Veterans' Records Simplification Bill Passes HB 137 Would Reduce Duplication, End Redundancy

(JUNEAU) – State recorders offices would be the preferred single depository of Alaska veterans' discharge papers under a bill that passed the House of Representatives today.

"This bill will make government more efficient," said Rep. Mike Chenault (R-Nikiski), chair of the Committee on Military and Veterans Affairs, which sponsored the bill. "The current requirement to keep these records in multiple state agencies is unnecessary and wastes government dollars."

Separation papers document veterans' completion of military service, and are needed to qualify for mortgages, disability benefits, education or other benefits of service, Chenault said. Veterans may register the documents at no charge with the recorders offices or the Bureau of Vital Statistics.

However, current law requires the recorders offices and the Bureau of Vital Statistics to forward copies of separation papers they receive to each other, creating duplicate databases. What's more, the recorders office often sends courtesy copies of such documents to the Department of Military and Veterans Affairs, adding another layer of bureaucracy and causing unnecessary duplication.

"While it's important for separation records to be safe and available, the duplication process is redundant, especially with the large numbers of Alaskans who have served in uniform," Chenault said.

HB 137 would relieve the Bureau of Vital Statistics of its responsibilities as a depository, leaving the recorders offices as the sole storehouse of Alaska veterans' discharge papers and maintaining a high level of service to veterans.

The bill moves next to the Senate for consideration.

ANALYSIS: (Attach a separate page if necessary)

AS 26.10.070 currently requires DNR's recording offices to periodically provide copies of recorded veteran discharge papers to the Vital Statistics office in the Department of Health and Social Services. It also requires Vital Statistics to maintain separate records of such information in its files. This statute essentially charges two separate government agencies with maintaining the same records - an unnecessary and duplicative waste of government resources.

Recording offices have been performing this function for decades in compliance with the existing statute.

The state's thirty-four recording districts manually monitor this information and send copies of all veteran separation papers, with a manually prepared report, to vital statistics on a monthly basis. There is no easy means to extract all veteran separation papers from the recording system records. Reports must be requested under each branch of military service to locate and identify each recorded DD214 document. Then copies have to be manually produced from library film records and a typed report is then prepared. As the records base becomes larger and larger, DNR recording staff are spending more and more time each month in tracking and reporting this information. In the Anchorage office alone, this amounts to between four and six hours a month. Statewide, the report preparation and processing time is estimated at more than 200 hours per year (at an approximate cost of $5.0). While this is not a huge block of time, it does represent valuable work time that will be devoted to other component priorities such as indexing and mailback functions which frequently fall into backlog status.

At the present time, the Vital Statistics office merely stores the document copies and the reports for use in the event a veteran ever requests the information from their office. The state's recording system is the official repository for all recorded documents, including military separation papers which are recorded at no charge pursuant to another provision of this same statute. This proposal would eliminate both the requirement for recorders to submit copies to Vital Statistics and the requirement for Vital Statistics to maintain separate records of such information. This proposal is in line with meeting the Governor's objectives to balance the budget by streamlining government processes. Elimination of unnecessary and redundant processes frees up valuable staff time in both agencies to meet other established objectives.

Fiscal impact of this proposal can only be measured in terms of improving available staff time in the recording section to work toward meeting other statutory mandates, such as daily recordation and indexing of incoming documents. Staff time involved in the manual tracking and preparation of reports and copies for Vital Statistics varies by office, but as noted above is estimated at more than 200 hours per year statewide.

SPONSOR STATEMENT
HB 137 "AN ACT RELATING TO RECORDS OF VETERANS OF THE ARMED FORCES"
HOUSE SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON MILITARY AND VETERANS AFFAIRS

This bill will eliminate the requirement that recording offices of the Department of Natural Resources periodically provide the bureau of vital statistics in the Department of Health and Social Services copies of separation papers submitted to the various recording offices by veterans of the armed forces. It will also eliminate the requirement that the bureau of vital statistics maintain a record of veterans' separation papers compiled from copies of reports received from the recording offices and information submitted to the bureau by veterans.

The requirement for two state agencies to retain the same records is duplicative and unnecessary. The state's recording systems is the official depository of all recorded documents. Although the two agencies above are legally required to retain the separation papers, the Department of Military and Veterans' Affairs also stores these documents as a courtesy.

Veterans' separation papers are recorded free of cost to the veteran. Copies of the document when requested are also free. Recordation is voluntary and benefits the veteran.

This bill emphasizes that there need be only one repository for these official papers and eliminates duplicative government processes.

Resources committee meeting for HB 137 – "An Act relating to records of the armed forces; and providing for an effective date."

Introductory statement:

This bill makes government more efficient. At present, veterans' separation papers are recorded in three (3) different state departments. (Dept. Natural Resources, Bureau of Vital Statistics, and the Dept. of Military and Veterans' affairs)

Recording of these records is voluntary by veterans and upon leaving the military they are encouraged to have their separation papers recorded.

The requirement to keep these records in multiple state agencies is unnecessary and wastes government dollars. This bill eliminates the requirement for the bureau of vital statistics to maintain a record of veterans separation papers.

There is a representative from each of the state departments to testify and take questions.
