RE: Proposed CS SJR 39 (Finance)

Enclosed you will find a proposed committee substitute for SJR 39, originally sponsored by myself. The change is requested to comply with recommendations made by our legal counsel and that of the Alaska Housing Finance Corporation (AHFC). I urge its adoption.

The purpose of the legislation is to allow AHFC to access a lower-cost source of funds for residential mortgages for qualifying state veterans. There is a zero fiscal note, and in fact, passage of SJR 39 will save the state money by reducing the necessary AHFC subsidy by 15 percent per year.

During the past 18 months, slightly more than 20 percent of all mortgages purchased by AHFC under its Special Mortgage Purchase Program have been made to eligible state veterans, or 2,464 of a total of 11,663 mortgages. It is estimated that 85 percent of qualifying veterans would use the new program if it were available, because it would be cheaper. Applying these percentages to estimated future demand, it appears that approximately $100 million in mortgages could be purchased with the lower-cost tax-exempt money, per year. At present interest rates, these $100 million in mortgages would require a $11 million subsidy. That compares to the alternative of the status quo which is $26 million in subsidy for $100 million in mortgages. That's a savings of 15 percent to the state.

It should be noted for members' information that three separate pieces of legislation will have to be passed to realize these savings. (1) SJR 39 to amend the constitution to allow AHFC to pledge the state's General Obligation; (2) statutory changes in AS 18.56 to implement the program; and (3) a bond authorization bill to provide for the issuance of the bonds, subject to approval by the voters. It is my best estimate at this time that the bond authorization bill should total $200 million for a two-year period. (Please note that these bonds will be repaid, not from state General Funds as is the case with other G.O. bonds, but from revenues generated by mortgage payments. The state's liability would be contingent, not paramount.)

GENERAL OBLIGATION
VETERANS MORTGAGE BONDS

The Mortgage Subsidy Bond Tax Act of 1980 (The Ullman Bill) substantially restricted Alaska Housing Finance Corporation (AHFC) in its ability to issue Tax-Exempt Mortgage Revenue Bonds. As a consequence AHFC has accessed the taxable mortgage securities market as its primary source of funds. It has also taken full advantage of the State of Alaska's $200 million calendar year 1981 Tax-Exempt Mortgage Revenue Bond allocation.

There is a substantial subsidy cost associated with providing below market mortgage rates from taxable bond proceeds. Currently, the spread between AHFC's cost of funds and the rate on the subsidized portion of a mortgage loan is seven percent.

There is a lower cost source of funds available under the Ullman Bill--The Tax-Exempt General Obligation Veterans Mortgage Bond. These bonds can be issued without regard to the State ceiling of $200 million.

Last year AHFC staff estimated that about 30% of the loans purchased are made to veterans. A closer look at potential eligibility criteria has indicated that this figure is still fairly accurate. Thus, The General Obligation Veterans Mortgage Bonds can result in substantially reduced subsidy costs, by virtue of the lower interest rates paid for Tax-Exempt bonds.

ADVANTAGES

1. Substantially lower subsidy cost to the State.
2. Maximizes utilization of Tax-Exempt Bond issues.
3. Can be issued in unlimited amounts.
4. There is no "Sunset" on 12/31/83.

DISADVANTAGES

1. Requires implementation of an additional program by virtue of eligibility criteria.
2. Requires a constitutional amendment, additional enabling legislation and referendum approval of the amount of bonds to be issued.

gator who assumes a mortgage that had been made from proceeds of a qualified mortgage issue. Those requirements are the residence requirement (subsection (d)), the 3-year requirement (subsection (e)), the purchase price requirement (subsection (f)), and the income requirement (subsection (h)). These requirements are to be determined based upon the facts as they exist at the time of the assumption as if the loan were first being made at that time. For example, the average income of the statistical area is to be determined by the average income at the time of the assumption and not when the mortgage was originally made. Similarly, the purchase price requirement is determined by reference to the purchase price of the residence at the time of the assumption and not at the time the mortgage was originally made.

2. Qualified veterans' mortgage bonds

The bill also provides that qualified veterans' mortgage bonds shall not be treated as mortgage subsidy bonds. Under this provision, interest on a qualified veterans' mortgage bond will be exempt from Federal income taxation if the bond otherwise meets the general requirements of section 3.

In general, a bond is a qualified veterans' mortgage bond only if it meets certain specific requirements. First, the principal and interest on the bond must be secured by the general obligation of a State. Second, substantially all the proceeds of the bond must be used to provide residences for veterans.⁶ For purposes of this provision, the term "veteran" has the same meaning as in section 101 of Chapter 1 of Title 38 of the United States Code (relating to veterans' benefits). Under that provision the term veteran means a person who served in the active military, naval, or air service, and who was discharged or released therefrom under conditions other than dishonorable. Third, for bonds issued after the date of enactment of the bill, the bonds must be in registered form. (See above for a discussion of registered form.) Fourth, in order to be a qualified veteran's mortgage bond, no part of the proceeds of the bond may be used for acquiring or for refinancing of existing mortgages. The proceeds of a qualified veterans' mortgage bond are to be used solely for new mortgage loans.

4. Advance refunding

The bill prohibits the advance refunding of any bond if a significant portion of the proceeds are used for mortgages on owner-occupied housing. This provision applies to all bonds the proceeds of which are used for such purpose whether the bond was issued before, on, or after the date of enactment. Under this provision, no obligation may be issued for the advance refunding of any mortgage subsidy bonds, including qualified mortgage bonds and qualified veterans' mortgage bonds.

In general, an obligation issued for the refunding of a mortgage subsidy bond will be considered to be an advance refunding obligation if it is issued more than 180 days before the prior issue is redeemed.

⁶ The term "substantially all" has the same meaning as under section 103(b)(4) of the Code.

gagor who assumes a mortgage that had been made from proceeds of a qualified mortgage issue. These requirements are to be determined based upon the facts as they exist at the time of the assumption as if the loan were first being made at that time. For example, the average income of the statistical area is to be determined by the average income at the time of the assumption and not when the mortgage was originally made. Similarly, the purchase price requirement is determined by reference to the purchase price of the residence at the time of the assumption and not at the time the mortgage was originally made.

3. Qualified veterans' mortgage bonds

The bill also provides that qualified veterans' mortgage bonds shall not be treated as mortgage subsidy bonds. Under this provision, interest on a qualified veterans' mortgage bond will be exempt from Federal income taxation if the bond otherwise meets the general requirements of section 103.

In general, a bond is a qualified veterans' mortgage bond only if it meets certain specific requirements. First, the principal and interest on the bond must be secured by the general obligation of a State. Second, substantially all the proceeds of the bond must be used to provide residences for veterans.⁶ For purposes of this provision, the term "veteran" has the same meaning as in section 101 of Chapter 1 of Title 38 of the United States Code (relating to veterans' benefits). Third, for bonds issued after the date of enactment of the bill, the bonds must be in registered form. (See above for a discussion of registered form.) Fourth, in order to be a qualified veteran's mortgage bond, no part of the proceeds of the bond may be used for acquiring or for refinancing of existing mortgages. The proceeds of a qualified veterans' mortgage bond are to be used solely for new mortgage loans.

4. Advance refunding

The bill prohibits the advance refunding of any bond if a significant portion of the proceeds are used for mortgages on owner-occupied housing. This provision applies to all bonds the proceeds of which are used for such purpose whether the bond was issued before, on, or after the date of enactment. Under this provision, no obligation may be issued for the advance refunding of any mortgage subsidy bonds, including qualified mortgage bonds and qualified veterans' mortgage bonds.

In general, an obligation issued for the refunding of a mortgage subsidy bond will be considered to be an advance refunding obligation if it is issued more than 180 days before the prior issue is redeemed.

BLUE RIBBON COMMISSION ON THE

MEMORANDUM

March 26, 1982

TO: Members of the Senate Finance Committee

FROM: Teresa B. Cramer TBC
Administrative Assistant

SUBJECT: SCR 44 - Extending the Life of the Blue Ribbon Commission on the State Personnel Act

History

The Blue Ribbon Commission was created by the Legislature in 1978 to study problems in the state personnel system. It has addressed issues in this area and reported its finds and recommendations to the Legislature each year since its inception. During the past year the commission has focused in particular on the problems of women and minorities in state employment.

Membership

The commission is composed of legislators, representatives from state employee unions and associations, program managers, the Ombudsman, the Department of Administration and the Division of Personnel and public members. Members have expertise in various facets of the personnel system and personnel management which they bring to the topics which the commission addresses.

Activities and Ongoing Projects

As indicated in this year's report to the Legislature, the commission has begun the task of reviewing the state's employment of women and minorities. Given the time available, the commission has not completed its evaluation of the extent of any discrimination in the system. The commission believes that it can identify problems and make further recommendations to correct certain practices which may have a discriminatory effect if it is given time to complete its work. In addition to its ongoing study of the personnel system, commission members and staff receive and investigate inquiries from Alaskans about particular situations in the personnel system.
