Sponsor Statement HCR 11 – Proclaiming July 24, 2005, as parent’s day

In 1994 the United States Congress passed a law declaring every fourth Sunday in July as National Parents’ Day. This resolution recognizes parent’s day this year and encourages Alaskans to honor the holiday with remembrance and celebration.

Every day through current events, we see more clearly the importance of inculcating values into the next generation of Americans, a responsibility borne mostly by parents. As a society, we can only do well by encouraging respect and admiration for the role of parents. Governmental institutions ought to consid parents as a supreme resource.

From advertisements, we know parents are the “anti-drug.” From best selling books, like “Family First” by Dr. Phil McGraw, we know parents are the powerful impetus for to building phenomenal families. From teachers in our schools, we know parents are ever valuable in preparing their children both physically and psychologically for the classroom.

It is befitting that with this Resolution we recognize the role of parents on wider on wider levels Besides the nitty-gritty of taking care of children at home, parents in general sustain family life. They stimulate community activity. They stabilize social values. And they steer national pride. Parents are valued the world over.

This Resolution underscores for all Alaskans this vital, and increasingly visible, role parents play in developing the next generation of leaders.

This Resolution officially recognizes this national holiday on a state level and allows Alaskans to celebrate Parent’s Day with dignity and pride.

Parents' Day, 2003

For Immediate Release
Office of the Press Secretary
July 25, 2003

Parents' Day, 2003
By the President of the United States of America
A Proclamation

Children are a daily reminder of the blessings and responsibilities of life and a source of joy, pride, and fulfillment. Parents, stepparents, adoptive parents, and foster parents have the important responsibility of providing for, protecting, nurturing, teaching, and loving their children. On Parents' Day, we honor America's mothers and fathers and celebrate the values that bind families from one generation to the next and help define us as a Nation.

As a child's first teachers, parents are the most influential and effective instructors in a child's life. Through their words, actions, and sacrifices, parents are living examples for children. Young boys and girls watch their parents closely and imitate their behavior. Parents play a critical role in instilling responsibility, integrity, and other life lessons that shape the lives of America's future leaders.

My Administration is committed to supporting our Nation's families. We are working with faith-based and community organizations to promote healthy marriages, responsible parenting, and education. And we are committed to fully funding and supporting the Promoting Safe and Stable Families Program, which helps strengthen family bonds, promote adoption, and provide help for vulnerable children across our country.

Volunteer service is one way parents can spend time with their children while encouraging them to learn the value of helping others. The USA Freedom Corps' "How I Spent My Summer" initiative includes volunteer opportunities where parents and children can work together to meet the needs of their communities. This initiative offers ideas such as collecting food for local food banks or school supplies for children in need. In addition, families can volunteer at one of our Nation's parks or recreation areas creating trails, assisting with archeological digs, or building and restoring houses. Teaching by example, parents can help their children become responsible citizens.

Parenting is one of the most rewarding and challenging endeavors in life. On this special day, we recognize the hard work and compassion of America's parents and celebrate the mothers and fathers who are positive role models for their children. I encourage parents to spend more time reading, talking, and volunteering with their children. I also urge parents to share the joys and wisdom of parenthood with new families in their communities and those planning families for the future.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, GEORGE W. BUSH, President of the United States of America, by virtue of the authority vested in me by the Constitution and laws of the United States and consistent with Public Law 103-362, as amended, do hereby proclaim Sunday, July 27, 2003, as Parents' Day. I encourage all Americans to express their respect and appreciation to parents everywhere for their contributions to their children, families, communities, and our Nation. I also call upon citizens to observe this day with appropriate programs, ceremonies, and activities.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this twenty-fifth day of July, in the year of our Lord two thousand three, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and twenty-eighth.

GEORGE W. BUSH

WHEREAS, in 1994, the Congress of the United States proclaimed that the fourth Sunday in July of every year is to be celebrated as "Parents' Day," and

WHEREAS, parents are best positioned to influence the growth and development of their children from the moment of their birth through their adolescent years to know right from wrong; to have the values necessary to be impelled to choose right instead of wrong; to be selfless enough to be aware of and have compassionate concern for other people; to always try to make their best efforts to accomplish the things they undertake to do without attempting to diminish anyone else; to readily and honestly acknowledge their mistakes with genuine humility; and to continually try to fully develop their God-given talents, completely realize their potential capabilities, and become all they can and should be for others and themselves, and

WHEREAS, the observance of Parents' Day is intended to serve as a reminder of the indispensable importance of successful marriages, wholesome lifestyles, and responsible parenting to ensure sound development of the young people who will be leading the world into the future, NOW, THEREFORE,
