Department of Public Safety

Passage of this legislation will require the Department to establish and maintain a sex offender central file, provide forms to local law enforcement agencies, and promulgate necessary regulations. At present there are 477 known sexual offenders (against both child and adult victims) in the probation/parole system. There are another 605 presently incarcerated. Of these, approximately 46 enter the probation/parole system yearly. An unknown number of sex offenders have completed their probation/parole requirements and remain in Alaska. An unknown number of additional registrations will be required for individuals who have committed similar crimes in other states and who now reside in Alaska.

In order to meet the responsibilities outlined above, it is conservatively estimated that the Department will need the services of a part time Data Processing Clerk I and supporting costs. These resources will be assigned to the Alaska State Troopers' Criminal Investigation Bureau based in Anchorage.

Assumptions made during the preparation of this fiscal note include that the bill will take effect on January 1, 1989, equipment will be needed in the first year only, and that no inflation is projected.

"Registration of child sex offenders"

Passage of this legislation will require the Department to establish and maintain a child sex offender file, provide forms to local law enforcement agencies, promulgate necessary regulations and to provide followup investigations to assure compliance. At present there are 291 known child sexual offenders in the probation/parole system as well as another 432 presently incarcerated. Of these, approximately 69 enter the probation/parole system yearly. An unknown number of child sex offenders have completed their probation/parole requirements and remain in Alaska. In recent years, increased proactive investigations have taken place in child sex cases, particularly by the joint Alaska State Trooper/Anchorage Police Department which are resulting in an increased number of arrests each year. Currently, there are approximately 200 statewide arrests yearly in these types of cases which could ultimately increase the number of persons who will require registration. An unknown number of additional registrations will be required for individuals who have committed similar crimes in other states who now reside in Alaska.

In order to meet the responsibilities outlined above, it is conservatively estimated that the Department will need the services of a Data Processing Clerk I and supporting costs. These resources will be assigned to the Intelligence Unit of the Criminal Investigation Bureau based in Anchorage.

Assumptions made during the preparation of this fiscal note include that the bill will become effective January 1, 1989, with funding beginning July 1, 1988, in order to allow sufficient lead time to establish the registration program, develop and obtain forms, etc. Further, the fiscal note requests various items of equipment in the first year only and no inflation is presented.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

This legislation will enable law enforcement agencies to keep track of known sex offenders residing in their jurisdictions. It will also allow the Department of Public Safety to establish a central file of the locations of known sex offenders and will require local law enforcement agencies to report the registration of these offenders to the department.

It is generally agreed among experts that a great number of those who commit sexual offenses are repeat offenders and not good subjects for rehabilitation efforts. As a result, after the completion of a court-ordered sentence, there remains the need to keep track of the whereabouts of these persons to provide an increased degree of protection for the public.

The Department of Public Safety supports this legislation, but suggests that the following amendments be made.

- Page 2, Lines 2-3, change to read: "(2) two sets of fingerprints of the person; and (3) two photographs of the person".
- Page 2, Lines 4-9, delete the present language and substitute:
"(b) Within three days after a person registers under (a) of this section, the law enforcement agency shall send one set of the person's fingerprints and a photograph to the commissioner or to an office that the commissioner may designate by regulation."
- Page 2, Line 27, insert "10 days" instead of "5 days".
- Page 3, Line 11, after "AS 33.40.030", add: "unless during that period the person has been convicted of another sex offense, in which case the records shall be retained permanently."
- Page 3, Line 18, delete the words "the head of".

TITLE: An Act relating to the registration of persons CONTACT: Barbara Miklos

DEPARTMENT OF

REGISTERED

The Council on Council on Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault supports CS for SB 467 (HESS) which provides for the registration of persons convicted of sexual offenses. Alaska has led the nation in reported rape per capita in nine of the last ten years. In addition, cases of reported sexual abuse of minors cases have increased dramatically: from FY80 to FY87 cases reported to the Division of Family and Youth Services increased sevenfold. Persons who commit sexual offenses are likely to be repeat offenders and may move to a new community once they have been caught. Child sex abusers often try to gain employment in educational, recreational or social service programs working with children.

The best predictor for future sex offenses is previous behavior. Research with sex offenders shows that they have multiple victims before being caught. Child sexual abusers may take several years to develop new positions in society and gain the trust of victims before they reoffend. Without treatment, the likelihood of a reoffense is extremely high; even with treatment, it cannot be guaranteed that offenders will refrain from repeating these crimes.

For all the above reasons, it is very important that information about previous convictions for sexual crimes be available to law enforcement officials. With this information, law enforcement officials would be better able to investigate sex crimes. An important provision of the bill is that persons previously convicted of sex offenses in other states would be required to register with the Department of Public Safety. Thus potential employers who have responsibility for children would have increased and speedier access to this information (under AS 12.62.035) and be better able to prevent persons with records of previous sex offenses from working with children.

The Council on Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault supports CS for SB 467 (HESS).

SUBJECT: Registration of Sex Offenders CSSE 467 "An act relating to the registration of persons convicted of sexual offenses."

DATE: March 28, 1988

I respectfully request your scheduling of the above referenced bill before the Senate Finance Committee at your earliest convenience.

The bill will require convicted sex offenders to register with the Department of Public Safety after the expiration of their probationary and parole terms. Because of the extremely high rate of recidivism with regards to sex offenders, this registration enables the local law enforcement agencies to establish a tracking system of known offenders in the state.

Studies have shown that offenders generally comply with release conditions while under supervision, but revert to previous lifestyles when no monitoring is taking place. SB 467 is an effective way of protecting the public from people who have shown they can't be trusted. If you should have further need for information, please contact myself or Kim Daniels in my office at 465-4747, and we will be happy to provide additional backup.

TITLE: An Act relating to the protection of children and registration of persons convicted of sexual offenses against children...

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

This legislation will enable law enforcement agencies to keep track of known child sex offenders residing in their jurisdictions. It will provide within the Criminal Investigation Bureau a central file of the locations of known child sex offenders and it will require local law enforcement agencies to report the registration of these offenders to the Department of Public Safety.

It is generally agreed among experts that a great number of those who commit sexual offenses against children are repeat offenders and not good subjects for rehabilitation efforts. As a result, after the completion of a court-ordered sentence, there remains the need to keep track of these individuals' whereabouts in order to provide an extra preventative measure as well as increased degree of protection for the public.

The Department of Public Safety supports this legislation with the proposed amendments listed the attached page.

Arthur English, Commissioner

POSTER

Amendments Proposed

- (1) Sec. 33.40.040(c) restricts the ability of the Department to disseminate information regarding child sex offenders to local law enforcement agencies. While a request for a specific individual could be responded to, often crimes are investigated without a suspect being identified. It would be of great assistance to local law enforcement agencies if the Department of Public Safety could scan the records for violators within an area of a child sex crime as well as those individuals modus opprandi and provide that information to those investigators working on an active investigation. Providing such a listing would need to be accompanied by restrictions against secondary users to protect the rights of the offenders. Accordingly it is suggested that the current wording in Sec. 33.40.040(c) be dropped and the following substituted:

"(c) Information on child sex offenders in local jurisdictions will be provided to a law enforcement agency upon request as part of an ongoing child sexual abuse investigation where the suspect or suspects are unknown."

Without this or a similar wording change the usefulness of this legislation to the law enforcement community will be severely limited.

- (2) The bill does not address an effective date. It will be necessary for department to have sufficient lead time to develop an appropriate registration system, supply reporting forms to local law enforcement agencies and establish the positions noted in the fiscal note. It is suggested that an additional section be included in the bill as follows:

"* Sec. 2. This Act takes effect January 1, 1989."

- (3) Specific wording needs to be added noting when the time frame begins for the removal of copies of registration records, etc. The following wording changes are suggested under Sec. 33.40.040(b):

"(1) after 20 years from the date of release from a correctional facility or the date of placement into any formal monitoring program outside of the correctional institution for a . . . (etc) . . ."

"(2) after 10 years from the date of release from a correctional facility or the date of placement into any formal monitoring program outside of the correctional institution for a . . . (etc) . . ."

"(3) after 5 years from the date of release from a correctional facility or the date of placement into any formal monitoring program outside of the correctional institution for a . . . (etc) . . ."
