Career Goals: I find myself most satisfied when I am given a share of a project which integrates research with application. I enjoy and am comfortable and effective as an educator and in interacting with the public. I enjoy the challenge of using research results and the needs and wishes of the public to devise ways in which humans can exist in the natural world with minimal impact on natural systems.

1972: BA Anthropology, University of Texas at Austin
1981: BS Zoology, University of Texas at Austin
1981-1985: 25 Graduate hours in Science Education, University of Texas, Austin
1991: MS Wildlife Biology, University of Alaska Fairbanks

Professional Experience

I. Laboratory Research

From 1980-1987 I was a Research Scientist in the University of Texas Zoology Department. As such I worked in two different labs (at different times) in the Zoology Department: a biochemical genetics lab and a neurophysiology lab. In each lab, in addition to research activities I managed the daily running of the laboratory (purchasing, job assignment, data analysis, and other administrative activities), supervised technicians and graduate students. Specific duties included: field collection, rearing and maintenance of insect specimens (in Texas and Belize); karyological and biochemical analysis of insects; histological and cytological techniques; fluorescent and light microscopy; starch and polyacrilamide electrophoresis; laboratory culture of research animals (Cochliomvia hominovorax, Solenopsis invicta, and fish in the gymnotid group); data collection; computer data management; darkroom work and publication preparation. The general research goals of the labs in which I worked were: characterization of breeding populations of insect pests and tuning of electroreception in mildly electric fish.

II. Field Research

From 1988-to the present I have investigated habitat selection and use by Common Loons (Gavia immer) and interactions between loons and Bonaparte's gulls in the Matanuska-Susitna Valley of South central Alaska. This work has included: supervision of field assistants; identification and measurement of habitat variables; behavioral, natural history and time budget observations; population estimates; capture and marking of birds; grant and report writing; data analysis; preparation of manuscripts for publication and presentation of papers at professional meetings.

During the Winter of 1982-83 I was part of a team making field collections of screw worms, Cochliomvia hominovorax, for the University of Texas Zoology Department. We collected larvae from infected range cattle and horses, reared them to eclosure and preserved them for further analysis. In addition to field collection and rearing I acted as interpreter for the project.

From 1969-1972 as a member of the University of Texas at Austin Anthropology Department I collected ethnographic data in Olintipeque, Guatemala on the present day use of the Maya calender by inhabitants of the highlands; dynamics of the market round system and the role of women in maintaining Maya culture.

During 1991 in Reconquista, Argentina and 1993 in Ecuador, Bolivia and Puerto Rico I was translator and facilitator for the personnel participating in NASA projects. In Argentina we were running a field site in Reconquista as part of a campaign to map field lines in the southern hemisphere and to collect data from Critical Ionization experiments. I worked with U.S. and Argentinean Air Force, embassy and Federal Aviation personnel to facilitate this work. In 1993 I facilitated the establishment of remote ground sites in Ecuador, Bolivia and Puerto Rico to collect magnetometer data simultaneous with airborne Intensified Camera data collection on cloud to ionosphere discharges.

III. Teaching

From 1994 to the present I have worked as a lecturer for the University of Alaska. I developed and teach a course entitled "Mammals of Alaska" for the Center for Distance Education and Independent Learning of the College of Rural Alaska, University of Alaska Fairbanks and I teach Introductory Biology (lectures and labs) for biology majors on the Fairbanks campus. In addition to teaching this entails class organization, development of labs and supervision of Teaching Assistants.

From 1989-1992 I was a Teaching Assistant and Laboratory Coordinator for the University of Alaska Fairbanks Biology and Wildlife Department for introductory biology (for biology majors and for non-majors), genetics and anatomy and physiology.

From 1975-1978 I held several positions at Northwest Trek Wildlife Park. Trek is a part of the Point Defiance Zoo of Tacoma, Washington. I was a Naturalist, the Docent Coordinator, Public Programs Director and Park Photographer. My duties included: program development for the public and school groups (on-site and off-site programs); park interpretation (on-site and off-site); behavioral and habitat use observations of park animals and design and production of slide-tape shows and printed educational materials. I organized the use of park space by other organizations and designed and constructed museum exhibits and park interpretive displays and trained and supervised a cadre of 25+ volunteers who helped in the daily interpretation activities of the park.

IV. Policy

I am currently a member of the Alaska Board of Game. I am one of 7 people appointed by the Governor to establish the regulations necessary to ensure the conservation of wildlife resources in Alaska. This position involves 40 to 50 days of meetings each year and entails working with federal and state officials and the public to review wildlife policy and biology in conjunction with public comment to amend and establish regulations and policy pertinent to wildlife conservation and use.

I am currently a member of the Research Committee for the Alaska Bird Observatory. It is our role to define and help direct the research goals of ABO. The primary research goals are to identify bird populations of concern in Alaska; identify factors leading to population declines; and to increase our understanding of the basic biology of Alaska's birds.

I was appointed to the Alaska Department of Fish and Game's Wolf Management Planning Team in November 1990. As a member of the Planning Team I was part of a citizen's group which, through a consensus process facilitated by Aspen Inc., wrote a report making recommendations to the Alaska Department of Fish and Game and The Alaska Board of Game on management goals and strategies for wolves in Alaska.

RE: Ann Ruggles re-appointment to the Board of Game

RECEIVED BY

Ann Ruggles record as a Board of Game member is clear. She has consistently been a decenting vote against hunting activities and proposals to increase depressed moose and caribou herd size by active management.

She has supported the elimination of hunting via closing areas, eliminating or reducing open seasons, restricting methods and means of taking and promoting bio-diversity which is keyed to removing human harvest from the equation of beneficial uses of the game resources.

Her philosophy is clearly illustrated by her own words on her resume. "My goal is to devise ways in which humans can exist in the natural world with minimal impact on the natural systems."

She is not qualified to serve as an objective policymaker in the management of game resources as required by the Constitution and laws of Alaska.

I strongly urge Ms. Ruggles NOT be confirmed by the Legislature.

House State Affairs Committee
Alaska State Legislature
Juneau, Alaska

Dear Representative James:

As indicated in the Committee hearing on 19 March, I wish to summarize my remarks in writing and provide you with additional information on my background, training, and views on wildlife issues so that my record is clear during the confirmation process.

I have a strong personal interest in hunting having grown up on a farm and experienced guns, traps, and fishing rods early in life. During the past forty years I have not missed a single year where I did not hunt something somewhere. I have hunted outside Alaska in places like Idaho and South Dakota in addition to Alaska. I hold a current 1996 resident hunting license in Alaska.

I am a professional wildlife biologist with about thirty years experience. I have graduate degrees in wildlife management from the University of Minnesota. I am a certified wildlife biologist, certified to have met certain educational and work experience requirements by the professional organization of wildlife biologists, an international group.

I came to Alaska in 1974 to work as a research biologist for the Alaska Department of Fish and Game. This work involved moose and wolf research in the Glennallen area. I lived in Fairbanks from 1977 to 1987 working for ADFG as a statewide furbearer biologist where I had many contacts with trappers in rural areas throughout the state. In 1980 I joined the research branch of the Forest Service to do research on moose, wolves, and predator/prey relationships.

In 1985 Governor Bill Sheffield appointed me to the Alaska Board of Game and I served 1985-1988. The board dealt with issues like subsistence where we made some of the first efforts to deal with rural/nonrural designations and assess customary and traditional use patterns. We dealt with wolf control where I voted for and the board passed a wolf control program in Unit 20B near Fairbanks that involved aerial shooting of wolves by ADFG personnel. We dealt with the land-and-shoot wolf hunting issue; at that time land-and-shoot was fraught with illegal activity and I believe that we curtailed that. We also dealt with many other issues involving hunting and trapping where we tried to balance various uses in a fair and equitable manner.

I feel that we have rich wildlife resources in Alaska adequate to provide for all who have a stake in wildlife management--hunters, guides, tourism interests, or people who just like to watch and experience the presence of wildlife. I look forward to working with the public and other board members to achieve this.

Regarding specific issues, bear-baiting, land-and-shoot wolf hunting, wolf control, and intensive management are in the forefront and I am happy to share my views on these important issues with you.

During my past term on the board we dealt with the bear-baiting regulations which, at that time, were very liberal. During the past ten years there have been major efforts to regulate baiting by requiring hunters to register stations, to clean up the site after the season, etc. My view is that the current regulations represent the end product of a lot of effort to regulate this practice and had I been on the board during its most recent action on baiting I would have voted with the majority to continue the practice.

Similarly, we also dealt with land-and-shoot wolf hunting, trying to improve the illegal activity that often accompanied it. Subsequently, the board voted to eliminate the practice, then re-authorized it, then allowed it only when the hunter moved some distance from the plane before shooting. I think the present regulation represents a compromise and has reduced illegal activity while allowing hunters to take wolves and I support it.

I also want to indicate that I have played no role in the ballot initiative on aerial hunting and take no position on it, preferring to remain neutral as the public votes on this issue.

Regarding wolf control, I feel it is sometimes necessary and desirable, but must be based on sound biological information, have a favorable cost benefit ratio, be broadly supported by the public, and be humanely conducted. If proposed programs meet those criteria, I will support them.

About ten years ago, a number of us involved in the wolf issue concluded that a zone approach to control was most workable. Certain areas would be zoned where human use of moose and caribou was dominant and predators would be kept at low levels. The citizens wolf planning team endorsed this concept and I was a strong supporter. To the extent that the intensive management legislation puts this concept into statute form, I support it. One area that I have a personal and professional interest in, Game Management Unit 13 (the Nelchina basin), has been identified as an intensive management area, and I will fully support measures in this area to provide hunter opportunity and large harvests.

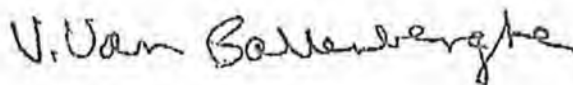

The issue of my federal employment was raised at the confirmation hearing and I want to address it. During my previous term, I had the same federal position as I have now, served out my term, and had no issues raised regarding conflict of interest. I am aware of no provisions in the state or federal ethics acts that prohibit me from serving. I will avoid the appearance of conflicts by abstaining from issues that appear to raise questions, e.g. certain regulations pertaining to the Tongass or Chugach National Forests. I will attend board meetings while on leave from my work duties. My work for the Forest Service is entirely research and has no policy or management ties. I strongly support the concept that the state should have exclusive management authority for resident wildlife. All of these facts taken together should demonstrate that I am able to serve on the board with no conflict of interest as a resident of the state, and as a private citizen well qualified to serve.

I believe that I bring important experience and background qualifications to the board and I am willing to make whatever personal and professional commitments are necessary to serve as a productive board member. Much of the board's work has a biological basis. As a biologist of long experience, especially with moose and wolves, I will help the board evaluate the biological issues. I am especially interested in working toward broad public participation in the board process, hearing all sides of the issues, and balancing the various uses to accommodate all in a fair and equitable manner. I believe this can be done and am excited to participate.

Thank you for the opportunity to provide this information to the committee. If you require more as the confirmation process proceeds, or if you wish me to clarify my views, please contact me.

Sincerely,

V. Van Ballenberghe

Tony Knowles, Governor
State of Alaska
P.O. Box 110001
Juneau, AK 99811

Dear Governor Knowles:

The Alaska Trappers Association asks, that in the interest of fairness and balance, you withdraw the names of Anne Ruggles and Vic Van Ballenberghe as appointments to the Board of Game.

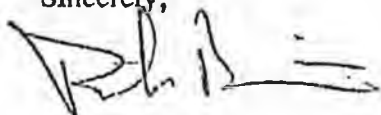

Ms. Ruggles has consistently voted against reasonable proposals that enhance opportunities for consumptive uses of our wildlife and for radical ones suggested by the fringe element of animal rights groups. Ruggles, by her voting record, seems to lack a respect for the values of those wildlife enthusiasts whose uses differ from hers. That is not the type of approach that lends itself to reaching consensus about important wildlife issues.

Mr. Van Ballenberghe's previous record with the Board of Game shows that he cannot be at all objective about issues concerning predator control. If we are ever to solve such thorny problems as subsistence, we will have to start managing game instead of just letting nature run its course. This will in some instances include the temporary reduction of predators such as wolves. Mr. Van Ballenberghe is quick to parrot the Administration's policy on this issue; it is obvious that he cannot be objective.

Governor, as trappers, we are the first ones to suffer from the immediate effects of wolf control work. But we live and work in the wild parts of Alaska and we have an intimate feel for the land and its wildlife. We have seen, time and again, that properly managed wildlife can be "used" and shared by a variety of users with a variety of values. Most of us use wild meat on our tables and know it is important to many Alaskans.

Only by appointing objective people, with respect for other users' values for wildlife, can the Board of Game function as anything but a manipulative political arm of the Governor. Please withdraw these two nominees from consideration.

Sincerely,

Pete Buist, President

Tony Knowles, Governor
State of Alaska
P. O. Box 110001
Juneau, Alaska 99811

Dear Governor Knowles:

As you know, the Alaska Wildlife Conservation Association stands for, and is committed to, a return of abundance of all wildlife in Alaska. This goal can only be achieved by active management and not passive monitoring of our decreasing wildlife populations.

The Alaska Wildlife Conservation Association respectfully requests that you withdraw the names of Anne Ruggles and Vic Van Ballenberghe as appointments to the Board of Game. Ms. Ruggles has only been an Alaskan resident for a relatively few years. She also has a voting record that reflects her as being aligned with animal rights extremists. Her voting record does not support any consumptive uses or opportunities of Alaska's wildlife as mandated in Alaska's constitution.

Similarly, Mr. Van Ballenberghe's previous voting record with the Board of Game is indicative of his nonsupport for sound game management principles. Mr. Van Ballenberghe's professional credentials and personal philosophy mirrors the federal government's non management wildlife policies. The Alaska Board of Game needs persons who will accept the constitutional responsibility to manage wildlife resource for sustained yield. Under the federal government's watchful eye, Denali National Park in the last seventy five years has let wildlife herds decline precipitously to the point where tourists can now only see very few animals which are mostly predators. The federal government's choice to only monitor and perpetuate a predator pit status quo is not an acceptable philosophy for management of wildlife on state lands in Alaska. Mr. Van Ballenberghe's nomination is not acceptable for this reason.

Alaska Wildlife Conservation Association suggests that the nominations of knowledgeable and respected wildlife biologists, Bud Burris, a long standing member of the Fairbanks Advisory Committee to the Alaska Boards of Fish & Game, and Pete Shepard, another longtime and well respected biologist, would be warmly received by the legislature and/or all of Alaska's user groups who have an interest in Alaska's wildlife resources.

Dear Chairman,

This is a letter of support for the nomination of Dr. Vic Van Ballenberghe to the State Board of Game. Dr. Van Ballenberghe's expertise, experience, and perspective make him an excellent addition to the Board. We heartily recommend your committee endorse Vic during his confirmation.

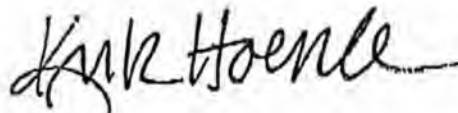

Scientific understanding and perspective is needed on the Board of Game as it tackles difficult management choices and waning public approval. Dr. Van Ballenberghe's research and background in predator/prey relations make him particularly well-suited to the position. The Board will benefit having such a knowledgeable and credible voice.

Vic's experience in the field and with the public give him a unique and pertinent standing from which to weigh and relate management options. His work across the state of Alaska with various agencies and groups makes him a valuable entity in addressing wildlife issues central to Alaskans. His prior experience on the Game Board provides great awareness of the policy building process, helping expedite critical wildlife decisions facing the state.

Having been in the business of inviting visitors to learn about and observe Alaska's wildlife for 20 years, we feel the Board of Game has been less than sensitive, in recent years, of non-consumptive wildlife users. Only recently has this state's large and growing tourism industry been recognized by wildlife managers as a perspective valuable in helping determine wildlife management for Alaska. We support Dr. Van Ballenberghe as an individual responsive to a more diverse range of wildlife users in this state.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Kirk Hoessle
President

Dr. Victor Van Ballenberghe

PERSONAL VITAE

I have lived in Alaska for over 30 years, having moved to Juneau in 1960 to work for the U. S. Forest Service. I retired from the Forest Service in 1993 with 37 years as a Research Forester. I have been an avid hunter and outdoor sportsman all my life. For most of my life here in Alaska, there has been game and/or fish in my locker, and over the years, I have enjoyed dining on moose, sheep, goat, caribou, deer, ptarmigan, grouse, duck and geese that I have taken. I enjoy having trophies of those hunts, including a recent Boone & Crockett Barren Ground Caribou, listed in the latest book. So, I very much have the interest of the Alaska sportsman at heart.

In my professional work, I was in charge of the U. S. Forest Inventory and Monitoring program for Alaska from 1980-1992, and I worked in that effort previously from 1960-1975. Some of that involved inventory of wildlife habitat, and I have personally published papers for the Forest Service on wildlife habitat studies our Project conducted in southeast and in the interior for the Forest Service.

SUPPORT FOR DR. VanBALLEMBERGHE

I have only known Dr. VanBallenberghe since the mid-1980s when he moved to join the Anchorage Forestry Sciences Laboratory in conjunction with his moose studies at Denali and in the Copper River Basin. However, I was aware of his work prior to that time. His reputation as an excellent research biologist in Fairbanks preceded him. Given the opportunity to become better acquainted with his research and him on a personal basis, I am very impressed with his professionalism, his ability to discern correctly the needs and critical interactions of the natural resources and to select appropriate courses of management action from a multitude of alternatives.

Although, I am admittedly not a wildlife biologist, I have had considerable exposure to wildlife management concepts both academically and in direct relation to my prior position as a research forester. I am a dues paying member of the Wildlife Society and the Society of American Foresters. In my discussions with Dr. VanBallenberghe, I have found his positions on various aspects of moose and predator management to be totally in sync with what I value and with what I understand to be in the best interest of the resource and in tune to with the interest of the public that the resources are provided for.

In my opinion, the State of Alaska, and it's people would be well served to have Dr. VanBallenberghe's expertise and good judgement in residence as a part of the Alaska State Board of Game. I sincerely urge this Committee to look favorable on Dr. VanBallenberghe's appointment to the State Board of Game.

I would be most happy to answer any questions of the Committee.

Sincerely,

It is my belief that neither Anne Ruggles or Vic Van Ballenberghe should be appointed to the Board of Game.

Ms Ruggles seems more interested in dictating her own sense of morality than in sound game management principles. After hearing her testimony, I announced she would pursue an anti hunting agenda.

Mr. Van Ballenberghe seems more interested in the opinions and threatened boycotts of non residents than he does in the interests of residents. It is also my belief that no federal employee such as Mr. Van Ballenberghe should serve on the Board of Game because of obvious conflict of interests reasons. Thank you for your consideration.

of oppose Ann Ruggles re appointment to the Fish & Game board on several points:

#1 - Ms. Ruggles voted against hunting Black Bear over bait because it unfairly takes advantage of a bear's appetite. By this logic, we may lose our ability to fish using bait or lure. By this same logic, we may also lose most hunting opportunities, because a method may use a "low call" to a ~~bull~~ moose, deer or other game animal, unfairly taking advantage of another bear instinct.

#2. Ms. Ruggles has a strong opposition to intensive game management and with a growing problem with allocation, she is an extremely poor choice for hunters.

Mr. Van Belleberg has voiced continuous opposition to wolf control in times of low or depressed wildlife populations.

With continued wildlife game allocation, habitat destruction are given fewer and fewer hunting opportunities, and wolf control is often called for - yet opposed by many on the Game Board. This includes Mr. Van Belleberg.

I also oppose this appointment because Mr. Van Belleberg is employed by the Forest Service - Alaska agency outside jurisdiction had continuous opposition to many wildlife issues.

I am against the appointment of Vic Van Billenburgh because #1 he is opposed to hunting. This based on his record on how he voted when he was on the A.C.B. 1986 on whether resident of mile 216 - 309 Parks highway were ~~and~~ rural or no rural there for we lost our hunting rights to lands related the Denali National Park.

#2 I cannot understand how a person working for the Federal government could vote on state issues with all the problems between the State & Federal hunting regulation

RE: Board of Game appointees

MESSAGE:

I strenuously object to the appointments of Ann Ruggles and Victor VanBallenberge to the State Board of Game. A review of their past actions on the board of game strongly suggests to me that both are ideologically aligned with the biocentrist philosophy. This view holds that human beings are no more important than other living things and that the best way to preserve nature is to leave it alone. Consequently both appointees are not committed to objective review and action on biologically sound proposals involving consumptive human use or intensive management of wildlife populations. This attitude is not compatible with the principle of sustained yield and consumptive use of renewable resources. I recommend you not confirm the above appointees.

Thank You,

Peter Shepherd

I as a 36 yr. Resident of Alaska am against The Appoint to The Fish & Game Board of Vick Van Balleghie and Ann Ruggles to This Board.

These people in the past has showed Their colors when it comes to management of Fish & Game in Alaska.
I fear They will not represent ~~me~~
me & other Alaskans who hunt, fish &

Please inform other

I strongly oppose the appointment of Ann Ruggles and Vic Van Vollenberg to the game board. With their pro-environmentalist stands, I feel their presence on the board would be detrimental to sustained-yield wildlife management in Alaska. I also strongly support SB-77 - Intensive Sustained Yield game management. Thank you.

committee on BOARD OF GAME CONFIRMATIONS, dated 3-19-96
bill/ exhibit

OK

The Delta Junction Fish and Game Advisory Committee opposes the confirmation of VIC VAN BALLEMBERG to the State of Alaska Game Board. With the removal of Sue Entsminger of Tok from the Game Board, Governor Knowles has left the Eastern Interior and rural Alaska with diminished representation. Sue Entsminger was the only State Game Board member to actually send questionnaires Statewide to poll ~~various~~ committees about State game issues. Sue recognized the importance of local knowledge and experience!

<sup>NO US</sup> It appears that Governor Knowles wishes to appoint a 'global' urban biologist who is more interested in being politically correct than biologically sound. We doubt that he recognizes the importance of understanding that we have ecosystems within each of our game management areas, and that each must be dealt with individually. Intensive Management actually is the maintaining of all species, predator and prey alike, and of their environments, in each given area to provide an optimum growth rate, which should automatically provide for optimum harvest, as well as optimum viewing for Alaska residents.

We believe that local game advisory committees know and understand the game and predator populations of their local area better than State Game Board members and biologists who are unfamiliar with local areas. The Alaska Board of Game needs representation from all areas of the State, including our area, and members who are sensitive to what advisory committees have to say.

Please do not disenfranchise us!

Dear Representative James:

This letter regards recent appointments to the State of Alaska Game Board.

We oppose Ann Ruggles' appointment to the Game Board. She was the only member of the Board to recently vote For banning bear baiting. This followed person after person testifying in support of Bear Baiting. Instead of voting for the strong majority of people who testified, she stated she thought it was unethical to bait for bears and voted her personal conviction, not the conviction of the majority voice. She has a record of rarely, if ever, voting yes on motorized issues, and this again was done regardless of the testimony. This, again, demonstrates that she votes her personal opinion instead of listening and then voting in favor of what she hears. Two very strong and important words — listening and hearing! Ann Ruggles has demonstrated she doesn't do either one very well. Please do not approve her nomination and instead give the people someone who will listen to the public, hear what they say, and then vote accordingly.

We also oppose Mr. Van Ballenberg's appointment

Page: Two (2) March 20, 1996
Representative James From Burkhart

to the Game Board. He is against any type of predator control and has demonstrated he is very closed minded on the issue. We cannot understand how game can be properly managed without predator control. This gentleman has also stated that he will support or not support a particular issue and then will completely change his position whenever it appears a "politically correct" issue. An issue over ground base trapping demonstrated this. This man is a Federal Wildlife Biologist. We don't need any Federal influence on our State Board and our State Staff has more than adequate biologist representation. He also has previously been a Board member. Surely there are enough qualified people in this great state of ours that we can have new blood on these Boards! Please consider this appointment and give us someone fresh and open-minded on the issues.

Thank you for your time and consideration you give this request.

Yours truly,

I adamantly object to the appointment of Anne Ruggles to the Sate Game Board. Her anti-hunting position will continually harm the current make-up of the board. I personally do not see where a balance can be agreed upon in the rules and regulations with anti-hunting opinions so prominent on the board.

I came to Alaska twenty years ago with the concept of having freedom to enjoy the wondrous outdoors this state has to offer. Conservation, hunting and fishing are parts of this freedom that go hand in hand with accountability to future generations. Now that I have children, I have been able to pass along the same fondness and rights to them. I have taught them the importance and have given them an understanding about the balance of nature and the role man has in harvesting game as a healthy and proper management tool.

This balance will be greatly disrupted with the addition of Ms. Ruggles to the Board. I also feel strongly that her anti-hunting cynicism will and has had a drastic effect on the rules and regulations responsible hunters and conservationists abide by.

It scares me to think what the future of hunting in this great state will have in store with the inclusion of Ms. Ruggles to the board. I see my rights as a hunter and the freedom to provide for my family being taken away little by little. The right of passage to my children of a tradition I hold dear will be uprooted if I remain quiet. With this in mind, I must sound out loudly in protest and hope that you as the lawmakers hear me and my children.

Thank you for listening.

Respectfully,

Robert E. Brown

RE: Board of Game appointees

MESSAGE:

I strenuously object to the appointments of Ann Ruggles and Victor VanBallenberge to the State Board of Game. A review of their past actions on the board of game strongly suggests to me that both are ideologically aligned with the biocentrist philosophy. This view holds that human beings are no more important than other living things and that the best way to preserve nature is to leave it alone. Consequently both appointees are not committed to objective review and action on biologically sound proposals involving consumptive human use or intensive management of wildlife populations. This attitude is not compatible with the principle of sustained yield and consumptive use of renewable resources. I recommend you not confirm the above appointees.

Thank You,

Peter Shepherd
