Re: Legislation with respect to the exercise of municipal police protection powers.

Dear Dick:

As usual, it was delightful and refreshing to see you again at the SWAMC Conference and to be able to exchange ideas and concerns with you. With regard to the problem perceived by the state of the municipal assumption of police protection, I enclose for your review Section IVB of the Final Report of the Task Force on Governmental Roles. This section of the report deals with the relationship of the state and municipalities in the area of police protection, criminal prosecution and jails.

The Task Force was formed under SCS CS HCR 17 (CRA) of the 17th Legislature. The task of the Task Force was to examine the functions of state, federal and local governments and to make recommendations as to the appropriate roles and relationships of the different levels of government with respect to the different governmental functions. The committee focused almost exclusively on the state/local relationships. Because the governor vetoed the appropriation for the Task Force, it was unable to address all the governmental functions in which there is an interface between the state and municipalities. However, it did address some of the public safety issues, and that part of the report is included. I was one of two public members appointed to the Task Force by the governor. The other members of the Task Force consisted of Senate and House members, persons appointed by the Municipal League, persons representing the executive branch and a person representing an unincorporated community in the unorganized borough.

The committee recommendation with respect to the police protection power issue is in the second paragraph on page 25 of the final report. This position was something of a compromise between the administration's position that all municipalities over a certain size should be required to provide police protection and the position of the municipalities that they should not be forced to undertake a state function they are unwilling to assume. If legislation were adopted to implement this recommendation, it would have the effect of placing squarely in the hands of the assembly of second class and home rule boroughs and unified municipalities the authority to establish service areas for police protection without a vote of the residents. A vote is currently required for second class boroughs and is often required under the charters of home rule boroughs and unified municipalities. The legislation would be drafted so as to remove and override all charter and statutory impediments to the formation by the local governing body of service areas for police protection purposes. Although I believe the Task Force recognized that such legislation would not, in itself, either establish or require the establishment of police protection service areas, it would remove the statutory and charter restrictions that may currently exist. I am sure that Barbara Blasco or one of her assistants in the governmental affairs section of the AG's office could provide you with legislation to implement this recommendation of the Task Force.

While most municipalities applaud the removal of restrictions on the exercise of municipal powers, the legislation discussed above might not be as universally acceptable to municipalities.

I share with most municipalities their concern for the understaffing and underbudgeting of your department and hope the legislature will see its way clear to provide you with the resources you need to serve our state.

Sincerely,

PRESTON THORGRIMSON

An ultimate state policy goal should be to maintain local choice without imposing unnecessary costs on the state. To this end the Task Force advocates that the administration adopt a much tougher policy line with municipalities that refuse to pay for basic public protection services. For example, the Department of Public Safety could guarantee a minimum level of trooper response, similar to that in unincorporated areas, but require a contractual arrangement with local authorities covering complete costs for state troopers to provide any higher level of response to a particular service area.

To encourage and facilitate the implementation of police protection and to generate economies of scale, the Task Force advocates a change in Title 29 to permit the assemblies of unified municipalities and home rule boroughs to establish service areas for police protection, notwithstanding charter provisions that place restrictions on the service area formation process. Authority to form service areas for police protection should also be given to general law boroughs. This would resolve the Hillside problem and prevent similar situations in other municipalities.

The state must prosecute offenses charged under state laws. The Task Force position is that areawide police and prosecution services should apply to all classes of municipalities to encourage unified delivery. If the City and Borough of Juneau with a population of 28,965 provides prosecution services, then why not Kenai Peninsula Borough (40,802), Kodiak Island Borough (15,535), or Matanuska-Susitna Borough (41,797)? Withholding Municipal Assistance, with the Department of Law determining how much it costs to prosecute certain classes of misdemeanor offenses, is a dubious idea at best and seems like a prescription for endless legal disputes.

In place of punitive legislation, the Task Force endorses an approach that would provide incentives to provide local police and prosecution services. One solution would be to make (or, actually, to reimpose) public protection as a funding category within the Revenue Sharing program and to provide funding based on the number of police officers employed, criminal caseload or other criteria. Once a municipality accepted funding from the state for police or prosecution services, that service would become a continuing local responsibility. Municipal representatives on the Task Force, however, have concerns about the state's ongoing commitment to funding such services. They point to the funding history of the Revenue Sharing program, which the legislature has chronically underfunded and would like some guaranteed level of state aid if municipalities assume additional service responsibilities.

SPONSOR STATEMENT
HOUSE BILL 18

House Bill 18 addresses the need of residents statewide to insure police protection where troopers have withdrawn or areas that lack such protection. This bill authorizes residents within a borough or municipality to petition for the formation of a service area with defined boundaries for police protection. The police services would be provided by the Department of Public Safety. The department would be reimbursed for the cost of the service by the borough or municipal governments in which the service area was located. The borough would, in turn, assess the owners of property located in the service area to recover the costs of the contract service.

This bill addresses a need that is statewide. Any area of the state has the right to choose a level of protection that is needed.

Article 7 of Title 29 AS. 29.35.450 provides the following:

(a) A service area to provide special services in a borough may be established, operated, altered, or abolished by ordinance. Special services include services not provided on an areawide or nonareawide basis in the borough, or a higher or different level of service than that provided on an areawide or nonareawide basis. The borough may include a city in a service area if

- (1) the city agrees by ordinance; or
- (2) approval is granted by a majority of voters residing in the city, and by a majority of voters residing inside the boundaries of the proposed service area but outside the city.

The possibilities for police protection service areas within boroughs under HB 18 are practically limitless. Residents in any geographical location within a borough could petition for a service area, and if the majority of residents within the area voted favorably on the measure, they would get the trooper service.

Residents of a borough that already provides police protection on an area wide basis could presumably take advantage of the opportunity created by this bill, on the grounds that they wanted more or less police protection than the borough was providing. For example, a neighborhood in the Mendenhall

Valley of Juneau could petition for a service area to obtain the patrol of a state trooper to supplement municipal police service.

There is no feasible way for us to estimate the number of police service areas that might emerge around the state in response to HB 18. Any combination of residents throughout vast regions of the state might come together to petition for a service area. The level of satisfaction with existing police protection services could be probed by a comprehensive opinion survey, but a survey would not provide a reliable estimate of the number of service areas that might be formed because there are too many unknown factors involved for respondents to make a meaningful judgment.

Most residents of municipalities within boroughs that are currently without a local police department are currently served by the troopers at no cost to the residents. The exception is Wasilla, a first class city, where the troopers withdrew on the grounds that the community had an adequate property tax base to support a local police department. Wasilla would presumably be interested in the option for obtaining police protection that is presented by this bill. Other communities in the same predicament would probably also want to compare the costs and benefits of a local police force with that of trooper service through a service area.

There is always the possibility that enactment of HB 18 would create an incentive for the Department of Public Safety to hasten the process of withdrawing from areas without local police service that have property tax resources. That is, in response to budgetary belt-tightening, the department might reduce services to areas with property tax resources with the expectation of obtaining a reimbursement contract with a new service area. HB 18 would give the department the opportunity to shift the cost of services it now provides from its general fund appropriation to the beneficiaries of its services. If this were to happen, more service areas might be formed than would otherwise be the case.

Another area that should be addressed is the fiscal note accompanying this packet. The Department of Public Safety has totally ignored the statewide ramifications of this legislation, and have instead chosen to direct their fiscal note at only the Anchorage Hillside area. The department has assumed the need of 24-hour, seven day per week protection services. No area of the state has asked for this level of service, and I question if this level of service will be requested. Therefore, the fiscal note would be, in my estimation, proportionately lower as the level of services needed declines.

HB 18 would fill a gap for many communities throughout the state, I urge the passage of the legislation.

Assumptions

The area of Anchorage known as the Hillside (to include other areas such as Girdwood) is the home of about 40,000 citizens, a population equivalent to a small town. Prior to determining the size of the law enforcement presence, the demographics of the area must be reviewed. This area is primarily residential, with some small businesses and a small area of light manufacturing. There is one high school, one junior high school and five elementary schools. There is one bar in the area. The residential area consists of one large trailer court (400+ units), an area of primarily rental units and the majority of the population living in single family residences, in the mid to upper income level.

Suitable patrol presence on an average shift is three units, with a supervisor who is proactive and provides occasional initial response as well as backup for the three primary patrol units. Two followup investigators and three clerical positions support the patrol presence. The volume of calls in an area of this type will support the additional two dispatcher positions.

To administer a unit with twenty-two commissioned personnel and five civilians would require a First Sergeant and Lieutenant for a total of twenty-nine positions.

Costs not specifically associated with individual positions include the cost of leasing a substation ($228.7), 911-Emergency telephone service from APD under a contract ($60.0) and indirect management and administrative costs of 25% ($953.9).

SECTIONAL ANALYSIS
HOUSE BILL 18

Section 1: Amends AS 29.10.200 by adding a new paragraph to read:
(51) AS 29.35.495 (police protection service areas)

Section 2: Amends AS 29.35 by adding a new section to article 7. Section 29.35.495 POLICE PROTECTION SERVICE AREAS .

(a) This section allows residents of an area in a municipality to file a petition for the formation of a police protection service area. The boundaries must be described in the petition, and the additional police protection services to be provided by the Department of Public Safety in the area shall be signed by at least 10% of the voters in the proposed service area.

(b) Upon receipt of the petition the Commissioner of Public Safety has 30 days to notify the clerk of the estimated actual cost of providing the services in the proposed service area.

(c) Upon receipt of the estimated actual cost of providing the additional services in the proposed service area, the question of levying assessments to cover the estimated cost shall be placed before the voters residing in the proposed special service area during the next regular or special election held in the municipality.

(d) The governing body shall levy assessments to finance additional police protection services in the amount equal to the estimated actual cost from the Dept. of Public Safety. Payment shall be made to the commissioner by the municipality or borough.

(e) At least once every three years an election shall be held by the municipality in a police protection service area that has been formed. The Commissioner of Public Safety shall submit a revised notice of the estimated actual cost of providing the services during the next three years for inclusion. If the question is not approved by a majority of residents voting, the service area shall be dissolved 120 days after certification of the election. If the question is approved, the rate of assessments shall be adjusted by the municipality.

(f) This section applies to home rule and general law municipalities.

BILL NO: HB 18

DATE: March 17, 1993

TITLE: "An Act relating to police protection service areas in municipalities"

CONTACT: C.E. Swackhammer
Deputy Commissioner
465-4322

HB 18 allows residents of a municipality to form a police protection service area in which the Department of Public Safety will provide a specified level of police protection funded by assessments upon the residents.

It has been the position of the Governor and the Commissioner of Public Safety to withdraw Troopers from urban areas which are authorized to provide police protection on their own, and to concentrate the Department's resources in rural and unorganized areas of the State. This bill runs counter to that position, allowing residents of organized municipalities to require police protection from Troopers. Those areas forming service areas would have a contractual right to a certain level of service from Troopers that rural citizens would not share. Many rural communities have never had a local Trooper, and other communities have lost their Trooper Posts as budget cuts have forced the Department to reduce services.

The Department is concerned about potential problems raised by HB 18 including:

The process for establishing a service district, including the requirements that such contracts may impose on the Department to hire (or layoff) employees bypasses the Legislature;

The bill does not provide any information on what happens if the assessment accepted by the voters is insufficient to fund the level of service contracted, (who makes up the difference?);

There would be a loss of local control over police protection as there would be no local setting of policies, and no enforcement of local ordinances;

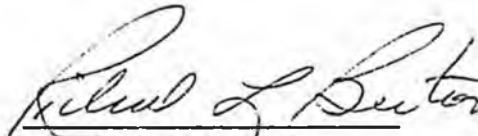

The Department could experience a highly variable demand for Troopers as municipalities adopt and reject service areas, requiring hiring and training efforts in some years and layoffs in others;

Individual Troopers could find that employment with the Department was less predictable, less stable, and therefore less desirable due to the uncertainty that any given service area contract would be extended; and,

Because of the long lag time in selecting, hiring, and training Troopers, adoption of service area contracts could mean reduced services to the rest of the citizens served by the Department.

The Task Force on Governmental Roles, formed under SCS CS HCR 17 (CRA) by the 17th Legislature, examined the functions of state, federal, and local governments and made recommendations as to the appropriate roles and relationships of the different levels of government with respect to several governmental functions. The Task Force was composed of House and Senate members, representatives of the executive branch, representatives from the Municipal League, and a representative from the unorganized borough. In their final report the Task Force made the following recommendation: "...To encourage and facilitate the implementation of police protection and to generate economies of scale, the Task Force advocates a change in Title 29 to permit assemblies of unified municipalities and home rule boroughs to establish service areas for police protection, notwithstanding charter provisions that place restrictions on the service area formation process. Authority to form service areas for police protection should also be given to general law boroughs. This would resolve the Hillside problem and prevent similar situations in other municipalities. ..." The Department feels that the approach recommended by the Task Force is better public policy, as it avoids several of the potential problems raised by HB 18.

The Department of Public Safety opposes the bill.

Troopers trim duty in Wasilla

Cutbacks force move

By PAMELA DOTO
Daily News reporter

Alaska State Troopers will stop patrolling Wasilla next month — a move that has some residents skittish about the city's vulnerability to crime.

Trooper administrators, who have been planning the move since January, say budget cutbacks will force them to direct their attention elsewhere. Besides, the town of 4,400 should have its own police force like neighboring Palmer, said trooper director Col. John Murphy.

"As far as we're concerned, it's time for Wasilla to start paying its own way," Murphy said.

Troopers now patrol the city limits and respond to routine calls, like thefts, car accidents and burglaries. They even arrest an average of 30 drunken drivers in the city each month.

But that will stop May 1. Troopers will still be able to arrest some drunken drivers while they're patrolling the highways, but not as many. And they won't respond to any more thefts, minor accidents and burglaries.

Wasilla residents can do the paperwork themselves and mail a report to troopers if they want them to investigate, troopers said.

If the situation is life-threatening or a major crime, however, troopers will still respond, Murphy said.

But, "It's our belief that they should have their own police department," he said.

Murphy said the cutbacks will be similar to how the troopers now handle the Hillside area, which they stopped patrolling early last winter.

There are only three troopers and one sergeant for each shift to patrol an area discussed raising on to $65 per

"The students are serious," he said. "It's time to roll up our sleeves and get to work."

Students have also lobbied legislators, regents and Gov. Wally Hickel for additional building maintenance funding.

Peninsula prison may see job cuts

The Associated Press

KENAI — The Department of Corrections says it could meet more than half its goal of $7.5 million in budget cuts by closing most of the Wildwood medium-security prison.

The move would eliminate 60 area jobs.

Frank Prewitt, deputy commissioner of the Department of Corrections, said the prison would operate with 50 or fewer inmates while renovations were made to enlarge the institution for eventual reopening later.

Wildwood Correctional Center houses about 200 prisoners.

Although about 150 corrections jobs are headed for layoffs statewide, the Ke-na's Wildwood prison will be hardest hit, Prewitt said.

Ken Brown, Wildwood superintendent, said workers found out Wednesday they may be out of a job.

"They're demoralized and angry," Brown said. "They feel as though it's politics, and politics is an unseemly business."

Prewitt said Wildwood workers with seniority might move to other state prisons if they want to relocate. Some of the staff cuts may be accomplished through an early retirement program, he added.

The proposal has upset local politicians who say it's a state Senate attempt to keep jails open in the Matanuska and Susitna valleys and Anchorage.

Wildwood expansion would use prison labor. The project is part of a five- to 10-year plan being pursued separate from the budget-cutting exercise.

"In the short haul, it is a tough hit for the Kenai community," Prewitt said.

Wildwood Pre-Trial Facility, which employs 40 people and houses offenders before they are sentenced, would remain open during prison renovations.

Sentenced inmates serving time at the medium-security prison would be housed elsewhere in the state.

Prewitt said space would open up perhaps as soon as July when minimum-security prisoners are released to halfway houses, electronic monitoring programs or other community programs.

"We're getting to the point where we're about settled on this plan," Prewitt said.

their efforts in areas that cannot support a police force, like Big Lake. That community has had a spree of burglaries and other crimes.

"We haven't been able to give it enough attention," Trooper Capt. Pat Kasnick said.

Wasilla residents have twice voted down a proposal to establish their own police force.

But Mayor John Stein said support for a police department is growing because Wasilla is maturing into a family-oriented community.

"Residents are beginning to feel a little insecure," Stein said.

Still, Stein said not everyone wants Wasilla to have its own police, and the support he's seen so far isn't enough to get a proposal on the table.

Some residents have a frontier attitude toward public safety, he said.

"There are a lot of people that arm themselves and their homes," he said.

A police force would cost the city anywhere from $500,000 to $900,000 a year and would double residents' property tax rate, Stein said.

The city's business community — made up of about 700 stores and shops — is receptive to having their own police protection. Many merchants, however, can't even vote on the issue because they don't live in Wasilla, said Cheryl Riggs, vice president of the city's chamber of commerce.

"I think the city of Wasilla is pretty volatile," Riggs said. "It doesn't have the protection it really needs for a first-class city."

Murphy said there may be a lot of changes statewide in the areas troopers will actively patrol because of the budget cuts. And if residents don't like it, they should let state lawmakers know, he said.

"The citizens of this state have to make a decision on what's important to them," Murphy said. "We're going to do what we can with what we have."

The bill would require initial expenditures to adopt the implementing regulations. Thereafter, the management of the grant program would require on-going coordination and outreach to numerous municipal entities. See page 2 for details.

NOTE: This fiscal note assumes the per vehicle charge will be $2 per vehicle, and that a total of 445,000 or more vehicles will be subject to the annual fee. Based on this assumption, the program will generate approximately $890,000, of which we propose allocating approximately 5% to grant administration and oversight. If the fee were increased to $5 per vehicle, the administrative cost could be reduced to about 3%.

The funding requested in FY 1994 is lower based upon the mid-year effective date. As the program got underway, the staff time would be used administer the grant, including soliciting then reviewing applications, discussing issues with municipal officials, and allocating grants on periodic basis during the fiscal year. We would envision two grant cycles per year, one allocated in late winter to allow municipalities to marshal their resources for a spring removal effort, and a second grant cycle in early summer, for additional efforts in later summer and early fall.

In the interest of the public we believe some nominal level of auditing in the field would be beneficial as this program would be allocating over $2.5 million per year. Our first level of reviews would involve asking maintenance superintendents how the cleanup was going in a given community. If their observations don't confirm what the grantee is indicating, we would follow-up with a field visit and/or audit of the grantee's records. The need for periodic audits and or legal involvement from the Dept. of Law is the basis for the continuing level of contractual services.

In some areas of the state, it may be beneficial if the program coordinator created a multi-jurisdiction contract with a crusher/hauler which they could utilize under a term contract arrangement. This would be particularly beneficial in coastal communities and river communities of the state, but would have statewide applicability. Such an approach would provide economy-of-scale benefits, thereby increasing the effectiveness of the overall program.

No new positions are requested to administer this program. An existing PCN, which has historically administered the federal-aid vehicle clean-up program, would be used to manage the program.
