The Territorial Guard consisted of approximately 4,500 members when it was dissolved in 1947.

In 1992, those people would range in age from 63 to 79 years of age. Using a straight line calculation, approximately 87.5 percent of the former members would be 65 years of age or older today. For that reason, the question of disability does not arise in that group, since they already qualify for the exemption program because of their age.

Of the remaining 12.5 percent (563) who could range in age from 63 to 64, we have made the following assumptions:

- (a) 60 percent own their own homes;
- (b) 20 percent reside in property-taxing jurisdictions;
- (c) 95 percent of the properties are taxable under federal law;

approximately 10 percent have a disability rating of 50 percent or more; and approximately 10 percent are widows between the ages of 60 and 65 (the factor of 20 percent results in 13 participants as noted below).

Each of the exemptions would equate to a property tax value of about $1,000. The resulting computation would be 13 participants at $1,000 for each exemption, or $13,000.

This fiscal note assumes the Legislature would provide $13,000 in additional funding for the program for fiscal years 1992 and 1993 (with the 10 percent inflation added for 1993). After that two year period, these remaining veterans will qualify as a result of their age, so no additional impact to the program is shown from that point on.

Sections 8 and 9 of HB 271 deal with special vehicle registration plates for veterans, including members of the Alaska Territorial Guard. The Department of Public Safety has been informed that the only individuals who served in the Alaska Territorial Guard were Eskimo Scout Battalions, located in extremely rural areas that are not subject to vehicle registration. No fiscal impact upon the Division of Motor Vehicles is anticipated.

RE: Request for Hearing

Please consider this request to schedule Committee Substitute for House Bill 271 (SA): An Act relating to persons who served in the Alaska Territorial Guard, for the floor at your earliest possible convenience. CS for HB 271 (SA) is priority legislation for the House Special Committee on Military and Veterans Affairs.

The bill gives Territorial Guard members the state benefits received by other veterans. The Alaska Territorial Guard was established in 1942 and disbanded in 1947. Members of the guard are not eligible to receive benefits that veterans of the active military or the National Guard are entitled even though they provided services during World War II that were very similar to the National Guard.

A sectional analysis and a history of the Territorial Guard are attached.

I appreciate your consideration of this request. If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact committee staff, Tom Wright, or me.

Thank you.

Because we are late in the session, I would also respectfully request that the bill be heard as soon as possible. CS for HB 271 (SA) has another committee of referral, Finance, before it can be brought to the floor.

The bill gives Territorial Guard members the state benefits received by other veterans. The Alaska Territorial Guard was established in 1942 and disbanded in 1947. Members of the guard are not eligible to receive benefits that veterans of the active military or the National Guard are entitled.

RE: Statutes Not Covered Under House Bill 271

This memorandum is in response to your query regarding the veteran benefits for Alaska Territorial Guard members which are not included in House Bill 271.

According to Legal Services, there are three specific statutes not included: AS 26.05.224, AS 26.05.295 and AS 26.05.296.

The first aforementioned statute, AS 26.05.224, refers to retirement benefits of active members of the Alaska National Guard or the Alaska Naval Militia. The Guard member has to have been on active Guard duty on or after January 1, 1969, while the Militia member on or after July 1, 1980, to be eligible for a retirement pension. This statute also refers to death benefits to a designated beneficiary of a member who had served at least five years with the Guard or the Militia. Territorial service is included when calculating eligibility for retirement benefits under AS 26.05.225.

AS 26.05.295 is the statute that allows for educational assistance to enlisted personnel in the Guard or Militia in accordance with the Military Service Act of 1967 (50 U.S.C. App. 451-456, 458-471) in Alaska educational facilities. Each active member of the Guard or Militia must complete at least six years of service to be fully eligible for this benefit.

The final statute, AS 26.05.296, allows the adjutant general to authorize the payment of not more than 50% of the cost of tuition and required fees for each active or retired member of the Guard or Militia who attends an educational, vocational or technical training school in Alaska. This is contingent upon available funding. This statute is not effective if other V.A. educational benefits are used.

MEMORANDUM

April 15, 1991

SUBJECT: Sectional summary of HB 271

TO: Representative Ivan Ivan
Attn: Tom

FROM: Theresa L. Bannister²⁸
Legislative Counsel

You have requested a sectional summary of the above described bill.

As a preliminary matter, note that a sectional summary of a bill should not be considered an authoritative interpretation of the bill and the bill itself is the best statement of its contents.

Section 1 includes under "veterans organizations" certain organizations that consist of persons who served in the Alaska Territorial Guard. This definition is in the chapter regulating games of chance and skill.

Section 2 authorizes persons who served in the Alaska Territorial Guard and were disabled to receive free resident hunting and sport fishing licenses, if they meet certain other listed conditions.

Section 3 defines "veteran" to include members of the Alaska Territorial Guard who satisfy certain criteria. This will enable those persons to qualify for certain housing benefits extended to veterans by the Alaska State Housing Authority.

Section 4 makes members of the Alaska Territorial Guard who satisfy certain criteria and their widows and widowers eligible for veterans' interest rates extended by the Alaska Housing Finance Corporation.

Section 5 defines "veteran" for AS 26.10.060 to include persons who served in the Alaska Territorial Guard.

Section 6 defines "veteran" for the chapter on veterans benefits to include a person who served in the Alaska Territorial Guard.

Representative Ivan Ivan

Section 7 extends AS 26.15 (except for the provisions in the chapter on the payment of bonuses), the chapter on veterans loans, to persons who served in the Alaska Territorial Guard and who satisfy certain other criteria.

Section 8 extends the special motor vehicle registration benefits for disabled persons to persons disabled in the line of duty while serving in the Alaska Territorial Guard.

Section 9 authorizes the Department of Public Safety to issue special registration veteran motor vehicle license plates to persons who served in the Alaska Territorial Guard.

Section 10 extends certain municipal tax exemptions for disabled veterans to persons who served in the Alaska Territorial Guard and who satisfy certain other criteria.

Section 11 authorizes a municipality to provide an additional real property exemption to persons who were disabled in the line of duty while serving in the Alaska Territorial Guard or to their widows or widowers.

Section 12 defines "veteran" to include persons with 90 days or more of service in the Alaska Territorial Guard. This change extends the veterans preference established under the section (restricted residential land sales for veterans) to these persons.

Section 13 extends the veterans' land discount for certain state land purchases to persons who served in the Alaska Territorial Guard, if they satisfy certain other criteria.

Section 14 extends the state employment preferences for veterans and disabled veterans to persons who served in the Alaska Territorial Guard and who meet certain other criteria.

Section 15 defines "veteran" for AS 44.35 to include a person who served in the Alaska Territorial Guard. Among other things, AS 44.35 establishes the duties and powers of the Department of Military and Veterans' Affairs and authorizes the construction of veterans memorials.

If I may be of further assistance, please advise.

RE: Alaska Territorial Guard
Research Request 91.238

You asked about the history of the Alaska Territorial Guard; when it was established, what it did and why it was disbanded. This subject is well chronicled in the 1969 book, Men of the Tundra, by "Muktuk" Marston, the nickname given to Major Marvin R. Marston by Eskimos under his command.

When Governor Gruening took office on December 5, 1939, there had never been a National Guard in Alaska. Due to increasing interest in national and territorial defense, he petitioned the War Department for authority to organize an Alaska National Guard. That came about in mid-1940 with the organization of the 1st Battalion, 297th Infantry. However, the Alaska National Guard was ordered into federal service on September 15, 1941, and sent to the lower 48 for training--three months before the bombing of Pearl Harbor.

With the integration of the Alaska National Guard into federal service, and therefore removed from the role of local defense, Governor Gruening obtained approval from the 77th Congress to establish the Alaska Territorial Guard. Under regulations prescribed by the Secretary of War, the Territorial Guard was to be organized through voluntary enlistments. Only spare arms and equipment would be made available for use. In 1942, at the request of the governor, Captain Carl Scheibner was assigned as military aide for the Ketchikan region and Major Marvin R. Marston was assigned the central and western regions.

Because of the vast unprotected western and northern Alaska coasts and Japanese activities on St. Lawrence Island in 1941, a Japanese invasion somewhere in that area was feared. In response to that threat, Major "Muktuk" Marston organized 3,000 Natives into Territorial Guard units. The population of Eskimos in Major Marston's forces outnumbered the Aleuts and Athapaskans about three to one. In a 1976 book, The U.S. Army in Alaska, by the 172nd Infantry Brigade, it is explained that the object was to have a homeland security force (in the absence of the Alaska National Guard) primarily to watch the long coastlines, pass warnings and assist the regular armed services in repelling enemy attacks.

Calling on his previous arctic experience in Canada, Major Marston often travelled by dog sled from village to village to explain the threat of war to the Natives and ask for voluntary enlistment. Nearly all able-bodied men responded. Working without pay, and using spare WWI rifles and ammunition, the Natives of the Territorial Guard served throughout the war years.

Twenty years later, in 1966, the State of Alaska awarded service medals to all members of the Territorial Guard. Many members were deceased or could no longer be found, but efforts were made to present the awards to surviving family members.

In June 1942, the Japanese attacked Dutch Harbor and later captured the Aleutian outposts of Kiska and Attu. War in the Aleutians ended with the retaking of Kiska in August 1943. There were no other Japanese attacks against Alaska and there is no record of the Alaska Territorial Guard involved in enemy combat. The Japanese surrendered to the United States and its allies in August 1945.

On March 31, 1947, its wartime mission over, the Alaska Territorial Guard was disbanded by the U.S. Army, leaving Alaska without a guard unit.

In 1948, Governor Gruening asked the War Department to re-establish the Alaska National Guard. Although met with opposition from National Guard Headquarters, he insisted that the "tundra army" be included in the reorganization of guard units. In July 1949 the National Guard Bureau authorized the formation of two scout battalions in northern and western Alaska, where the Territorial Guard had served.

Many former Territorial Guardsmen became members of the newly formed Scout Battalions. Thus, the Alaska Territorial Guard was the forerunner to the "Eskimo Scout Battalions" which today consists of three battalions of Alaska National Guard units serving in the northern and western regions of Alaska.

Alaska National Guard

On October 25, 1939, the Governor was authorized by the Secretary of War to organize two companies of the 297th Infantry, as the nucleus of the Alaska National Guard. Prior to organization, on July 23, 1940 the authorization was increased to four rifle companies, with a battalion headquarters and headquarters detachment, and a medical department detachment.

To assist in the organization, Headquarters of the Ninth Corps Area at San Francisco assigned an instructor who reported to the Governor on July 27, 1940, and the actual work was started. On August 5, 1940, the Governor designated an Adjutant General and assigned the companies and detachments to various towns in the Territory. Company commanders and junior officers were selected; recruiting was started and carried forward rapidly.

Company B, located at Ketchikan, was inspected for Federal recognition on September 17th. Company A, the First Battalion Headquarters Detachment, and the Medical Detachment, all in Juneau, were inspected on September 21. Company D, at Anchorage, qualified October 4, and Company C, at Fairbanks, on October 10. Within 30 days clothing and equipment of the latest type was being issued to the men; the battalion is now fully equipped. The battalion expects to be called into the Federal service for active training on September 15, 1941.

Temporary armories are being used in each of the four towns. They are not in accordance with Federal requirements, being neither fireproof nor safe against pillage. In other ways they are also far from adequate, but will have to serve the purpose until proper buildings can be erected.

Education

Alaska Historical Library and Museum

Valuable additions were made to both the library and the museum during the past year. First in importance was the purchase by the legislature of the library of the late James J. Wickersham, consisting of some 6,500 items of rare historical volumes, pamphlets and newspapers. With these additions, the Alaska Historical Library is now one of the finest sources of reference on Alaska history in existence. A photostatic copy of Russian stamps used during the occupation of Russian America was a welcome contribution.

The legislature also purchased for the museum 24 pastels of native who spent several years traveling throughout the Territory. The frames of yellow cedar are carved in totemic designs. The collections were stone implements from Mole Har, Thlingit manufacture and of Russian occupation. The mast of the old Russian ship Neva wrecked in 1813, with a carving of the ship thereon, and the wreck, was presented to the museum by the University of Alaska

The University of Alaska, at College, 4 miles from Fairbanks, offers 4-year bachelor degrees in the following fields: arts and letters, business administration, chemistry, education, general science, home economics, metallurgical engineering, mining engineering. Five-year curricula leading to engineering degrees in geological, metallurgical and mining engineering. Degrees (C. E., E. M., Met. E., and Geol. E.) are conferred on graduates who have satisfied the requirements. The annual commencement held on May 19, 1941, conferred.

Preliminary curricula, not leading to degrees, are offered in nautical, agricultural, architectural, mechanical engineering, and in fisheries, forestry, nursing. Short courses in mining and home economics, winter, are open to all persons without regard to qualifications. Mining extension classes were conducted by traveling instructors during 1940-41 in Anchorage, Juneau, Ketchikan, Sitka, Kodiak, Palmer, Richardson, and Nome, affording 5 weeks of instruction in the rudiments of geology and mining to 637 students at a cost of $12 per person.

Enrollment in the various divisions of the University was as follows: College grade, 310; short courses, 637, making a grand total of 967, less duplicate registrations in Agricultural Extension Institute.

Fees charged college grade students in 1940-41: $15.50; room rent, $10 and $12.50 per month for nonresident tuition, $20 per semester. Tuition for Alaska. During 1940-41, 250 students enrolled as nonresidents.

Ninety students were enrolled in the R. C. The civilian pilot training program was carried on during the winter, 25 students receiving instruction.

AGRICULTURE

carried on during the past year at the Fairbanks substation included oat and pea ensilage as a source of hay in feeding dairy cattle; growing locally produced grain and pasture; crop rotation with emphasis on seed production and the control of dairy calves on locally grown grain, fish meal, and k; wintering sheep on various feeds; use of corn in potato production; canning peas; pasture improvement tests with alfalfa and studies with yellow clover at Petersburg substation, projects included work with sheep and fox, in cooperation with the Alaska Game

During the past year, victory gardens, and projects in nutrition, sewing, handicrafts, and canning were carried on in the Tanana Valley as well as in some sections of southeastern Alaska. 2 boys and girls were enrolled in 4-H club work during the year.

RURAL REHABILITATION CORPORATION

Matanuska Valley Project

Agriculture continued to expand in the valley, stimulating demand for farm products and the high prices for them. Expansion and improvement were noted especially in poultry farming, and the production of vegetables. Efforts were made to increase production to meet war needs as farmers take advantage of the great demand, and to reduce indebtedness and build up their credit by saving themselves for whatever may come after the war.

The valley now totals approximately 6,000 acres under agricultural administration of approximately 140 farms, and, of which about 4,000 acres are under cultivation.

The ARRC aids in the development of farming in the valley by maintaining reserve and emergency supplies of hay, feeds, seed, and fertilizer to meet unusual conditions, clearing additional land, making production loans to reliable farmers at a low rate of interest, maintaining farm machinery to grow reserve supplies of hay and feed on vacant tracts and to maintain wells, cooperating with the Farmers' Cooperating Association in securing the best possible marketing program and greatest returns to the farmers, advising farmers on agricultural, financial and personal problems, and in many other ways. On June 30, 92 miles of electric line were under the control of the Matanuska Electric Association, Inc., the total number of patrons being 235. During the year an increase in consumption of 27.5 per cent was noted.

ALASKA TERRITORIAL GUARD

The Alaska National Guard was federalized on September 12, 1941. With the outbreak of hostilities, the Governor sought legislative authority to organize an Alaska Territorial Guard and received it promptly through an act approved December 31, 1941 (Public No. 202, 77th Cong.). This law, drafted in conformity with the desires of the War Department, permitted through voluntary enlistments the organization of an Alaska Territorial Guard under such regulations as to discipline and training as the Secretary of War might prescribe. At that time Alaska was evidently destined to be a combat area and it was the Governor's desire that as far as possible there be no non-combatants or passive spectators among the male population, but that everybody be prepared to resist an enemy invasion, should it take place. Although the Army and Navy were building up a vast defense force, there were still tremendous stretches of coast and interior throughout Alaska without protection by the armed services. Under these circumstances, it was felt that the Alaska Territorial Guard might render a valuable service in opposing the landing of enemy commandos, scouting parties or the entrance of espionage agents or saboteurs.

So the organization of the guard proceeded rapidly to the point where over 103 units have been organized, with an actual enrolled strength of approximately 4,200 men and 275 commissioned officers. In general, enrollments were confined to males of 16 or over, although in a few cases exceptions were made. The easternmost and southernmost unit is at Metlakatla, a village inhabited solely by Tsimshian Indians. The northernmost unit is at Barrow, where the population is principally Eskimo, with some mixed blood. The westernmost unit is at Gambell on St. Lawrence Island some 40 miles from the Siberian coast, where the population is wholly Eskimo.

year the average monthly case load numbered 101. These persons were in need of services hospitalization. A total of $58,814.70 was paid.

the average monthly case count for medical services numbered 101. A total amount of $97,450.00 was paid in this category. A total of $4,684.00 was paid during the year. The total amount of $102,134.70 was paid in all categories of relief under this program.

The Territory has two separate and distinct systems, the juvenile code administration and the adult code administration.

In addition, this Division in cooperation with the Children's Bureau of the Department of Social Welfare Services program designed to strengthen services to children throughout the Territory. Administration are available under title V, Social Security Act. This program is under the supervision of the Social Services. Staffed by qualified social workers, it coordinates child welfare services throughout the Territory. It cooperates with the Alaska Native District Courts, and institutions operated approximately $20,000 per year is available for child welfare cases under this program.

Child welfare cases were open for service. In June 30, 1946. An average of 207 cases per month during the past fiscal year. In cases per month during the past fiscal year new cases had been referred to the agency.

Under an approved plan with Federal funds for dependent children's program is administered for assistance for dependent children in their homes. Number of children receiving assistance as of July 1, 1946. The number receiving aid per month during the past year compared to 334 as of July 1, 1946. The average payment per child per month being expended during the past year under this program. Federal funds $52,035.50, for a grand total of $52,035.50. Adequate appropriations made by the territorial Board of Public Welfare was compelled to impose a 23 percent discount on the rate of $18.53 per month to $13.19 per month.

It also was necessary to establish waiting lists of children. As of the end of the fiscal year, there were 35 cases totaling 35 children on the waiting list.

Social Security Administration

The Social Security Administration, formerly the Social Security Board, is a division of the Federal Security Agency, administered in Alaska by a Regional Director who maintains an office in Juneau. In Alaska, the Regional Director of the Social Security Administration acts as the representative of the Bureaus of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance, Employment Security, and Public Assistance, and the Children's Bureau within the Territory, and supervises directly the operation of old-age and survivors insurance through a field office located within the Regional Office of the Social Security Administration.

During the year ending June 30, 1947, the cumulative total of Social Security account numbers issued in Alaska rose from 43,800 to 45,917. During the same period, approximately $250,000 was paid to Alaska residents in the form of monthly benefits to wage earners and their wives, or to their surviving widows and children; and an additional amount approximating $25,000 was paid in lump-sum benefits to the next of kin of deceased insured wage earners.

During the fiscal year 1946-47, a total of $437,114.96 was received by the Territory for public assistance (old-age assistance, aid to dependent children and child welfare services) an increase of $122,532.76 or 38.9 percent over the grants for the preceding fiscal year.

The Social Security Administration also grants to the Unemployment Compensation Commission such Federal funds as are approved by the Bureau of Employment Security to cover the entire cost of the administration of the Alaska Unemployment Compensation Law.

TERRITORIAL GUARD

The Alaska Territorial Guard was automatically disbanded and all units deactivated as of March 31, 1947 as the 1947 territorial legislature provided no funds for its continuation.

By order of the War Department, all guard property was turned over to the Territory for disposal. The Governor of Alaska, by authority granted him by the Board of Administration, was placed in charge of the disposal of the property. Because of the loyalty and devotion of the guard members during the war, it was considered fitting that all rifles and clothing be turned over to the men as a token of the Territory's appreciation.

1. Attached is a list of men from your area who were formerly Alaska Territorial Guard members. In August or September 1967, the Governor of Alaska will possibly visit Bethel to dedicate the new Centennial Museum here. At this time, he would like to present medals and certificates to all those former members of the ATG who can be present for the ceremony.

2. Request you fill out the attached sheet showing the present status of the individuals listed to the best of your knowledge with the help of your postmaster and other people in your village who might know where the men are. REQUEST YOU RETURN THIS FORM TO THIS HEADQUARTERS BEFORE 1 JUNE 1967. If you do not know where some of these men are, just put "unknown" in the space beside his name.

3. We will first try and see how many of these men can make it to Bethel on their own, either coming in from the home village or else staying in Bethel for a few days on the way back to the village from fish camp or the cannery. Make sure you contact each man on the list who is in your village and tell him about this, so he will know about the Governor's ceremony. We will send out the exact dates of the ceremony later.

4. Remember that by completing this list and sending it back to us by 1 June 1967, you are making sure that each man who was in the ATG will receive a certificate and a medal for his service either from the Governor during ceremonies in Bethel or by mail if it is impossible for the man on the list to come to the ceremonies. DO THE BEST JOB YOU CAN ON THIS, THE MEN WHO SERVED IN THE ATG DESERVE YOUR BEST.

the congratulations of the commanding officer, Maj. George C. Donaldson, to all members of the command for their conduct in fighting a fire on 9 January in one of the barracks buildings. The fire lasted six hours, and extinguishing the blaze was made more difficult by the presence of seven feet of snow on the ground. Major Donaldson commended everyone for "excellent discipline, courage, enthusiasm for work and disregard of self."

The records include general correspondence of Camp Anchorage, 1919-25 (2 ft.), arranged according to the War Department Decimal File System. File 000.92 contains a report by Maj. A. B. Hitchcock, commanding officer, U.S. troops, Anchorage, to the Commanding General Ninth Corps Area, 8 February 1922, describing aid to the community in quelling a serious fire that destroyed most of a city block in Anchorage on 7 February. The troops helped fight the fire, they removed goods from burning buildings, and they guarded merchants' property on the streets. The behavior of the troops elicited a resolution of thanks from the City Council of Anchorage.

11.1.407 Records of the Adjutant General's Office, 1917- (R.G. 407):

Project Files, 1917-25 (States and Territories, AGO File #220.514 — Alaska) include a list of decorations awarded for service in World War I by foreign governments to officers and enlisted men who gave Alaska as their place of residence.

Project Files, 1917-25, include the annual report of the Western Department for the fiscal year 1919-20, submitted to the Adjutant General's Office, 26 August 1920. Under the heading "Changes and Movement of Troops" are several Alaska-related items, including the following:

- (1) Company F, 21st Infantry, left Vancouver Barracks on 30 July 1919, for Fort Liscum, Alaska, arriving there on 8 August 1919.
- (2) Company G, 21st Infantry, left Vancouver Barracks on 15 August 1919, for Fort Gibbon, Alaska, arriving there on 11 September 1919.
- (3) Company H, 21st Infantry, left Vancouver Barracks on 14 September 1919, for Fort St. Michael, arriving there on 28 September 1919.
- (4) Company B, 21st Infantry, left Fort George Wright, Washington, for Anchorage, on 6 November 1919, arriving there on 15 November 1919.

The record group includes monthly post returns, giving name of unit, number of enlisted men in the unit, and number of officers stationed at Fort William H. Seward, Alaska. The first folder contains a summary of the strength of the units in the 21st Infantry, July 1919-December 1920. There are folders for the following units for the periods indicated:

Casual Detachment (Infantry), April-November 1920.

Detachment, Finance Department, September-December 1920.

Detachment, Medical Corps, July 1918-December 1920.

Detachment, Motor Transport Corps, November 1919-July 1920.

Detachment, Ordnance Department, June 1919-December 1920.

Detachment, Quartermaster Corps, July 1918-November 1920.

Detachment, Signal Corps, August 1920.

The annual report of the Commanding General, Ninth Corps Area, for fiscal year 1921-22, contains a brief section (pages 14-15) entitled "The Alaskan Military Situation." The report states that the opening of the railroad from Seward, on the seaboard, to Nenana, on the Tanana River, had completely changed the military situation in Alaska, greatly simplifying the problem of supply. There was no longer a need for military forces at Forts St. Michael, Gibbon, and Liscum. Withdrawal of infantry garrisons from those posts would have no adverse effect. The forces in Alaska would then consist of one battalion of infantry, ample for all present needs; and future developments might justify a further reduction.

Project Files, 1917-25 (States and Territories, AGO File #325.4 — Alaska), consist primarily of correspondence and related records dealing with the establishment of a National Guard unit in Alaska, 1925-26 (1/2 in.). This file contains a 3-page memorandum, dated 5 December 1925, on the organization of the Alaskan National Guard. The memorandum states that the number of regular Army enlisted men on duty in Alaska was 313, distributed as follows: Infantry, 193; Signal Corps, 76; Quartermaster Corps, 26; Finance Department, 5; Ordnance Department, 1; and Medical Department, 12. According to this memorandum, if one or two battalions of infantry were organized as the National Guard of Alaska, it was probably that the regular troops, with minor exceptions, could be withdrawn from Alaska. The monetary savings such a withdrawal would achieve would be considerable.

AGO File #350.05 — Alaska is part of the country file, 1926-39. It consists primarily of a 19-page report entitled "Military Situation in Alaska," 19 April 1930, submitted by Maj. Malcolm Elliot, president of the Alaska Road Commission, to the Secretary of War, through the Commanding General, Ninth Corps Area. The report contains Major Elliot's observations, and those of other members of the Alaska Road Commission, as they travelled in the territory. It has sections on topics such as geography and physical conditions, economic factors, transportation system, government, mission of the Army in Alaska, and the composition, strength, and location of troops in Alaska. The report includes three maps (1/2 in.). (Central Files, 1926-39.)

AGO File #325.4 — Alaska is part of the country file, 1926-39, consisting of correspondence and related records, 1939-41, concerning the establishment of a National Guard for Alaska (1½ in.). Initially it was planned to organize two infantry companies (companies A and B of the 297th Infantry), but later the plan included four companies. In a letter of 25 November 1940, the Secretary of War was told by the Acting Secretary of the Interior that he had been informed by the Governor of Alaska that four companies of the 297th Infantry, constituting the Alaska National Guard, had been organized, and also that a National Guard observation squadron was being formed.

AGO File #250.4 — Alaska is part of the Project Decimal File (States and Countries), 1940-45. The file includes a letter of 24 October 1940 from Lt. Gen. J. L. DeWitt, commanding general, Ninth Corps Area, requesting that general court-martial jurisdiction be extended to the Commanding General, Alaskan Defense Force. Initially his request was disapproved because the size of the military force in Alaska on 30 September 1940 was only 71 officers and 1,752 enlisted men. However, on 23 November 1940, General DeWitt's request was approved.

AGO File #320.2 — Alaska, part of the same file, includes a letter dated 20 November 1940, submitted by Capt. James F. Brower to the Chief of Staff, with a proposal to organize a ski unit composed of native Alaskan troops. Captain Brower, a native of Alaska, was on recruiting duty at Fort MacArthur, California. According to him, most Eskimos under forty years of age could read and write English, and they were all loyal Americans. The proposed unit was to be supplied with two-way radio equipment for sending and receiving information. For security, such information could be transmitted not in code but by speaking in the Eskimo dialects. The unit would be officered by white officers who had lived in northern Alaska or Canada and were familiar with life in the Far North.

AGO File #325.4 — Alaska is part of the same file and is concerned primarily with the establishment of additional National Guard units in Alaska. Included is an 8-page report submitted by Maj. Jesse E. Graham to the Commanding General, Ninth Corps Area. The report, dated 30 December 1940, concerned the possible locations of additional National Guard units in the territory. The report covered the more populous towns and cities in Alaska, giving for each town its population and its more important industries. The towns and cities included Anchorage, Cordova, Fairbanks, Juneau, Ketchikan, Nome, Petersburg, Seward, Sitka, Skagway, Valdez, and Wrangell, 1940-41 (1 in.).

AGO File #333.9 — Sitka, Alaska is part of the Project Decimal File, 1940-45. File 333.9 consists primarily of a report on conditions on 23 October 1941 at Fort Ray, Sitka, where an investigation was conducted as a result of complaints by an enlisted man. The investigators concluded that the discipline, morale, and efficiency of the command were excellent; but that a few individuals of the command were discontented because of the high wages paid to civilian labor as compared to the pay of enlisted men. The report also stated that soldier labor had been used only for unloading Army transports, clearing ground for Army barracks, and constructing defensive works and gun emplacements.

AGO File #421.4 — Alaska Defense Command is part of the file above. File 421.4 consists mostly of correspondence and related communications concerning the adoption of a distinctive shoulder sleeve insignia to be worn by troops of the Alaska Department, Ninth Corps Area, 1941-42.

AGO File #331.4 — Fort Richardson, Alaska is part of the Project Decimal File — Military Posts and Reservations, 1949-50. File 331.4 concerns the establishment of an officers mess at Fort Richardson. The first endorsement, dated 24 October 1950, indicates that Fort Richardson, located seven miles from Elmendorf Air Force Base and ten miles from the city of Anchorage, was established as a separate Army post on 16 October 1950 and was the largest U.S. Army installation in Alaska. Other documents show that 500 officers were stationed at this post.

General Records of the Department of the Navy (R.G. 80):

File #4661-3. Part of the series of General Correspondence, 1897-1915, this file contains several documents relating to Alaska. Included is a 5-page letter dated 17 February 1911 in which former Governor of Alaska John G. Brady informed the President that Alaska could easily be converted into a defense base. Governor Brady maintained that Alaska's strategic location and its valuable coal resources made it an ideal place for establishing a naval base. The file also contains much information about the work performed by the Navy in Alaska (2 in.).

File #12472. Part of the series of General Correspondence of the Secretary of the Navy, 1916-26, the file contains letters, reports, and other material relating to the expansion and later to the abandonment of the coaling station on Japonski Island in the harbor of Sitka, 1901-14. A wireless telegraph station was also located on Japonski Island. Much of the correspondence

PREVIOUS ACTION

ACTION NARRATIVE

TAPE 41, SIDE A
Number 000

The House State Affairs Committee meeting was called to order by Chairman Kubina at 8:43 a.m. Members present were Representatives (Reps.) Kubina, Moyer, Gruenberg, Choquette, and Baker.

Chairman Kubina announced that the committee would first hear HB 271 that morning. He noted that HB 271 had been introduced by the Special Committee on Military and Veterans Affairs and that it would grant veteran status to those people who had served in the Territorial Guard. He asked MR. TOM WRIGHT, staff for the Special Committee on Military and Veterans Affairs, to address the committee.

Number 034

Rep. Bruckman arrived at 8:45 a.m.

Mr. Wright told the committee of the history of the Territorial Guard. He noted that there had been 4,500 enlisted men and 280 officers in the Territorial Guard.

Mr. Wright stated that HB 271 would provide state veteran benefits to members of the Territorial Guard that were long overdue.

Number 090

Rep. Moyer asked Mr. Wright what benefits the Guard members would receive under HB 271.

Mr. Wright told the committee that HB 271 would grant the Guard members status as veterans and they would then be able to have charitable gaming permits. If they were fifty percent or more disabled they would be able to receive free fishing and hunting licenses. They would be eligible for moderate costs in rental housing and would receive veterans interest rates and veterans points for state employment.

Mr. Wright added that the median age of the Guard members was 68 to 69 years of age and many were already receiving senior benefits.

Mr. Wright also said that the veterans would be able to receive the special license plates available to veterans. They would also be added to the municipal taxation chapter which allows them an exemption from taxation. They would also be allowed veterans preference under the public lands act.

Number 140

Chairman Kubina asked Mr. Wright if a disabled Guard member received federal benefits.

Mr. Wright said that he did not think they were currently eligible for veteran benefits.

Rep. Bruckman asked if the 90 days of service eligibility requirement was a federal rule.

Mr. Wright said that it was.

Rep. Choquette asked how many people were addressed by HB 271.

Mr. Wright stated that in 1966 the Alaska State Legislature had awarded citations to the Territorial Guard and they had only been able to find 2000 names at that time. Mr. Wright estimated that between 500 and 2000 people would be included in HB 271.

Number 192

MR. MIKE WORLEY, State Assessor, Department of Community and Regional Affairs, told the committee that the fiscal note was not quite ready. He stated that it would not be a zero fiscal note because there would be a small impact to homeowners exemption program. Mr. Worley stated that the fiscal note would be $13,000. for the first year and $14,500. for the second year and drop to zero after that.

The veterans would then be eligible for the senior programs because of their ages.

Mr. Worley told the committee that the Department of Community and Regional Affairs supported the intent of HB 271, but because of the municipalities' position against the bill, the Department would have to take a neutral stance.

Chairman Kubina asked Mr. Worley if the homeowners exemption program was fully funded at that time.

Mr. Worley responded that it was currently funded at about twenty-five percent.

Number 242

MS. CRYSTAL SMITH, Alaska Municipal League (AML), stated that because HB 271 would impact the underfunded mandate on the municipalities' senior citizen/disabled program and would create an additional cost to the municipalities, the AML was opposed to HB 271.

Ms. Smith stated that AML would request that section ten which mandates an additional exemption for these veterans be removed from HB 271.

Number 275

Rep. Gruenberg noted that he had received a memorandum from Tom Wright regarding statutes not covered under HB 271. He asked if the Guard members were entitled to death benefits under HB 271 or current law.

MR. JEFF MORRISON, Director, Department of Military and Veterans Affairs, stated that the Guard members were entitled to death benefits under current law.

Number 310

MR. CHARLIE GUINN, Bethel, via teleconference, read from a prepared statement. (A copy of this statement may be found in the House State Affairs Committee Room, Capitol #102, and after the adjournment of the second session of the 17th Alaska State Legislature, in the Legislative Reference Library.)

MR. GUINN: Fifty years ago I was the Captain of the Tununak Company of the Alaska Territorial Guard. Fifty years ago a Japanese invasion force occupied the islands of Kiska and Attu in the Aleutians. An invasion of the mainland was considered imminent. What was not known, of course, was when, and where. Fifty years ago there was no military presence along the Bering Sea Rim. In fact, when hostilities with Japan erupted in 1941, there was little military presence anywhere in the entire Territory of Alaska. An invasion force of one hundred thousand men could land almost anywhere along the barren Bering Sea Coast, establish a beachhead, and set up supply lines before their presence became known to the military.

It was imperative that this vulnerable coast line be monitored for any activity that would indicate an impending invasion. But this coast line consisted of hundreds of miles of barren, desolate, wind-swept beaches, sea cliffs rising to a height of fifteen hundred feet, mud flats, sand bars, uncharted waters. There were no towns, no communication, no transportation, no roads. Our President, Franklin Roosevelt, desperately needed 'eyes and ears' along that vulnerable coast line but was reluctant to send his troops from the south 48. Men ill-equipped to adapt to the harsh arctic conditions, men totally unfamiliar with the terrain that required monitoring. There was no adequate housing closer than 500 miles and there were no supply routes across hundreds of miles of tundra.

Marvin Marston, a Lieutenant Colonel retired from the Air Force, came up with the solution. There was a monitoring force already in place, it needed only organization and directive. In the small, Native villages scattered along the Coast were men who had been trained since childhood to recognize the slightest sound or movement out of the ordinary. Men who could spot the head of a seal in an ice lead at a thousand yards. They required no housing. They had their own, frequently a sod and driftwood semi-subterranean igloo with a dirt floor, seal gut windows and a seal oil lamp for heat. They required no supply lines, they took their food from the sea as they had for generations.

Muktuk Marston visited the villages, told of the danger an invasion would mean to their homes and families, explained how their Country needed their help and he asked for volunteers. On Nelson Island, every man crowded into that tiny one room classroom came forward, made his 'X' on an application form, was issued a 1903 Eddystone rifle chambered in 30.06, a belt full of armor piercing bullets and told to walk the wind-swept beaches. The Tununak

Company of the Alaska Territorial Guard was born. There was no training, no uniforms, no dog tags around their necks and their names appeared on no roster of the Army, the Navy, the Air Force or the Marine Corps.

There was no invasion. The Japanese invasion forces were destroyed in the Battle of Attu. But during those long, anxious months there wasn't the sight or the sound of an airplane, the outline of a vessel on the horizon, the flash of a light from the sea at night, that wasn't promptly reported and the information dispatched to the U. S. Army Warning Center in Bethel. Every piece of debris washing ashore was closely examined for evidence that it had come from a foreign vessel. Weather balloons landing on the mainland or washing in on the tide were carefully packaged and sent to the military for evaluation. Men, with a 1903 Eddystone in the crook of their arm, roamed the village at night to make certain that each seal gut window was completely blacked out so that no light could be seen from the sea betraying the presence of a village.

With the end of World War II the Alaska Territorial Guard was disbanded, their mission accomplished, and they were promptly forgotten. It is only proper, it is only fair, it is only just that the State of Alaska take whatever action is necessary to recognize the military service of these men who made their "X" on a piece of paper, were issued a 1903 Eddystone and told to walk the wind-swept beaches. Although they had no training, no uniform, no dog tags around their necks and their names appeared on no military roster, they answered the call of their country, served with pride, with distinction and with honor. Their military achievement of monitoring a section of our coast line against a possible invasion by a foreign power is unparalleled in the history of our nation. It also must be remembered had the invasion occurred they would have been our first line of defense. That kind of sums it up.

I can only add that when my great granddaughter crawls up in my lap and asks me if I was ever in a war, it would be nice to take my 1903 Eddystone down from its pegs on the wall, run my hands lovingly over the action, and say to her: Yes, honey, I was in a war an awful long time ago and the State of Alaska says that I am a veteran of World War II. Thank you.

Number 408

Chairman Kubina told Mr. Guinn that his was the most eloquent testimony he had ever heard in the committee and asked Mr. Guinn to send a copy of his statement to the committee. He also noted that it would be entered verbatim into the record.

Rep. Gruenberg stated that in his seven years in the Legislature that he had never heard an ovation given to a speaker in a committee. He noted that it might be fitting to include a purpose section in HB 271 to indicate that the purpose was to grant full veteran status to member of the Alaska Territorial Guard.

Rep. Choquette asked how many people would be affected by HB 271.

Mr. Guinn stated that it would be hard to estimate. He noted that of the 40 people who had served in his unit, only six were still living.

Rep. Gruenberg proposed a conceptual amendment to include a purpose statement in HB 271. There were no objections and the amendment was so adopted.

Rep. Moyer made a motion that HB 271 as amended be passed from committee with a unanimous do pass recommendation.

Rep. Gruenberg requested that Mr. Guinn's statement be appended as an exhibit to the committee report and spread across the journal. There were no objections from the committee.

Chairman Kubina noted that there were additional persons on teleconference who wished to testify on HB 271.

a few stories about the Guard and asked the committee to please seriously consider HB 271.

Number 570

Rep. Gruenberg stated that educational assistance and tuition benefits were not currently received by the members of the Territorial Guard.

Rep. Gruenberg prepared another conceptual amendment which would state that these Guard members were to receive these benefits and that would contain a purpose statement.

Rep. Moyer withdrew his motion to pass HB 271 in order for Rep. Gruenberg's proposed amendment to be addressed by the committee.

MS. BARBARA BATHONY, Director, Division of Pioneer Benefits, told the committee that the CS for HB 122 would eliminate payments for the whole year and eliminate all people who are not referred outside by their physician. MR. GUINN: Fifty years ago I was the Captain of the Tununak Company of the Alaska Territorial Guard. Fifty years ago a Japanese invasion force occupied the islands of Kiska and Attu in the Aleutians. An invasion of the mainland was considered imminent. What was not known, of course, was when, and where. Fifty years ago there was no military presence along the Bering Sea Rim. In fact, when hostilities with Japan erupted in 1941, there was little military presence anywhere in the entire Territory of Alaska. An invasion force of one hundred thousand men could land almost anywhere along the barren Bering Sea Coast, establish a beachhead, and set up supply lines before their presence became known to the military.

It was imperative that this vulnerable coast line be monitored for any activity that would indicate an impending invasion. But this coast line consisted of hundreds of miles of barren, desolate, wind-swept beaches, sea cliffs rising to a height of fifteen hundred feet, mud flats, sand bars, uncharted waters. There were no towns, no communication, no transportation, no roads. Our President, Franklin Roosevelt, desperately needed 'eyes and ears' along that vulnerable coast line but was reluctant to send his troops from the south. Men ill-equipped to adapt to the harsh arctic conditions, men totally unfamiliar with the terrain that required monitoring. There was no adequate housing closer than 500 miles and there were no supply routes across hundreds of miles of tundra.

Marvin Marston, a Lieutenant Colonel retired from the Air Force, came up with the solution. There was a monitoring force already in place, it needed only organization and directive. In the small, Native villages scattered along the Coast were men who had been trained since childhood to recognize the slightest sound or movement out of the ordinary. Men who could spot the head of a seal in an ice lead at a thousand yards. They required no housing. They had their own, frequently a sod and driftwood semi-subterranean igloo with a dirt floor, seal gut windows and a seal oil lamp for heat. They required no supply lines, they took their food from the sea as they had for generations.

Muktuk Marston visited the villages, told of the danger an invasion would mean to their homes and families, explained how their Country needed their help and he asked for volunteers. On Nelson Island, every man crowded into that tiny one room classroom came forward, made his 'X' on an application form, was issued a 1903 Eddystone rifle chambered in 30.06, a belt full of armor piercing bullets and told to walk the wind-swept beaches. The Tununak

Company of the Alaska Territorial Guard was born. There was no training, no uniforms, no dog tags around their necks and their names appeared on no roster of the Army, the Navy, the Air Force or the Marine Corps.

There was no invasion. The Japanese invasion forces were destroyed in the Battle of Attu. But during those long, anxious months there wasn't the sight or the sound of an airplane, the outline of a vessel on the horizon, the flash of a light from the sea at night, that wasn't promptly reported and the information dispatched to the U. S. Army Warning Center in Bethel. Every piece of debris washing ashore was closely examined for evidence that it had come from a foreign vessel. Weather balloons landing on the mainland or washing in on the tide were carefully packaged and sent to the military for evaluation. Men, with a 1903 Eddystone in the crook of their arm, roamed the village at night to make certain that each seal gut window was completely blacked out so that no light could be seen from the sea betraying the presence of a village.

With the end of World War II the Alaska Territorial Guard was disbanded, their mission accomplished, and they were promptly forgotten. It is only proper, it is only fair, it is only just that the State of Alaska take whatever action is necessary to recognize the military service of these men who made their "X" on a piece of paper, were issued a 1903 Eddystone and told to walk the wind-swept beaches. Although they had no training, no uniform, no dog tags around their necks and their names appeared on no military roster, they answered the call of their country, served with pride, with distinction and with honor. Their military achievement of monitoring a section of our coast line against a possible invasion by a foreign power is unparalleled in the history of our nation. It also must be remembered had the invasion occurred they would have been our first line of defense. That kind of sums it up.

I can only add that when my great granddaughter crawls up in my lap and asks me if I was ever in a war, it would be nice to take my 1903 Eddystone down from its pegs on the wall, run my hands lovingly over the action, and say to her: Yes, honey, I was in a war an awful long time ago and the State of Alaska says that I am a veteran of World War II. Thank you.

IVAN SEEKS TO PROVIDE TERRITORIAL GUARD BENEFITS

JUNEAU--Rep. Ivan M. Ivan, D-Akiak, wants to hear from former members of Alaska's Territorial Guard to testify about a bill (HB 271) that would provide them the same (or similar) veterans benefits National Guard veterans currently receive.

"Benefits for these forgotten soldiers are long overdue," said Ivan, who is Chairman of the House Special Committee on Military and Veterans Affairs. "I strongly encourage former territorial guardsmen to contact my office so we can work together in establishing the benefits program they deserve."

The Alaska Territorial guard was established during the height of World War II in 1942 by then Governor Ernest Gruening. The Guard's purpose was to protect the vast stretches of coast and interior throughout Alaska from enemy invasion. It was disbanded after World War II on March 31, 1947.

In March, the House Military and Veterans Affairs Special Committee toured several military installations in Alaska. During that tour John Guinn of Bethel alerted the committee to current law which excludes Territorial Guard veterans from receiving the same benefits National Guard veterans receive. Thus, HB 271 was introduced to rectify the situation.

-MORE-

Benefits guard members would be entitled to under HB 271 include:

- Free fish and game licensing for disabled guard members
- Inclusion in the Veterans Land Discount program
- Municipal tax exemptions where applicable
- employment preference
- special veterans license plates
- Participation in state loan programs.

The committee on Military and Veterans Affairs is looking for former members of the Territorial Guard to testify before the House State Affairs Committee. HB 271 is scheduled for its first hearing on Friday, April 26, 1991, at 8:30 a.m. Territorial Guard veterans are asked to call (collect) Tom Wright of Representative Ivan's office at 465-4527 or contact their nearest Legislative Information Office.
