Summary of Changes from HB 68 ver A to CS 68 ver W

The first change is an amendment to AS 14.56.120(a), and it came at the request of the librarians in the State Library: changing the number of hard copies of reports delivered to library from four to five. The library holds one copy of each report, circulates one, and sends three other copies to UA, ARLIS, and the Library of Congress.

The second change is an amendment to AS 14.56.170, and it allows members of the public to request print copies of reports from the state library free of charge. Because of the typically low volume of requests for reports, and the proportionally small costs of reproducing them at the library, allowing the state to absorb the costs of reproduction still results in cost savings, while ensuring that public information remains free for everyone.

FISCAL NOTE ANALYSIS

STATE OF ALASKA
2015 LEGISLATIVE SESSION

BILL NO. HB 68

Analysis

This legislation does the following:

Requires that state agencies that produce and distribute reports, post these reports on the state's Online Public Notice Website. An agency may not produce print copies of reports except as required

(A) under AS 14.56.120;

(B) by agreement; or

(C) by federal law; or

Requested under AS 44.99.260 or specifically approved by the head of the agency.

In preparing this fiscal note, the definition of "report" was used as defined in section 2 of the bill. A report is defined as an official document that a state agency is required by law to prepare and distribute to the Legislature or the public without a specific request.

This bill results in no cost to the state. This legislation will, overall, result in a cost savings to the state, but the extent of the savings is inconclusive. The annual cost for printing state agency reports is estimated at $585,000 statewide. Many state agencies currently distribute reports electronically when possible, and do not realize contracted printing costs. Also, the bill allows the head of a state agency to approve the printing and distribution of reports. It is unknown how many heads of state agencies or how many reports, or quantity of reports, may be printed as a result.

Also, if persons want a printed copy of a report, they can obtain a copy from the State Library Distribution and Data Access Center. The additional requests that libraries may receive for printed reports and the cost to libraries of fulfilling those requests is unknown.

The bill will most likely result in a cost savings, however the extent to which the savings is realized is inconclusive.

HB 68 – Paper Reduction Act

This bill will cut spending and conserve resources by reducing the number of reports printed by government agencies.

The state spends an estimated $530,000 a year on designing, printing, and publishing agency reports, an expensive habit that has held over from the times when print circulation was the only available option.

Times have changed. This bill requires that state agencies publish their reports on the Alaska Online Public Notice System instead of printing them, and prohibits them from contracting out to graphic designers when there are state employees with the necessary skills available.

Exempt copies that may still be provided when required by federal law, for the state library system, or when designated by the head of an agency. But the changes proposed in this bill will ensure that reports are circulated efficiently and cheaply; are environmentally friendly; don't take up physical space; and can be accessed instantaneously by Alaskans from Nome to Thorne Bay.

This bill will reduce paper consumption and excise waste spending while simultaneously improving Alaskans' access to information.

"An Act relating to the preparation, electronic distribution, and posting of reports by state agencies."

Section 1

Amends AS 44.62.175(a) to include state agency reports as something that must be included on the Alaska Online Public Notice System.

Section 2

Creates Sec. 44.99.250, titled "Electronic distribution and posting," stipulating that if an agency produces reports, it must post those reports on the Alaska Online Public Notice System. It may not print hard copies of the reports, except when required by federal law, by agreement, when approved by the head of the agency, or by request through the state library.

Section 3

Creates Sec. 44.99.260, titled "Print copy requests," which establishes that the policy of printing four hard copies of each report for the state library distribution and data access center will remain the same, as set out in AS 14.56.120.

Section 4

Creates Sec. 44.99.270, titled "Graphic design for reports," which says agencies cannot hire contractors for photography or design work on reports unless there is no agency employee qualified to do the work, or it would cost less to do so.

Section 5

Creates Sec. 44.99.290, titled "Definitions," which defines both "report" and "state agency."

Re: Support for HB 68 Electronic Distribution of Reports

Dear Chairman Lynn,

The Alaska Chamber supports House Bill 68, an act relating to the preparation, electronic distribution, and posting of reports by state agencies.

The Alaska Chamber is an organization dedicated to improving the business environment in Alaska. The Chamber represents hundreds of businesses from Ketchikan to Barrow that share a common goal: to make Alaska a viable and competitive place to do business. Our member companies actively search for opportunities to improve their operations and applaud when the State searches for similar efficiencies.

Electronic document management and delivery will not entirely replace the need for paper productions of State agency reports. However, modernizing the distribution and storage of those reports in an online, as-needed system will increase public access and reduce State waste. Increasingly, we are able to leverage the technological products made possible through the mining industry.

We support the State's efforts to increase public access to information while reducing the cost of the production methods. On behalf of Alaska's business community, thank you for your efforts to find opportunities for efficient conduct of State business.

Sincerely,

Re: House Bill 68

Dear State Affairs Committee,

Thank you for hearing HB 68, entitled the Paper Reduction Act. The Alaska Public Interest Research Group (AKPIRG) strongly supports the passage of this bill. Established in 1974, AKPIRG is a non-partisan, non-profit citizen-oriented statewide organization researching, educating and advocating on behalf of the public interest.

HB 68 proposes logical, efficient and cost-effective means of distributing state agency reports. Digitizing the documents rather than printing hard copies for every legislative office will save the state hundreds of thousands of dollars each fiscal year. In a time of serious budget shortfalls and hard decisions of where to cut state spending, HB 68 offers a simple solution that will not only save the state money, but will positively impact Alaskan citizens.

Digitizing the reports will enable citizens from across the state to simultaneously access the reports on the Alaska Online Public Notice System. Presenting the reports in an online format also ensures the documents can be easily searchable and archived in an organized manner for future reference.

AKPIRG is excited by this common sense, smart legislation that demonstrates there are opportunities for cutting excessive government spending while maintaining a strong commitment to the Alaskan public and the rights of each citizen to access state agency reports.

Sincerely,

Jessie Peterson

FISCAL NOTE ANALYSIS

STATE OF ALASKA
2015 LEGISLATIVE SESSION

BILL NO. HB 68

Analysis

This legislation does the following:

Requires that state agencies that produce and distribute reports, post these reports on the state's Online Public Notice Website. An agency may not produce print copies of reports except as required

(A) under AS 14.56.120;

(B) by agreement; or

(C) by federal law; or

Requested under AS 44.99.260 or specifically approved by the head of the agency.

In preparing this fiscal note, the definition of "report" was used as defined in section 2 of the bill. A report is defined as an official document that a state agency is required by law to prepare and distribute to the Legislature or the public without a specific request.

This bill results in no cost to the state. This legislation will, overall, result in a cost savings to the state, but the extent of the savings is inconclusive. The annual cost for printing state agency reports is estimated at $450,000 statewide. Many state agencies currently distribute reports electronically when possible, and do not realize contracted printing costs. Also, the bill allows the head of a state agency to approve the printing and distribution of reports. It is unknown how many heads of state agencies or how many reports, or quantity of reports, may be printed as a result.

Also, if persons want a printed copy of a report, they can obtain a copy from the State Library Distribution and Data Access Center. The additional requests that libraries may receive for printed reports and the cost to libraries of fulfilling those requests is unknown.

The bill will most likely result in a cost savings, however the extent to which the savings is realized is inconclusive.

MISSION

The Knik Arm Bridge and Toll Authority will develop, stimulate, and advance the economic welfare of the state and further the development of public transportation systems in the vicinity of the Upper Cook Inlet with construction of a bridge to span Knik Arm and connect the Municipality of Anchorage and the Matanuska-Susitna Borough.

LETTER FROM THE CHAIRMAN

I N 2 0 0 6

This is the third Annual Report of the Knik Arm Bridge and Toll Authority (KABATA) has presented to the Governor and the Legislature of the great state of Alaska pursuant to AS 19.75. I am pleased to report that calendar year 2006 has been a year of significant accomplishments in making the Knik Arm Bridge a reality.

Early in the year KABATA convened a symposium on project delivery attended by nearly forty representatives from financial firms, government agencies, and engineering and construction companies. They examined the project concepts and feasibility and concluded that bridge financing, design, construction, operations and maintenance would be possible as a Public-Private Partnership (P3).

The preliminary findings of the traffic and toll revenue study conducted by Wilbur Smith Associates indicated that expected toll revenue would be sufficient to meet expected costs. The opportunity to pursue private sector financing became even more important when federal funding was substantially reduced and no separate state general funds were made available for the project. Whether the project is undertaken with some type of P3 contract or whether KABATA pursues more traditional bond sales remains an important decision in calendar year 2007.

With the sponsorship of the Governor and the consent of the Legislature, state funding was made available to the Mat-Su Borough to upgrade and pave the Point MacKenzie Road which will serve as part of the west approach to the Knik Arm Bridge.

A Memorandum of Agreement was signed by KABATA and the Alaska Department of Transportation and Public Facilities (ADOT&PF) to utilize federal funds originally earmarked for the Knik Arm Bridge to design and construct a new road to the Port of Anchorage. This road will also be the east approach to the Bridge. It remains for KABATA to construct the shore-to-shore crossing including the toll bridge.

During 2006 the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) published the Draft Environmental Impact Study and gathered public comment in preparation for a Final EIS and Record of Decision in 2007.

I remain confident that the Knik Arm Bridge can be built without detracting from other priority highway projects. Moreover, the bridge may divert sufficient traffic from the Glenn Highway such that costs for expanding that road can be reduced or deferred for a number of years. With the continued population growth of the state, it is a bridge to the future whose time has come.

Presidents' Letter

Dear Friends of the University of Alaska:

We are proud to share with you our Annual Report on Giving. If you want to see the power of generosity in action, visit any University of Alaska campus. Generosity is woven into the fabric of university life at every level. Its effects are everywhere you look.

Generosity helps construct buildings, equip classrooms, and fund lectures. It allows faculty to become more effective teachers and to conduct groundbreaking research. Your giving transforms students into scholars.

But generosity is more than money. It is the energy a professor gives to inspire her students. Generosity is the spontaneous help students give each other when learning tough material. It is the dedication of the administrative staff. Generosity is the amazing amount of time and energy alumni and friends make to support their public university. All are gifts, freely given by generous people who believe in the university's mission.

In this Annual Report on Giving, we highlight individuals who represent the university—students, faculty members, staff and administrators. They illustrate how generosity has transformed their lives and places.

We likewise feature a husband and wife. They represent the source of these generous acts: our donors. More than 5,600 of you supported the University of Alaska last year. Whether the gift was small or large, each one represented the heartfelt expression of someone's desire to advance the work of this great university. That is at once a humbling thought and an inspiring one.

As always, we will strive to repay your trust with ever higher levels of achievement.

Impressive Students Inspire Auxiliary to Increase Scholarship

UAA student Whitney Church remembers when her grandmother, the late Denia Foster Church, wove beautiful grass baskets and brought them to the Alaska Native Medical Center Auxiliary Craft Shop in Anchorage for sale.

Now Whitney Church, a 19-year-old biological science major from Quinagak, a Yupik village on the Yukon-Kuskokwim Delta, attends school with the help of a scholarship established by the hospital auxiliary that runs the non-profit craft shop.

The family connection and childhood memories of her grandmother's basket making give the scholarship extra special meaning, says Church.

"It's also a step toward meeting my goal of becoming a pediatric doctor," she says. "The scholarship does help a lot."

Kelsi Ivanoff, another auxiliary scholarship recipient, agrees. The 17-year-old engineering major at UAA says scholarships and grants are key components for making her college career successful. With a heavy load in chemistry and science, textbooks are a large expense, with some books as high as $150 apiece.

"I don't want to have to pay a bunch of loans off for years," says Ivanoff, who calls Unalakleet home. "I'm very thankful for the scholarships I've received."

The girls' ambition and drive—and desire to push themselves toward their goals—are striking, says Jeanne Dougherty, the auxiliary's scholarship chair and one of the craft shop volunteers.

"Our volunteers are just so excited to be reaching out to students in the villages," she says. "What's so impressive to all of us are the qualifications these kids have."

Members of the all-volunteer hospital auxiliary operate the craft shop, as they have since 1975. The detailed carvings, intricate beadwork, lovely baskets and other traditional scholarship for Alaska high school graduates off the road system.

The auxiliary partners with the UA Foundation for administration of the scholarship and recipient selection, a labor intensive process that Dougherty says would have been nearly impossible to coordinate without expert help.

The scholarship was established two years ago, when nine $1,000 scholarships were awarded. This last year, the auxiliary awarded 20 scholarships to rural students to attend any of UA's campuses.

The UA Foundation manages $1.8 million in scholarships for nearly 900 students, according to fiscal year 2004-2005 statistics. The scholarship funds have a broad reach and are one of the staples of the Foundation's overall mission.

Both Ivanoff and Church intend to put their college degrees to work right here in Alaska. Once finished with schooling, Church wants to become a pediatric doctor while Ivanoff wants to get a master's degree in Arctic engineering and work for an Alaska company.

Listening to the plans of the young women puts a smile on Dougherty's face. "Partnering with the UA Foundation is just a perfect fit for us."

Native crafts are sold on a consignment basis.

The craft shop's share of the proceeds are used to fund various good works, such as toys for pediatric patients; comfort bags for cancer treatment patients; and newborn baby "welcome packs".

Chairman's Letter

To the Governor, Legislators and Alaskans:

The commitment made to Alaskans fourteen years ago to create a new and vibrant industry based on science and technology continues to be fulfilled. The Alaska Aerospace Development Corporation has established itself as a dynamic and competitive commercial spaceport and as a national leader in the development of space-related technology.

The launch of IFT-14 in February was a bright start to the year and just the beginning of a long series of successful events.

AADC has become a technological leader with the purchase of two new Mobile Telemetry Systems (MTS). These new systems augment the existing Range Safety and Telemetry Systems (RSTS) and provide a level of capability and technology that has set a new industry standard.

The Open House held in August at the Kodiak Launch Complex was a success beyond anyone's imaginings. People from Kodiak, the state and from various parts of the US attended the event and toured each facility learning about the business of launching rockets.

We have shared our success with the communities of Alaska by funding educational grant programs for schools across the state and college scholarships for students from Kodiak. The first of these scholarships were awarded to Tija Ozols, Matthew Van Atta, Falcon Will-Staudenraus, William Costello, Joseph Carvalho, Perlita Alcaide, Lovett Panamarioff, Joseph Rauwolf, Rudolph Lorenson and Oliver Holmstrom. We wish them continued success in their studies and have offered to renew their scholarships for their sophomore year to help ensure that success. In addition, ten new scholarships will be awarded to Kodiak seniors for the 2006/07 school year.

AADC is committed to communities, to the education of youth and the development of a stable, thriving and dynamic industry for the state. With a fully accessible world-class facility, AADC is poised for a strong future in the global spaceport marketplace.

Sincerely,

Mark Hamilton

Research Brief

TO: Representative Jonathan Kreiss-Tomkins
FROM: Susan Haymes, Legislative Analyst
DATE: February 11, 2015
RE: State Agency Reports Required by Alaska Statute
LRS Report 15.248

You asked for a list of the reports state agencies are required by Alaska statute to provide and the due dates for each.

Table 1 on the following page describes the 189 Alaska statutes that we identified requiring state agencies to provide reports. The list is organized by department with miscellaneous state entities located at the end of the table. While many of the reports are accounts of an entity's annual activities and finances, the topics, scope, and frequency of the information required vary considerably. We also provide for each requirement, the entity that is responsible for preparing the report and the date the information is due. A number of statutes provide for a specific date, such as the 30th day of the legislative session, while others require reports to be submitted annually, biennially, or quarterly.

Please note that although we believe our research to be thorough, there may be additional reports required by state agencies that were not located by our efforts due to variations in the wording and construction of statutory requirements.

We hope this is helpful. If you have questions or need additional information, please let us know.
