This legislation will require that an applicant for an original Alaska Driver's License, over age 21, take and pass a separate knowledge (written) test specific to alcohol awareness. The 1-time cost is to contract with our software provider for programing this new test into our existing testing machines.

Sponsor Statement HB 75

Driver's License: Alcohol Awareness/Minors
2/12/07

House Bill 75 continues my efforts to improve alcohol management and awareness in Alaska.

It stipulates that all drivers' licenses issued to a person under 21 years of age will expire within ninety-days of the person's 21st birthday.

HB75 will further require that a person turning 21 years of age take a test regarding alcohol safety, awareness, and laws related to drinking and driving, prior to receiving an adult Alaska driver's license.

Once HB75 takes effect, all drivers' licenses of Alaskans 21 years of age or older will be adult licenses. The alcohol awareness test will serve to relate the privilege of driving to the responsibility of consuming alcohol. The test will be designed by the Division of Motor Vehicles, and it is the Sponsor's intent to have MADD participate in the process of designing this test.

HB75 will also help cut down on minors consuming alcohol, by creating a bright line between adult and minor drivers licenses, since a license issued to a person over 21 years of age will be an adult license and look different than a license issued to a minor.

Please join me in supporting this important piece of legislation.

Changes to House Bill 75 version 25-LS0348\A to version 25-LS0348\E

The following changes were made to version \A:

- Page 1, Lines 8-9 the following language was removed [ , and a person renewing a license for the first time after the effective date of this Act]. The effect of this amendment is that a person, whose driver's license is in good standing, will not be required to take the alcohol awareness test when renewing their license.
- Section 2. Expiration and renewal of a license issued to a person 21 years of age. This section was reworded to eliminate the problem that would occur if a person was turning 21 on the last day of the month, and it fell on a weekend. This would cause their license to expire and it would not be renewable until the following work week.

MADD Fairbanks, thoughts / comments re: Jay's DMV bill HB 75
Jane Pierson (Jay's aide)

We have not yet talked to either Jay, or Duane Bannock (DMV Director) about this bill.

Under this bill, a driver's license obtained before the driver reaches the age of 21 would expire at the end of the month in which that person reaches age 21.

A driver would then have to pass a re-test at the age of 21.

This re-test would focus on alcohol awareness and safety, and the laws related to alcohol and driving.

The new license would state that the person has passed this alcohol awareness test.

We do like the idea of putting this kind of emphasis on the dangers of drinking and driving, and we think that DMV is the appropriate place -- it's a perfect and efficient funnel point for virtually all resident drivers driving on Alaskan roads. We think that Jay's idea has merit, and that it can just be incorporated into the existing licensing process.

You can get a learner's permit at 14 -- we believe (but aren't sure) that this is a different test from the one you take at 16 to get your license.

You can get your permanent driver's license at 16.

We think that every test -- age 14 (learner's permit), age 16 (permanent driver's license), & age 21 (re-test, w/ alcohol emphasis) -- should have direct questions regarding DUI laws and the effects of driving under the influence.

We should introduce the alcohol issue early and often.

There should be tough, no-nonsense questions, statements, and graphic photos -- nothing watered down or sugar-coated.

We don't think that we should wait until age 21 (when young people often still feel that they know it all and that they're immortal).

It would be much better to influence them at the youngest age (14, for learner's permit) when they are eager to get "wheels" and might pay closer attention to things that help them achieve that.

In subsequent years to 21, they might pay more attention to DUIs, DUI crashes, insurance rates, etc., and realize that these are very serious issues, especially as the prospect of passing the test again looms.

Kids as young as 14 are well capable of understanding the dangers of drinking and driving. (They should begin hearing this message at home and at school at a much younger age than that.) It's a mistake to wait until they are 21 to emphasize it. That's too late.

We suggest that the DUI problem be covered very thoroughly in the driver's test study manual, and that there be a significant percentage of alcohol / DUI-related questions on every test (we don't know how many questions, total or alcohol-related, are on the test now), and that you don't pass the test if you miss more than one of these questions. This will help stress the importance of this issue.

A few extra questions should add no more than a few short minutes to the test -- if they study and know the info, they breeze right through -- if they didn't study, they struggle and it's their own fault.

Again, this will help elevate the importance of alcohol issues and safety, and they will study it if only to pass the test.

We would be happy to submit and / or review questions for consideration for a test (favor multiple choice over True / False ?).

We are also in favor of requiring the viewing of the Troopers' year 2000 Alaska DUI fatalities video (~45 minutes) at one or more of the licensing ages (at 21, and again at either 14 or 16?).

It is a very, very good video, and it really brings the message home. (If you have not yet seen it, you should do so.)

While we can see DMV's point (Mr. Bannock made this point with us a couple of years ago) of not wanting to lengthen the time that one spends at DMV, we respectfully think that it is misguided in this case.

People spend many hours a week shopping, watching TV and movies, surfing the net, watching and playing sports, etc. Again, with all due respect, we should not be cowed into believing that it's a big imposition to have them spend one extra hour at DMV once or twice in their lifetime, especially when it will help save lives. A strong, responsible, caring legislature should step up and demonstrate that they care more about saving Alaskan lives than they do about some tired old joke about the lines at DMV. A clever ad campaign could kill this joke in a hurry.

Incorporating these changes into the existing licensing process should minimize the cries of added state budget expense and also emphasize the importance of this issue. And theoretically, any small increase in the cost of improving the manual and test questions would be negated quickly by decreased DUI-related crashes, damages, and court costs (and DUI perpetrators should have a tough time convincing the system that they were ignorant of the law or of the consequences of driving under the influence).

Thanks for your consideration of these comments and suggestions.

Sincerely,

Pete Eagan

Educated bill has prevention potential

Kudos to Rep. Jay Ramras, R-Fairbanks, of House District 10 for pre-filing a bill that goes beyond enforcement and stresses the importance of educating drivers on the dangers of alcohol and responsible drinking practices.

According to a Jan. 4 press release, legislation passed through the pre-filed bill would require those 21 years of age or older applying for a new license or renewing a license for the first time to pass a test regarding alcohol awareness, safety and the laws relating to alcohol and driving before a license is issued or renewed.

The release said Ramras plans to invite Mothers Against Drunk Driving officials to work with the Division of Motor Vehicles in creating the alcohol awareness and safety test to reinforce the importance of responsible driving practices for those who are legally able to drink alcohol.

The new law would also seek to reduce minor alcohol consumption, since the license of a driver who passes the test would differ in appearance from one issued to a minor, allowing those who are under 21 to be easily recognized by businesses that serve and sell alcohol.

We all know youth who want to drink can be very creative in how they obtain alcohol, but Ramras' proposed legislation is one more step toward creating responsible drivers by further reinforcing the importance of responsible drinking behavior.

No one can discount the steps taken for youth as far as education goes. Anchorage Police Department school resource officers work regularly within the Anchorage School District to educate youth about the dangers of drugs and alcohol through the Drug Abuse Resistance Education program.

The message of not driving while intoxicated is further reinforced for young drivers prior to obtaining a license through the DMV's standard testing, but how many of them remain aware of what the laws and repercussions are beyond the one or two questions they might have to answer to obtain or qualify for a license?

The best form of prevention is education, and Ramras' proposed legislation takes a valuable step toward reinforcing that instruction shouldn't end for young drivers who are no longer in school. Providing additional reinforcement of the importance of drinking responsibly will go a long way toward reinforcing laws and saving lives before irresponsible habits can be formed by drivers who have left the classroom behind.

It's all too easy for young drivers to embrace the right to drink when they turn 21 and forget everything that was stressed years before or for educators to say they've done their part in telling them the rules. In the end, it's each driver's responsibility to make the right decision, and no driver can plead ignorance of the laws that govern alcohol consumption and driving, but there is no harm in giving drivers a reminder and reinforcing laws, particularly when they are reaching an age of change, such as those who are becoming legally able to drink.

Driving while intoxicated is not a victimless crime. Those who drive under the influence of alcohol transform their vehicle into a weapon and threaten the life of everyone sharing the streets with them. I have no pity for drivers who make the conscious choice to climb behind the wheel while intoxicated only to end up in the back seat of a police car. However, it makes sense to give them a gentle reminder of the laws governing drinking and driving before they or someone else pays with their life.

Other legislators should take a cue from Ramras and push through what is a simple way to help keep our roadways and citizens safer. While I know there is no cure for the human tendency to forego common sense in the wake of a night of drinking, perhaps additional education will reinforce for young drivers the importance of planning before partying and the very real consequences of their actions before they end up with a MADD mother of their own.

I, ERIC J WEATHERS oppose HB 75. There are more than enough drivers license laws, this bill will only allow the social scientists to get more money for nothing. I am over 50 years old, if I do not know how to drink by now no government test is going to teach me!

I, DENNY KAY WEATHERS oppose HB 75 in its entirety. I myself am a non drinker and a non drug user and the thought of a government forced alcohol and drug awareness and safety examination is offensive to me. I also do not believe an Intrusive Government and this bill is very intrusive.

Your bill only targets the honest people, most DWI/DUI accidents that happen are by persons that have already had their licenses suspended or revoked but they are sill driving, this test would not do a thing to stop them as they do not care. The man that stole the tow truck in Anchorage and the went on a driving rampage killing another as he plowed into him had no license. The drunk driver that killed cousins Blake and Kramer and injured their Grandparents, Dave and Patsy Glasen on the Portage Road had no licenses and he been arrested several times and had even attended some of your so called alcohol and drug awareness classes, it did not stop him.

Those that I have talked to that have been arrested and convicted on either alcohol or drug violation and required by the court to take the alcohol and drug awareness and safety examination as part of their sentence say it is a joke. Anyone can provide a correct answer and sit through their video and lectures, these classes do not tend to change a persons behavior and will do nothing to stop drunk driving or drug use. This bill is only a way to support more unnecessary socialist government crap and cost the tax payers at the same time.
