HB 341      SB 244
on
Security Interests in Real Property

Summary

The bill provides uniform procedures for secured real estate transactions. Without making large changes from existing law on deeds of trust, it incorporates some concepts of secured personal property transactions under the Uniform Commercial Code. Foreclosure is made uniform for deeds of trust, mortgages, and contracts of sale.

The bill provides for expanded options for resale after foreclosure borrowing the UCC concept of commercially reasonable resale.

The commentary in this binder contains further description of the general features of the bill followed by a section-by-section analysis.

Status

The bill is introduced in both houses for greater flexibility and for the possibility of joint hearings should that be the choice of the house and senate committees.

Status going into the Second Session of the Thirteenth Legislature: In House and Senate Labor and Commerce Committees, the first committees of reference. Second reference: House and Senate Judiciary Committees.

MEMORANDUM

TO: Chairman, Alaska Legislative Council
FROM: John W. Abbott, Chairman JWA
Alaska Code Revision Commission
DATE: March 17, 1983
RE: Bill on security interests in real property

Pursuant to the authority granted in AS 24.20.075(c), the Alaska Code Revision Commission has prepared the attached bill on security interests in real property. It was introduced in the legislature through the Legislative Council in 1981 as House Bill 403. That bill did not move out of the House Judiciary Committee, its first committee of reference, and no committee hearings were scheduled on it. The apparent reason was opposition to proposed AS 34.21.060, a section that is deleted from the attached bill. That section dealt with clauses in home purchase contracts that permit the entire balance of purchase price to be declared due when the home is sold. During the commission's work on the draft this "due-on-sale" section of the bill took various forms and received much comment, especially from financial interests. Controversy over the section diverted attention from the main substance of the bill. Without it, the bill should receive consideration from legislative committees on its merits.

The bill covers the relationship, rights, and remedies of debtor and creditor in secured real property transactions. It resulted from the commission's general review of real property law in Title 34 and a conviction that some revision is desirable.

The main sources drawn upon in preparing the bill are the existing Alaska law on deeds of trust, the Uniform Commercial Code, the Washington law on nonjudicial foreclosure, and the Uniform Land Transfers Act. That Act has not been adopted as a whole in any state.

A commentary on the bill as revised is attached also.

ALASKA CODE REVISION COMMISSION

COMMENTARY TO ACCOMPANY

DRAFT BILL ON SECURITY INTERESTS IN REAL PROPERTY

BILL NO.

General Features of the Bill

The attached bill prepared by the Alaska Code Revision Commission is an effort to bring into secured real property transactions some of the same principles that govern secured personal property transactions under the Uniform Commercial Code. The bill covers the broad area of relationships, rights, and remedies of debtor and secured creditor. The state law on summary foreclosure of deeds of trust would be superseded, but not drastically changed. In cases where foreclosure under a power of sale is required, the bill makes possible a commercially reasonable resale by listing and sale through a real estate agent, in order to avoid the disastrous forced-sale prices often received at public auction.

The bill was introduced in the Twelfth Legislature as HB 403. Action was not taken on it. All attention focused on a relatively minor part of the bill, a section limiting the use of "due-on-sale" clauses in security agreements for the purchase of a home. That controversial section, readily separable from the body of the bill, is not included in the present form of the bill and has largely been preempted by recent federal and state statutes and regulations (sec. 341, Garn-St. Germain Depository Act of 1982, P.L. 97-320, 12 U.S.C., § 1701 j-3; 12 U.S.C. § 371(g); 12 C.F.R. § 548.8-4(f); AS 06.01.020; AS 18.56.098(e); 15 AAC 118.267).

Persons familiar with the present Alaska law on both real and personal property should find the bill a natural development. The vast majority of real property sales are now financed by deeds of trust. Most departures in the bill from present practices under deeds of trust are not great. The main changes occur where needed to permit additional kinds of sales of collateral in cases of default. The bill makes deed of trust foreclosure procedures applicable to mortgages and contracts of sale. Under present law mortgages are more difficult to foreclose than deeds of trust, for no logical reason, and there are no statutory guidelines for foreclosing contracts of sale, which has resulted in substantial litigation at both the superior court and supreme court level (e.g., Lonas v. Metropolitan Mortgage and Securities Co., 432 P.2d 603 (1967); Moran v. Holman, 501 P.2d 769 (1972); Curry v. Tucker, 616 P.2d 8 (1980); Wickwire v. McFadden, 633 P.2d (1981); Strack v. Miller, 645 P.2d 184 (1982); additional cases are summarized in Department of Revenue v. Baxter, 486 P.2d 360 365 n.10).

A bill of this kind must specify procedures to be followed and forms to be used in carrying out the procedures. The procedures to be followed before sale in a summary foreclosure are set out in the bill in AS 34.21.110--34.21.150. These sections are followed by AS 34.21.160--34.21.170 which specify the content of forms that are to be used. Since the forms are designed to advise the defaulting debtor of his rights and to inform him of the procedures that will be followed, they cover some of the same material that is set out in the preceding substantive sections. AS 34.21.100 in the bill explains this relationship between the sections.

A contents page and a comparison of time elements and steps from default to sale under existing law and under the bill are attached here for ready reference. (See next 3 pages)

Section Analysis

Following are source notes and brief comments on the sections, where appropriate. In the source notes and comments the Uniform Commercial Code, AS 45.01--45.09, is referred to as the UCC. The Uniform Land Transactions Act is referred to as the ULTA and the Uniform Simplification of Land Transfers Act is referred to as the USLTA. The Revised Code of Washington Annotated is referred to as RCWA.

Section 1

COMMENT: This section states the general purposes of the Act.

Section 2

AS 34.21.010

SOURCE: (a) is from AS 45.09.102; (b) is from AS 45.09.202; (c) is part of the ULTA § 3-103(7) and USLTA § 1-201.

COMMENT: (a) is intended to allow a court to find a transaction subject to this chapter even though there is no documentary evidence of the parties' intent. The Supreme Court of Alaska has made it clear this is our present law. Brand v. First Fed. Sav. and Loan, 478 P.2d 820 (1970); Dept. of Revenue v. Baxter, 486 P.2d 360, 365 (1971).

The material in (c) was included as part of the definition of "security interest" in the referenced uniform acts. The general subject matter of .010 is covered in ULTA § 3-102.

AS 34.21.020

SOURCE: AS 45.09.104(8).

COMMENT: The exclusion in this section is consistent with the definition of "security interest" as a "consensual" interest.

AS 34.21.030

SOURCE: AS 45.09.112.

COMMENT: This section is designed to protect the real party in interest. Its effect is similar to that of existing law, which requires the trustee to send a notice of sale "where the trustee or beneficiary has actual notice of the lien or interest." AS 34.20.070(c)(3).

AS 34.21.040

SOURCE: This section was taken from ULTA § 3-209 which is based upon § 9-208 of the UCC (AS 45.09.208).

Language is added to allow a debtor to request statements from the bank to which he actually makes his payments.

COMMENT: Existing law makes no provision for such a statement, although the common practice is for statements to be sent even though not requested.

Liability is imposed on the person failing to comply with the request only if he lacks a "reasonable excuse."

The bill gives the holder of a subordinate security interest like a second deed of trust the right to get from the trustee or beneficiary on a first deed of trust a statement of account on the obligation secured by the first deed of trust. The duty placed on the secured party or his agent bank to provide information would create an exception to the strict confidentiality of bank records under AS 06.05.175. Section 3 near the end of the bill specifically amends that section.

AS 34.21.050

SOURCE: AS 45.09.311.

COMMENT: This section is verbatim from the UCC. It is to make clear that in all secured real property transactions the debtor has an interest which the debtor can dispose of and which the creditors of the debtor can reach.

The section does not preclude a security agreement provision which makes a transfer a default but merely prevents such a provision from having the effect of prohibiting transfer. The transfer would be subject to the security interest.

SOURCE: AS 45.09.405(c).

COMMENT: Existing law deals with the subject of this section only by providing that recording an assignment of a mortgage is not in itself notice to the debtor of the assignment. AS 34.20.010. In contrast, AS 34.20.130 provides that recording an assignment of the beneficial interest in a deed of trust is "constructive notice to all persons."

(When the assignor acts as the assignee's agent to receive payments following the assignment, this section could be ignored.)

AS 34.21.070

SOURCE: The section is based upon AS 45.09.404(a), § 9-404(1) of the UCC.

COMMENT: The section requires the secured party to pay the debtor both a fixed sum of $500 and his actual damages if he fails to provide the statement within 15 days after demand. This is the UCC provision, substantially, except the UCC requires the statement within 10 days and the dollar penalty is $100.

AS 34.21.080

SOURCE: AS 45.09.501(a), with major changes.

COMMENT: The commission saw no reason to restrict the secured party from proceeding with judicial and nonjudicial remedies simultaneously. The section follows generally UCC sec. 9-501(1) which provides that remedies shall be cumulative.

The section is subject to the court's authority to consolidate actions and to require marshaling of assets. As with existing law on nonjudicial foreclosure, AS 34.21.220(d) in the bill provides that there is no right to recover a deficiency after sale in a nonjudicial foreclosure.

SOURCE: RCWA 61.24.030.

COMMENT: The last phrase, "or another person," in subparagraph (1) is intended to insure that deeds of trust continue to be summarily foreclosed.

All of the requirements of this section are also in existing law. AS 34.20.070(a) and (b).

AS 34.21.100

SOURCE: Original drafting.

COMMENT: This section is a guide to the balance of the chapter. It is to make clear that secs. 110 through 150 cover the pre-sale procedures and time elements for power-of-sale foreclosure, and that secs. 160 and 170 only establish the content of the principal notices, i.e., the notice of default and the notice of intent to sell.

AS 34.21.110

SOURCE: RCWA 61.24.030.

COMMENT: This section repeats the present rule that proceedings cannot begin until 30 days after the default.

As under existing law, notice is sent to the debtor. The requirement of service on an occupant is new to Alaska Statutes, but almost certainly required by common law.

AS 34.21.120

SOURCE: RCWA 61.24.040(1)(a):

COMMENT: Existing law requires a notice of default which includes a notice of time and place of sale. The proposed section requires a simple notice of default followed, if necessary, by a formal notice of intent to sell which is recorded. If a sale becomes necessary, sec. 150 requires that an informal notice giving further information as to the sale be provided to interested parties.

AS 34.21.130

SOURCE: (1)(A) is from RCWA 61.24.040(b); (1)(B) is from RCWA 61.24.040(c); (2) is from AS 34.20.070(d); (3) is from RCWA 61.24.030; and (4) is from AS 09.35.140(2).

There are changes from the original forms.

COMMENT: The initial notice of default should be relatively inexpensive for the secured party to send out, unlike the currently used notice of default which requires a record search. The more expensive notice of intent to sell goes out only if the debtor fails to cure within 30 days of the first notice. Since the debtor pays costs and attorneys fees when he cures under both present law and the proposed section, this provision should save the debtor considerable money.

Subparagraph (2) continues the present rule requiring that the state be given particular information as to the liens it has on the collateral.

Posting on the collateral of notice of intent to sell is required.

Subparagraph (d)(3) changes the present publishing requirement which is hidden in AS 09.45.180 and 09.35.140(2) from four to three weeks. But the time between the first publication and the sale must be at least 45 days.

AS 34.21.140

SOURCE: Original drafting.

COMMENT: This section includes provision for giving notice of time and place or manner of sale to all those who received the notice of intent to sell and to all those who have asked to be notified.

AS 34.21.150

SOURCE: Original drafting.

COMMENT: The section clarifies intent.

AS 34.21.160

SOURCE: Paraphrased from RCWA 61.24.030(6).

COMMENT: This section requires that when a secured party declares a debtor in default, he fully informs him the basis of the default, what he must do to cure the default and the consequences if he fails to cure it. It requires a clear warning to the debtor that his rights in the collateral will be cut off under sec. 180(g) if he fails to cure within the required time.

AS 34.21.170

SOURCE: RCWA 61.24.040(f), with many changes.

COMMENT: The notice set out in this section corresponds to the existing notice of sale, except that this notice need not contain the time, place, and manner of the sale. When it does not contain this information, the debtor and interested parties will be advised of specifics as to the sale by a later notice. The later notice will also go out to all other persons who have written to the person designated in the notice expressing an interest and providing a mailing address.

AS 34.21.180

SOURCE: (a) is from RCWA 61.24.090(b)(1); (b) and (c) are paraphrased from AS 34.20.070(b); (d) is original drafting; (e) is from RCWA 61.24.090(b)(2) and (4); (f) is from RCWA 61.24.090(b)(5); (g) and (h) are original drafting.

COMMENT: Subsection (a) essentially restates existing law, except that it explicitly allows cure by persons other than the debtor.

Subsection (b) sets a time limit within which cure must be made. After the expiration of that time period, cure can only be made by tendering the full amount of indebtedness under (d).

Subsection (c) limits to two the number of times the debtor will be permitted to cure after the second step toward foreclosure has been reached. By subsection (c) the debtor is limited in the number of times he can reinstate the security agreement after defaulting and permitting foreclosure to reach the last stage before sale.

Subsection (d) is intended to ameliorate the harshness of (g), which cuts off the debtor's right to cure in order to maximize the purchase price at the foreclosure sale. The debtor may rescue his home at any time before the sale by paying the entire default, including the accelerated amount.

Subsection (e) applies to cures the rule currently applicable to post-sale redemption, which is that a creditor who rescues the debtor acquires a lien for the amount spent on the rescue.

Subsection (f) is designed to provide a clear record for the title searcher. If the secured party's failure to record the required notice after cure causes a debtor to lose a sale, the debtor may sue for damages under sec. 240.

Subsection (g) is a radical departure from existing law, which allows cure until the auctioneer's hammer falls. The proposed section cuts off the debtor's right to a simple cure so that the collateral can be listed and sold. While the proposed section appears on its face to treat the debtor harshly, it is intended to protect his equity from the usual sacrifice sale. No other state has been found which has eliminated the requirement of a public auction.

Subsection (h) assures that any payment made which stops default proceedings will not be a bogus payment.

AS 34.21.190

SOURCE: (a) is from AS 45.09.904; (b) is original drafting; (c) is on the subject of AS 45.09.904(c); (d) is from AS 45.09.904(c); (e) is from AS 45.09.507(b); and (f) is from AS 45.09.507(b).

COMMENT: Subsection (a) provides for sale following expiration of the cure period.

Subsections (d) and (e) incorporate the UCC standard of the commercially reasonable sale. To insure a high purchase price, a commercially unreasonable sale transfers good title to the buyer (see sec. 220). However, an aggrieved debtor may sue the secured party for damages under sec. 240.

The concept of this section is basic to the UCC and basic to this bill.

AS 34.21.200

SOURCE: Original drafting.

COMMENT: Offset bidding at a sale of collateral at public auction is the norm at present, and continues to be provided for in this section.

This bill permits negotiated sales of the collateral as well as sales at public auction. Subsection (a) prohibits the foreclosing secured party from being a purchaser at a sale that he negotiates as seller.

Subsection (b) authorizes a junior lienholder to set off the amount of his lien if he is a purchaser of the collateral and first pays off or secures the release of superior liens.

AS 34.21.210

SOURCE: AS 34.20.080(c) and (d).

COMMENT: This section requires that there be included in, or attached to, the deed issued by the secured party (1) an affidavit of the manner of giving the required notices and (2) an affidavit of publication of the notice of intent to sell. Existing AS 34.10.080(d) calls for recording of these affidavits by the secured party after the sale.

AS 34.21.220

SOURCE: (a) is from AS 34.20.090(a); (b) is from AS 34.20.090(b); (c) is from AS 34.20.090(c); and (d) is from AS 34.20.100.

COMMENT: This section is little changed from existing law.

Subsection (d) restates the present rule which allows nonjudicial foreclosure only where no deficiency judgment is permitted.

AS 34.21.230

SOURCE: (a) is from AS 45.09.504(a); (b) is original drafting; and (c) is from AS 45.09.504(b).

COMMENT: Subsection (a) is taken from the UCC. The priorities among various types of liens and security interests are left by (a)(3) to case law. Although it is not spelled out in the bill, it is intended that the secured party retains a right to file an interpleader action when priorities are in doubt.

AS 34.21.240

SOURCE: AS 45.09.507.

COMMENT: This section allows for an injunction before sale or damages after sale for failure to comply with this chapter.

AS 34.21.250

SOURCE: AS 45.09.201.

COMMENT: This section is taken from the UCC, and is included principally to contrast with AS 34.21.260.

AS 34.21.260

SOURCE: This section is from AS 45.09.501(c), but is more inclusive.

COMMENT: This section protects debtors from being asked to waive various rights guaranteed by this chapter.

AS 34.21.290

SOURCE: (1) is from AS 45.09.105(3); (2) is from AS 45.09.105(4); (3) is from USLTA § 1-201(19); (4) is from AS 45.09.105(8); (5) is from USLTA § 1-201(25) and ULTA § 3-103(7); and (6) is from AS 45.09.105(9).

COMMENT: All definitions are paraphrased from the UCC or the USLTA, as noted. The terms "governmental agency,"

"receiver," and "trustee in bankruptcy" are added in (6) to clarify intent.

Section 3

AS 06.05.175

COMMENT: This subsection is added to meet the possible reluctance of a financial institution to provide information to the holder of a subordinate security interest.

Section 4

AS 09.45.170

COMMENT: This section substitutes the broader term "security interest" for the term "mortgage" in the long-standing section on judicial foreclosure in the Code of Civil Procedure. No change is made in the judicial foreclosure procedure, but it is made clear by statute that the procedure is available broadly for foreclosure of all security interests.

Section 5

Repeal of AS 09.45.200 and AS 34.20.010--34.20.135

COMMENT: AS 09.45.200, here repealed, provides that an action for foreclosure cannot be maintained while an action is pending for the debt. Reference AS 34.21.080 in the bill.

The other sections repealed are the existing law on deeds of trust.

Section 6

COMMENT: This transitional section takes the conservative approach that the law in effect when a security agreement is entered into shall be the law used in enforcing the security agreement. However, since this Act follows more closely the existing law on deeds of trust than it does the existing law on other security agreements, an exception is made as to deeds of trust. The person foreclosing a deed of trust is given an option to proceed with foreclosure under this Act if he should wish to.

This transitional section will make it necessary that the statutes repealed or amended by this Act be retained in Alaska Statutes volumes for several years after this Act goes into effect.

Section 7

The effective date of the Act should be several months following enactment to allow time for becoming familiar with its terms.
