Because the extended period of probation would be unsupervised, no fiscal impact is expected.

BILL NO. 527

ANALYSIS CONTINUATION:

This bill amends AS 12.55.090(c) to provide that the maximum period of probation that may be imposed when a defendant is convicted of the felony sex offenses or sexual assault and sexual abuse of a minor is extended from the current maximum period of five years to a maximum period of ten years. This is a post-conviction sentencing provision, and it will therefore not have a fiscal impact on the Department of Law.

GOVERNOR

HB 527

STATE OF ALASKA
OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR
JUNEAU

March 9, 1994

The Honorable Ramona L. Barnes
Speaker of the House
Alaska State Legislature
State Capitol
Juneau, AK 99801-1182

Dear Speaker Barnes:

Under the authority of a.i. III, sec. 18, of the Alaska Constitution, I am transmitting a bill extending the maximum period of probation that may be imposed when a defendant is convicted of a felony sex offense. Current law allows a maximum period of probation of only five years. This bill increases that time period to 10 years for the felony offenses of sexual assault and sexual abuse of a minor.

Among other benefits, this simple proposal will help protect Alaska's children and others from sexual assault or abuse because it will allow the courts to impose a longer period of probation for these defendants. If the defendant completes the first five years of probation without violating the terms set by the court, the additional probationary period will be unsupervised. If, however, the defendant demonstrates an inability to comply with the court's conditions, the additional probationary period will be supervised.

We can't lock all these offenders up forever. But by simply extending the allowable period of probation to up to 10 years for these felony offenses, we can give the courts the tool they need to monitor these offenders longer in order to better protect the public, without the more expensive costs of full-time incarceration.

Proposals like this have been pending in the legislature during the past several years. It is generally supported by both prosecutors and defense lawyers, and should be acted upon this session.

I urge your favorable action on this bill.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Walter J. Hickel".

Walter J. Hickel
Governor
