A BILL

FOR AN ACT ENTITLED

1 "An Act relating to missing vulnerable adult prompt response and notification plans."

2 BE IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF ALASKA:

3  Section 1. AS 44.35.020(a) is amended to read:

4 (a) The Department of Military and Veterans' Affairs shall

5 (1) conduct the military affairs of the state as prescribed by the 6 Military Code;

7 (2) cooperate with the federal government in matters of mutual
8 concern pertaining to the welfare of Alaskan veterans, including establishing,
9 extending, or strengthening services for veterans in the state; [AND]

10 (3) annually, not later than February 1, make available a report to the 11 legislature, through the governor, outlining the department's activities during the 12 previous calendar year; the department shall notify the legislature that the report is 13 available; and

14 (4) cooperate with the Department of Public Safety to develop and 15 implement missing vulnerable adult prompt response and notification plans

1 under AS 44.41.060.

2 * Sec. 2. AS 44.41 is amended by adding a new section to read:

3 Sec. 44.41.060. Missing vulnerable adult prompt response and notification
 4 plans. (a) The Department of Public Safety, in cooperation with the Department of 5 Military and Veterans' Affairs, shall, using statewide and local radio and television
 6 broadcasts, newspapers, and other communications media,

7 (1) develop and implement missing vulnerable adult prompt response
 8 and notification plans for use by law enforcement agencies, groups, and persons to 9 locate a vulnerable adult who is missing; and

10 (2) coordinate the use of those plans.

11 (b) The plans required by (a) of this section must at least include standards for

12 (1) determining when and where to implement a plan; standards
 13 developed under this paragraph must at least address

14 (A) when a vulnerable adult will be considered missing; and

15 (B) the format, contents, and distribution of reports prepared by 16 participating law enforcement agencies and others searching for a missing 17 vulnerable adult; and

18 (2) voluntary participation in the plan by radio and television
 19 broadcasters, newspaper publishers, and owners and operators of other 20 communications media.

21 (c) Notwithstanding another provision of law,

22 (1) a law enforcement agency, or an officer or employee of the law
 23 enforcement agency, is not civilly liable for 24 (A) failing to participate in a missing vulnerable adult prompt

 25 response and notification plan;

26 (B) failing to implement a missing vulnerable adult prompt
 27 response and notification plan; or

28 (C) activating a missing vulnerable adult prompt response and 29 notification plan if implementation is undertaken in good faith;

30 (2) a radio or television broadcaster, a newspaper publisher, or an 31 owner or operator of other communications media is not civilly liable for participating

1 in a missing vulnerable adult prompt response and notification plan or for participating 2 in the actual implementation of a plan if the broadcaster, publisher, or owner or 3 operator has verified the authenticity of the plan's implementation with the law
4 enforcement agency.

5 (d) In this section, "vulnerable adult" means a person 18 years of age or older
6 who, because of physical, intellectual, or developmental disability, is unable to meet
7 the person's own needs or to seek help without assistance.

RE: CSHB 59 Changes

Changes from "P" version to "Y" version

Page 2, lines 21-29: adds a provision to protect a law enforcement agency, or an employee or an officer of a law enforcement agency from being civilly liable for failing to participate in a missing vulnerable adult plan, failing to implement a missing vulnerable adult plan, or for activating, in good faith, a missing vulnerable adult alert.

This provision (AS 44.41.060(c)(1)) was in SB 179 from the 27th Legislature (on which HB 59 is modeled). It was in HB 59 as introduced and was removed in the House Military and Veterans' Affairs Committee due to a misunderstanding. The Department of Law requested that this section, providing the State with tort immunity for following the law, be back in.

This is the only change in the "Y" version. I request that the House State Affairs Committee adopt the "Y" Committee Substitute and put the provision back in.

Please contact my legislative aide, Miles Brookes, at 465-4940 with any questions.

Analysis of Changes to HB 59 Between Versions N and ~~O~~ P

1. Page 2, lines 7-20; provide clarification for the Department of Military and Veterans' Affairs and the Department of Public Safety to design the missing vulnerable adult plans. Changes include;

A. Subsection requiring the development and implementation of missing vulnerable adult response and notification plans.

B. Subsections outlining minimum standards for the plans including, determining where and when to implement the plan, when a vulnerable adult will be considered missing, and the format, contents, and distribution of reports of the plan.

These changes give flexibility to the involved departments in planning and implementing the plans.

2. Page 2, lines 27-29; adopts the prior definition of "vulnerable adult" used in AS 47.24.900 prior to its amendment (CHAPTER 71 SLA 12) for the purpose of this section of law. A "vulnerable adult", for the purposes of this bill, will be defined as;

"a person 18 years of age or older who, because of physical or mental impairment, is unable to meet the persons own needs or to seek help without assistance"

The definition of "vulnerable adult" will not be changed in AS 47.24.900 or affect the term "vulnerable adult" in any statute outside of HB 59.

Sponsor Statement

HB 59 – Missing Vulnerable Adult Response Plan

HB 59 creates a new statewide system that will help find missing vulnerable adults. This system, similar to the nationwide Amber Alert System, will notify the public when a mentally or physically impaired senior goes missing.

This bill will require the Department of Military and Veterans' Affairs (DMVA) and the Department of Public Safety (DPS) to develop and implement notification plans for the event of a missing vulnerable adult. The plan will use a voluntary network of television and radio stations and newspapers to alert the public of a missing adult. Additionally, the bill calls for DMVA and DPS to establish standards on when an alert is triggered and protocols on when a vulnerable adult is considered missing. Currently, 29 states have the Silver Alert System or a similar program¹ used for the recovery of missing vulnerable adults.

This bill will provide a valuable public system to help ensure that the search for Alaska's missing vulnerable adults happens quickly and efficiently.

If you have any questions, please contact Representative Gruenberg's aide, Miles Brookes, at (907) 465-4940.

Silver Alert

Modeled after the Amber Alert, the Silver Alert is an emergency system in which law enforcement can broadcast regional or statewide alerts for missing seniors and/or other adults with Alzheimer's or other cognitive disorders.

A growing number of states are enacting laws that call for the development of the Silver Alert program and some have implemented their own notification systems.

Activation criteria varies from state to state, see list below for information on the Silver Alert program in your state.

Fairbanks woman's death sheds light on harsh reality of living with Alzheimer's disease

by Dorothy Chomicz / dchomicz@newsminer.com

12.03.11 - 12:28 am

FAIRBANKS — When you are caring for a loved one with Alzheimer's, the possibility of that person wandering off is an ever-present worry. In fact, six out of 10 Alzheimer's patients will wander at some point, and many do so repeatedly, according to the Alzheimer's Association website (www.alz.org).

The situation becomes even more serious in places like Alaska, where severe weather conditions can spell death for someone who has wandered outside and is unprepared for the elements.

This danger was brought to reality this week when Bonnie L. Scott, a 63-year-old Fairbanks woman who suffered from Alzheimer's, became confused while driving an acquaintance home in Fairbanks and ended up 80 miles northeast on the Steese Highway.

Scott wandered away from her vehicle after running out of gas, and Alaska State Troopers were able to follow her footprints into the woods, where they found her body. She had died of exposure after walking by a manned Department of Transportation maintenance facility in which she could have found shelter and aid.

Most cases of wandering do not occur in vehicles and are instead instances of the individual simply walking out of the door while a caretaker is distracted or sleeping.

To minimize the risk of wandering, experts suggest making changes around the home, such as camouflaging exit doors by painting them the same color as the wall, and draping door knobs with same-color cloth.

Placing a mirror next to the door can also stop the potential wanderer — they either think there is someone else there, or they become distracted by their own reflection.

Extra door latches can be placed at the tops or bottom of doors, where they will not be noticed, and car keys should be kept hidden. Chimes or alarms can be placed on doors to alert the caregiver.

Since wandering is often caused by restlessness, fear or physical need, make sure that basics such as hunger, thirst and the need to use the toilet are all met regularly.

If it is physically possible, provide the individual with recreational opportunities such as short, supervised walks or get them to help with simple household chores. Reassure them if they feel agitated or fearful, and give them a routine to help them feel secure.

Even though caregivers are often tempted to keep a person's Alzheimer's a secret, it is important that neighbors and family members be told of potential wandering, and be provided with a good contact number. Always keep a current, clear photo of the individual on hand, and consider keeping one on file with your local police department.

Keep as much identification as possible on the person — place it in every coat, purse, pocket or wallet, and think about providing the person with an ID bracelet or necklace.

Since identification is only helpful once the person has been found, consider purchasing an electronic tracking device that can be used to locate them before tragedy occurs. According to the Alzheimer's Foundation of America website, a person with dementia "only stands a 50 percent chance of survival if they are not found within the first 24 hours."

Finally, do not leave the individual alone. Since it is virtually impossible for one person to keep an Alzheimer's sufferer in sight at all times, it is essential that the caregiver establish a support network that can help out and provide a break when needed.

Alzheimer's Resource of Alaska provides services, information and education to Alaskans dealing with Alzheimer's and has five offices statewide. They can be reached at their Fairbanks office at 452-2277, or visited at www.alzalaska.org.

Nude man crosses channel to Douglas after hit-and-run accident

Posted: January 25, 2013 - 1:27pm

JUNEAU EMPIRE

A hit-and-run accident involving a nude pedestrian on Egan Drive near Sunny Point sparked a confusing series of events Thursday night that had police searching for an injured person — and discovering that he had crossed Gastineau Channel to seek help in North Douglas.

A woman called police at 10:30 p.m. to say a nude man was at the doorstep of her North Douglas home, near the waterfront, and he was injured.

Police found tracks leading from the channel and called for an ambulance, saying the 28-year-old man was hypothermic and blacking out. The man suffered apparently non-life-threatening injuries, police said in a prepared release. He was not believed to be intoxicated.

He was taken to Bartlett Regional Hospital.

Police found the scene of the accident and determined that the man proceeded through the wetlands and channel after being struck by a vehicle. Police say they gathered “numerous articles of evidence.”

At about 12:30 p.m., according to police scanner traffic, the man's mother called police to say her son, who suffered from a mental health issue, was missing and the last time she saw him in the Lemon Creek area he was wearing just a bath towel. Police informed her of his whereabouts.

Police are searching for the driver, who fled the scene. Anyone with information is encouraged to contact the Juneau Police Department at 586-0600.

FISCAL NOTE ANALYSIS

STATE OF ALASKA
2013 LEGISLATIVE SESSION

BILL NO. HB059

Analysis

This bill amends AS 44.35.020 by adding a new paragraph requiring the Department of Military and Veterans Affairs (DMVA), in cooperation with the Department of Public Safety (DPS), to develop and implement missing vulnerable adult response and notification plans under proposed AS 44.41.060.

This bill also amends AS 44.41 by adding a new section requiring that DPS, in cooperation with DMVA and using statewide and local radio and television broadcasters and newspaper publishers, develop and implement plans for use by law enforcement agencies to locate a vulnerable adult who is missing and specifying what that plan shall include.

It is expected that DPS will develop the missing vulnerable adult response and notification plan within existing resources. Therefore, a zero fiscal note is being submitted.

MEMORANDUM

March 11, 2013

SUBJECT: HB 59: Missing Vulnerable Adults Legislation
(Work Order No. 28-LS0260\A)

TO: Representative Max Gruenberg
Attn: Miles Brookes

FROM: Kathleen Straßbaugh
Legislative Counsel

HB 59, which, if enacted, would require the Department of Public Safety, in co-operation with the Department of Military and Veterans Affairs, to develop a plan for using statewide media outlets to assist in locating vulnerable adults who are missing. You have asked whether it is necessary to add to the bill authority for the departments to make regulations. In my opinion, the answer is no.

The bill is an instruction to agencies to cooperate in developing a plan. It does not appear to require the departments to regulate the conduct of members of public. AS 44.62.640(a)(3); Cf. State v. Nondalton Tribal Council, 268 P.2d 293, 303 (Alaska 2012) (land use plan mandated by statute not a regulation subject to the Administrative Procedures Act). The plan will allow for, but does not require, participation by media outlets and the public. It does not seem necessary to authorize regulations under these circumstances.

If I may be of further assistance, please advise.

The Honorable Max Gruenberg
Alaska State House of Representatives
State Capitol, Rm. 110
120 4th Street, Mail Stop 3100
Juneau AK 99801-1182

Dear Representative Gruenberg,

In my capacity as President of the Alaska Association of Chiefs of Police, I am writing to express our enthusiastic support of House Bill 59, "An Act relating to missing vulnerable adult prompt response and notification plans". Our Association is comprised of more than 100 law enforcement executives from all across Alaska, and we applaud your effort to help agencies work together more easily in the protection of vulnerable adults.

When vulnerable individuals of any age are missing, time is of the essence, and HB 59 provides additional measures that will speed the actions of involved agencies and hopefully improve the rate of successful recovery, much as the Amber Alert system has done for missing children.

We look forward to working with you to insure that HB 45 is passed, and encourage you to contact our Executive Director, Kalle Klaysmat, at 907-394-5426 or by email at kalle.klaysmat@aacop.org should there be some way we can be of assistance in that regard.

Respectfully,

Re: HB 59 Missing Vulnerable Adult Response Plan - Support

Dear Representative Gruenberg,

On behalf of the 94,000 members of AARP Alaska, I am grateful for your sponsorship of this important legislation to create an emergency response plan to assist in locating a missing vulnerable adult. We offer our support for the passage of this bill.

Just reading through the bill stirs up many memories and emotions of what I often recall as the worst night of my life. As the director of an adult day center in Anchorage, I was responsible for the safety of one of our members who left the building unnoticed in mid-October not many years ago, and went missing. As a center that specialized in caring for persons with dementia, it was not unusual for our members to wander and occasionally try to leave the premises. We had what we believed were good procedures in place to ensure no one left the campus and if they did, how we would find them. It had always been sufficient before...until this particular incident.

When the member was noted missing, and an immediate search of the facility, campus, and neighborhood failed to locate him, we exceeded the limits of any prior planning and began to improvise our response. Throughout the evening we summoned more and more help, including family members, law enforcement, media, and every available staff and volunteer. At midnight the search was called off without success. The weather was chilly and damp. The only available night vision device (at the time) was out in the Mat-Su Valley and couldn't arrive before morning. After the longest night of my life, the next morning at first light the search resumed, and the member was finally found lying in the grass within less than a mile of the center. He was unharmed, though wet and very disoriented.

It is not just professional experience that convinces me of the need for a formulated plan of response. It also happened to my father in Colorado. He walked over a mile and a half away from his assisted living home along and across very busy thoroughfares, and ended up at a Subway Sandwich Shop with no idea where he lived or how he'd gotten there. That incident precipitated his placement into a locked "memory care" unit where he remained for the rest of his life.

The vulnerability of frail elders, especially when there is cognitive impairment, poses too great a risk to not have a plan. The experience of community, public safety and law enforcement, media, and military support all working together with defined and efficient roles when a child is missing, shows us the benefits of a coordinated response. Indeed, in states where "silver alert" procedures are in place, the successful safe return of vulnerable adults to their home has improved significantly.

With the projected demographic tidal wave of numbers of older people, and consequently those with significant physical or cognitive impairment, it is urgent that plans are in place to quickly act and prevent needless tragedy. "Vulnerable adult" has a legal definition, but it also represents a mother or father, a husband or a wife. No family member should have to endure any more time of uncertainty and anxiety for a loved one's safe return than absolutely necessary. The development of a response plan as your bill suggests will make sure of that.

Thank you for your consideration and sponsorship of this important legislation. Should you have any questions regarding AARP Alaska's support for HB 59, please feel free to contact me.

Sincerely,

AGENET

Alaska Geriatric Exchange Network

An Association of Advocates and Service Providers for Older Alaskans

March 14, 2013

Representative Bob Lynn
Alaska State Capitol, Room 108
Juneau, AK 99801

Dear Representative Lynn,

Agenet is pleased to write a letter in support of House Bill 59, an act providing for the safety of missing vulnerable adults. House Bill 59 would call on the Department of Military and Veterans Affairs to coordinate with the Department of Public Safety to design and implement an "Amber Alert" type notification system to help locate missing senior citizens and adults with disabilities.

Wandering is one of the most significant personal safety risks faced by individuals with Alzheimer's disease. Nearly 60% of people with Alzheimer's disease wander at some point during the course of their disease. Approximately half of all wanderings result in personal injury if the person is not found within 24 hours (Alzheimer's Association 2011). For an older person, being outside unprotected during the wintertime even for a short time, wandering can have life and death consequences.

A Silver Alert system would make use of the public broadcasting system to send out an immediate bulletin when a vulnerable older person is missing. Through public awareness, the Silver Alert program would substantially increase the chances of finding a vulnerable adult within the crucial 24-hour period from when he or she first goes missing. House Bill 59 would not present additional costs to the state, yet it would save local public safety departments valuable resources with shorter, more successful missing person searches.

The majority of states have established Silver Alert-type systems. Considering Alaska has the fastest growing senior population in the country, I encourage the State of Alaska to do the same. Members of the Alaska Geriatric Exchange Network (Agenet) are experienced senior service providers from across Alaska and we ask you to support House Bill 59.

Sincerely,

Subject: Support for HB 59, Missing Vulnerable Adult Prompt Response & Notification Plan

Dear Representative Foster, Representative LeDoux, and House Military & Veterans' Affairs Members:

The Alaska Commission on Aging (ACoA) is pleased to offer our support for HB 59, a bill sponsored by Representative Gruenberg, to establish a vulnerable adult prompt response and notification plan that will involve the cooperation of the Department of Public Safety with the Department of Military and Veterans' Affairs. Based on our understanding, the proposed vulnerable adult response program would be modeled after the successful Amber Alert used to find missing children and use media outlets and existing emergency notification infrastructure. Although this legislation addresses the problems of all vulnerable missing adults, the ACoA will focus on benefits we perceive for vulnerable older Alaskans from this legislation.

Wandering outside unattended and unprotected is a significant personal safety risk for persons with Alzheimer's disease. According to the Alzheimer's Association (2011), nearly 60% of people with Alzheimer's disease wander at some point during the course of their disease. If not found within a 24-hour period, up to one-half of those wanderings may result in personal injury or death. For older Alaskans wandering outside during the winter or in areas with moose or bear nearby, getting lost has life and death consequences.

As part of our efforts to learn more about the needs of people with Alzheimer's disease and related dementia (ARD) and their caregivers, ACoA conducted seven community forums statewide that were attended by 161 persons, many of whom are unpaid family caregivers. Improving public response services to reduce safety risks for persons with Alzheimer's disease who wander was identified as a high priority concern by the forums' participants.

The ACoA supports HB 59 that authorizes the Department of Military and Veterans' Affairs to work in cooperation with the Department of Public Safety and develop a missing vulnerable adult response plan that will improve the safety of vulnerable Alaskans, such as individuals with Alzheimer's disease and related dementia. We understand that this program will not present any significant cost to the state and addresses the need for a formal notification system to help locate missing vulnerable adults, such as older Alaskans with ARD, who often become disoriented due to their impaired condition and whose personal safety is at risk. The majority of states have established "silver alerts." An added benefit of this legislation is that it will help to promote more awareness among law enforcement officials regarding the issues of older Alaskans.

Please feel free to contact Denise Daniello, ACoA's executive director (465-4879 or denise.daniello@alaska.gov) should you require additional information about our position. Thank you for your support of HB 59 and for recognizing the critical need to improve public safety for persons with Alzheimer's disease and other vulnerable adults.

Sincerely,

Paula Pawlowski

Chair, Alaska Commission on Aging

Denise Daniello

Dear Representative Gruenberg,

Thank you for introducing HB 59, creating a safety plan for vulnerable adults who are missing and at risk in Alaska. It is very timely given the rise in the number of vulnerable adults in Alaska. Other states have created a Silver Alert program that targets only senior citizens, whereas your bill extends the protection to all vulnerable adults.

Usually seniors are considered, but there are adults with physical and intellectual disabilities, persons with mental illness who may be distraught and suicidal, and soldiers and veterans who suffer from traumatic brain injuries who may become disoriented and in need of assistance.

The School of Social Work at the University of Alaska Anchorage graduates professional social workers who provide a variety of services to vulnerable populations throughout Alaska and this alert program will be of great benefit to them should one of their clients become at risk.

I strongly support this legislation and am hopeful that it will become law this Legislative session.

Sincerely yours,
