medicaid-142.5 GRM = 72.0)

(d) Eligibility Determination BRU"

In addition to adding 286 new AFDC cases, additional work would be involved in providing medical coverage and, for a majority, Food Stamp benefits. This workload would require the addition of one Eligibility Technician II, with related costs to the Eligibility Determination BRU. Total cost will be 42.8 (25.9 state funds, 16.9 federal funds).

POSITION PAPER

ON

CS House Bill No 174 (HESS)

"An Act relating to aid to families with dependent children; and providing for an effective date."

CSHB No. 174 is intended to increase payments to families receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) monthly cash assistance, and to add AFDC coverage to pregnant women with no other qualified children. Unfortunately, an error seems to have been made in drafting Sec. 3 of the bill: The current wording of this section would suspend the July 1 cost of living increases required by AS 47.25.320(d) and impose lower payment maximums than recipients would otherwise be entitled to receive, in effect lowering payments made to each family by between $22 and $58.

We understand that the sponsor will offer an amendment to the current bill which will clarify that the intent of CSHB No. 174 is to increase payments as shown in this chart:

	Current Payment	Payment after 7/1/81 w/out CSHB 174	Payment if CSHB 174 corrected
First child, with non-needy relative	$200	$229	$254	(+25)
Second child	$200	$229	$254	(+25)
Each additional child	$ 57	$ 65	$ 80	(+15)
One child and needy relative	$457	$522	$565	(+43)
Second child	$ 57	$ 65	$ 80	(+15)
Each additional child	$ 57	$ 65	$ 80	(+15)

This position paper and attached fiscal note assume that CSHB 174 will be amended to call for the increases described above.

The current maximum payment levels for children in the home of non-needy relatives (such as living with grandparents or aunts and uncles) are half, or less than half, the payment levels determined by the Department to be necessary to provide for the direct costs of maintaining foster children in licensed private foster homes. Even after the July 1, 1981 cost of living increase, the maximum AFDC payment made to a mother and one child will be $60.50 less per month than the federal CSA poverty guideline for an Alaskan non-farm family of two. Minimum payments to a two person family in AFDC are currently $16 a month less than is paid to a single needy blind, disabled, or elderly adult. By those simple measurements, an AFDC maximum payment increase would seem justified.

Coverage for a needy pregnant woman is optional under federal AFDC regulations; 34 states currently offer this coverage. Until the option deleted in 1976 as a cost-containment legislative action, Alaska's AFDC program included pregnant eligible women. The 7/1/81 single person maximum payment level, set administratively, is expected to be $294. In addition to these regular monthly payments, each AFDC-eligible person is automatically entitled to Medicaid coverage. Mandating this optional coverage would accomplish by a different method the expansion of pregnancy-related health care proposed by Sec. 1 of House Bill No. 330.

However, CSHB 174 Sec. 2(a)3 as currently worded may not comply with federal program requirements. This opinion was informally conveyed by Region X Office of Family Assistance program experts who briefly studied a copy of the current bill. Though their preliminary opinion is open to argument, the Department basically agrees that changing the bill would avoid a major non-compliance question that could actually threaten the entire 50% federal matching funds of the AFDC program.

The issue involves the "reasonable assessment of needs" of eligible persons in the AFDC program. Federal statutes require us to provide AFDC coverage to a single adult whose only child is disabled and receives federal Supplemental Security Income disability assistance payments. The 6 to 10 Alaskan parents in this category receive $257 per month maximum AFDC payments. This amount is set by the Department; it is derived by subtracting the one child maximum ($200) from the parent and one child maximum ($457).

Almost all of the 34 states pay a pregnant woman more than they pay a parent of a disabled child, most by declaring that a pregnant woman has special extra needs for which an extra allowance should be paid, such as clothing, diet and vitamins, and/or layette items. It is hard to argue against the reasonableness of recognizing these legitimate extra needs.

The Department therefore proposes that CSHB 174 be amended by changing line 9 of page 2, Sec. 2(a)(3) to read "department, plus special needs allowance not to exceed $20 per month." This amendment would add $34,320 ($16,160 in state funds) to the total cost of this bill. The attached fiscal note includes the budgetary effect of this suggested amendment.

The Department does support the concept of increasing AFDC benefit levels, and it does support the concept of improving the availability of pregnancy-related health care to needy Alaskans.

III. ANALYSIS (See Fiscal Note Preparation Instructions, Section III)

(1). Existing Cases

(a) The FY82 budget request calls for 7078 families to receive an average payment of $521.22. 25% of these families consist of an average of 1.60 children living with a non-needly relative. Each of these families would experience a $40 per month payment increase ($25 for the first child, + .60 x $25 = $40). The total FY82 cost of these families would be 849.6 ($40 per month per family x 1770 families x 12 months).

Original: Legislative Finance AGENCY HESS BRU
 cc: Budget and Management PHONE 465-7347
 Prime Sponsor (First Legislator Named) M&B Approval [Signature] Date 4/6/81

(b) 75% of the anticipated families, or 5308 families, consist of a needy relative and children, an average 2.80 persons per family. Each of these families would experience $70 per month payment increase ($43 for the first person + $15 for the second + .80 x $15 = $70). The total FY82 cost of these families would be 4,458.7 ($70 per month per family x 5308 families x 12 months).

(c) The total AFDC BRU cost for payment increases for existing cases would be 5308.2 (2654.1 state, 2654.2 federal).

(2) New cases: Payment Increases

(a) In the AFDC program the statutory maximum payment levels are also the qualifying standards for entry into the program. HB 174 would increase some of these standards. For example, the maximum countable income a needy applicant with two children can have and still qualify for AFDC assistance is currently $514. (This would also be the recipient's AFDC payment if he or she had no other countable income.) The provision of CSHB 174 and of the existing cost-of-living provision in statute would establish a new qualifying limit of $725 for this 3-person family.

It is reasonable to assume that there are Alaskan families who have countable incomes over the current standards but under the higher proposed standards, and to assume that some of these families would choose to apply and would meet all other eligibility factors. However, there is no data, either within the past ten years of AFDC program utilization or from any other source, that indicates whether new families would enter the program, or if they would, in what numbers.

Indeed, the payment increases during the current year were almost the same size as those proposed in CSHB 174. Actual program utilization figures since July 1, 1980, show no growth in number of cases beyond what was anticipated without the payment increases. For this reason, we have no grounds to assume any new cases will enter the program if CSHB 174 were to be enacted.

(3) New Cases: Pregnant Women

Addition of pregnant women to the AFDC program would add new cases. No data exists to provide anything but an "informed guess" estimate of 286 new cases in FY82. (See fiscal note, HB 330) This new caseload would impact 4 BRUs as follows:

(a) AFDC BRU:

286 new cases per year x 314 average 538.8 payment per month x 6 months per case = 538.8 in FY82 costs (50% federal, 50% state funds). The $314 payment consists of the $294 maximum individual payment plus a $20 special needs allowance for dietary needs. (See Position Paper). We assume the maximum payment to each recipient based on our pre-1976 pregnant woman caseload, in which most recipients had no earned or unearned non-AFDC income.

(b) MEDICAID BRU:

Each of the 286 new cases would receive Medicaid coverage at an average cost per case of $1500, increasing Medicaid expenditures by 429.0 (214.5 State, 214.5 federal).

(c) General Relief BRU:

Approximately 95 of the 286 cases added to Medicaid would have been covered under the existing General Relief Medical program, which is totally state-funded. Therefore, GRM BRU FY82 expenditures would decrease by 142.5 (95 x $1500 = 142.5).

This shift in program coverage would therefore increase federal fund expenditures by 214.5, but state expenditures would increase by only 72.0 (214.5 Medicaid-142.5 GRM = 72.0)

(d) Eligibility Determination BRU:

In addition to adding 286 new AFDC cases, additional work would be involved in providing medical coverage and, for a majority, Food Stamp benefits. This workload would require the addition of one Eligibility Technician II, with related costs to the Eligibility Determination BRU. Total cost will be 42.8 (25.9 state funds, 16.9 federal funds).

4. Summary

Item	State Funds	Federal Funds	Total
(a) AFDC Payment Increase Adult Not Included	424.8	424.8	849.6
(b) AFDC Payment Increase Adult Included	2229.3	2229.4	4458.7
(c) AFDC New cases, Pregnant Women	269.4	269.4	538.8
(d) Medicaid New cases	214.5	214.5	429.0
(e) General-Relief Medical caseload decrease	(142.5)	0	(142.5)
e) Eligibility Determination, new Worker	25.9	16.9	42.8

5. Note: AFDC BRU figures are based on the assumption that the annual cost-of-living increase effective July 1, 1981, will be 14.3%. This percentage is announced by the Social Security Administration in late April or early May. Preliminary COLI estimates by SSA are traditionally quite close to, but slightly lower than, the final percentage. SSA has just announced their preliminary estimate of 11.6%. If the final percentage were 12.0% rather than 14.3%, the total funding for this fiscal note would only decrease by approximately 10.3 (5.1 state, 5.2 federal).

16 * Sec. 2. AS 47.25.320(a) is amended to read:

17 (a) The department shall determine the amount of assistance for a 18 dependent child and the relative with whom the dependent child is 19 living, with regard to the resources and necessary expenditures of the 20 family and the condition existing in each case. Assistance is sufficient 21 if, when added to all other income and support available to the child, 22 the child and relative have reasonable subsistence compatible with 23 decency and health. However, the amount of assistance may not exceed 24 the following:

25 (1) dependent child living with nonneedy relative: for a 26 child under age 18 who is living in the home of a nonneedy relative, 27 $200 [$175], plus an additional $200 [$175] for the second child, and 28 $65 [$50] a child for the third and each additional child; [.]

29 (2) dependent child living with parent:

1 (A) for a parent and one child under 18, a maximum of 2 $500 [$400];

3 (B) (repealed)

4 (C) for each additional child under age 18, $65 [$50] a
5 month per child;

6 (3) pregnant woman who is otherwise eligible for assistance
7 under this section: an amount equal to the assistance received by a

The FY82 budget request for the AFDC program calls for 7078 families to receive an average monthly payment of $521.22. Seventy five percent of these families, or 5309 families, consist of both a needy adults and children. HB No. 174 would require an increase of $100.00 in the average monthly payment for each of these families. Thus the cost of this measure would be 6,370.8 (5309 families x $100 monthly payment increase, x 12 months). Fifty percent, 3185.4, would be federal matching funds, and 3185.4 would be state matching funds.

Position Paper

House Bill No. 174

HB 174

"An Act relating to Aid to Families with Dependent Children, and providing for an effective date."

This act would provide for a $100 per month increase in the maximum payment paid to some families found eligible for Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC). This increase would apply only to families which consist of a needy caretaker relative and children; it would not apply to families consisting of children who live with a non-needy relative. (The payment maximums specified in AS 47.25.320(a) are also the maximum countable income limits which are used to determine if an applying family is eligible for AFDC assistance.)

However, under sec. (d) of AS 47.25.320, the cost of living increase already applied to the $400 maximum payment stated in sec. (a) of the statute means that a parent and one child with no other income can now receive a maximum payment of $457 per month. Under the automatic cost-of-living increase provision added last year, the anticipated maximum AFDC payment for a two-person family will increase July 1, 1981, to $522. The federal CSA poverty guideline for Alaska for 1981 for a two-person non-farm family is $582.50 per month. Even this simple measurement would indicate that, at best, AFDC maximum payment levels are barely adequate to fulfill the statutory purposes of the AFDC program.

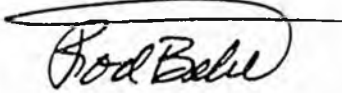

The Department knows of no measurements of AFDC payment adequacy which would indicate that it would be inappropriate to propose payment increases additional to those passed last year. However, HB 174 appears to present two significant problems:

- (1) Actual Increase Amount. As drafted, we do not clearly understand if the intent of the bill is to grant a simple $100 per month increase to all adult-included cases, effective July 1, 1981, or to grant these cases a $43 increase, or to apply the provisions of sec. (d) to either of these two amounts (making them either approximately $114 or $54). The fiscal note assumes the bill intends a $100 increase.
- (2) Compliance with Federal Requirements. In last session's work on versions of HB 968, which passed as SCSCSHB 968, 14 ch133 SLA 1980, one version was introduced which proposed the exact amount and type of increase as proposed by HB 167. This version was modified when federal AFDC program authorities presented a written objection, in which they demonstrated to the Department's and to the Legislature's satisfaction that federal law, federal regulations, and case law precedence would not allow them to approve raising only the adult-included families' maximum payments. A copy of that letter is attached.

Thus it is clear to us that passage of HB 174, as it is currently written, would seriously jeopardize all of the 50% federal matching funds in the AFDC program by placing the program out of compliance with federal requirements. This could cost the State over $22,000,000 in federal matching funds. Apparently, the only way to avoid this very real financial threat would be to increase both the adult-included and adult-not-included statutory maximums by the same dollar amount.

Because HB 174 would not comply with federal AFDC program requirements, and because of its fiscal impact, the Department cannot support passage of this bill. However, the Department does support the concept of increasing AFDC benefits levels.

(2) New Cases

In the AFDC program the statutory maximum payment levels are also the qualifying standards for entry into the program. HB 174 would increase some of these standards. For example, the maximum countable income a needy applicant with two children can have and still qualify for AFDC assistance is currently $514. (This would also be the recipient's AFDC payment if he or she had no other countable income.) The provision of HB 174 would establish a new qualifying limit of $614 for this 3-person family.

It is reasonable to assume that there are Alaskan families who have countable incomes over the current standards but under the higher proposed standards, and to assume that some of these families would choose to apply and would meet all other eligibility factors. However, there is no data, either within the past ten years of AFDC program utilization or from any other source, that indicates whether new families would enter the program, or if they would, in what numbers.

Indeed, the payment increases during the current year were approximately the same size as those proposed in HB 174. Actual program utilization figures since July 1, 1980, show no growth in number of cases beyond what was anticipated without the payment increases. For this reason, we have no grounds to assume any new cases will enter the program if HB 174 were to be enacted. (Note that even the smallest addition of new AFDC cases results in significant new expenditures in 3 BRUs. For example, only 400 additional AFDC cases would add approximately 2,981.9 to AFDC expenditures, 443.5 to Medicaid BRU expenditures, and 90.0 to the Eligibility Determination BRU.)

- (3) Assumptions: (a) FY82 projected costs assume that the annual cost of living increase provided under existing statutes would not apply to the $100 increase in payment maximums. (b) FY83 and later years' costs assume a 10% annual inflation increase.
- (4) Non Compliance: As noted in the Position Paper on HB 174, federal program authorities will not approve this payment increase. FY82 funding request for AFDC includes 22,135.1 in federal matching funds. This amount would probably be withheld if HB 174 were passed, making the total fiscal impact of this bill 22,320.5. (We cannot predict if the withholding would occur during FY82 or would occur in FY83.)

Department of Health & Social Services

Dear Dr. Beirne:

We have analyzed Alaska House Bill 968, dated May 1, 1980 and wish to comment on certain of its provisions which, if enacted, would raise compliance issues with respect to Federal regulations.

Alaska House Bill 968 provides an Aid for Dependent Children (AFDC) benefit payment increase of $100 for a family household consisting of a caretaker parent and one child under age eighteen. If enacted, this legislation would increase the current payment provided under AS 47.25.320(a)(2)(A) from $350 to $450. The Bill would also provide a benefit payment increase of $25 for each additional child in the home (after the second child) under the age of eighteen. This would increase the current payment provided to those children, under AS 47.25.320(a)(2)(C) from $50 to $75.

The increases provided under House Bill 968 do not appear to apply to the category of children living with non-needy, non-legally responsible relatives. This category is described under AS 47.25.320(a)(1). The omission of provision of these benefit increases to the category of recipient children living with non-needy relatives, while provided for the category of recipient children living with needy parents, appears to be based on the assumptions that:

- (1) children who live with non-needy, non-legally responsible relatives are less needy than children who live with needy relatives; and,
- (2) non-legally responsible, non-needy relatives automatically provide some support for the child's(ren) needs; and,
- (3) such child's(ren) needs are reduced by shared costs.

These assumptions are in direct conflict with Federal Regulations:

- (a) To treat groups of children differently because of living arrangement based on legal responsibility or not of non-needy caretaker relatives distinguishes the groups on an arbitrary basis thereby creating an unreasonable classification which is expressly prohibited at 45 CFR 233.10(a)(1) which states:

- (a) State plan requirements. A State plan under title I, IV-A, X, XIV, or XVI, of the Social Security Act must:

- (1) Specify the groups of individuals based on reasonable classifications, that will be included in the program, and all the conditions of eligibility that must be met by the individuals in the groups. The groups selected for inclusion in the plan and the eligibility conditions imposed must not exclude individuals or groups on an arbitrary or unreasonable basis, and must not result in inequitable treatment of individuals or groups in the light of the provisions and purposes of the public assistance titles of the Social Security Act.

- (b) The assumption that non-legally responsible caretaker relatives automatically provide some support for the dependent child(ren) and a grant reduction based on that assumption (in this instance, a different and reduced standard as compared to needy children in other circumstances) is expressly prohibited at 45 CFR 233.20(a)(2)(viii) which states:

- " . . . Provided that the money amount of any need item included in the standard will not be prorated or otherwise reduced solely because of the presence in the household of a non-legally responsible individual; and the agency will not assume any contribution from such individual for the support of the assistance unit."

- (c) The assumption that a child's(ren) needs are reduced by shared costs and a grant reduction based on that assumption clearly constitutes proration which is expressly prohibited at 45 CFR 233.90(a) which states in part:

" . . . nor may the State agency prorate or otherwise reduce the money amount for any need item included in the standard on the basis of assumed contributions from non-legally responsible individuals living in the household."

Further, the Supreme Court case of Van Lare v. Hurley (1975) prohibits assumption of income for AFDC children in a household with non-needy individuals. A State may not have a separate and reduced standard of living for a child with non-needy, non-legally liable caretaker relatives than with needy caretakers. A State is required to have a single statewide standard, expressed in money amounts, to be used in determining on an objective and equitable basis the needs of applicants and recipients and the amount of the assistance payment (45 CFR 233.20(a)(1) and (2)). To assign two different values to the same item or items of need (such items collectively constitute the standard) for a child based solely on whether or not the child lives with a non-needy, non-legally liable caretaker relative is arbitrary, bearing no relationship to the needs of the child who is receiving the lesser payment.

A State standard may have different dollar amounts for food or clothing for different reasonably defined age groups since older individuals may generally have more costly needs than younger individuals. Differing shelter amounts may result from a State's election to have shelter differentials but this is permitted only when there is objective evidence that there are actual differences in shelter costs between geographic areas and such differences are appreciable. However, such differences appear reasonably based. But this bears no relation to an assumption of income on the unsubstantiated basis that a non-needy, non-legally liable caretaker relative is contributing income towards the support of the needy child in his care and custody.

These rules prohibiting the assumption of income apply to non-legally liable relatives, and to legally liable relatives other than spouse for spouse or parent for minor child as specified above. Thus, except for spouse for spouse or parent for minor child, a State may not assume that the income of other legally responsible relatives under State law is available to the child.

Notwithstanding, a grant reduction (not a standard reduction), is permitted in these instances where a documented voluntary contribution is made by the non-needy, non-legally responsible caretaker relative.

The following table illustrates the effect of H.B. 968 without the cost-of-living adjustment on State AFDC standards:

Family Size	Children with Needy Relatives		Children with Non-Needy, Non-Legally Responsible Relatives
	Current Standard	Proposed Standard Under H.B. 968	Current Standard	Proposed Standard Under H.B. 968
1			$150	$150
2	$350	$450	$300	$300
3	$400	$525	$350	$350
4	$450	$600	$400	$400
	Plus $50/month for each additional child under 18	Plus $75/month for each additional child under 18	Plus $50/month for each additional child under 18	Plus $50/month for each additional child under 18

Note that for the category of children living with needy relatives, there is no identification of the amount of the standard that is attributable to the adult caretaker relative. It merely says that for family size of two; a grant of $350 is made. For two children living with non-needy, non-legally responsible relatives, a grant of $300 is made. It may be reckoned that the additional $50 ($350-50) provided to the needy relative situation is reasonable due to increased costs of shared standard items for adults (this would not hold true for shelter). This was the rationale for Federal approval of the current standard.

Under the proposed H.B. 968 standard, no standard increment is provided to the category of children with non-needy, non-legally responsible caretaker relatives. A difference of $150 between the two categories of recipients is too great to account for an addition based on shared costs that would require an amount of that magnitude for the adult. The Bill did not even address the non-needy, non-legally responsible caretaker relative category. It would appear clear that legislative intent was to increase the needy caretaker relative group, per se.

It must, therefore, be concluded that the new standard results in proration and assumes the availability of income for the non-needy, non-legally responsible caretaker relative category. In no event may income be assumed or shelter costs be prorated.

In summary, should Alaska House Bill 968 be enacted, the State agency, upon implementation, would be out of compliance with Federal regulations as cited herein. In addition, a new or revised State plan submitted to implement such legislation would be unapprovable.

We would be pleased to offer technical assistance including testifying before the legislature on this Bill if so desired.

Sincerely,

Donald C. Sutcliffe
Regional Commissioner

5 A BILL

6 For an Act entitled: "An Act relating to maximum benefits paid as aid to 7 families with dependent children; and providing for an 8 effective date."

9 BE IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF ALASKA:

10 * Section 1. AS 47.25.320(a)(2)(A) is amended to read:

11 (A) for a parent and one child under 18, a maximum of 12 $450 [$350];

13 * Sec. 2. AS 47.25.320(a)(2)(C) is amended to read:

14 (C) for each additional child under age 18, $75 [$50] a
15 month per child.

16 * Sec. 3. AS 47.25.320 is amended by adding a new subsection to read:

17 (d) If benefits under Title XVI of the Social Security Act (42 18 U.S.C. 1381 - 1385) are increased because of an increase in the cost of 19 living, the department shall increase the monetary maximums in (a) of 20 this section by a percentage equal to the percentage increase in bene-
21 fits under Title XVI.

22 * Sec. 4. AS 47.25.320(c) is repealed.

23 * Sec. 5. This Act takes effect July 1, 1980.

Sec. 47.25.310. Eligibility for assistance. The department shall grant assistance to the family of each dependent child it determines is eligible for assistance under AS 47.25.310 — 47.25.420, or to employers under a work incentive program established by AS 23.15.650, and by § 433(c) (1) of the Federal Social Security Act (42 USC 601 et seq.), as amended. (§ 51-2-32 ACLA 1949; am § 2 ch 57 SLA 1949; am § 1 ch 73 SLA 1963; am § 2 ch 134 SLA 1968)

Editor's note. — The federal provision referred to in this section was added by § 204 of the Social Security Amendments of 1967 (PL 90-248; 81 Stat. §21).

A statutory prohibition of welfare benefits to residents of less than a year creates a classification which constitutes an invidious discrimination denying such residents equal protection of the laws. Shapiro v. Thompson, 394 U.S. 618, 89 S. Ct. 1322, 22 L. Ed. 2d 609 (1969).

Sec. 47.25.320. Amount of assistance. (a) The department shall determine the amount of assistance for a dependent child and the relative with whom the dependent child is living, with regard to the resources and necessary expenditures of the family and the condition existing in each case. Assistance is sufficient if, when added to all other income and support available to the child, the child and relative have reasonable subsistence compatible with decency and health. However, the amount of assistance may not exceed the following:

(1) dependent child living with nonneedy relative: for a child under age 18 who is living in the home of a nonneedy relative, $150, plus an additional $150 for the second child, and $50 a child for the third and each additional child;

(2) dependent child living with parent:

(A) for a parent and one child under 18, a maximum of $350;

(B) (repealed)

(C) for each additional child under age 18, $50 a month per child.

(b) The monetary maximums in (a) of this section do not apply to payments made under this program for the care of a dependent child in a foster family home. The payment shall conform to foster care rates as provided by the department.

III. ANALYSIS (See Fiscal Note Preparation Instructions, Section III)

Other states which have enacted PERA type laws that cover teachers have advised us that during the first few years the laws were in effect, management or employee representatives of 50% of the affected school districts filed unfair labor practice charges each year which resulted in hearings before the labor relations agency. The average hearing lasted six hours (or one day).

Assuming that the contracts of approximately 26 of Alaska's 52 school districts come up for renegotiation each year and that our experience would be comparable to that of other states, we can expect that 13 of the school districts will generate unfair labor practice charges requiring hearing before the labor relations agency.

Assumes the Department of Labor is not responsible for conducting elections provided in Section II (AS 23.40.202).
