Dear Legislator

Wild salmon put food on our tables, provide countless recreation opportunities, and create tens of thousands of jobs that are the lifeblood of many Alaskan communities. Our wild salmon generate hundreds of millions of dollars in economic activity each year and sustain our unique way of life.

After hearing from thousands of Alaskans who fish commercially, for sport, or personal use and subsistence, the Alaska Board of Fisheries wrote to you asking that update Alaska's fish habitat permitting process. Specifically, they recommended improving "public notification and opportunities for public involvement," and creating "enforceable standards." They wrote, "guidance is warranted for the protection of fish, to set clear expectations for permit applicants and to reduce uncertainty in predevelopment planning costs."

Please listen to the Board of Fisheries and do everything in your power to protect wild salmon and our voice for the future of Alaska's fish, water and habitat.
