RE: CSSB 477 (Finance)

Confirming our conversation of yesterday, I am providing you with a review of the draft CSSB 477 (Finance). The problems with the draft are:

1. The sum of $2,500,000 will probably be insufficient to prepare a feasibility study, to include a comparative analysis of all reasonable alternatives, and a plan of finance.
2. AS 44.83.181(a) requires the APA to complete a feasibility study and a plan of finance for each proposed project. Since the draft bill does not specify a project, how is that to be construed?

I believe that the following alternatives, in a decreasing order of desirability, are all better than the proposed draft above:

1. The original Section 1. The sum of $4,000,000 is appropriated from the Railbelt energy fund in the general fund to the Alaska Power Authority for preparing a feasibility study and a plan of finance for the Devil Canyon dam project in accordance with AS 44.83.181.

This language is project specific and will allow the APA to comply with the law while still allowing them to perform an independent review of the alternatives. Additionally, these documents would allow the legislature to make an informed decision in 1987 as to whether to proceed with the licensing of the Devil Canyon dam project.

If the Governor vetoes the bill then APA will have no funds for any further studies. It should then be up to the Railbelt Energy Council to determine how best to meet the Railbelt energy needs and recommend a plan of action and funding requirements to the next Legislature. Given the past performance of APA, any study or recommendation prepared by the Railbelt

Senator Kerttula
April 23, 1986

Energy Council would probably have much more credibility than if prepared solely under the auspices of APA as now contemplated. If the legislation establishing the Council does not pass, then the utilities would have to come up with the recommendation of how best to utilize the Railbelt Energy Fund.

2. The original Section 1, amended as follows: The sum of $4,000,000 is appropriated from the Railbelt energy fund to the Alaska Power Authority for preparing a feasibility study, to include a comparative analysis of all reasonable alternatives, and a plan of finance for the Devil Canyon dam project in accordance with AS 44.83.181.

The above amendment would specifically highlight the fact that a comparative analysis of alternatives is to be part of the feasibility study. This would allow APA to perform the comparative analysis by an independent party and either before or concurrently with the preparation of the feasibility study. I believe that the most prudent first step would be to tentatively determine the financiability of the option(s). I should note that APA could do all of this under alternative 1 above.

3. Do not appropriate any funds for FY 87 to APA or to the Railbelt Energy Council and wait for the recommendations of the Council in February of 1987.
4. Appropriate the funds to the Railbelt Energy Council. The new Section 1 would be:

The sum of _____ is appropriated from the Railbelt energy fund in the general fund to the Railbelt Energy Council for conducting a study to determine how best to meet the long-term Railbelt energy needs and how best to finance that option.

New Section 2:

It is the intent of the legislature that the Railbelt Energy Council report regularly as requested to the Legislative Budget and Audit Committee on the progress of the study.

New Section 3:

The appropriation from the Railbelt Energy fund to the Railbelt Energy Council made in Section 1 of this Act takes effect on the effective date of an act establishing the Railbelt Energy Council.

Please let me know if you have further questions.

Fiscal Note Analysis

Sections 1 - 8

Amending language has been added to provide that if revenues earmarked for sharing to municipalities by statutory formula are not fully appropriated, the available appropriation is to be distributed pro rata among the eligible municipalities. Revenue sharing programs affected by this proposal include:

- a) alcohol beverage license fee (04.11.610)
- b) electric and telephone cooperative tax (AS 10.25.570)
- c) coin-operated device permit fees (AS 43.35.050)
- d) punchboard revenues (AS 43.35.130)
- e) aviation fuel tax (AS 43.40.010)
- f) fisheries business tax (AS 43.75.130)

Section 8

This section amends the method for determining local city and borough's share of fisheries business tax. Currently, the tax is shared to municipal governments based upon the amount of fish tax collected within each government's boundary. If fish are processed outside any local government boundary, the entire fish tax related to that processing is kept in the State's general fund.

This section provides that the tax collected from fisheries businesses operating as floating processors which would otherwise go to the State's general fund will be allocated to the municipalities located within the fisheries management area in which the fish are processed.

Department of Revenue Costs to Administer This Bill

Travel 2.0, Contractual 3.0

We believe it will be necessary to sponsor fisheries seminars in Juneau, Anchorage, Ketchikan, Kodiak, Sitka and Seattle to retrain those businesses currently filing Fisheries Business Returns. Until 1984, annual seminars were held in Seattle, Anchorage and Juneau to update fish processors on all changes in law or regulation affecting them. Seminar participants included Revenue, Department of Labor, Department of Commerce and Economic Development, Department of Fish and Game and Department of Public Safety. The primary by product of these meetings was enhanced compliance with state law. In the FY 86 and FY 87 budgets, costs to conduct these seminars were eliminated as a cost saving measure.

The bill imposes a major reporting change on all floating processors. In addition to reporting processing activity when they enter a specific borough or city boundary, a processor must report to the Department each and every management area in which they process and the total amount of tax allocated to each. For those vessels which "chase" the fishing fleet, it is conceivable that they will acquire fish in one management area and process it in another (if not several others). Recordkeeping and accuracy could be very difficult to maintain, and interpretations of filing requirements could vary thus necessitating the training sessions.

We believe it is essential that the Department provide training to the processors should this bill pass, to familiarize them with the new reporting format and to stress the importance of their accurate recordkeeping on the fair and equitable sharing of revenues among municipalities.

Contractual 1.0

An additional amount is requested to redesign the fisheries tax returns and allocation schedules as well as specific instructions to the forms for implementing this legislation.
