House Bill 78 "Indigenous Peoples Day"

This bill establishes the second Monday in October as Indigenous Peoples Day. Federally, the second Monday in October is Columbus Day. In our Alaskan context it is fitting that this day should also honor the first people of our state and of the Americas. In 2015 and 2016 Governor Walker proclaimed Indigenous Peoples Day as a one year observance. This bill establishes Indigenous Peoples Day as a yearly holiday that every Alaskan can be proud to celebrate.

Indigenous people are an integral part of the spiritual, cultural, linguistic, scientific and historical fabric of the State of Alaska and the Americas at large. We as a state recognize the unique contributions of Indigenous people as a whole, and of individual Alaska Natives for their role in making the state what it is today.

Alaska Native people have exercised agency in the development of the current systems of land management and traditional use of fish and game. Leaders like Shgúndi William Paul, Nanauq Eben Hopson, Kaaxgal.aat Elizabeth Peratrovich, Iggiagruk Willie Hensley and Dits'itnaan Katie John all worked within the legal system to establish a better and more just state for all Alaskans.

Alaska Native people have also contributed to the cultural life of Alaska. Through literature, both oral and written as well as in the visual arts, Alaska Native people have left an indelible mark on the state. Through this bill we recognize the contributions of the philosophers and teachers Angayuqaq Oscar Kawagley, the spiritual teacher Kaajaḱwtí Walter Soboleff, the poet and scholar Keixwnéi Nora Marks Dauenhauer, the elders who have retained their languages, and passed on their culture, and the parents, grandparents, aunts, and uncles who teach their children what it means to be an indigenous person. This day of recognition also acknowledges the many artists, some whose names are unrecorded, whose work is used in ceremony and tribal custom—as well as respected and admired in world class museums and private collections.

Through this action, Alaska joins a growing number of states, cities and tribes that have adopted the second Monday in October as Indigenous Peoples Day.

Re: HB 275 Indigenous Peoples Day

Dear Committee Members,

While we recognize that Christopher Columbus was among the first Europeans to land on the shores of the North American Continent, it is time for Alaska to eliminate Columbus Day and recognize the Indigenous Peoples of Alaska. The rich culture and Indigenous knowledge of Alaska Natives have been of great influence in Alaska and it is time to celebrate and recognize those cultures by establishing the second Monday in October as Indigenous Peoples Day.

Sealaska Heritage Institute (SHI) is a regional Native nonprofit founded in 1980. The institute's mission is to perpetuate and enhance the Tlingit, Haida, and Tsimshian cultures of Southeast Alaska. Its goal is to promote cultural diversity and cross-cultural understanding. SHI has worked for over three decades to preserve and enhance the culture and language of Native Peoples. We have promoted the integration of culture and language into schools because of the benefits it provides to Native Students. We also believe that these efforts support cultural diversity that make Alaska a richer state.

Governor Walker started the movement toward establishing Indigenous Peoples Day in 2015, and I believe that we should make this change permanent. The past few years we have seen continued support of Alaska Native Heritage with the signing of HB 216 changing the State Language from English to include 20 Alaska Native Languages as official state languages and more initiatives to support Alaska Native education, language and culture.

The contributions by Alaska Natives to the State of Alaska have been significant and it is time we acknowledge and celebrate those contributions.

We respectfully urge you to adopt HB 275 establishing the second Monday in October as Indigenous Peoples Day.

Sincerely,

Re: Support of HB 275 "Indigenous Peoples Day"

Tanana Chiefs Conference is a non-profit tribal health and social service consortium representing the tribal communities of interior Alaska. Tanana Chiefs was established over 100 years ago when the Native leaders of the time unified to address the needs of the tribes. In 1915, the federal representatives and newspapers were surprised of our chiefs' intelligence and diplomacy¹ as they advocated for the priorities of our people. One-hundred years later, as our cultures have proved resilient and our leaders and tribal members continue to contribute to the State of Alaska, it is important the State pursue a formal day to recognize the achievements of the Indigenous.

We believe this day should be the second-Monday of October in order to provide a learning opportunity for Alaskans and especially the youth to discuss the impacts of historical trauma and successes of Native people. Too often Alaskans fail to be educated on history or governance which prohibits advancement within our state.

Again, we appreciate the consideration of this bill. We believe the bill will create invaluable awareness and educational opportunities.

Dear Representative Harriet Drummond:

Please regard this as a letter of highest support for House Bill 275, to establish the second Monday of October as Indigenous Peoples Day.

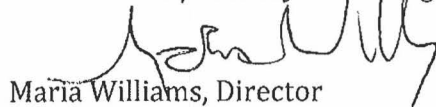

This is a wonderful way to recognize the Indigenous peoples of Alaska and I am so pleased that this House Bill is being introduced. I think the history of our great State reflects the uniqueness of our diversity and this is especially true for our Indigenous Population. Creating an Indigenous Peoples Day will highlight the important history of all Indigenous people, and the economic and social contributions to our state.

Alaska has some wonderful statistics - such as of the 566 Federally Recognized tribes in the US, 229 are in Alaska; Alaska Native K-12 students make up 27% of the overall student population - that means one in four K-12 students in Alaska is Indigenous!

Alaska also can be proud of the historic 1971 Alaska Native Land Claims Settlement Act, which established 12 regional corporations. Today, these regional corporations are the state's number one employer.

Having an Indigenous Peoples Day will be a way to provide information and education on the important roles that Indigenous and Alaska Native people play in our contemporary society.

I wholeheartedly support this Bill!

RESOLUTION NO. 2015-02

- WHEREAS, Columbus Day is currently celebrated on October 12 to bring recognition to Columbus' arrival to the Americas in 1492; and
- WHEREAS, it is disrespectful to Native governments to celebrate an individual that contributed to the genocide of Native American people and the continued celebration masks the treatment of Indigenous people during the colonial period; and
- WHEREAS, as a people, the Indigenous groups and governments have endured disease, and genocide by the colonial governments; and

In support of House Bill 275 "Indigenous Peoples Day"

The recognition of Indigenous Peoples Day is meaningful to me – not so much because I am a professor of Alaska Native Studies, or that I am Tlingit Indian – but because it honors our legacy and our existence. Transitions in the state since statehood continued to make for a trying time for Alaska Native peoples. Growing up during this period meant perhaps removal from one's family and placement in other homes or schools, being escorted out of establishments, unwarranted arrests, or many other occurrences that would diminish one's cultural, familial, and even spiritual existence as an indigenous human being. This bill has the potential to bring some sense of peace to a tragic history.

Recognition of a human beings' existence goes a long way. That is what this bill is offering. That recognition that we exist; that we matter. That we contribute to the good of state. That we are here. That our cultures are valuable and worthy. It adds another layer of dignity.

The bill implies there is value in Native people and culture. It is important to say this, because Alaska Native people have been dehumanized, as evidenced through the high numbers of violence against Native women, and the levels of the incarcerated, the deaths, and disenfranchised. Such violence and disregard can only occur, as history has repeatedly demonstrated, when one is dehumanized; reduced to a disposable character. Therefore, for the societal affect alone, this bill is meaningful. It is one spoke in the wheel of change that is so desperately needed. It encourages a way of thinking – the value of each human being.

Please pass this bill.

Re: HB 78, Indigenous Peoples Day

Dear Representative Westlake:

The Alaska Federation of Natives writes to express our wholehearted support of HB 78, Indigenous Peoples Day.

AFN is the largest state wide Native organization in Alaska. Our membership includes 12 for-profit regional corporations, 12 regional not-for-profit organizations, 152 village for-profit corporations and 152 Indian tribes. Our mission, among other things, is to advance and enhance the voice of the Native community on issues of mutual concern such as pending state legislation.

HB 78 will not replace Columbus Day, a federal holiday; rather it will make Indigenous Peoples Day a state holiday, co-locating it on the second Monday of October. Four other states are considering similar legislation this year.

Congratulations on introducing, and securing House passage of, this long overdue measure. Alaska Native peoples deserve to be formally recognized for the contributions they have made—and continue to make—to our great state. We look forward to helping you and your colleagues advance HB 78 in the Senate.

Doyon's mission is to enhance our position as a financially strong Native Corporation in order to promote the social and economic well-being of our shareholders, strengthen our Native way of life, and enhance our land and resources.

Doyon, Limited is the state-chartered Alaska Native Corporation established pursuant to the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act for Interior Alaska. Currently we have over 19,300 shareholders, most of whom live here in Alaska.

Doyon welcomed Governor Walker's proclamation designated October 12, 2015 as Indigenous Peoples Day, and we further would welcome an annual celebration which recognizes not only the history of Alaska Native people and Alaska's history, but also current contributions by Indigenous people to art, culture, policy, knowledge, traditions, and achievement.

Thank you for the work you do in the interest of Alaskans, and if you have any questions concerning this recommendation, please contact our office at (907) 459-2092.

Sincerely,

Aaron M. Schutt
President and CEO
Doyon, Limited
