ANALYSIS: (Attach a separate page if necessary)

This bill creates a new section in AS 11.61 bifurcating the crime of harassment to harassment in the first and second degrees. This allows for an increase in penalties for a person who would throw human or animal bodily fluids - such as feces, urine, semen, spit, blood - at law enforcement and correctional officers, firefighters, and emergency responders.

Passage of this legislation will have no fiscal impact on the Department of Public Safety. Even though there is a potential increase in the number of arrests for violations, the increase can be absorbed by the current assets of the department.

SPONSOR STATEMENT HB 343

"An Act relating to harassment."

By Representative Bob Lynn

Assaulting any person with dangerous bodily fluids – such as feces, urine, semen, saliva or blood – is beyond disgusting, and is an assault that raises the specter of infectious disease, and should clearly be a more egregious crime than mere harassment. Obviously, correctional officers, law enforcement, and first responders are at greatest risk.

Currently, most assaults with bodily fluids can be charged or treated as a class B misdemeanor. The potential penalty for such an outrageous attack is no different than that imposed for shoplifting lip gloss, or writing a bad check for $25.

HB343 creates the crime of harassment in the first degree for anyone who subjects another person to offensive physical contact with human or animal bodily fluids, and classifies that crime as a class A misdemeanor. The bill also redesignates the existing crime of harassment as harassment in the second degree.

HB343 also provides a minimum term of imprisonment of 60 days for persons convicted of harassment in the first degree when they direct the offense at certain specified law enforcement officers and emergency responders.

Inmate assault by bodily fluids is being increasingly recognized across the nation. Twenty-six states have now enacted laws to help address the problem. In fact, 19 states classify these assaults as a felony. If, in the committee process, a practical means of increasing the crime beyond a class A misdemeanor can be determined, I would support an appropriate amendment to make it possible.

In summary, HB343 is aimed at better protecting everyone, but especially the protectors and responders on the front line of public safety in Alaska. Your favorable consideration of this bill is respectfully requested.

Public Safety Employees Association, Inc.

HB 343 Position Paper

The members of the Public Safety Employees Association whole heartedly support the passage of House Bill 343. No one should be subjected to the dangers of having body fluids and / or excrement thrown at while performing their job. Any attempt to increase the penalty for this type of behavior is over due.

Alaska's Police Officers as well as other first responders are subject to this type of disgusting behavior on a regular basis. This type of assault is not just disgusting it is potentially life threatening. All too often the perpetrator of this type of behavior leads a life style which places them in a high risk category for AIDS / HIV. The effects of having bodily fluids thrown in one face may not be know for years, leaving one in doubt of ones health for decades.

The Public Safety Employees Association represents Alaska State Troopers and Court Service Officers, Municipal Police Officers, Airport Police and Fire Officers as well many other ancillary personnel across the State. Our members have to deal with this type of offender from the moment of arrest to the day that they are incarcerated. The risk that our members take from this type of behavior is a daily occurrence.

The members of the Public Safety Employees Association would like to thank the sponsor of this bill as well as the members of the house for their support. Any increase in the penalty for this abusive behavior will help protect our members while they protect the public.

Alaska Correctional Officers want protection from bodily fluid assaults

Prepared by: Alaska Correctional Officers Association
January 18, 2006

No one should have to go to work expecting to get spit in the face or have excrement thrown at them. It is degrading and dangerous, and coupled with insufficient legal recourse, it can demoralize even the most professional and best trained Correctional Officer. Too often inmate assault by bodily fluids is considered "just part of the job."

Alaska's Correctional Officers, along with other Peace Officers, Fire Fighters, Youth Counselors, Emergency Medical Technicians, Paramedics, Ambulance Attendants and other emergency responders, deserve a greater level of protection against this offensive behavior. We need support from legislators who can create tougher laws to protect the front-line officers and responders who help ensure the public safety of Alaskans.

At the Fairbanks Correctional Center, just one of 12 institutions statewide, there have been several employees assaulted with bodily fluids in the past several months. Inmates have spit in the face of officers, tried to smear them with feces and in one case sprayed a female employee with a mixture of semen, urine and saliva. During these assaults, the attackers have laughed in our faces, challenged us to respond, and claimed to have serious infectious diseases. The physical attack is tough enough but the mental anguish is even harder to endure.

With the growing threat of infectious diseases -- no matter how unlikely the odds of transmission -- there's always the fear of catching a lethal virus and spreading it to family, friends and co-workers. We view these bodily fluid attacks as not only vile but potentially life-threatening. So it can be tremendously demoralizing when a busy district attorney considers it a low priority, and may not even file charges, because most of these cases can only be prosecuted as a Class B misdemeanor under current statutes.

Tougher laws with stiffer sentences will have a deterrent effect because most of these assaults are committed by younger prisoners doing short terms and know they will be released soon. The long-term prisoners usually follow institutional rules. They consider the facility their home so they obey and respect officers because they want little disruption in their lives.

Correctional Officers are trained to deal professionally with such disgusting and demeaning behavior. However, we need our leaders to protect us from the threat and danger of assault by bodily fluids. We are asking that you join the growing trend across the country to create tougher laws, and consider the example of many States that now classify inmate assault by bodily fluids a felony offense. Please help deter such dangerous and offensive behavior that should not be considered "just part of the job."

Interview with Daniel Colang, Board President Alaska Correctional Officers Association

Below is a transcript of an interview by Michael Sica, legislative aide for Rep. Bob Lynn, with ACOA President Daniel Colang, who is also a Sergeant, and Shift Supervisor at the Fairbanks Correctional Center

QUESTION: When an inmate spits in your face or throws bodily fluids on you, isn't that just part of the job?

COLANG: We've been trained to deal professionally with such disgusting and offensive behavior. However, it's degrading, demeaning and dangerous, and it has a very negative effect on our officers. It's a growing problem that needs to be recognized. When someone is assaulted with bodily fluids, and there is little legal follow-up, it can really kill morale.

QUESTION: Do you think this problem can affect the recruiting and retaining of correctional officers?

COLANG: Yes. Who takes a job expecting to get spit on or have bodily fluids thrown at them. The work we do is tough enough. Having excrement thrown in your face shouldn't be part of anyone's job description. Sure, it can affect whether good people want to work here or stay here.

QUESTION: How will a measure such as HB 343, which increases the crime of harassment by bodily fluids from a class B misdemeanor to a class A misdemeanor, make a difference with long-term inmates, who could care less about such charges?

COLANG: The issue of assault by bodily fluids has not been a problem with the long-term inmates. That's a myth. The lifers give us the least problem. The prison is their home so the less trouble for us, the better their life will be. The biggest problem is the young kids, new to the system, who are in for the short term. They want to make a quick name for themselves before they get back out on the streets. Any penalty, and the stiffer the better, will have a deterrent effect on them.

QUESTION: This bill also covers animal fluids. When is that an issue?

COLANG: Probably at the Point McKenzie Correctional Farm.

P.O. Box 210290 • Anchorage, Alaska 99521
Phone: 1 (907) 646-2262 • Fax: 1 (907) 646-2286
Website: www.acoa.us

QUESTION: What about busy District Attorneys who consider a misdemeanor a low priority? Are you concerned they may not have time to prosecute some bodily fluids assault cases?

COLANG: We recently had a DA prosecute a case right here in Fairbanks. A hostile detainee spit right in the face of one of my officers on a Thursday, the offender was arraigned, pleaded no contest and sentenced to 10 days on Friday. It was a small measure of justice. I think this new bill (HB 343) is another step in the right direction to get the protection and justice we deserve.

QUESTION: Can this bill adversely affect the ability of a correctional facility to deal with its problems in-house?

COLANG: The current law doesn't, so I don't see how HB 343 would. In fact, being a tougher crime with a stiffer sentence will give the facility a stronger tool to protect us all. Meanwhile, the facility managers can still use whatever in-house methods they feel are necessary.

QUESTION: Some people believe bodily fluid attacks are rare or non-existent within correctional centers?

COLANG: It happens much more than you think; you just don't hear about it outside the prison system. It's an area where we could certainly use more P.R. At the Fairbanks Center, at least three of my co-workers have been recently assaulted by inmates with bodily fluids. And we're just one of 14 facilities statewide. Even if it's just once or twice a month, that's once or twice too much. It is so demeaning. I'd rather be punched in my face than to be spit on.

QUESTION: Do you consider mentally ill inmates responsible for these type of attacks?

COLANG: With them, it's playing with feces and it can be spread. But it's the ones who know better that I'm talking about, the sane but irresponsible ones who should be punished. The majority of the time it's done to degrade and intimidate, and put officers in fear or danger, and it's done by people who know exactly what they're doing.

QUESTION: So, do you believe stronger measures such as HB 343 can help?

COLANG: Absolutely! If we can get something better on the books, it would be a big morale booster. And you'd be surprised how fast this will spread throughout the prison. The word will get out quickly if someone gets tagged with extra time. It will definitely be a deterrent.

LEGISLATIVE RESEARCH REPORT

MAY 26, 2005

REPORT NUMBER 05.273

CRIMINAL STATUTES REGARDING PRISONER ASSAULT WITH BODILY FLUIDS

PREPARED FOR REPRESENTATIVE BOB LYNN

BY ROGER WITHINGTON, LEGISLATIVE ANALYST

You wished to know how many states expressly make it a crime for prison inmates to assault law enforcement or correctional facilities staff with bodily fluids. You also wanted to know how each state classifies the crime.

We identified 26 states that expressly make it a crime for prison inmates to assault law enforcement or correctional facilities staff with bodily fluids.<sup>1</sup> Of these 26 states, 19 have a specific statute that makes it a crime for prison inmates to assault law enforcement or correctional facilities staff with bodily fluids, while the remaining seven states make it a crime in a subsection of a statute that defines the crime of assault, or in a subsection of a statute that defines all assaults that inmates can perpetrate against law enforcement or correctional facilities staff. Of the 22 states that classified this crime, 19 classify it as a felony. The states that classify such assault as a felony offense are Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Missouri, Nevada, New York, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, and Texas.

The statutory language that criminalizes assault with bodily fluids is somewhat similar from state to state. As example, the Arizona law states the following

A prisoner commits prisoner assault with bodily fluids if the prisoner throws or projects any bodily fluid at or onto a correctional facility employee or private prison security officer who the prisoner knows or reasonably should know is an employee of a correctional facility or is a private prison security officer. For the purposes of this section, "bodily fluids" means saliva, blood, seminal fluid, urine or feces.

<sup>1</sup> We could not locate a current 50-state compilation of laws concerning assaults by prisoners with bodily fluids. We constructed our list of applicable laws by searching the electronic statutes of selected states, and the database of state statutes available from the Lexis Group (<http://www.lexis.com/research>). Some statutes may have fallen outside of our search criteria, and as a result, will not appear on our list.

The Texas law states

A person commits an offense if the person, while imprisoned or confined in a correctional or detention facility and with intent to harass, alarm, or annoy another person, causes the other person to contact the blood, seminal fluid, vaginal fluid, saliva, urine, or feces of the actor, any other person, or an animal.

Table 1 provides the statutory citation and the offense classification for each the 26 states that expressly make it a crime for prison inmates to assault law enforcement or correctional facilities staff with bodily fluids.

TITLE 13. CRIMINAL CODE
CHAPTER 12. ASSAULT AND RELATED OFFENSES

A.R.S. § 13-1212 (2004)

§ 13-1212. Prisoner assault with bodily fluids; liability for costs; classification; definition

A. A prisoner commits prisoner assault with bodily fluids if the prisoner throws or projects any bodily fluid at or onto a correctional facility employee or private prison security officer who the prisoner knows or reasonably should know is an employee of a correctional facility or is a private prison security officer.

B. A prisoner who is convicted of a violation of this section is liable for any costs incurred by the correctional facility employee or private prison security officer, including costs incurred for medical expenses or cleaning uniforms.

C. The state department of corrections shall adopt rules for the payment of costs pursuant to subsection B. Monies in the prisoner's trust fund or retention account established by the correctional facility in which the prisoner is incarcerated may be used to pay the costs pursuant to subsection B.

D. A prisoner who violates this section is guilty of a class 6 felony and the sentence imposed for a violation of this section shall run consecutively to any sentence of imprisonment for which the prisoner was confined or to any term of community supervision, probation, parole, work furlough or other release from confinement.

E. For the purposes of this section, "bodily fluids" means saliva, blood, seminal fluid, urine or feces.

Arkansas Code 5-13-211, Aggravated assault upon an employee of a correctional facility, Arkansas 84th
General Assembly,
http://170.94.58.9/data/ar\_code.asp

5-13-211. Aggravated assault upon an employee of a correctional facility.

(a) A person commits aggravated assault upon an employee of a correctional facility if, under circumstances manifesting extreme indifference to the personal hygiene of the employee, he or she purposely engages in conduct that creates a potential danger of infection to an employee of any state or local correctional facility while the employee is engaged in the course of his or her employment by causing the employee to come into contact with saliva, blood, urine, feces, seminal fluid, or other bodily fluid by throwing, tossing, or expelling the fluid or material.

(b) Aggravated assault upon an employee of a correctional facility is a Class D felony.

History. Acts 1997, No. 1235, § 1; 2003, No. 1271, § 1.

California Penal Code 4501.1, California Legislature,
<http://www.leginfo.ca.gov/calaw.html>

4501.1. (a) Every person confined in the state prison who commits a battery by gassing upon the person of any peace officer, as defined in Chapter 4.5 (commencing with Section 830) of Title 3 of Part 2, or employee of the state prison is guilty of aggravated battery and shall be punished by imprisonment in a county jail or by imprisonment in the state prison for two, three, or four years. Every state prison inmate convicted of a felony under this section shall serve his or her term of imprisonment as prescribed in Section 4501.5.

(b) For purposes of this section, "gassing" means intentionally placing or throwing, or causing to be placed or thrown, upon the person of another, any human excrement or other bodily fluids or bodily substances or any mixture containing human excrement or other bodily fluids or bodily substances that results in actual contact with the person's skin or membranes.

(c) The warden or other person in charge of the state prison shall use every available means to immediately investigate all reported or suspected violations of subdivision (a), including, but not limited to, the use of forensically acceptable means of preserving and testing the suspected gassing substance to confirm the presence of human excrement or other bodily fluids or bodily substances. If there is probable cause to believe that the inmate has violated subdivision (a) the chief medical officer of the state prison or his or her designee, may, when he or she deems it medically necessary to protect the health of an officer or employee who may have been subject to a violation of this section, order the inmate to receive an examination or test for hepatitis or tuberculosis or both hepatitis and tuberculosis on either a voluntary or involuntary basis immediately after the event, and periodically thereafter as determined to be necessary by the medical officer in order to ensure that further hepatitis or tuberculosis transmission does not occur. These decisions shall be consistent with an occupational exposure as defined by the Center for Disease Control and Prevention. The results of any examination or test shall be provided to the officer or employee who has been subject to a reported or suspected violation of this section. Nothing in this subdivision shall be construed to otherwise supersede the operation of Title 8 (commencing with Section 7500). Any person performing tests, transmitting test results, or disclosing information pursuant to this section shall be immune from civil liability for any action taken in accordance with this section.

(d) The warden or other person in charge of the state prison shall refer all reports for which there is probable cause to believe that the inmate has violated subdivision (a) to the local district attorney for prosecution.

(e) The Department of Corrections shall report to the Legislature, by January 1, 2000, its findings and recommendations on gassing incidents at the state prison and the medical testing authorized by this section. The report shall include, but not be limited to, all of the following:

- (1) The total number of gassing incidents at each state prison facility up to the date of the report.
- (2) The disposition of each gassing incident, including the administrative penalties imposed, the number of incidents that are prosecuted, and the results of those prosecutions, including any penalties imposed.
- (3) A profile of the inmates who commit the aggravated batteries, including the number of inmates who have one or more prior serious or violent felony convictions.
- (4) Efforts that the department has taken to limit these incidents, including staff training and the use of protective clothing and goggles.
- (5) The results and costs of the medical testing authorized by this section.

(f) Nothing in this section shall preclude prosecution under both this section and any other provision of law.

TITLE 18. CRIMINAL CODE
ARTICLE 3. OFFENSES AGAINST THE PERSON
PART 2. ASSAULTS

C.R.S. 18-3-203 (2004)

18-3-203. Assault in the second degree

(1) A person commits the crime of assault in the second degree if:

(a) Repealed

(b) With intent to cause bodily injury to another person, he or she causes such injury to any person by means of a deadly weapon; or

(c) With intent to prevent one whom he or she knows, or should know, to be a peace officer or firefighter from performing a lawful duty, he or she intentionally causes bodily injury to any person; or

(d) He recklessly causes serious bodily injury to another person by means of a deadly weapon; or

(e) For a purpose other than lawful medical or therapeutic treatment, he intentionally causes stupor, unconsciousness, or other physical or mental impairment or injury to another person by administering to him, without his consent, a drug, substance, or preparation capable of producing the intended harm; or

(f) While lawfully confined or in custody, he or she knowingly and violently applies physical force against the person of a peace officer or firefighter engaged in the performance of his or her duties, or a judge of a court of competent jurisdiction, or an officer of said court, or, while lawfully confined or in custody as a result of being charged with or convicted of a crime or as a result of being charged as a delinquent child or adjudicated as a delinquent child, he or she knowingly and violently applies physical force against a person engaged in the performance of his or her duties while employed by or under contract with a detention facility, as defined in section 18-8-203 (3), or while employed by the division in the department of human services responsible for youth services and who is a youth services counselor or is in the youth services worker classification series, and the person committing the offense knows or reasonably should know that the victim is a peace officer or firefighter engaged in the performance of his or her duties, or a judge of a court of competent jurisdiction, or an officer of said court, or a person engaged in the performance of his or her duties while employed by or under contract with a detention facility or while employed by the division in the department of human services responsible for youth services. A sentence imposed pursuant to this paragraph (f) shall be served in the department of corrections and shall run consecutively with any sentences being served by the offender; except that, if the offense is committed against a person employed by the division in the department of human services responsible for youth services, the court may grant probation or a suspended sentence in whole or in part, and such sentence may run concurrently or consecutively with any sentences being served. A person who participates in a work release program, a furlough, or any other similar authorized supervised or unsupervised absence from a detention facility, as defined in section 18-8-203 (3), and who is required to report back to the detention facility at a specified time shall be deemed to be in custody.

(f.5) (I) While lawfully confined in a detention facility within this state, a person with intent to infect, injure, harm, harass, annoy, threaten, or alarm a person in a detention facility whom the actor knows or reasonably should know to be an employee of a detention facility, causes such employee to come into contact with blood, seminal fluid, urine, feces, saliva, mucus, vomit, or any toxic, caustic, or hazardous material by any means, including but not limited to throwing, tossing, or expelling such fluid or material.

(II) (A) Any adult or juvenile who is bound over for trial for the offense described in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (f.5) subsequent to a preliminary hearing or after having waived the right to a preliminary hearing, any person who is indicted for or is convicted of any such offense, or any person who is determined to have provided blood, seminal fluid, urine, feces, saliva, mucus, or vomit to a person bound over for trial for, indicted for, or convicted of such an offense shall be ordered by the court to submit to a medical test for communicable diseases and to supply blood, feces, urine, saliva, or other bodily fluid required for the test. The results of such test shall be reported to the court or the court's designee, who shall then disclose the results to any victim of the offense who requests such disclosure. Review and disclosure of medical test results by the court shall be closed and confidential, and any transaction records relating thereto shall also be closed and confidential. If a person subject to a medical test for communicable diseases pursuant to this sub-subparagraph (A) voluntarily submits to a medical test for communicable diseases, the fact of such person's voluntary submission shall be admissible in mitigation of sentence if the person is convicted of the charged offense.

(B) In addition to any other penalty provided by law, the court may order any person who is convicted of the offense described in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (f.5) to meet all or any portion of the financial obligations of medical tests performed on and treatment prescribed for the victim or victims of the offense.

(C) At the time of sentencing, the court may order that an offender described in sub-subparagraph (B) of this subparagraph (II) be put on a period of probation for the purpose of paying the testing and treatment costs of the victim or victims; except that the period of probation, when added to any time served, shall not exceed the maximum sentence that can be imposed for the offense.

(III) (A) As used in this paragraph (f.5), "detention facility" means any building, structure, enclosure, vehicle, institution, or place, whether permanent or temporary, fixed or mobile, where persons are or may be lawfully held in custody or confinement under the authority of the state of Colorado or any political subdivision of the state of Colorado.

(B) As used in this paragraph (f.5), "employee of a detention facility" includes employees of the department of corrections, employees of any agency or person operating a detention facility, law enforcement personnel, and any other persons who are present in or in the vicinity of a detention facility and are performing services for a detention facility. "Employee of a detention facility" does not include a person lawfully confined in a detention facility.

(g) With intent to cause bodily injury to another person, he causes serious bodily injury to that person or another.

(2) (a) If assault in the second degree is committed under circumstances where the act causing the injury is performed upon a sudden heat of passion, caused by a serious and highly provoking act of the intended victim, affecting the person causing the injury sufficiently to excite an irresistible passion in a reasonable person, and without an interval between the provocation and the injury sufficient for the voice of reason and humanity to be heard, it is a class 6 felony.

(b) If assault in the second degree is committed without the circumstances provided in paragraph (a) of this subsection (2), it is a class 4 felony.

(b 5) Assault in the second degree by any person under subsection (1) of this section without the circumstances provided in paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) is a class 3 felony if the person who is assaulted, other than a participant in the crime, suffered serious bodily injury during the commission or attempted commission of or flight from the commission or attempted commission of murder, robbery, arson, burglary, escape, kidnapping in the first degree, sexual assault, sexual assault in the first or second degree as such offenses existed prior to July 1, 2000, or class 3 felony sexual assault on a child.

(c) If a defendant is convicted of assault in the second degree pursuant to paragraph (b), (c), (d), or (g) of subsection (1) of this section or paragraph (b 5) of this subsection (2), except with respect to sexual assault or sexual assault in the first degree as it existed prior to July 1, 2000, the court shall sentence the defendant in accordance with the provisions of section 18-1.3-406. A defendant convicted of assault in the second degree pursuant to paragraph (b 5) of this subsection (2) with respect to sexual assault or sexual assault in the first degree as it existed prior to July 1, 2000, shall be sentenced in accordance with section 18-1.3-401 (8) (e) or (8) (e 5).

Delaware Code, Section 1254 of the Delaware Criminal Code, Division of Research of Legislative Council of the General Assembly of Delaware,
<http://www.delcode.state.de.us/>

§ 1254. Assault in a detention facility; penalty, class B and class D felony.

(a) Any person who, being confined in a detention facility, intentionally causes physical injury to a correctional officer, other state employee of a detention facility acting in the lawful performance of duties, any other person confined in a detention facility or any other person at a detention facility or other place having custody of such person shall be guilty of a class D felony.

Notwithstanding Chapter 45 of this title, any person convicted for a violation of this subsection shall be imprisoned for a mandatory minimum period of 2 years which shall commence upon final judgment of conviction. Such sentence shall not be suspended nor shall the defendant be eligible for parole or probation.

(b) Any person who, being confined in a detention facility, intentionally causes serious physical injury to a correctional officer, other state employee of a detention facility acting in the lawful performance of duties, any other person confined in a detention facility or any other person at a detention facility or other place having custody of such person shall be guilty of a class B felony.

Notwithstanding Chapter 45 of this title, any person convicted for a violation of this subsection shall be imprisoned for a mandatory minimum period of 3 years which shall commence upon final judgment of conviction. Such sentence shall not be suspended nor shall the defendant be eligible for parole or probation.

(c) Any person who, being confined in a detention facility, intentionally strikes with urine, feces or other bodily fluid a correctional officer or other State employee of a detention facility acting in the lawful performance of duties or any other person at a detention facility or other place having custody of such person, other than another person confined at a detention facility shall be guilty of a class D felony.

Notwithstanding Chapter 45 of this title, any person convicted for a violation of this subsection shall be imprisoned for a mandatory minimum period of 1 year, which shall commence upon final conviction. Such sentence shall not be suspended nor shall the defendant be eligible for parole or probation.

When charged with a violation of this subsection, the defendant shall be tested for diseases transmittable through bodily fluids, the cost of such tests to be assessed as costs upon conviction. The results of such tests shall be provided only to the Attorney General, the victim of the assault, the defendant and the Department's medical care provider.

(d) The execution and operation of the sentence for any other crime causing such original confinement shall, upon the commencement of the sentence for a violation of this section, be placed in suspension, to be continued only after completion of the sentence for the violation of this section. TITLE 16. CRIMES AND OFFENSES
CHAPTER 5. CRIMES AGAINST THE PERSON
ARTICLE 4. RECKLESS CONDUCT

O.C.G.A. § 16-5-60 (2004)

§ 16-5-60. Reckless conduct causing harm to or endangering the bodily safety of another; conduct by HIV infected persons; assault by HIV infected persons or hepatitis infected persons

(a) Any term used in this Code section and defined in Code Section 31-22-9.1 shall have the meaning provided for such term in Code Section 31-22-9.1.

(b) A person who causes bodily harm to or endangers the bodily safety of another person by consciously disregarding a substantial and unjustifiable risk that his act or omission will cause harm or endanger the safety of the other person and the disregard constitutes a gross deviation from the standard of care which a reasonable person would exercise in the situation is guilty of a misdemeanor.

(c) A person who is an HIV infected person who, after obtaining knowledge of being infected with HIV:

(1) Knowingly engages in sexual intercourse or performs or submits to any sexual act involving the sex organs of one person and the mouth or anus of another person and the HIV infected person does not disclose to the other person the fact of that infected person's being an HIV infected person prior to that intercourse or sexual act,

(2) Knowingly allows another person to use a hypodermic needle, syringe, or both for the introduction of drugs or any other substance into or for the withdrawal of body fluids from the other person's body and the needle or syringe so used had been previously used by the HIV infected person for the introduction of drugs or any other substance into or for the withdrawal of body fluids from the HIV infected person's body and where that infected person does not disclose to the other person the fact of that infected person's being an HIV infected person prior to such use;

(3) Offers or consents to perform with another person an act of sexual intercourse for money without disclosing to that other person the fact of that infected person's being an HIV infected person prior to offering or consenting to perform that act of sexual intercourse;

(4) Solicits another person to perform or submit to an act of sodomy for money without disclosing to that other person the fact of that infected person's being an HIV infected person prior to soliciting that act of sodomy, or

(5) Donates blood, blood products, other body fluids, or any body organ or body part without previously disclosing the fact of that infected person's being an HIV infected person to the person drawing the blood or blood products or the person or entity collecting or storing the other body fluids, body organ, or body part, is guilty of a felony and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by imprisonment for not more than ten years.

(d) A person who is an HIV infected person or hepatitis infected person and who, after obtaining knowledge of being infected with HIV or hepatitis, commits an assault with the intent to transmit HIV or hepatitis, using his or her body fluids (blood, semen, or vaginal secretions), saliva, urine, or feces upon:

(1) A peace officer while the peace officer is engaged in the performance of his or her official duties or on account of the peace officer's performance of his or her official duties; or

(2) A correctional officer while the correctional officer is engaged in the performance of his or her official duties or on account of the correctional officer's performance of his or her official duties is guilty of a felony and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by imprisonment for not less than five nor more than 20 years.

ARTICLE 12. BODILY HARM

720 ILCS 5/12-4 (2005)

§ 720 ILCS 5/12-4. Aggravated Battery

Sec. 12-4. Aggravated Battery. (a) A person who, in committing a battery, intentionally or knowingly causes great bodily harm, or permanent disability or disfigurement commits aggravated battery.

(b) In committing a battery, a person commits aggravated battery if he or she:

(1) Uses a deadly weapon other than by the discharge of a firearm;

(2) Is hooded, robed or masked, in such manner as to conceal his identity;

(3) Knows the individual harmed to be a teacher or other person employed in any school and such teacher or other employee is upon the grounds of a school or grounds adjacent thereto, or is in any part of a building used for school purposes;

(4) Knows the individual harmed to be a supervisor, director, instructor or other person employed in any park district and such supervisor, director, instructor or other employee is upon the grounds of the park or grounds adjacent thereto, or is in any part of a building used for park purposes;

(5) Knows the individual harmed to be a caseworker, investigator, or other person employed by the State Department of Public Aid, a County Department of Public Aid, or the Department of Human Services (acting as successor to the Illinois Department of Public Aid under the Department of Human Services Act [20 ILCS 1305/1-1 et seq.]) and such caseworker, investigator, or other person is upon the grounds of a public aid office or grounds adjacent thereto, or is in any part of a building used for public aid purposes, or upon the grounds of a home of a public aid applicant, recipient, or any other person being interviewed or investigated in the employee's discharge of his duties, or on grounds adjacent thereto, or is in any part of a building in which the applicant, recipient, or other such person resides or is located;

(6) Knows the individual harmed to be a peace officer, a community policing volunteer, a correctional institution employee, an employee of the Department of Human Services supervising or controlling sexually dangerous persons or sexually violent persons, or a fireman while such officer, volunteer, employee or fireman is engaged in the execution of any official duties including arrest or attempted arrest, or to prevent the officer, volunteer, employee or fireman from performing official duties, or in retaliation for the officer, volunteer, employee or fireman performing official duties, and the battery is committed other than by the discharge of a firearm;

(7) Knows the individual harmed to be an emergency medical technician -- ambulance, emergency medical technician -- intermediate, emergency medical technician -- paramedic, ambulance driver, other medical assistance, first aid personnel, or hospital personnel engaged in the performance of any of his or her official duties, or to prevent the emergency medical technician -- ambulance, emergency medical technician -- intermediate, emergency medical technician -- paramedic, ambulance driver, other medical assistance, first aid personnel, or hospital personnel from performing official duties, or in retaliation for performing official duties;

(8) Is, or the person battered is, on or about a public way, public property or public place of accommodation or amusement;

(9) Knows the individual harmed to be the driver, operator, employee or passenger of any transportation facility or system engaged in the business of transportation of the public for hire and the individual assaulted is then performing in such capacity or then using such public transportation as a passenger or using any area of any description designated by the transportation facility or system as a vehicle boarding, departure, or transfer location;

(10) Knowingly and without legal justification and by any means causes bodily harm to an individual of 60 years of age or older;

(11) Knows the individual harmed is pregnant;

(12) Knows the individual harmed to be a judge whom the person intended to harm as a result of the judge's performance of his or her official duties as a judge;

(13) Knows the individual harmed to be an employee of the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services engaged in the performance of his authorized duties as such employee;

(14) Knows the individual harmed to be a person who is physically handicapped;

(15) Knowingly and without legal justification and by any means causes bodily harm to a merchant who detains the person for an alleged commission of retail theft under Section 16A-5 of this Code [720 ILCS 5/16A-5]. In this item (15), "merchant" has the meaning ascribed to it in Section 16A-2.4 of this Code [720 ILCS 5/16A-2.4];

(16) Is, or the person battered is, in any building or other structure used to provide shelter or other services to victims or to the dependent children of victims of domestic violence pursuant to the Illinois Domestic Violence Act of 1986 or the Domestic Violence Shelters Act [750 ILCS 60/101 et seq. or 20 ILCS 1310/0.01 et seq.], or the person battered is within 500 feet of such a building or other structure while going to or from such a building or other structure. "Domestic violence" has the meaning ascribed to it in Section 103 of the Illinois Domestic Violence Act of 1986 [750 ILCS 60/103]. "Building or other structure used to provide shelter" has the meaning ascribed to "shelter" in Section 1 of the Domestic Violence Shelters Act [20 ILCS 1310/1], or

(17) Knows the individual harmed to be an employee of a police or sheriff's department engaged in the performance of his or her official duties as such employee.

For the purpose of paragraph (14) of subsection (b) of this Section, a physically handicapped person is a person who suffers from a permanent and disabling physical characteristic, resulting from disease, injury, functional disorder or congenital condition.

(c) A person who administers to an individual or causes him to take, without his consent or by threat or deception, and for other than medical purposes, any intoxicating, poisonous, stupefying, narcotic, anesthetic, or controlled substance commits aggravated battery.

(d) A person who knowingly gives to another person any food that contains any substance or object that is intended to cause physical injury if eaten, commits aggravated battery.

(d-3) A person commits aggravated battery when he or she knowingly and without lawful justification shines or flashes a laser gunsight or other laser device that is attached or affixed to a firearm, or used in concert with a firearm, so that the laser beam strikes upon or against the person of another.

(d-5) An inmate of a penal institution or a sexually dangerous person or a sexually violent person in the custody of the Department of Human Services who causes or attempts to cause a correctional employee of the penal institution or an employee of the Department of Human Services to come into contact with blood, seminal fluid, urine, or feces, by throwing, tossing, or expelling that fluid or material commits aggravated battery. For purposes of this subsection (d-5), "correctional employee" means a person who is employed by a penal institution.

(e) Sentence.

Aggravated battery is a Class 3 felony, except a violation of subsection (a) is a Class 2 felony when the person knows the individual harmed to be a peace officer engaged in the execution of any of his or her official duties, or the battery is to prevent the officer from performing his or her official duties, or in retaliation for the officer performing his or her official duties.

§ 35-42-2-6. Battery by body waste

(a) As used in this section, "corrections officer" includes a person employed by:

- (1) the department of correction;
- (2) a law enforcement agency;
- (3) a county jail; or
- (4) a circuit, superior, county, probate, city, or town court.

(b) As used in this section, "human immunodeficiency virus (HIV)" includes acquired immune deficiency syndrome (AIDS) and AIDS related complex.

(c) A person who knowingly or intentionally in a rude, insolent, or angry manner places blood or another body fluid or waste on a law enforcement officer or a corrections officer identified as such and while engaged in the performance of official duties or coerces another person to place blood or another body fluid or waste on the law enforcement officer or corrections officer commits battery by body waste, a Class D felony. However, the offense is:

(1) a Class C felony if the person knew or recklessly failed to know that the blood, bodily fluid, or waste was infected with:

- (A) hepatitis B;
- (B) HIV; or
- (C) tuberculosis;

(2) a Class B felony if:

(A) the person knew or recklessly failed to know that the blood, bodily fluid, or waste was infected with hepatitis B and the offense results in the transmission of hepatitis B to the other person; or

(B) the person knew or recklessly failed to know that the blood, bodily fluid, or waste was infected with tuberculosis and the offense results in the transmission of tuberculosis to the other person; and

(3) a Class A felony if:

(A) the person knew or recklessly failed to know that the blood, bodily fluid, or waste was infected with HIV; and

(B) the offense results in the transmission of HIV to the other person.

(d) A person who knowingly or intentionally in a rude, an insolent, or an angry manner places human blood, semen, urine, or fecal waste on another person commits battery by body waste, a Class A misdemeanor. However, the offense is:

(1) a Class D felony if the person knew or recklessly failed to know that the blood, semen, urine, or fecal waste was infected with:

(A) hepatitis B;

(B) HIV; or

(C) tuberculosis;

(2) a Class C felony if:

(A) the person knew or recklessly failed to know that the blood, semen, urine, or fecal waste was infected with hepatitis B and the offense results in the transmission of hepatitis B to the other person; or

(B) the person knew or recklessly failed to know that the blood, semen, urine, or fecal waste was infected with tuberculosis and the offense results in the transmission of tuberculosis to the other person, and

(3) a Class B felony if:

(A) the person knew or recklessly failed to know that the blood, semen, urine, or fecal waste was infected with HIV; and

(B) the offense results in the transmission of HIV to the other person.

http://www.montana.gov/govt/rnca\_const.asp

45-5-214. Assault with bodily fluid. (1) A person commits the offense of assault with a bodily fluid if the person purposely or knowingly causes one of the person's bodily fluids to make physical contact with a law enforcement officer or staff person of a correctional or detention facility:

(a) during or after an arrest for a criminal offense;

(b) while the person is incarcerated in or being transported to or from a state prison or a county, city, or regional jail or detention facility; or

(c) if the person is a minor, while the youth is detained in or being transported to or from a county, city, or regional jail or detention facility or a youth detention facility, secure detention facility, regional detention facility, short-term detention center, state youth correctional facility, or shelter care facility.

(2) A person convicted of the offense of assault with a bodily fluid shall be fined an amount not to exceed $1,000 or incarcerated in a county jail or a state prison for a term not to exceed 1 year, or both.

(3) The youth court has jurisdiction of any violation of this section by a minor, unless the charge is filed in district court, in which case the district court has jurisdiction.

(4) As used in this section, "bodily fluid" means any bodily secretion, including but not limited to feces, urine, blood, and saliva.

History: En. Sec. 1, Ch. 388, L. 1999.

Nevada Revised Statutes, NRS212.189, Unlawful acts related to human excrement or bodily fluid,
Nevada Law Library,
<http://www.leg.state.nv.us/law1.cfm>

NRS 212.189 Unlawful acts related to human excrement or bodily fluid; penalty; investigation; testing for communicable diseases; plea bargaining prohibited.

1. Except as otherwise provided in subsection 9, a prisoner who is in lawful custody or confinement, other than residential confinement, shall not knowingly:

- (a) Store or stockpile any human excrement or bodily fluid;
- (b) Sell, supply or provide any human excrement or bodily fluid to any other person;
- (c) Buy, receive or acquire any human excrement or bodily fluid from any other person; or
- (d) Use, propel, discharge, spread or conceal, or cause to be used, propelled, discharged, spread or concealed, any human excrement or bodily fluid:

(1) With the intent to have the excrement or bodily fluid come into physical contact with any portion of the body of an officer or employee of a prison or any other person, whether or not such physical contact actually occurs; or

(2) Under circumstances in which the excrement or bodily fluid is reasonably likely to come into physical contact with any portion of the body of an officer or employee of a prison or any other person, whether or not such physical contact actually occurs.

2. Except as otherwise provided in subsection 3, if a prisoner violates any provision of subsection 1, the prisoner is guilty of a category B felony and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state prison for a minimum term of not less than 2 years and a maximum term of not more than 10 years, and may be further punished by a fine of not more than $10,000.

3. If a prisoner violates any provision of paragraph (d) of subsection 1 and, at the time of the offense, the prisoner knew that any portion of the excrement or bodily fluid involved in the offense contained a communicable disease that causes or is reasonably likely to cause substantial bodily harm, whether or not the communicable disease was transmitted to a victim as a result of the offense, the prisoner is guilty of a category A felony and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state prison:

(a) For life with the possibility of parole, with eligibility for parole beginning when a minimum of 10 years has been served; or

(b) For a definite term of 25 years, with eligibility for parole beginning when a minimum of 10 years has been served, and may be further punished by a fine of not more than $50,000.

4. A sentence imposed upon a prisoner pursuant to subsection 2 or 3:

(a) Is not subject to suspension or the granting of probation; and

(b) Must run consecutively after the prisoner has served any sentences imposed upon him for the offense or offenses for which the prisoner was in lawful custody or confinement when he violated the provisions of subsection 1.

5. In addition to any other penalty, the court shall order a prisoner who violates any provision of paragraph (d) of subsection 1 to reimburse the appropriate person or governmental body for the cost of any examinations or testing:

(a) Conducted pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) of subsection 7; or

(b) Paid for pursuant to subparagraph (2) of paragraph (c) of subsection 7.

6. The warden, sheriff, administrator or other person responsible for administering a prison shall immediately and fully investigate any act described in subsection 1 that is reported or suspected to have been committed in the prison.

7. If there is probable cause to believe that an act described in paragraph (d) of subsection 1 has been committed in a prison:

(a) Each prisoner believed to have committed the act or to have been the bodily source of any portion of the excrement or bodily fluid involved in the act must submit to any appropriate examinations and testing to determine whether each such prisoner has any communicable disease.

(b) If possible, a sample of the excrement or bodily fluid involved in the act must be recovered and tested to determine whether any communicable disease is present in the excrement or bodily fluid.

(c) If the excrement or bodily fluid involved in the act came into physical contact with any portion of the body of an officer or employee of a prison or any other person:

(1) The results of any examinations or testing conducted pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) must be provided to each such officer, employee or other person; and

(2) For each such officer or employee, the person or governmental body operating the prison where the act was committed shall pay for any appropriate examinations and testing requested by the officer or employee to determine whether a communicable disease was transmitted to him as a result of the act.

(d) The results of the investigation conducted pursuant to subsection 6 and the results of any examinations or testing conducted pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) must be submitted to the district attorney of the county in which the act was committed or to the Office of the Attorney General for possible prosecution of each prisoner who committed the act.

8. If a prisoner is charged with committing an act described in paragraph (d) of subsection 1 and a victim or an intended victim of the act was an officer or employee of a prison, the prosecuting attorney shall not dismiss the charge in exchange for a plea of guilty or nolo contendere to a lesser charge or for any other reason unless the prosecuting attorney knows or it is obvious that the charge is not supported by probable cause or cannot be proved at the time of trial.

9. The provisions of this section do not apply to a prisoner who commits an act described in subsection 1 if the act:

(a) Is otherwise lawful and is authorized by the warden, sheriff, administrator or other person responsible for administering the prison, or his designee, and the prisoner performs the act in accordance with the directions or instructions given to him by that person;

(b) Involves the discharge of human excrement or bodily fluid directly from the body of the prisoner and the discharge is the direct result of a temporary or permanent injury, disease or medical condition afflicting the prisoner that prevents the prisoner from having physical control over the discharge of his own excrement or bodily fluid; or

(c) Constitutes voluntary sexual conduct with another person in violation of the provisions of NRS 212.187

2C:12-13 Throwing bodily fluid at certain law enforcement officers deemed aggravated assault; grading, sentence.

2. A person who throws a bodily fluid at a Department of Corrections employee, county corrections officer, juvenile corrections officer, State juvenile facility employee, juvenile detention staff member, probation officer, any sheriff, undersheriff or sheriff's officer or any municipal, county or State law enforcement officer while in the performance of his duties or otherwise purposefully subjects such employee to contact with a bodily fluid commits an aggravated assault. If the victim suffers bodily injury, this shall be a crime of the third degree. Otherwise, this shall be a crime of the fourth degree. A term of imprisonment imposed for this offense shall run consecutively to any term of imprisonment currently being served and to any other term imposed for another offense committed at the time of the assault. Nothing herein shall be deemed to preclude, if the evidence so warrants, an indictment and conviction for a violation or attempted violation of chapter 11 of Title 2C of the New Jersey Statutes or subsection b. of N.J.S. 2C:12-1 or any other provision of the criminal laws.

Consolidated Laws of New York, Penal Law 240.32, Aggravated harassment of an employee by an inmate, New York State Legislature,
<http://public.leginfo.state.ny.us/menugetf.cgi>

§ 240.32 Aggravated harassment of an employee by an inmate.

An inmate or respondent is guilty of aggravated harassment of an employee by an inmate when, with intent to harass, annoy, threaten or alarm a person in a facility whom he knows or reasonably should know to be an employee of such facility or the division of parole or the office of mental health, or a probation department, bureau or unit or a police officer, he causes or attempts to cause such employee to come into contact with blood, seminal fluid, urine or feces, by throwing, tossing or expelling such fluid or material.

For purposes of this section, "inmate" means an inmate or detainee in a correctional facility, local correctional facility or a hospital, as such term is defined in subdivision two of section four hundred of the correction law. For purposes of this section, "respondent" means a juvenile in a secure facility operated and maintained by the office of children and family services who is placed with or committed to the office of children and family services. For purposes of this section, "facility" means a correctional facility or local correctional facility, hospital, as such term is defined in subdivision two of section four hundred of the correction law, or a secure facility operated and maintained by the office of children and family services.

Aggravated harassment of an employee by an inmate is a class E felony.

Oregon Revised Statutes 2003, 163.165 Assault in the third degree, The Oregon Legislative Counsel Committee,

<http://www.leg.state.or.us/ors/>

163.165 Assault in the third degree.

(1) A person commits the crime of assault in the third degree if the person:

- (a) Recklessly causes serious physical injury to another by means of a deadly or dangerous weapon;
- (b) Recklessly causes serious physical injury to another under circumstances manifesting extreme indifference to the value of human life;
- (c) Recklessly causes physical injury to another by means of a deadly or dangerous weapon under circumstances manifesting extreme indifference to the value of human life;
- (d) Intentionally, knowingly or recklessly causes, by means other than a motor vehicle, physical injury to the operator of a public transit vehicle while the operator is in control of or operating the vehicle. As used in this paragraph, "public transit vehicle" has the meaning given that term in ORS 166.116;
- (e) While being aided by another person actually present, intentionally or knowingly causes physical injury to another;
- (f) While committed to a youth correction facility, intentionally or knowingly causes physical injury to another knowing the other person is a staff member of a youth correction facility; while the other person is acting in the course of official duty;
- (g) Intentionally, knowingly or recklessly causes physical injury to an emergency medical technician or paramedic, as those terms are defined in ORS 682.025, while the technician or paramedic is performing official duties;
- (h) Being at least 18 years of age, intentionally or knowingly causes physical injury to a child 10 years of age or younger;
- (i) Knowing the other person is a staff member, intentionally or knowingly propels any dangerous substance at the staff member while the staff member is acting in the course of official duty or as a result of the staff member's official duties; or
- (j) Intentionally, knowingly or recklessly causes, by means other than a motor vehicle, physical injury to the operator of a taxi while the operator is in control of the taxi.

(2) Assault in the third degree is a Class C felony. When a person is convicted of violating subsection

(1)(i) of this section, in addition to any other sentence it may impose, the court shall impose a term of incarceration in a state correction facility.

(3) As used in this section:

- (a) "Dangerous substance" includes, but is not limited to, blood, urine, saliva, semen and feces.
- (b) "Staff member" means:
  - (A) A corrections officer as defined in ORS 181.610, a youth correction officer, a Department of Corrections or Oregon Youth Authority staff member or a person employed pursuant to a contract with the department or youth authority to work with, or in the vicinity of, inmates or youth offenders; and
  - (B) A volunteer authorized by the department, youth authority or other entity in charge of a corrections facility to work with, or in the vicinity of, inmates or youth offenders.

(c) "Youth correction facility" has the meaning given that term in ORS 162.135. [1971 c.743 §92; 1977 c.297 §3; 1991 c.475 §1; 1991 c.564 §1; 1995 c.738 §1; 1997 c.249 §49; 1999 c.1011 §1; 2001 c.104 §50; 2001 c.830 §1; 2001 c.851 §4]

Hold it right there, gasser!

Among the new laws proposed in Juneau as the Legislature begins its session is a measure that would make spitting in a peace officer's face, or throwing urine on them, a misdemeanor punishable by 60 days in jail. Other unseemly assaults are also covered by the proposed law, which is sponsored by state representative Bob Lynn, a South Anchorage Republican.

Lynn said Alaska correctional officers came to him looking for a way to head off this form of assault, which is more common behind bars than on the streets. "Currently, the penalty for a prisoner who throws a bodily fluid at a guard - and you'll have to use your imagination on what bodily fluids are - is the same as for shoplifting a Pet Rock at Wal-Mart," said Lynn.

Online prison slang dictionaries call this practice "gassing" and media reports from Outside indicate that it can go far beyond the occasional loogie in the eye. Inmates have been known to save fecal matter and/or urine in a cup or article of clothing and then douse guards with it if they approach the inmate's cell.

The Alaska Department of Corrections doesn't keep track of gassing incidents, spokesman Richard Schmitz said, but they are aware of the problem. The Alaska Correctional Officers Association, the union representing prison guards, supports Lynn's bill. ACOA issued a press release January 9 that said correctional officers "no more want to be spit on at their job than another person would at their job."

A report prepared by Lynn's office found at least 26 states make gassing a crime and 19 states classify it as a felony. The report also shows four states rewrote their anti-gassing laws since 1999. South Dakota included "emesis" - that's Latin for "puke" - in its list of offensive bodily substances.

Lynn's bill, if passed, would create a new Class A misdemeanor under Alaska's harassment statutes. It would apply to anyone "gassing" any corrections officer, police officer or emergency responder in the line of duty.

Told that Minnesota, the state that brought you Walter Mondale, allows gassers to be sentenced up to five years, Lynn said he now wants to make his bill even tougher. "We're going with advice that we got from the legal-eagles around (the capitol), but if I can find a way to amend it in committee, I will."

Man pleads guilty to throwing blood on prison officer

DELHI — A Hancock man pleaded guilty in Delaware County Court on Monday to first-degree promoting prison contraband and aggravated harassment of an employee by an inmate.

Steven J. Caiati, 28, of Hancock agreed to a plea bargain on the two charges, which didn't include other outstanding charges pending against him.

Delaware County District Attorney Richard Northrup said Caiati took a plastic razor apart and used the blade to cut himself June 29.

He was being held in jail on first-degree criminal contempt charges.

Caiati admitted using a razor blade to slit one of his wrists and throwing blood on Sgt. John Lehmann, a corrections officer.

"Instead of shaving with the razor, I took the blade out of it and cut my wrist," Caiati said. "After I cut my wrist, they decided to try to help me."

Caiati indicated that he flipped his wrist and added that he did it "to make my blood go up so they would stay back."

Delaware County Judge Carl Becker sentenced Caiati to two to four years in prison on each count, to run concurrently, and issued an order of protection on Lehmann's behalf. "I would, in all likelihood, have sentenced you to more if this had gone to trial," Becker said. "This is the most dangerous activity that an inmate can take part in. Throwing blood or other bodily fluids is something corrections officers fear more than a physical confrontation."

In other court cases:

- Sherrie L. White, 48, of Hancock pleaded innocent to two counts of driving while intoxicated and failure to keep right. The charges stem from an incident in Deposit on June 12.

White was released on her own recognizance, and her trial was scheduled to begin March 27.

- William T. Brybag, 20, of Fleischmanns pleaded innocent to two counts of third-degree criminal sale of a controlled substance. The charges stem from an incident in Fleischmanns on July 26 in which Brybag allegedly sold cocaine.

Brybag was returned to jail on $10,000 bail. His trial is scheduled for March 27.

- Scott Mattice, 29, of Grand Gorge pleaded innocent to two counts of driving while intoxicated, resisting arrest, reckless driving, leaving the scene of a property damage accident, moving from lane unsafely, no seat belt and uninspected vehicle. The charges stem from an incident in Stamford on Aug. 5.

BY KYM LIEBLER
The Cincinnati Enquirer

LEBANON - A Lebanon Correctional Institution (LCI) inmate Friday became the first Ohio prisoner convicted under a new state law that prohibits throwing bodily substances inside prisons.

A Warren County Common Pleas Court jury deliberated 90 minutes before finding Thomas Blackmon, 48, guilty of harassment by an inmate for squirting urine on LCI supervisor Richard Huggins June 30.

Mr. Blackmon received the maximum sentence, one year. The law was adopted June 11 after corrections officers complained inmates used body fluids against them.

In September, Mr. Blackmon was the first inmate in Ohio charged with the offense.

"I think a lot of prison administrators around the state are paying close attention to this case," said Assistant County Prosecutor Jim Beaton. "It was a test case."

Mr. Blackmon will serve 1 1/2 years after he serves 40-65 years for his role in the 1993 uprising at Southern Ohio Correctional Facility in Lucasville.

"No reaction," Mr. Blackmon said after hearing the verdict. "I'm already doing 40 to 65 years. So what it means is that instead of being 112 when I get out, I'll be 113."

Mr. Huggins, now inspector of institutions at LCI, was relieved. "I hope this sends a message to all inmates that corrections staff are not fair game," Mr. Huggins said.

The jury was apparently unswayed by testimony from Mr. Blackmon and four inmates from the I cell block, the most heavily secured section at LCI.

The inmates, all of whom were convicted in the Lucasville incident, testified the liquid Mr. Blackmon squirted on Mr. Huggins was a concoction of sour milk and eggs, not urine. They said the mixture is used to keep mice and rats from cells.

Paul Boggs, a chemist with the Ohio State Highway Patrol, testified the liquid was urine.

Mr. Blackmon took the stand and said he squirted Mr. Huggins so he could be transferred to another cell. He was unhappy because his cell's toilet was clogged and he was forced to use a bedpan.

State of Rhode Island
DEPARTMENT OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Pawtucket man sentenced to 30 years, with 7 to serve at the ACI

Release date: 2005-04-08

Superior Court Associate Justice Robert D. Krause today sentenced Oliver Lyons, 55, 92 Bates Street, Pawtucket, to five years to serve at the Adult Correctional Institution for a June 13, 2002 felony assault with bodily fluids against a correctional officer. Because the crime was his third felony, Judge Krause sentenced Lyons to 25 years, with two years to serve at the ACI and 23 years suspended with probation. Under the terms imposed, the sentences are to be served consecutively, with the five years to serve on felony assault also to be served consecutively to the sentence Lyons is already serving at the ACI.

A Providence County Superior Court jury deliberated for two hours before finding Lyons guilty of the felony assault charge on February 10, 2005. Special Assistant Attorney General Ronald Gendron prosecuted the case for the State. Gendron presented evidence during the trial that when Correctional Officer Robert Dennett opened the trap on Lyons' cell door at the ACI to retrieve his lunch trash on June 13, 2002, Lyons threw a cupful of liquid through the trap door, striking Dennett on his shirt, pants, and face. Dennett, and other Correctional Officers who witnessed the incident immediately smelled urine and feces on Dennett's uniform. Lyons then proceeded to swear at, and taunt, Dennett. Gendron also presented evidence that Lyons had received more than 400 reprimands for problem behavior during four years as an ACI inmate. Lyons was in a cell in a high security area of the ACI when he assaulted Dennett.

During today's sentencing, Lyons engaged in profanity to lash out against prison guards, police, and the judicial system. Judge Krause had Lyons removed from the courtroom, after Lyons ignored the Judge's instructions that he stop talking.

Attorney General Patrick C. Lynch said, "It's important for all Rhode Islanders to know what correctional officers are up against. There's a reason it's called the toughest beat in the state. As this incident demonstrates, correctional officers confront stressful, demanding, and threatening situations on a daily basis. They deserve, and have, our respect, and our appreciation."

Prisons crack down on 'dashing'

BY TRACI SHURLEY

Posted on Saturday, November 6, 2004.

URL: <http://www.nwanews.com/adg/News/97969/>

State prison inmates who use their own bodily fluids to harass guards risk facing a punishment more severe than losing exercise or library privileges; they could end up behind bars for additional years.

That's the message prison officials hope to send with the first-ever conviction this week of a state prison inmate charged with two felony counts for throwing urine and feces at a guard twice in October 2003.

Izard County Circuit Judge Tim Weaver sentenced Grady Newingham, an inmate already serving a 15-year sentence for a rape conviction, to two more years in prison for two counts of aggravated assault on a correctional facility employee.

He was charged under a law that makes it a class D felony to throw blood, urine, feces or seminal fluid at a guard. It was first passed by the Arkansas Legislature in 1997 and the wording of the statute was refined during the 2003 legislative session to make it less vague, prison system officials said. "It is a real problem," Dina Tyler, an Arkansas Department of Correction spokesman said of the practice guards refer to as "dashing." "We think that by being able to prosecute it, it will drop the incident rate because an inmate might think twice if they know they can get more time."

Besides the health implications of having potentially contaminated fluids thrown at guards, it makes their already tough jobs even more uncomfortable, she said. With a turnover rate of almost 33 percent, Arkansas prison officials face a constant struggle to keep qualified staff because of low pay and stressful work conditions. The starting salary for a correctional officer is just over $23,000 a year. "Their job is already hard enough, and this makes it even more difficult," Tyler said of the department's personnel. "No one wants this done to them, and there needs to be a penalty to it beyond just a disciplinary [infraction], and that's what we have done."

The two incidents that led to the charges against the 24-year-old Newingham happened on Oct. 10 and Oct. 29, 2003, at the North Central Unit in Calico Rock.

Both times, Newingham used a cup to dip urine and, the second time, urine mixed with feces, out of his cell toilet. Then, he flung what was in the cup through the bars of his cell, hitting a guard, Tyler said.

Prison officials believe Newingham might have been trying to get a move to the Tucker Maximum Security Unit in Jefferson County as punishment. Instead of a move to Tucker, he was sent to the Varner SuperMax Unit near Grady in November 2003. He remains there and, according to his records, hasn't thrown any bodily fluids at a guard since, Tyler said.

Maj. Shawn Smith of the Pulaski County jail said his facility is aware of the felony statute, and administrators there have used it to gain convictions. "It certainly is a deterrent to some people.... They may not have realized it was a felony and once they do, they don't do it again," he said.

Though the prison department didn't use the "dashing" law — Ark. Code 5-13-211 — for the first time until 2003, officials say they doubt Newingham's case will be the last.

In 2005, prison officials plan to ask legislators to allow Correction Department attorneys to act as prosecutors in cases against inmates charged for crimes committed inside a correctional institution.

That way, Tyler said, crimes against guards and other inmates can be handled without burdening already busy local prosecuting attorneys.

Inmate convicted of throwing feces at officer

By SARA BONISTEEL
Star-Gazette

ELMIRA -- A Chemung County Court jury on Thursday found a 21-year-old inmate at Southport Correctional Facility guilty of intentionally throwing feces on a correction officer. Conceptualization Gibbs, 21, was found guilty of one count of felonious aggravated harassment of a correctional employee by an inmate, according to Chemung County District Attorney John Trice.

In December 1999, Gibbs threw feces at Correction Officer William Painter, Trice said. Another correction officer and an inmate were also hit.

"Honestly, I can say for the first time in my career that I sincerely believe the jury convicted an innocent man," said Richard W. Rich Jr., Gibbs' public defender. "He's not guilty as far as I'm concerned."

The defense contended that Gibbs did not intentionally hit the officer, and the physical evidence proved that, Rich said.

"The physical evidence is quite clear that he threw on another inmate and a small amount of splash landed on the correction officer," Rich said.

Gibbs, who will be sentenced April 2, was charged under the 1996 state law that makes it a felony for an inmate to throw bodily fluids -- blood, urine, feces and semen -- at prison staff. It is not illegal for an inmate to throw feces at another inmate.

The Chemung County district attorney's office prosecuted the state's first successful conviction of an inmate under the law in 1998.

Roger Stokes, a then 38-year-old inmate at Southport Correctional Facility, was convicted of squirting a mixture of feces and urine on Virginia Livermore, a prison counselor, in 1997.

"Since it became a felony, it's slowed down a lot, but it's still happening," said John Winant, chief steward of the Southport Correctional Facility.

"We were becoming victimized by the inmates," he said. "We had no power as far as control of the situation."

Winant said with the rising incidences of diseases such as tuberculosis and hepatitis B in prisons, the deterrent also protects prison employees' health.

Gibbs faces three to five years in prison in addition to the three- to nine-year sentence he is already serving for a second-degree robbery conviction in 1995.

But Thursday's conviction may not be the end of Gibbs' legal troubles.

"There may be assault charges coming out of what he (allegedly) did during trial," Trice said.

After the jury left court Wednesday, Gibbs got into a scuffle in a room adjoining the courtroom and allegedly assaulted the two correction officers escorting him back to the correctional facility, Trice said.

"Mr. Gibbs alleged earlier that one of the officers threatened him, and he refused to return to the facility under their transport," Rich said.

One of the unidentified officers was taken to the hospital, where he was treated for his injuries and released, Winant said.

State police are investigating the charges, Trice said.

Rich said he plans to appeal the jury's decision.

Death row guards facing escalating dangers

Tuesday, May 8, 2001

SAN QUENTIN, CALIF. -- Each time the gates clank shut behind him, prison guard Robert Trono enters a violent realm of bitter men with nothing left to lose.

The 39-year-old sergeant works in a cramped concrete cellblock that houses 85 killers awaiting execution. It is a place where riot gear, stab-proof vests, biohazard body suits and fear are standard issue.

Trono helps oversee inmates known as the Grade-B condemned, the most dangerous of San Quentin prison's 580 death row prisoners. Singled out for their unruly behavior and gang leadership roles, isolated in a three-story building called the Adjustment Center, they are waging an organized behind-bars war against San Quentin's guards and staff.

Over the last 18 months, officials say, Grade-B inmates have committed 67 attacks, triple the rate of only a few years ago. They include one attempted stabbing, 15 kicks and five slashings with prison-made knives and razors.

One convict sliced an officer's wrists and hands when he reached into the inmate's cell to deliver a food tray. And in five other incidents, small arrows fired from makeshift blowguns have stuck in the arms, necks and faces of guards who were not wearing protective shields.

"Walking those cellblocks requires every bit of your attention, every moment of the day," said Trono, a cautious, compact man. "There's no room to breathe a sigh of relief until you're walking out those doors."

What Trono and others dread most are "gassings," when prisoners hurl cups filled with feces and urine or even infected blood at the faces of guards. Prison officials say 41 gassing attacks have taken place at the Adjustment Center since 1999, requiring officers to be tested for HIV and hepatitis C.

"Being gassed turns you into a different person," said Tony Jones, president of San Quentin's 800-member correctional officers union. "It's the most disgusting thing you can ever imagine. The first time it happened to me, the stuff got into my eyes and ears. I took 15 showers that day and I still couldn't get clean."

Spring 1996

New York's Pataki Promises Action on Inmate "Anti-Thrower" Bill

Gov. George Pataki, in his first address before members of AFSCME Council 82, promised action this year on a union-sponsored bill to crack down on inmates who toss bodily fluids on corrections officers.

Speaking at Council 82's annual political action conference on February 28 in Albany, Pataki proposed a new crime, "aggravated assault upon an employee of a correction facility or a parole officer," which would subject the thrower to a Class D felony.

Inmates sentenced under the terms of the legislation would have to serve the time consecutively - after their existing sentence.

In 1995 alone, there were 218 reported incidents of inmates throwing bodily fluids at COs in New York's prison system.

"Inmates, I'm told, call it defecation education," Pataki told the union activists at the Council 82 conference. "I call it a felony, and one that should be punishable by consecutive time."

Pataki's words were greeted with a standing ovation from the assembled union leaders. Eliot Seide, Council 82 administrator, said the union will now work to reconcile differences between the Pataki proposal and a similar bill offered by the Democrats in the Assembly. "This legislation is long overdue," said Seide. "This is the year to get it done."

Seide also pointed out that, once a bill becomes law, the union must carefully monitor its application by district attorneys, since some county prosecutors have been remiss in prosecuting prison crimes to the full extent of the statute. Therefore, prohibitions against plea bargaining will be an important part of the legislative negotiations.

Prison guards seek protection from fluids

AP Associated Press

May 4, 2005

MONTPELIER, Vt. —Vermont prisons do a good job at keeping knives and other weapons away from inmates. What they can't take away from offenders are their own bodily fluids.

Urinating in a corrections guard's ice tea and throwing feces at the officers are the types of offenses that guards and prison administrators alike say should be punished more severely in Vermont.

The House Judiciary Committee is discussing whether to make such acts a specific crime after prosecutors said the best they can do is charge an inmate with disorderly conduct, a misdemeanor with a sentence of 60 days.

"For the officers working to have this happen to them in front of potentially 49 other inmates and staff, it demoralizes them on the spot," said Dominic Damato, administrative supervisor at the Southern State Correctional Facility in Springfield.

Assault with bodily fluids poses a health risk for the employees because of the potential for spreading diseases such as hepatitis or AIDS, Damato said. It also makes retention of prison guards a difficult task, he said.

Dave Bellini, a 27-year Corrections employee, said being hit with bodily fluids is worse than being punched. "I've been spit at. It's degrading. It's humiliating," he said.

Corrections staff can discipline inmates who misbehave, such as putting them in segregation, denying privileges and not recommending them for parole, said John Perry, planning director for the Corrections Department. But many inmates who do this sort of thing are in segregation, and sanctions have little or no impact.

Corrections Commissioner Rob Hofmann said the department is looking at new ways of disciplining inmates for unacceptable behavior, including the possibility of feeding them a "nutrition loaf" instead of the traditional meal. The loaf would provide all the nutrition required without the flavor. "It would encourage them to change their behavior," Hofmann said.

Hold it right there, gasser!

Among the new laws proposed in Juneau as the Legislature begins its session is a measure that would make spitting in a peace officer's face, or throwing urine on them, a misdemeanor punishable by 60 days in jail. Other unseemly assaults are also covered by the proposed law, which is sponsored by state representative Bob Lynn, a South Anchorage Republican.

Lynn said Alaska correctional officers came to him looking for a way to head off this form of assault, which is more common behind bars than on the streets. "Currently, the penalty for a prisoner who throws a bodily fluid at a guard - and you'll have to use your imagination on what bodily fluids are - is the same as for shoplifting a Pet Rock at Wal-Mart," said Lynn.

Online prison slang dictionaries call this practice "gassing" and media reports from Outside indicate that it can go far beyond the occasional loogie in the eye. Inmates have been known to save fecal matter and/or urine in a cup or article of clothing and then douse guards with it if they approach the inmate's cell.

The Alaska Department of Corrections doesn't keep track of gassing incidents, spokesman Richard Schmitz said, but they are aware of the problem. The Alaska Correctional Officers Association, the union representing prison guards, supports Lynn's bill. ACOA issued a press release January 9 that said correctional officers "no more want to be spit on at their job than another person would at their job."

A report prepared by Lynn's office found at least 26 states make gassing a crime and 19 states classify it as a felony. The report also shows four states rewrote their anti-gassing laws since 1999. South Dakota included "emisis" - that's Latin for "puke" - in its list of offensive bodily substances.

Lynn's bill, if passed, would create a new Class A misdemeanor under Alaska's harassment statutes. It would apply to anyone "gassing" any corrections officer, police officer or emergency responder in the line of duty.

Told that Minnesota, one state that brought you Walter Mondale, allows gassers to be sentenced up to five years, Lynn said he now wants to make his bill even tougher. "We're going with advice that we got from the legal-eagles around (the capitol), but if I can find a way to amend it in committee, I will."

Man pleads guilty to throwing blood on prison officer

DELHI — A Hancock man pleaded guilty in Delaware County Court on Monday to first-degree promoting prison contraband and aggravated harassment of an employee by an inmate.

Steven J. Caiati, 28, of Hancock agreed to a plea bargain on the two charges, which didn't include other outstanding charges pending against him.

Delaware County District Attorney Richard Northrup said Caiati took a plastic razor apart and used the blade to cut himself June 29.

He was being held in jail on first-degree criminal contempt charges.

Caiati admitted using a razor blade to slit one of his wrists and throwing blood on Sgt. John Lehmann, a corrections officer.

"Instead of shaving with the razor, I took the blade out of it and cut my wrist," Caiati said. "After I cut my wrist, they decided to try to help me."

Caiati indicated that he flipped his wrist and added that he did it "to make my blood go up so they would stay back."

Delaware County Judge Carl Becker sentenced Caiati to two to four years in prison on each count, to run concurrently, and issued an order of protection on Lehmann's behalf. "I would, in all likelihood, have sentenced you to more if this had gone to trial," Becker said. "This is the most dangerous activity that an inmate can take part in. Throwing blood or other bodily fluids is something corrections officers fear more than a physical confrontation."

In other court cases:

- Sherrie L. White, 48, of Hancock pleaded innocent to two counts of driving while intoxicated and failure to keep right. The charges stem from an incident in Deposit on June 12.

White was released on her own recognizance, and her trial was scheduled to begin March 27.

- William T. Brybag, 20, of Fleischmanns pleaded innocent to two counts of third-degree criminal sale of a controlled substance. The charges stem from an incident in Fleischmanns on July 26 in which Brybag allegedly sold cocaine.

Brybag was returned to jail on $10,000 bail. His trial is scheduled for March 27.

- Scott Mattice, 29, of Grand Gorge pleaded innocent to two counts of driving while intoxicated, resisting arrest, reckless driving, leaving the scene of a property damage accident, moving from iane unsafely, no seat belt and uninspected vehicle. The charges stem from an incident in Stamford on Aug. 5.

The Cincinnati Enquirer

LEBANON - A Lebanon Correctional Institution (LCI) inmate Friday became the first Ohio prisoner convicted under a new state law that prohibits throwing bodily substances inside prisons.

A Warren County Common Pleas Court jury deliberated 90 minutes before finding Thomas Blackmon, 48, guilty of harassment by an inmate for squirting urine on LCI supervisor Richard Huggins June 30.

Mr. Blackmon received the maximum sentence, one year. The law was adopted June 11 after corrections officers complained inmates used body fluids against them.

In September, Mr. Blackmon was the first inmate in Ohio charged with the offense.

"I think a lot of prison administrators around the state are paying close attention to this case," said Assistant County Prosecutor Jim Beaton. "It was a test case."

Mr. Blackmon will serve his year after he serves 40-65 years for his role in the 1993 uprising at Southern Ohio Correctional Facility in Lucasville.

"No reaction," Mr. Blackmon said after hearing the verdict. "I'm already doing 40 to 65 years. So what it means is that instead of being 112 when I get out, I'll be 113."

Mr. Huggins, now inspector of institutions at LCI, was relieved. "I hope this sends a message to all inmates that corrections staff are not fair game," Mr. Huggins said.

The jury was apparently unswayed by testimony from Mr. Blackmon and four inmates from the L cell block, the most heavily secured section at LCI.

The inmates, all of whom were convicted in the Lucasville incident, testified the liquid Mr. Blackmon squirted on Mr. Huggins was a concoction of sour milk and eggs, not urine. They said the mixture is used to keep mice and rats from cells.

Paul Boggs, a chemist with the Ohio State Highway Patrol, testified the liquid was urine.

Mr. Blackmon took the stand and said he squirted Mr. Huggins so he could be transferred to another cell. He was unhappy because his cell's toilet was clogged and he was forced to use a bedpan.

DEPARTMENT OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Pawtucket man sentenced to 30 years, with 7 to serve at the ACI

Release date: 2005-04-08

Superior Court Associate Justice Robert D. Krause today sentenced Oliver Lyons, 55, 92 Bates Street, Pawtucket, to five years to serve at the Adult Correctional Institution for a June 13, 2002 felony assault with bodily fluids against a correctional officer. Because the crime was his third felony, Judge Krause sentenced Lyons to 25 years, with two years to serve at the ACI and 23 years suspended with probation. Under the terms imposed, the sentences are to be served consecutively, with the five years to serve on felony assault also to be served consecutively to the sentence Lyons is already serving at the ACI.

A Providence County Superior Court jury deliberated for two hours before finding Lyons guilty of the felony assault charge on February 10, 2005. Special Assistant Attorney General Ronald Gendron prosecuted the case for the State. Gendron presented evidence during the trial that when Correctional Officer Robert Dennett opened the trap on Lyons' cell door at the ACI to retrieve his lunch trash on June 13, 2002, Lyons threw a cupful of liquid through the trap door, striking Dennett on his shirt, pants, and face. Dennett, and other Correctional Officers who witnessed the incident immediately smelled urine and feces on Dennett's uniform. Lyons then proceeded to swear at, and taunt, Dennett. Gendron also presented evidence that Lyons had received more than 400 reprimands for problem behavior during four years as an ACI inmate. Lyons was in a cell in a high security area of the ACI when he assaulted Dennett.

During today's sentencing, Lyons engaged in profanity to lash out against prison guards, police, and the judicial system. Judge Krause had Lyons removed from the courtroom, after Lyons ignored the Judge's instructions that he stop talking.

Attorney General Patrick C. Lynch said, "It's important for all Rhode Islanders to know what correctional officers are up against. There's a reason it's called the toughest beat in the state. As this incident demonstrates, correctional officers confront stressful, demanding, and threatening situations on a daily basis. They deserve, and have, our respect, and our appreciation."

Prisons crack down on 'dashing'

BY TRACI SHURLEY

Posted on Saturday, November 6, 2004

URL: <http://www.nwanews.com/adg/News/97969/>

State prison inmates who use their own bodily fluids to harass guards risk facing a punishment more severe than losing exercise or library privileges; they could end up behind bars for additional years.

That's the message prison officials hope to send with the first-ever conviction this week of a state prison inmate charged with two felony counts for throwing urine and feces at a guard twice in October 2003.

Izard County Circuit Judge Tim Weaver sentenced Grady Newingham, an inmate already serving a 15-year sentence for a rape conviction, to two more years in prison for two counts of aggravated assault on a correctional facility employee.

He was charged under a law that makes it a class D felony to throw blood, urine, feces or seminal fluid at a guard. It was first passed by the Arkansas Legislature in 1997 and the wording of the statute was refined during the 2003 legislative session to make it less vague, prison system officials said. "It is a real problem," Dina Tyler, an Arkansas Department of Correction spokesman said of the practice guards refer to as "dashing." "We think that by being able to prosecute it, it will drop the incident rate because an inmate might think twice if they know they can get more time."

Besides the health implications of having potentially contaminated fluids thrown at guards, it makes their already tough jobs even more uncomfortable, she said. With a turnover rate of almost 33 percent, Arkansas prison officials face a constant struggle to keep qualified staff because of low pay and stressful work conditions. The starting salary for a correctional officer is just over $23,000 a year. "Their job is already hard enough, and this makes it even more difficult," Tyler said of the department's personnel. "No one wants this done to them, and there needs to be a penalty to it beyond just a disciplinary [infraction], and that's what we have done."

The two incidents that led to the charges against the 24-yearold Newingham happened on Oct. 10 and Oct. 29, 2003, at the North Central Unit in Calico Rock.

Both times, Newingham used a cup to dip urine and, the second time, urine mixed with feces, out of his cell toilet. Then, he flung what was in the cup through the bars of his cell, hitting a guard, Tyler said.

Prison officials believe Newingham might have been trying to get a move to the Tucker Maximum Security Unit in Jefferson County as punishment. Instead of a move to Tucker, he was sent to the Varner SuperMax Unit near Grady in November 2003. He remains there and, according to his records, hasn't thrown any bodily fluids at a guard

since, Tyler said.

Maj. Shawn Smith of the Pulaski County jail said his facility is aware of the felony statute, and administrators there have used it to gain convictions. "It certainly is a deterrent to some people.... They may not have realized it was a felony and once they do, they don't do it again," he said.

Though the prison department didn't use the "dashing" law — Ark. Code 5-13-211 — for the first time until 2003, officials say they doubt Newingham's case will be the last.

In 2005, prison officials plan to ask legislators to allow Correction Department attorneys to act as prosecutors in cases against inmates charged for crimes committed inside a correctional institution.

That way, Tyler said, crimes against guards and other inmates can be handled without burdening already busy local prosecuting attorneys.

Inmate convicted of throwing feces at officer

By SARA BONISTEEL
Star-Gazette

ELMIRA -- A Chemung County Court jury on Thursday found a 21-year-old inmate at Southport Correctional Facility guilty of intentionally throwing feces on a correction officer. Conceptualization Gibbs, 21, was found guilty of one count of felonious aggravated harassment of a correctional employee by an inmate, according to Chemung County District Attorney John Trice.

In December 1999, Gibbs threw feces at Correction Officer William Painter, Trice said. Another correction officer and an inmate were also hit.

"Honestly, I can say for the first time in my career that I sincerely believe the jury convicted an innocent man," said Richard W. Rich Jr., Gibb's public defender. "He's not guilty as far as I'm concerned."

The defense contended that Gibbs did not intentionally hit the officer, and the physical evidence proved that, Rich said.

"The physical evidence is quite clear that he threw on another inmate and a small amount of splash landed on the correction officer," Rich said.

Gibbs, who will be sentenced April 2, was charged under the 1996 state law that makes it a felony for an inmate to throw bodily fluids -- blood, urine, feces and semen -- at prison staff. It is not illegal for an inmate to throw feces at another inmate.

The Chemung County district attorney's office prosecuted the state's first successful conviction of an inmate under the law in 1998.

Roger Stokes, a then 38-year-old inmate at Southport Correctional Facility, was convicted of squirting a mixture of feces and urine on Virginia Livermore, a prison counselor, in 1997.

"Since it became a felony, it's slowed down a lot, but it's still happening," said John Winant, chief steward of the Southport Correctional Facility.

"We were becoming victimized by the inmates," he said. "We had no power as far as control of the situation."

Winant said with the rising incidences of diseases such as tuberculosis and hepatitis B in prisons, the deterrent also protects prison employees' health.

Gibbs faces three to five years in prison in addition to the three- to nine-year sentence he is already serving for a second-degree robbery conviction in 1995.

But Thursday's conviction may not be the end of Gibbs' legal troubles.

"There may be assault charges coming out of what he (allegedly) did during trial," Trice said.

After the jury left court Wednesday, Gibbs got into a scuffle in a room adjoining the courtroom and allegedly assaulted the two correction officers escorting him back to the correctional facility, Trice said.

"Mr. Gibbs alleged earlier that one of the officers threatened him, and he refused to return to the facility under their transport," Rich said.

One of the unidentified officers was taken to the hospital, where he was treated for his injuries and released, Winant said.

State police are investigating the charges, Trice said.

Rich said he plans to appeal the jury's decision.

Death row guards facing escalating dangers

Tuesday, May 8, 2001

SAN QUENTIN, CALIF. -- Each time the gates clank shut behind him, prison guard Robert Trono enters a violent realm of bitter men with nothing left to lose.

The 39-year-old sergeant works in a cramped concrete cellblock that houses 85 killers awaiting execution. It is a place where riot gear, stab-proof vests, biohazard body suits and fear are standard issue.

Trono helps oversee inmates known as the Grade-B condemned, the most dangerous of San Quentin prison's 580 death row prisoners. Singled out for their unruly behavior and gang leadership roles, isolated in a three-story building called the Adjustment Center, they are waging an organized behind-bars war against San Quentin's guards and staff.

Over the last 18 months, officials say, Grade-B inmates have committed 67 attacks, triple the rate of only a few years ago. They include one attempted stabbing, 15 kicks and five slashings with prison-made knives and razors.

One convict sliced an officer's wrists and hands when he reached into the inmate's cell to deliver a food tray. And in five other incidents, small arrows fired from makeshift blowguns have stuck in the arms, necks and faces of guards who were not wearing protective shields.

"Walking those cellblocks requires every bit of your attention, every moment of the day," said Trono, a cautious, compact man. "There's no room to breathe a sigh of relief until you're walking out those doors."

What Trono and others dread most are "gassings," when prisoners hurl cups filled with feces and urine or even infected blood at the faces of guards. Prison officials say 41 gassing attacks have taken place at the Adjustment Center since 1999, requiring officers to be tested for HIV and hepatitis C.

"Being gassed turns you into a different person," said Tony Jones, president of San Quentin's 800-member correctional officers union. "It's the most disgusting thing you can ever imagine. The first time it happened to me, the stuff got into my eyes and ears. I took 15 showers that day and I still couldn't get clean."

New York's Pataki Promises Action on Inmate "Anti-Thrower" Bill

Gov. George Pataki, in his first address before members of AFSCME Council 82, promised action this year on a union-sponsored bill to crack down on inmates who toss bodily fluids on corrections officers.

Speaking at Council 82's annual political action conference on February 28 in Albany, Pataki proposed a new crime, "aggravated assault upon an employee of a correction facility or a parole officer," which would subject the thrower to a Class D felony.

Inmates sentenced under the terms of the legislation would have to serve the time consecutively - after their existing sentence.

In 1995 alone, there were 218 reported incidents of inmates throwing bodily fluids at COs in New York's prison system

"Inmates, I'm told, call it defecation education," Pataki told the union activists at the Council 82 conference. "I call it a felony, and one that should be punishable by consecutive time."

(1) 30 days if the defendant has been previously convicted of a crime against a person or a crime involving domestic violence;

(2) 60 days if the defendant has been previously convicted two or more times of a crime against a person or a crime involving domestic violence, or a combination of those crimes.

(h) A defendant convicted of failure to register as a sex offender or child kidnapper in the second degree under AS 11.56.840 shall be sentenced to a minimum term of imprisonment of 35 days.

(i) If a defendant is sentenced under (g) of this section,

(1) execution of sentence may not be suspended and probation or parole may not be granted until the minimum term of imprisonment has been served;

(2) imposition of sentence may not be suspended;

(3) the minimum term of imprisonment may not otherwise be reduced.

(j) In this section,

(1) "crime against a person" means a crime under AS 11.41, or a crime in this or another jurisdiction having elements similar to those of a crime under AS 11.41;

(2) "crime involving domestic violence" has the meaning given in AS 18.66.990.

Sec. 11.41.230. Assault in the fourth degree.

(a) A person commits the crime of assault in the fourth degree if

(1) that person recklessly causes physical injury to another person;

(2) with criminal negligence that person causes physical injury to another person by means of a dangerous instrument; or

(3) by words or other conduct that person recklessly places another person in fear of imminent physical injury.

(b) Assault in the fourth degree is a class A misdemeanor.

Sec. 11.81.250. Classification of offenses.

(a) For purposes of sentencing under AS 12.55, all offenses defined in this title, except murder in the first and second degree, attempted murder in the first degree, solicitation to commit murder in the first degree, conspiracy to commit murder in the first degree, sexual assault in the first degree, sexual abuse of a minor in the first degree, misconduct involving a controlled substance in the first degree, and kidnapping, are classified on the basis of their seriousness, according to the type of injury characteristically caused or risked by commission of the offense and the culpability of the offender. Except for murder in the first and second degree, attempted murder in the first degree, solicitation to commit murder in the first degree, conspiracy to commit murder in the first degree, sexual assault in the first degree, sexual abuse of a minor in the first degree, misconduct involving a controlled substance in the first degree, and kidnapping, the offenses in this title are classified into the following categories:

(1) class A felonies, which characteristically involve conduct resulting in serious physical injury or a substantial risk of serious physical injury to a person;

(2) class B felonies, which characteristically involve conduct resulting in less severe violence against a person than class A felonies, aggravated offenses against property interests, or aggravated offenses against public administration or order;

(3) class C felonies, which characteristically involve conduct serious enough to deserve felony classification but not serious enough to be classified as A or B felonies;

(4) class A misdemeanors, which characteristically involve less severe violence against a person, less serious offenses against property interests, less serious offenses against public administration or order, or less serious offenses against public health and decency than felonies;

(5) class B misdemeanors, which characteristically involve a minor risk of physical injury to a person, minor offenses against property interests, minor offenses against public administration or order, or minor offenses against public health and decency;

(6) violations, which characteristically involve conduct inappropriate to an orderly society but which do not denote criminality in their commission.

(b) The classification of each felony defined in this title, except murder in the first and second degree, attempted murder in the first degree, solicitation to commit murder in the first degree, conspiracy to commit murder in the first degree, sexual assault in the first degree, sexual abuse of a minor in the first degree, misconduct involving a controlled substance in the first degree, and kidnapping, is designated in the section defining it. A felony under Alaska law defined outside this title for which no penalty is specifically provided is a class C felony.

(c) The classification of each misdemeanor defined in this title is designated in the section defining it. A misdemeanor under Alaska law defined outside this title for which no penalty is provided is a class A misdemeanor.

Dear Representative Lynn:

Just a short note to let you know that I'm both highly appreciative- and supportive- of your efforts regarding HB343, which proposes more realistic levels of punishment for Peace Officers, Firefighters, and Correctional Officers who are assaulted with bodily fluids.

As your position-paper states, these type of assaults are both degrading, as well as potentially deadly. Being spit upon, having blood or feces flung at you, etc. should never be considered "just part of our job;" those offenders who commit such acts of violence should be punished at the felony level.

On behalf of the forty-two sworn police officers of the Fairbanks Police Department, we thank you for your advocacy on our behalf.

Sincerely,

State Capitol, Room 415
Juneau, AK 99801-1182

Dear Representative Lynn,

Reference: House Bill 343

I would like to take this opportunity to provide my unequivocal support of this House Bill.

The act of someone throwing bodily fluids at any individual is not only repulsive, but should have a penalty attached to it which will deter the activity, or at least punish the offender more appropriately than what is currently allowed under State Law.

Peace Officers are constrained in their actions by their Oath of office to Serve and Protect. No employee should ever be expected to accept this kind of an assault as part of their job duties. The current penalty for this type of offense leaves little justice for the victim.

The reckless conduct of endangering an officer with bodily fluids, such as urine, semen, spit, fecal material or blood, constitutes a real health risk which often is not something that can be immediately diagnosed. This uncertainty causes mental anguish for the victim and his/her family. This can have an effect on the Officers family unit, his morale, and for the employer can effect retention of employees.

With this type of behavior on the rise, it is imperative that some teeth be added to the law. This bill takes a positive step in that direction.

I would like to commend you for introducing this legislation. If I can be of further assistance to you in getting this bill passed please don't hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,
