The National Electrical Code is updated every three years, and the 1984 code is the most recent effort in this regard. The 1981 code presently in effect for the state of Alaska is, therefore, outdated and will not be reprinted. Adoption of the 1984 code would bring Alaska's minimum standards into conformity with those commonly accepted and used by industry across the nation. The latest edition of the National Electrical Code is also commonly adopted by political subdivisions in the state as the minimum standards enforced under their building inspection programs.

The Department supports adoption of the 1984 code. It will not have a fiscal impact on the Department.
