2 Q. For these other people who do come in, before we break up here, I think 3 we can summarize what we've discussed and vote for some of the proposals 4 that have already been -- or that will come out hopefully here and other 5 ones that have been proposed. Dillingham, Nak ... For those people 6 that came in late, if you don't know who I am, my name is Nels Anderson.
7 Again, Allan Adasiak, Chairman of the Limited Entry Commission, and John 8 Garner, who is commissioner of the Limited Entry Commission, Adelaide 9 Herman, who is my administrative assistant that works with me in Juneau.
10 Ah, here they come ...

11 UNIDENTIFIED MALE: ... going to sit in the 12 front row.

13 Have a seat. Okay, for the new guys again, one more time. Allan Adasiak, 14 Limited Entry Commission -- he's chairman of the Commission; John Garner, 15 Limited Entry Commission; Adelaide Herman, my administrative assistant in 16 Juneau; and I'm Nels Anderson, for those people who don't know me.
17 Pardon? Oh, excuse me again, I've always got to be reminded, since I can't 18 see and there's a fellow back in the back named Jim Larson. He's a special 19 assistant to the Limited Entry Commission. He is up with this symposium 20 to help people who have questions about their applications, and if you 21 have some problem with the status of an application you sent in, any kind 22 questions you have about it, he has your file in the back there, so if 23 during the meeting you want to go back and be with him, he'll be glad to 24 help you out. I think he may be back there with some people now, I'm not 25 sure. But anyway, he is available for you and will be here all day to work

1 with you for those people who need help.

2 I think most of you know that there have been two days of meetings already 3 in the day, and they were requested by people, first of all, who feel that 4 they were left out of the program, people who had questions about young 5 people and how they would get into the limited entry program. A lot of 6 people were concerned about the prices of permits. In other words, if a 7 young person or anybody else who didn't have one, who was a Bristol Bay 8 resident and wanted to become a fisherman, they'd have to pay such high 9 prices for the permits because the permits are increasing in price at a 10 very rapid pace. At the meeting in Dillingham, we found out that there is 11 a permit that's going on sale and is going to be sold very shortly. We 12 understand that for a boat and a permit for $100,000. So that gives you 13 an idea of the range of the costs of these permits that are available.
14 There is also a great problem that was brought to our attention, especially 15 in the Iliapa Lake area and again, for your information, we had planned 16 on two meetings, Dillingham and Naknek, and I got a call from (indisc) 17 who made it very clear that since a lot of people had been negatively 18 affected by the limited entry program, felt that there ought to be a 19 meeting in Iliamna as well. And he agreed to set this up, I discussed 20 the proposal with the Limited Entry commissioners, and they agreed that 21 we ought to make an attempt to come up here, and that's why we're here 22 today. So I do appreciate the efforts of Wassie and his insistence that 23 we get up here, and of course, we are glad to be here. So, what we are 24 attempting to do is, as you may not have heard on the radio, is that we 25 are trying to find some solutions to the problems that were created by the 1 passage of the limited entry law in 1973. Since that time, the limited 2 entry law has been challenged in the courts regarding its constitutionality 3 and it was found to be sound. I don't know if the entire question was 4 tested, but anyway, the limited entry law was found to be intact as far as 5 the constitution is concerned. There was another test that was brought 6 before the people in the form of a ballot; in other words people were 7 asked on, I think in -- was it '76 -- 1976, whether or not they felt the 8 limited entry program was a desirable program for the State of Alaska, and 9 this was put to every voter in the state, and it passed by a two to one 10 margin. So it passed those two tests and now in the last two years, while 11 the law has been implemented, there have been a large number of court cases 12 trying to address some of the problems that I have mentioned earlier and 13 other people have mentioned in Dillingham and Naknek. Our purpose again, 14 though, for these meetings is to hear from you directly how you have been 15 affected by the law and how you think the law should be changed or 16 modified to make the difference so that the people that were left out or 17 the young people can get into the limited entry program. And that's why 18 we're here. I want to make another thing clear, too, is that I don't want you 19 to think that I have any immediate solutions to the problems that may be 20 brought to our attention today. We don't have any immediate solutions to 21 questions that were raised in Dillingham and Naknek, but we do have a better 22 idea of the magnitude of the problem, and I think we're going to be better 23 able now to work out some solutions that may work to make the law easier 24 to live with since it looks like the law is going to be around for quite 25 some time.

1 So, at this time, I would have introduced Terry Gardiner but he had to 2 go -- he had to go back to Ketchikan. He has a function that he has to be 3 at in Ketchikan this evening, and he left for Ketchikan yesterday afternoon.
4 He wanted to be up here but he felt that he had this important time to be 5 back down in his district. We have, again, with us Mr. Allan Adasiak, and I 6 did ask him in Dillingham and Naknek to make some opening statements to you 7 on what he feels about the program, and give us some opening statements 8 about the function that his office (indisc) and the entire limited entry 9 question. So, Allan, if you would like to proceed...

10 MR. ADASIAK: Thank you, Nels.

11 BY: MR. ADASIAK:

12 Q. I'm Al Adasiak and the Chairman of the Limited Entry Commission. In one way 13 or another I have been involved with limited entry way back before a law 14 was even passed. I was part of the study group that did research on the bill 15 that was introduced and I followed the program along with it from the begin-16 ning. John joined the commission as a hearing officer, or as a legal aid 17 and then a hearing officer, shortly after the program actually came into 18 existence. We've both had a lot of experience with what's happened and 19 some of the reasons why it's happened. And if during the course of our 20 discussion, we'll try and give you some explanations for why things have 21 been the way they were. But in spite of the fact that we've been around the 22 program for a long time and worked with it, or maybe because of it -- because 23 we've been with it for so long, we know that limited entry the way that it's 24 set up right now is not working. And we're not kidding ourselves, we're 25 not kidding you. We can see that there are some problems with it. We make

1 mistakes, we try not to, but we do. We try to correct them when we find 2 out what they are. That's one of the reasons Jim Larson is in the back room.
3 He's got copies of files and he can go over a file, and every now and then 4 he finds where we did something wrong. We want to correct it wherever we 5 can. I want to thank you all for coming here. Meetings like this are very 6 important for us because we can learn an awful lot from your comments, from 7 your feelings from the things that are causing you problems about limited 8 entry, the questions you have about what's going on and why it's going on 9 that way. We're here to try and learn from you and try and answer questions 10 that you have, and then see what we can do as commissioners and from Nels' 11 point of view, what he and other people can do as legislators, to take 12 another look at this thing and see where we might be able to make it a 13 little bit better. Now as far as the limited entry program goes, limited 14 entry came about because of a problem which, put very simply, is that you 15 had more and more people getting into the fishery, going after the fish.
16 And when you get more and more people trying to catch the fish, the number 17 of fish get driven down. And one of the solutions that the legislature 18 decided to try, was to say, all right, let's put a lid on the number of 19 people who fish, put a lid on the number of boats that can be out there.
20 And there were two things that we thought would happen if we put a lid on 21 the number of boats. One, from the fish manager's point of view, he could 22 do a better job because when you've got a lot of boats out there, and you 23 make a decision on whether to have an opening, you're taking a chance on 24 whether you're going to get your escapement or whether those boats are going 25 to catch too many fish and you'll lose some of that escapement. And, if

RITA STONICH

1 you can hold down the number of boats, he can do a better jo... He's taking 2 less chances, he's taking less risks with the resource and he can manage 3 better to build that resource and make sure that it stays this healthy. If 4 you've got more boats, his job is tougher and he's taking bigger chances 5 with the fish. By the same token, there's the fisherman -- the guys that 6 are out there catching the fish. If you have more and more people coming in-7 to the fishery every year splitting up the catch, you've got people who are 8 making less money. You just can't have more people catching those fish 9 and keep the earnings level the same. And the two kinds of problems that we 10 looked at in limited entry were a problem of how can you do something that 11 will help fish management, how can you do something that's going to help 12 the fisherman's income. Well, I think we've seen this year in the Bay one 13 of the benefits of limited entry. Limited entry is starting to work -- 14 you're starting to see the results. You had a pretty good year here in the 15 Bay, and because there was a lid on the number of boats, a lid on the number 16 of setnets, you made a decent amount of money on the size of the run that 17 came back, and fish prices have been going up. If it weren't for that lid 18 that's on the fishery right now because of limited entry, you would have had 19 more boats in here and you would have been splitting up that catch among 20 a lot more people. Even though the prices are up, the people who were in 21 there would not have made as much money. And in the Bay, the predictions 22 for the next two to three years are good predictions. '80 is your peak 23 year and the years on either side of '80 are generally also very good years.
24 So, if it weren't for limited entry, you could be pretty sure that you would 25 have an awful lot more people coming into the Bay being drawn by the promise

1 of a lot of fish and good prices. So, with limited entry with that lid on 2 the boats is helping the manager and it's helping the fishermen. Now, we 3 had a tough job to do when the legislature set up the limited entry program 4 because there were more people who had fished than the number that we could 5 let in. And the way the law was set up, it said, all right, you've got to 6 sort these people out -- you've got to rank them. And the law said that 7 some people if you throw them out of the fishery are going to get hurt more 8 than other people will, and we want to hurt people as little as possible.
9 So set up a system that ranks them and leave the people in who would get 10 hurt most if they got thrown out. If you have to throw somebody out, cut 11 somebody out who's not going to get hurt as much. Now, that... when you 12 think about what that says is that anybody who's cut out of it is going to 13 get hurt some. I feel that we deal with a lot of fishermen and we talked 14 to some of the guys who didn't get permits -- we talked to a lot of them -- 15 and I'm not going to sit up here and say they're not getting hurt -- they 16 are. But it's a question in degree, more and less, and the way the law was 17 set up we had to put in a system that would help to make that kind of choice.
18 And, we came up with a point system -- a lot of you are familiar with it -- 19 and ranked people on the basis of the points, and the idea was that if you 20 ended up with less points compared to the other people, you'd be hurt a 21 little bit less than some of them. So, we put the system in and we've had 22 it working for a few years, and we're back here now to talk with you, to 23 take another look at it, and to see from your point of view how you think 24 it's worked, where you think it's worked right, and where you think it's 25 worked wrong, to get some of your ideas on how we might change it so that

1 we can go back and improve the situation. Now, in terms of what we can do 2 as a commission or what Nels and other people in the legislature can do -- 3 I don't want to hold out any false hopes that we can make everybody happy 4 and make it all better for everybody. The only way you could make everybody 5 happy is to give everybody permits, and you give all the crewmen, all the 6 pullers, all the wives, all the kids permits -- everybody's happy but instead 7 of that lid on the fishery, you're throwing it wide open. So, the solutions 8 are difficult. They're going to work and make things better, but they're 9 not going to make them perfect. So we have ... We want to learn from you, 10 how you feel about different changes that might be made that will help us 11 understand the ways that we can move to make this as much better as we can.
12 With that, I think we can just get on with it and see what we can work out 13 together here.

14 BY: REPRESENTATIVE NELS ANDERSON:

15 Q. Thank you, Allan. I think that, first of course, everyone's got to understand 16 that a new law was first passed, and again going back to some of the history 17 that it's been tested in the courts and also approved by all the voters of 18 the State of Alaska. The other thing, I think, that people may misunder-
19 stand, too, is that... I saw it happening in Dillingham, I saw it happening 20 in Naknek where the Limited Entry commissioners and their staff are looked 21 at as bad guys -- we're the good guys and they're the bad guys. Well, they 22 have a law that they've got to live with, and they have to make some very 23 hard decisions, and I'm not just saying this to apologize for them or to 24 defend their actions. They have some very tough rules and regulations in 25 the law and the bounds in which they've got to live. And when they say no,

1 and they know they're hurting and affecting a Bristol Bay resident fisherman, 2 it isn't easy on them, as you might think. The other point that I wanted
3 to make is this -- is that they can't say it. They've got to be politically, 4 they've got to be legally neutral, and they can't say that they'd like to see 5 a Bristol Bay watershed resident fishery fished by a resident fisherman.
6 But my feeling is, and I think we all want that, and we want to correct 7 some of the problems that have arisen. We know that people were left out 8 because they weren't informed, because hearings weren't held in the various 9 villages where people were left out. We know that's a fact, and that was 10 wrong, and we all admit that. The other thing is is that when rules and 11 regulations were developed, people that would have been affected were not 12 contacted and were not given an opportunity to give their input so that 13 people would understand what the law was doing to them. I think we all 14 understand that. We made attempts -- they may have been looked at as 15 ineffectual attempts -- to get money to get the Bristol Bay Native 16 Association out to travel to various villages, and some people say that their 17 efforts were good, some people criticized their efforts, but at least there 18 was an effort. We did appropriate money to get a contract, or money to the 19 commission so they could contract with the native association to come out 20 and assist people with their various problems. There should have been 21 more of that, and we understand that as well. Now, to just throw spears at 22 what's wrong with it, I think is a good idea as well as constructive, and 23 it's also helpful for us to understand the range of the frustrations. So, 24 right now what we need to hear from you people is how has this law affected 25 you, what do you think is wrong with it, or what do you think is right with

1 it, and what changes do you think ought to be made to the law to alleviate 2 some of the problems that you're faced with. That's why we're here, we 3 want to listen, and we also want to try to come to some solution into 4 legislature or perhaps these gentlemen may find some way to modify regula-5 tions that they are operating under to be of some assistance. Let's open 6 it up to the public. Again, Wasi or anyone here, if you feel this ought to 7 be translated into any language that you want to, just let me know and I 8 think someone -- Wasi or someone could select someone to do the translation 9 up here. We'll open it up to the public now.

10 BY: UNIDENTIFIED MALE:

11 A. Yeh, (indisc) you started talking about the limited entry known as the 12 international water. When, uh -- it, uh -- Don Young was campaigning, he 13 stopped at King Salmon, south Naknek, where I was fishing at the time, and 14 I also suggested to him myself, I said, well what -- what can we do about 15 our waters that ... Okay, we're being crowded out of our fishing grounds, 16 uh... That's not only the problem there, we also have other problems, uh, 17 like the foreign fisheries. So he said, it's a good idea. He said, I'll 18 make attempt that we should, uh, throw international water out. (Indisc) 19 we're gonna do something because, uh, they're ganging up on Alaskan waters.
20 This is Alaska's land. Along the shorelines in many other states is, uh, 21 there are just some states anyway. I think we should be concerned about 22 our resources that's in the surrounding (indisc) in the State of Alaska.
23 And, furthermore, like you said there, it's true. It may -- it may have 24 done some help by putting a lid on it. Uh, I really think that it was 25 some help but I'm sure the 200-mile limit also did a lot of help because

1 it kept that foreign fisheries out there so that the fish have a better chance 2 of getting into our water, where, uh, our fishermen here could benefit.
3 Okay, enough is said.

4 MR. ADASIAK: Uh, gentlemen? Thank you.
5 Do you have any ...

6 BY: MR. ANDERSON:

7 Q. Just a minute. Do you have any comments on that or just...

8 MR. ADASIAK: Well, I think the commission
9 would certainly agree that the 200-mile 10 limit has been a major beneficial factor 11 in the number of fish (indisc).

12 Yeh, okay. Could you please identify yourself when you -- before you go -- 13 before you speak because some of these people don't know who you are.

14 BY: MACY HOHSON:

15 Q. My name is Macy Hohson from Nondalton and I have a few questions. Uh, is 16 there any -- is there any good chance for making amendments after this is 17 reviewed? (indisc) of making change, in your opinion, do you have a very 18 good chance?

19 BY: MR. ANDERSON:

20 A. Well, legislatively, uh, there are several proposals that have been made to 21 us in Dillingham and Naknek that we feel are reasonable proposals that 22 deserved to be studied to see whether or not we can make those kinds of 23 changes. The thing... The thing that we explain to people before this, 24 when we amend this law, uh, when we're trying to help one group of people, 25 there are other people on the outside that we don't really intend to help

1 when we're trying to help ourselves, so when we help, say, ten people in the 2 Bay, we're, uh, uh, helping the same number of people someplace else. And 3 our -- my desire and my goal is to move the limited entry permits into the 4 hands of Bristol Bay residents. Okay? That's why we're here. And I think 5 that there is a possibility - good possibility - that the legislature will 6 listen to the proposals that we make from these meetings and that there is 7 a good chance that they will adopt them if they make sense, and that they 8 will lead -- if the action taken leads to permits going into the Bristol 9 Bay, Alaska residents' pockets. Yes, I think there's a good chance.

10 Q. What really -- the people here in the Bristol Bay waters (indisc) most of 11 them on the beach, that's where it's really (indisc). And now if, uh, 12 limited entry (indisc)

13 A. Sid, uh, I didn't get the last...

14 Q. ... enough money you can buy limited entry (indisc)

15 A. Okay, that -- that's a good question. It is a question that I posed to the 16 Limited Entry Commission people, and the letter that I wrote to them is that 17 there is a rumor, and at that time it was only a rumor. It was not 18 established that there were such a things -- such a person as a broker for 19 permits but, uh, you know, maybe Allan or John could explain what a broker 20 does and what they're designed to do. Then I'll get into the money part of 21 that after they (indisc)

22 BY: MR. ADASIAK:

23 A. A, a broker is not necessarily the good guy or a bad guy. It depends on who 24 the broker is. And, basically he finds people who want to buy permits and 25 he finds people who want to sell permits, and he puts them together. And he

J & R Associates

1 makes his money by taking a piece of the permit price for putting these 2 people together. That's the -- the general way the broker will work. Now, 3 sometimes, uh, a broker when he knows a permit is for sale will buy it him-4 self because it's -- he knows it's cheap, uh, hold on to it, and then when 5 a buyer comes along, he'll sell it at a far higher price and take a big 6 chunk out of the middle. Uh, there aren't too many brokers right now. Now, 7 not all brokers are like that, but it does happen. I'm not, ya know, I'm 8 not going to kid around about it. Uh, right now there aren't too many 9 brokers in the state, and one of the things that we are considering is 10 putting together some regulations that will control how a broker can deal so 11 that people don't get ripped off in between. Uh, right now guys who, uh, 12 are in the security businesses, stock markets, selling stocks and bonds, 13 securities dealers, have a lot of regulations that govern what they can do 14 and how they operate. And that's one of the things that we're going to look 15 into to see if maybe we can't set up some form of regulations on brokers..
16 Now, uh, in connection with that and, you know, maybe -- maybe broker is a 17 bad name. Uh, and I can't think of a good name, uh, that explains the same 18 thing. Uh, it occurs to me that what a lot of you people are concerned 19 about permits moving out of the Bay. There's more money in Seattle, there's 20 more money someplace else, and permits will move out, uh... We've looked at 21 some numbers and so far from, I think it's 1976 through August of this year, 22 a total ... Some permits have gone out but other Bay people have bought 23 permits and brought 'em in, and with those changes back and forth, the total 24 of twenty-one drift permits have left the Bay and a total of eighteen setnet 25 permits have left the Bay. So, there's, uh, a little movement out -- it's 1 not huge, but it's there, and if the people in the Bay were to set up an 2 organization, a nonprofit corporation, that was designed to work for the 3 interests of the watershed residents, and that organization were to put 4 buyers and sellers together, that organization would have some control by 5 who it put together over where permits move. You -- if you knew that a guy 6 in the Bay wanted to buy a permit and you knew that a guy from outside 7 wanted to sell it, you put them together, and another permit comes into the 8 Bay. If you know a guy in the Bay wants to sell his permit, and you know 9 someone else in the Bay wants to buy, you keep it in the Bay by putting those 10 two people together. Now this is not something that we as a state agency 11 could get into, but it is something that the people in the watershed could 12 set up. And, I think, from what we've heard in other areas, that it could 13 put you in a position of, to deal with another problem which we know exists 14 not only here but everywhere else. It gets to be February, it's cold, you're 15 low on money, a guy whose got a permit goes out and has a few drinks -- 16 maybe more than a few, and he decides I'll sell my permit. That's probably 17 a bad decision, but if that guy knew that there was a place to go to if he 18 wanted to sell his permit where they'd tell him where there were buyers, uh, 19 an organization that was working for the people of the watershed could take 20 that guy and say, Charlie, how about a cup or two of coffee? Ya know. And 21 straighten him out and talk to him a little bit. Now, ya know, you can't 22 break his arm and force him not to sell, but at least you might get a chance 23 to talk to him, and handle some of the problems that happen along those lines.

24 So, there are advantages if you set the organization up right, uh, for some 25 sort of an organization that would put buyers and sellers together and benefit

2 BY: MR. ANDERSON:

3 Q. Thank you, Allan. Okay, that's basically what a broker does. He -- 4 somebody's got a permit here, there's a buyer over here, the broker's in the 5 middle and he brings them together. Okay, now the question of where the 6 money comes from and how are our people who don't have very much money, who 7 don't have a credit history with the bank, how are they going to be eligible 8 for a loan for that -- for a high-priced permit? Okay. That is a question 9 that I asked, too, and uh, we all know, and as I told you just a few minutes 10 ago, that there is a permit and boat for sale for $100,000. How do you get 11 that? Can you -- can you get it? Anybody here, can you afford to buy a 12 $100,000 permit? How would you do it? Okay, so that's a question that we're 13 faced with, too, in the legislature. How are we going to do it? Okay, we 14 have a boat loan program in the State of Alaska that allows people to go out 15 and buy boats. We also recently passed legislation that where a permit can 16 be used as collateral for a loan. In other words, if there was a permit 17 available, the bank can use that, uh, permit as collateral for a loan, however, 18 the problem that our people in the bush have and the rural areas have, of course, 19 is that they don't have a credit history with the bank. All their lives, 20 they've been working with cash. If you had money, if you needed something, 21 you go and pay for it in cash, and there's no record of, uh, payment history 22 like you have in the cities like in Anchorage or Fairbanks, so how are we 23 going to get around that? So what we've been thinking about in the legisla-24 ture, anyway, is to liberalize or to make the loan program fit the needs of 25 rural Alaska a little bit more. In other words, knock down the, uh, the 1 down payment figure and spread out the payments a little bit more so that you 2 can afford to make the -- make those payments or gear the loan program to 3 your -- to your fishing income. If it's a real bad year, just pay the 4 interest. If it's a good year, then you can go ahead and make your normal 5 payment plus your interest payments. So that's what we have to look at and 6 that's what we have to try to, ya know, try to work out. But I do know it's 7 a problem, and uh, there are things I think that we can do to make the loan 8 program more beneficial to you so that you can get your hands on the money 9 when the permit becomes available and -- and actually purchase.

10 BY: UNIDENTIFIED MALE:

11 Q. One thing, Nels. Uh, there is -- there is a program that's funded by BIA 12 which -- which is an outright grant of money for people who are interested 13 in buying their own boats. Uh, and I know last year some people, uh, some 14 people that I knew were able to get some grants from BIA. However, the 15 money dried up about last December or last January, over a year ago. And 16 I just talked to BIA last week in Anchorage, uh ... I know a couple of 17 people, uh, have come to me about asking me about, uh, boat loans, and 18 there's no money in the program right now. It's a federally funded thing 19 and that's not really in your, uh, in your power to get more money into, uh, 20 the BIA, but that's something that, uh, should be brought up with Ted Stevens, 21 and uh, Don Young, and uh, Senator Gravel because it's -- it's -- it's on 22 the books right now but they just -- they haven't appropriated the money for 23 it. And what this does is, uh, the state loan program says they'll only pay 24 up to 75% of the boat. And so you got to come up with 25% of it, and in the 25

1 past, half of that 25% you could get from BIA, and then the other half 2 you'd have to borrow or have the cash on hand. But I think that's -- that's 3 another thing that should be mentioned in terms of -- of getting the, uh, 4 the Congress in Washington to put more money into, uh, into that program.
5 Uh, but you still have the down payment and I think you still gonna -- you're 6 gonna have that problem. The other problem is -- is young fishermen who 7 want to -- who want to, uh, get into, uh, fishing and they don't have a 8 credit history and they also may not have a, uh, a good solid fishing 9 history. They've been -- they've been working as a puller for their father 10 and they haven't shown how they've, ya know, made a lot of money each year 11 because they've been -- they'll only been getting a puller's share, so I 12 guess that's -- that's one thing that... And I don't know whether you can 13 do that by -- by loosening up the requirements, uh, uh, for the state loan 14 people to consider, but, uh, that's a problem. I know I've -- I've talked 15 to a number of different people, a couple of people in Nondalton, a couple 16 of people in Newhalen, and that's -- that's on, uh, some of the young people's 17 minds. I know, I think, Tom Olympic is one person, Melvin (indisc) from, uh, 18 Nondalton. They're not here today and, uh, they talked to me about it when 19 I visited them. There's -- there's a lot of people out there who have the 20 same problem. Uh...

21 BY: MR. ANDERSON:

22 A. Well, on the, uh -- on the BIA portion of it, though, I think, uh, you know, 23 I could -- I could write a letter to those, our Congressional delegation, 24 and point out the problem and ask them what they can do to fund that program 25 that referred to. I think that would be helpful. Uh, but -- but I think

1 the legislature can, uh, loosen up the -- the, uh, the requirements to get 2 a loan. I -- I think that, uh, at least ... When Terry Gardiner was 3 at the meetings in Dillingham and in Naknek, and he's from Ketchikan, uh, 4 he felt that, uh, that's a reasonable way to go and one method of bringing 5 the money to people that need to get a permit that don't have one now. I 6 think that's, uh, a reasonable -- a reasonable proposal and something that 7 we can work on definitely. Yes?

8 MR. ADASIAK: Uh, Dave, as far as credit 9 history goes, uh, I -- I understand the 10 problem. As far as the state loan program 11 for permits goes or vessels, the way the 12 law reads now, a guy has to have been a 13 resident for five years and for one of those 14 five years fished either as a crew member -- 15 well, he had to fish as crew member, so 16 there is no requirement of skipper'ship or 17 anything else. A puller -- a puller's
18 experience for one year, uh, the way I read 19 this is sufficient to meet one of the 20 conditions of eligibility.

21 Q. Sure, but one of things they're gonna look at is how much money has been 22 made...

23 MR. ADASIAK: No, as I said, I can't - I 24 can't get into the credit history part of 25 it, but in terms of, uh, fishing experience one year as a puller (indisc) to meet that part of the standards.

BY: UNIDENTIFIED FEMALE:

Q. Is there any possibility of establishing a lid for these permit prices? Ya know, this is the thing that I think, uh, is basic in making it possible for any of our young people to get permits. Is that -- uh, they not be able -- allowed to go just sky high and out of sight. You're gonna get all that you possibly can for 'em. That's, ya know -- that just follows, unless there is some kind of lid put on it.

BY: MR. ANDERSON:

A. Okay, that proposal was made by several people in, uh, at our previous meetings, and, uh, there are some, uh... Well first of all, the beneficial thing, of course, would be that people then would have to be able to go and get a loan at a reasonable rate and not have to pay such a tremendously high price. That's the -- that's the positive thing. If we put a lid on, it depends on how much of a lid you put on it. It could have some other consequences, and it's kind of a touchy one, and I'm not quite sure how to get into it. But, there would be -- there are some people who think that there would be a tendency regardless of what the lid was, that there would be money flowing, uh, as you say, under the table, and, uh, we have no idea of how we could regulate that, uh, that particular type of activity except that you put a -- ya know, if you put enough of a, of a negative sanction or say, ya know, five or ten thousand dollar fine and a year in jail, or revoke your permit for life, or, ya know, whatever. Uh, something like that could work. But as I said, there are some pros and cons. Uh, as a matter of

1 fact, one of the proposals that I drafted was designed to put a $5,000 lid on 2 the, uh, on the permit. And the very person who came up, and it became 3 obvious to me, too, that this kind of abuse could occur. And, uh, the other 4 side of it, of course, that we could create a regulatory system that, uh, that 5 if we did hear about an under-the-table type deal that we could prosecute and, 6 uh, do something about it. But that is a possibility that we have to look at.
7 We have to investigate that thoroughly, because the prices of the permits 8 are just going out of sight -- they're just unreasonable. Yes?

9 BY: UNIDENTIFIED MALE:

10 Q. I would like to comment along the same line. I -- I feel the commission has 11 power to enforce these permit transfers and to restrict them. We have a 12 resident law that gives residents preference and, uh, I can't see how our 13 state government can permit these, uh, the majority of the permits that are 14 being transferred to go outside. I cannot -- that's what these -- that's 15 what's riding the price out of sight. That's where the money is. Naturally 16 the price is gonna be above what local people can handle. If we can't some-17 how restrict these transfers going out to cannery owners, to bankers, 18 businessmen. I've had businessmen approach me with the idea of purchasing 19 permits that they could operate as a business, you know. They weren't going 20 to be fishing, they were just gonna run a business. And, of course, that 21 doesn't work. But they ask for any loophole they can, and uh, and if they 22 have money they'll find a hole. And the state is gonna have to set on top of it.

23 UNIDENTIFIED MALE: It's not only bankers, 24 it's cannery operators, too, that are trying 25 to get their hands on as many as they can.

One of the things, too...

BY: MR. ANDERSON:

A. Yeh. Well, first of all, you're right. Uh, there is -- the resident laws read as we have it, uh, does, uh, tend to, uh, lean toward resident preference. However, the reason why the law stood the court test of constitutionality is because it was written so carefully that every citizen of the United States would be protected under this law, and that's why you have a slippage of permits going to people who have the money. There's very, very strict federal constitutional requirements that have to be met as well that we cannot interfere with the, ya know, free enterprise and so forth, and I think it's pretty clear, and that's why the law has stood up. However, we are learning -- okay, we've actually in essence, we have had two years of operating the limited entry law. The problems that have been developing and have becoming very forceful problems that we have to deal with are now right on the table. They're on the table now, and we have to deal with them. And the way we intend to deal with them, at least as I intend to deal with them as a legislator, is to formulate rules and regulations that will give preferential treatment to residents so that the slippage will not occur, and hopefully reverse the trend that is now in, uh, in process. And I think the commissioners will have very little to do about how the legislature decides its policy. There will be -- uh, they will be required to follow the law as amended by the state legislature, so I expect some ... (end of tape) ... I will be able to be used more effectively and move in that direction.

2 Q. Along the same line, I -- I just wonder if we could -- take a look at limited 3 entry, ya know. I mean, why was limited entry initiated. It was to restrict 4 the size of the fishing fleet and protect the fishery -- protect the fish 5 themselves from being overfished. And we have to -- we have to say, now, is 6 it working or isn't it working? If we have a system set up that is working, 7 we have to be careful what we're doing to that system, ya know, to change it.
8 Now, if, uh, if... And, and I remember the commission was set up to reduce 9 the size of the fishing fleet, not increase it. When a permit comes up for 10 sale, the commission should have the prerogative of purchasing that permit 11 and putting it out of business. That's what limited entry is all about. Uh, 12 I'm not in favor of selling permits. Everybody I've ever heard that wanted 13 to sell their permit, I discouraged them from it. It's -- it's (indisc - 14 someone clearing throat) to keep that permit here in their family. I -- I 15 didn't come from a fishing community when I was a youngster. I came from a 16 very poor community, and I had ambitions to be a commercial fisherman from 17 the time I was a little tyke. And I really worked toward that end all my 18 life, and I raised my children to be commercial fishermen. And everybody in 19 this area should be raising their family to have goals that their, ya know, 20 can see. Uh, I think that -- that we need to educate local people, toward a 21 lifetime goal and, uh... My boy -- he's a setnetter -- he's been a setnetter 22 all his life. He wants to be a drift fisherman now. He's got problems. How 23 does he switch from setnet to drift? He sells his setnet permit, he buys a 24 driftnet. Boy, we're talking about a lot of money, but he's working hard 25 toward that goal. He's saving his money to invest what he can, ya know, to 1 accumulate what it takes to switch his, uh, means of livelihood. And, uh, 2 I think everybody has the same opportunity, ya know. We're talking -- you're 3 talking about no discrimination. And, I came from outside because I wanted 4 to be an Alaskan. I like the country, I loved the stories that I read about 5 Alaska, and I just felt drawn here. I've -- I've spent my whole life here.

6 And, uh, my wife didn't want me telling a lot of stories. Anyway, it is a 7 wonderful land and it's people that (indisc - cough) to realize they're pass-8 ing up tremendous opportunities when they don't even put in an application 9 for an entry permit. Uh, their children are suffering as a result of their 10 lack of foresight and they need to be educated.

11 BY: MR. ANDERSON:

12 A. Well, there -- there's a problem, ya know, that, uh... I think -- I think 13 that I agree with everything that you say. I -- just say, leave it at that.
14 The State of Alaska, and this is only my opinion, had the responsibility of 15 notifying every resident of how this law would affect each and every resident 16 in the State of Alaska because it is a Alaska law. Okay. In my opinion, 17 and in my opinion only, the state did not do a very good job. Okay? Now, 18 talk about poor side of the people. How were the people going to know how 19 this law would affect them if they knew nothing about it? And what the 20 ramifications of not filing would be, or not even knowing about the 21 opportunity to file. Okay, these are things that we're trying to correct 22 now. The courts are trying to correct them as well because Alaska Legal 23 Services is working on cases where people were left out simply because they 24 did not have, or they were not aware, of the opportunity to file. We've got 25 to solve these problems. People were left out unnecessarily and, uh, due to 1 the failure of the state to properly educate people. And now I think the 2 state has further obligation to educate people to what this law means. Going 3 back to your earlier statement, uh, the, uh, the commission does have the 4 power, and although it has not exercised it, uh, exercised it yet, this to 5 buy back limited entry permits. A buy-back program is being contemplated 6 for the future. Okay, they do have the power and they are working on a 7 program where they will be doing this. Uh, looking at the limited entry law, 8 I found some very -- I noticed and observed some very interesting things 9 going on in the public in Dillingham and Naknek, that all the arguments that 10 were taking place were not in -- the arguments were in favor of the system 11 but improving the system so that we could take out those provisions that 12 tend to push the limited entry permits away from Bay residents and away from 13 Alaska. And so what they're wrestling with, and what their minds are working 14 on, were how in the world can we make this a better system. We better not 15 kick it out because it seems to be working, because the average income is 16 increasing, and because the fish are coming back regardless of what reason -- 17 the 200-mile limit or whatever. Uh, people are making more money than they 18 ever have -- have in the past. People are wanting permits now like they've 19 never wanted them before. That's another indication of, uh, of the success 20 of the program. So I don't think there's any -- I don't think there's any 21 legislator in the State of Alaska that wants to do away with the limited 22 entry program if they really understand the economic impact that its had on 23 the Bristol Bay -- uh, the Bristol Bay fishermen. So, I think, uh -- I think 24 we're in agreement in all the statements that, uh, that you've made thus far, 25 but the state still has to go a step further. It has to explain a little

1 bit more carefully the program and why it's so important not to sell it 2 because it's the only one you've got. You're -- the only way you're gonna 3 get one again is if you buy one. And that we have an obligation in state 4 government to make sure that if there is one for sale that there is some 5 kind of a loan program so that people in the rural areas with limited funds 6 can have an opportunity to purchase one. And I think we're moving in that 7 direction and I do appreciate your comments. There's a gentleman in the 8 back who's been wanting to (indisc).

9 BY: MR. ADOLPH (indisc last name):

10 Q. My name is Adolph (indisc) and I live in Nondalton. Was the, uh, limited 11 entry actually originally based on Canadian limited entry?

12 BY: MR. ADASIAK:

13 A. No, not at all. Or if not at all... We looked at the Canadian limited 14 entry program. I went out there personally and spent several days in 15 Vancouver in addition to having read all the stuff I could on the program, 16 and, uh, I think we benefited from the Canadian limited entry program by 17 seeing a lot of the things that they did that went wrong on them. Uh, but, 18 uh, our system is quite different. Our -- our whole set of laws are quite 19 different from Canadian law. Uh, and as a result we came up with a different 20 system that was far more complicated. Basically, they put their licenses 21 on boats, not the people, and they said if you caught over -- I may have the 22 number wrong, but I think it was over 12,000 pounds of fish in either 1967
23 or '68, you're boat gets a permit. And it's an "A" permit, you can fish 24 any type of gear from it that you want for any kind of salmon. If you 25 caught under 12,000 pounds, you get a "B" permit and it's good for ten years

1 After that, you're out of business. And they put in a system like that.
2 Uh, the fishermen's union in Canada was violently opposed to giving the 3 permits to the vessels because they felt that it gave the processors even 4 more control over who had the licenses. They wanted the permits to go to 5 the people rather than the boats. Uh, the Canadians set up a buy-back 6 program and they funded it out of the money that they got from the annual 7 relicensing fees from the people who had permits. Uh, but their system in 8 many ways is far different from ours. We put the permits on the individual 9 because -- well, there are a lot of reasons, and one of them is that we 10 wanted to reduce the amount of cannery control that there was over the 11 fishermen. And if the fishermen has got the permit, and you can't mortgage 12 it, you can't get it repossessed or anything else, and it's yours. The 13 cannery needs you in order to fish. We wanted to do something that was 14 going to strengthen the individual fisherman's position. Uh, there -- there 15 are a lot of differences in the way we build our system from what the 16 Canadians do.

17 BY: UNIDENTIFIED MALE:

18 Q. The cannery has the boats; the canneries have the money. Okay, now, in 19 Canada, can a non-Canadian own a permit?

20 BY: MR. ADASIAK:

21 A. I really can't answer that question.

22 Q. What I was wondering is -- is it possible somehow for the only person who 23 could own a permits would be an Alaskan resident?

24 A. No, that's possible under our laws. No.

25 Q. What happens -- what happens to permits that are turned back? Say, people

1 die and leave no inheritors or, uh, people don't use it for two years.

2 What happens to those?

3 A. I don't know if we've had a case like that yet, John. We haven't been 4 faced with the problem yet. The, uh -- I think the answer would go 5 something like this. The law says that at the offset when you limit entry, 6 you're supposed to issue the number of permits that's approximately equal 7 to the highest number of units of gear that were engaged in the fishery 8 in any one year from '69 to '72, from 1969 to 1972. Then after you've 9 issued those permits you're supposed to, in turn, determine an optimum level 10 of effort for each individual fishery. And that optimum level of effort is 11 supposed to be based on a combination of management considerations, that is, 12 how manageable is the fleet of a given size, and economic considerations.
13 That is, is there a reasonable rate of return that's going to the fishermen 14 given particular effort levels (indisc) numbers of permits that are out.
15 We haven't yet made the optimum number determinations for the Bristol Bay 16 fisheries or for any of the other salmon fisheries in the state. If there 17 were permits that were retired in some way, probably because they were not 18 renewed for a two-year period or something else happened, we would probably 19 hold those permits until we determined whether or not the optimum number 20 was less than the number of outstanding permits. If it was less, then I 21 think we would simply retire them. If the optimum number was, in fact, 22 uh, such that that permit could be issued (indisc), we would have to develop 23 a program for doing that. We're a ways ...

24 Q. It's my feeling that, uh, the limited entry program is working except it 25 seems to be working for the wrong people. And if a person was a rich person,

1 say, like if Howard Hughes were, if he were living, wanted to come into 2 control of Alaskan fisheries, all he'd have to do is say, I want to buy 3 those permits for $500,000 apiece -- he'd have all the permits. We wouldn't 4 be able to fish -- the way the law is set up now. Is that true?

5 A. Well, the only thing that would complicate it for a person like that is 6 that he, him personally, could hold only one permit of each type. (indisc) 7 That's right. It's a complicated factor, not necessarily a bar.

9 UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: Right.

10 BY: MR. ADASIAK:

11 A. Nels, could I -- could I say a little bit about, uh, this question of 12 discriminating in favor of Alaskans and against outsiders. Uh, John was 13 born here, I've lived here fifteen years. I like it, I plan to continue 14 living here. Personally, I would like to see Alaskans have all the permits, 15 but legally what we can do as a commission and still have a program that's 16 not going to blow up on us so we got nothing restricts us quite severely.
17 We have to be very even-handed about having the same rules of the game for 18 all citizens in the United States, regardless of whether they're from 19 Washington or whether they're from Alaska. So in order to have a program 20 that's going to stay, we -- we have certain limitations. Now there are a 21 couple of ways that things can be tilted in favor of the Alaskans. Uh, one 22 of them we mentioned already, only we didn't quite characterize it that way, 23 there is the lona program that allows you to use your permit as collateral 24 to borrow money from the state to buy a permit. Now the state can 25 discriminate and decide that it can loan money only to its own residents, so

1 that's a backdoor way, if you like, but it's a way that we can do something 2 that helps out the Alaskans that doesn't help out the outsiders. Uh, I 3 mentioned earlier this possibility of the people in the watersheds setting up 4 some sort of a nonprofit organization to put buyers and sellers together.
5 You have some degree of control over who you put together when you know who 6 the players are on both sides. It seems to me that that is a perfectly 7 legitimate way that you can begin to tip things in favor of the people in 8 this area, but we have to be very careful about how we jigger around with 9 the system or else, boom, it's all gone. And, we don't want that to happen.

10 BY: UNIDENTIFIED MALE:

11 Q. Well, isn't that the same (indisc) as having, uh, (indisc) ... Say, ya give 12 a guy a chance to buy it first with an option.

13 MR. ADASIAK: Uh-huh.

14 Uh, to me, we've been talking a lot this hour or so (indisc) that we, like 15 (indisc) limited entry, if we were really going to wind up with all of them 16 (indisc), it's always that you talk like brokers. Most Alaskans (indisc) 17 won't have the kind of money where city slickers and peoples from, uh, other 18 states won't let the doctors and lawyers not come in (indisc), then why have 19 the limited entry? Where we should have been -- been the one that really 20 benefit (indisc). (indisc) statement to you. Me as a resident have lived 21 here on the watershed, I'm living on the (indisc) here, I want to raise my

1 my living -- make it some other way. Uh, something else that is too bad, 2 uh, other peoples have never been informed correctly or make some corrections 3 on how badly this is going to affect you if it gets in full swing, you know.
4 Or have it so that they could have, say, maybe five or ten years, uh, uh, 5 amendments to get all the bugs out of 'em and that it's best interests to 6 all the citizens (indisc) the people that live in that state. The state 7 that people listen, that region that (indisc) fishery (indisc) you should 8 have priority. Whether (indisc) stay on that limited entry for the country 9 giving up ... Or if the guy -- I wonder if I died and had no kids, no -- 10 nobody to give to the Limited Entry Commission (indisc). Limited entry here 11 doesn't know what to do with it or maybe, say, well, there's a limited entry 12 permit for sale from an Alaskan that was born and raised in that area where 13 he was taking fish from. You should give priority to those guys that 14 (indisc) option that these should ... The law should put it that way.
15 (indisc - cough) Even at this (indisc - cough) Now let's hit the Bristol 16 Bay for an example. The he's the one who should have, uh, an option or 17 priority to that limited entry. If you regain so much, you regain that as 18 a citizen.

20 A. I feel the same way you do. Uh, how far we can go toward doing that and 21 still stay legal is the question I can't answer. I mean, we're willing 22 to try and push, uh, to see how much we can accomplish that way, but as I 23 said before, we don't want to take wild chances and blow the whole thing up.

24 Q. Ya, I know what you mean.

25 A. I -- I feel the way you do. We're - we're willing to try and see just how 1 far we can edge in that direction.

2 BY: MR. ANDERSON:

3 A. Allan, you know this was brought up before as well. We ... Just for a little 4 bit of history. The first two years I went down in Juneau, I was Resources 5 Committee chairman and there were efforts by various people throughout the 6 state who had an awful lot of power to repeal the limited entry law. And, 7 uh, I turned out to be the bad guy because I stood up against that fight 8 and, uh, it was brought up just about every day for two years during the 9 session. Uh, a friend of ours from Kodiak would always get up on the floor, 10 a guy from Sitka would get up, and say, I move that House bill so and so 11 be moved to the floor for a vote. And, of course, I'd always get up and 12 argue against it, and I had the necessary votes to beat them. Uh, because 13 I felt that the system had not yet been adequately tested and that's four 14 years ago. All right, it had not been tested and so to shoot it down before 15 it was given the chance to work would not have been fair to anybody 16 including ourselves because it could have been more effective possibly, or 17 maybe it could have even been worse. But you have to remember -- you go 18 out there without a limited entry program into the Quijak River and into the 19 Ishgak River or any river, without a limited entry program, what are you 20 going to have? And with the good years coming up, what -- what do you think 21 is going to be out there? What do you -- what do you see? Wall to wall 22 carpets of nets out there, and how are you going to make a living? You know, 23 that's what I saw four years ago. All right, now, the other thing that I 24 saw was what you see -- the doctors, the lawyers, the people that have 25 money, are going to have the greatest opportunity because they have the 1 capital. They have the cash and they can buy those permits that become 2 available.

3 UNIDENTIFIED MALE: (indisc) collateral
4 and the banks, too...

5 Q. They've got the collateral, they've got everything, you know, so it -- it 6 would work automatically in their favor but at the same time it was working 7 disfavorably. It was also reducing the amount of gear. And so that those 8 people who did live in the area, who did rely on the fishery, that were 9 fishing, their income began to increase. So those people were helped. It 10 didn't help the people that weren't eligible to apply because they didn't 11 know about the application period. It didn't help those people that, for 12 some reason, were left out. That's what we're trying to get at now. We're 13 trying to correct that. The option idea is an excellent idea because it 14 doesn't cut anybody out. It doesn't slam the door just for Alaska residents.
15 It gives the Alaskan residents the first chance, the first right of 16 refusal. It can say -- the state can say, I've got this permit. Is there 17 an Alaskan resident who meets the following requirements, who lives in the 18 area, who has the money to buy the permit? If there is no taker, then it 19 goes out on the block and the highest bidder gets it, or the person who has 20 the money gets it. I think that has possibilities.

21 BY: UNIDENTIFIED MALE:

22 Q. Is it the same difference, like when they announced that, uh, uh, the 23 pipeline deal? They had to hire so many Alaska residents, you know. Other-24 wise they were in violation.

1 UNIDENTIFIED MALE: Yeh.

2 A. ... which sort of worked and then ... Bob Simon is the one who told me 3 this. There was another one in 19 -- about 1962 that they put up that ran 4 the way you said -- watershed residents for permits, and I think it worked 5 for about one year in the Bay. And then somebody decided it was so good 6 that they ought to try it in Kodiak, too. And they tried it in Kodiak 7 and some of the fishermen there who got cut out by it decided they didn't 8 like it, took it into court, and it got wiped out. It wasn't legal.

9 Q. And you're talking about, uh, people only owning one permit. How about when 10 they buy another one, and hold one?

11 A. A person under the law is supposed to be able to buy only one permit of any 12 kind. You can get one setnet permit for the Bay, one drift permit for the 13 Bay, a drift permit for Cook Inlet, a setnet permit for Cook Inlet -- 14 those would be different permits. You could get one of each.

15 Q. How about just the two permits for, uh, drifting?

16 A. In the Bay?

17 Q. One got his own permit and he bought another one.

18 MR. ANDERSON: I'd like to have the name

25 Q. And there's another thing I'd like to know. How can a guy sell his permit

2 A. Say again.
3 Q. One man sells his permit, turned around and get another permit issued to him.
4 A. Get another one issued to him?
5 Q. Right.
6 MR. ANDERSON: He already had one issued to 7 him before?
8 Q. He had one issued to him before ...
9 MR. ANDERSON: He sold that one...
10 Q. He sold it and got another one.
11 MR. ANDERSON: And another issued?
12 Q. Right. And I can't even get one.
13 UNIDENTIFIED MALE: I can't get mine either.
14 MR. ANDERSON: If you -- if you can -- if 15 you can give me the facts, I would sure like 16 to check it. I -- we want to know -- I -- 17 I certainly want ...
18 A. Okay, wait, wait ...
19 UNIDENTIFIED MALE: ... help me get my 20 permit out ...
21 A. I -- I think I may have an explanation for what happened. There are guys, 22 uh, at a certain point level who don't know whether or not they're gonna 23 get a permit or not yet, so we give them an interim use permit and say, you 24 can fish off that. Because we just don't know whether he's going to go down

1 fish that interim use permit, if they have a chance to buy a permit, will 2 buy one. And then later on, it turned out that we do issue them a permit 3 that they were entitled to, so they unload the one they bought and keep the 4 one that they got through the system.

5 Q. No ...

6 A. That -- that sort of thing has happened.

7 Q. This isn't the case. I know that this isn't the case.

8 A. Well, if privately you want to provide us with some information, we would be 9 very happy to look into that because what you've described is illegal, at 10 least the way I understand it. I'd like to see it straightened out.

11 Q. No, he had a permit and he turned around and bought another one.

12 MR. ANDERSON: Okay, what is -- what was 13 the earlier one? You said a person was 14 issued one and then went and bought another 15 one?

16 Q. Drift, uh ...

17 MR. ANDERSON: Two drift permits?

18 Q. One guy he had a permit issued to him.

19 MR. ANDERSON: Yeh.

21 MR. ANDERSON: Yeh.

3 MR. ANDERSON: Yeh.

4 Q. Then he turned around and bought another one. He was holding two permits at 5 the same time.

6 MR. ANDERSON: Okay. We'd like to know a 7 little more ...

8 A. I'm -- I'm quite serious. If afterwards you want to provide us with some 9 information, uh, we'll see (indisc) but, uh, we want to find out 'cause 10 that shouldn't be happening.

11 MR. ANDERSON: That's not -- that isn't 12 fair to people who don't have one.

13 Q. Well, this is right. I mean, this is why I was wondering for. And I 14 understand that there's people that come up and fish for one year and get a 15 permit.

16 MR. ANDERSON: That's true. I think we 17 ought to answer that. Allan?

18 Q. Okay. If a person came up and say, in the year 1972, and fished that year 19 only. They were eligible.

20 MR. ANDERSON: Right. Okay now, Allan, 21 you've got it.

22 A. The -- the way we set up the system, we figured that a guy who fished back 23 in, say 1960 and '61 and then quit, shouldn't be given as much consideration 24 toward getting a permit and needing one as the guy who is fishing right up 25 against the 1972 cutoff year that the legislature gave us. You -- you can

1 see that, you know. This guy in '62 dropped out for ten years, he doesn't 2 need a permit as much as the guy who's fishing somewhere around 1970, '71, 3 '72. So, in our meetings with the fishermen, we asked them, do you think 4 there should be more weight put on a guy who fished recently than a guy who 5 fished in the past, and they said yes. So we built a system which, if the 6 wall is here at the end of '72 has more points and more weight there, all 7 the way on down like this. And we figured that if a guy started fishing as 8 a gear license holder for the first time in '72, and he owned his boat, so 9 he's got money sunk in a boat, and he earned -- I forget, what is it, 80 or 10 90 percent of all of his income out of fishing in that fishery, and he 11 fished not just a couple of days but for a good span of time - five, six, 12 seven weeks - and he lived in an area which was not a big city, that if he 13 was cut out, this guy would be hurt. You know. Maybe he only fished one 14 year, but he -- he sunk in. He really is committed to being a professional 15 fisherman. So we figured that it would hurt that guy very much to cut him 16 out. And the system was built so that in those cases -- there are some 17 people who only fished '72 -- but if they met all of the conditions, they'd 18 get enough points to get a permit.

19 Q. Now I understand this guy fished out for several weeks. This is what I'm 20 guessing (indisc). I mean ... They made these deadlines, and still if I 21 turned in my entry permit about two or three times now, I was turned down.
22 But I understand that there's a guy that fished in the last couple of years 23 and he's got a permit, and this is what I can't figure out. How can they 24 get one and we can't get one?
25

1 Q. And another thing you got to talk about boat owners and stuff like this. How 2 about a poor guy that couldn't get a boat, had to rent a boat from the 3 company, and then all of a sudden get cut off for some reason or another?
4 You don't have no more boat. So how are you gonna fish when you don't get 5 a boat from the company?

6 MR. ANDERSON: Right.

7 Q. And -- and there's a lot of these things that you've got to talk about 8 (indisc) and everything that a lot of people don't. The poor people who 9 can't and never did own a boat ...

10 A. Uh-huh.

11 Q. ... and they were always used to leasing from the company or had a boat 12 issued to them, and then they all of a sudden get cut off. Well, what 13 happens to that guy? How can he go back fishing again and fish those years 14 that he should have been fishing?

15 A. Uh-huh. I understand ...

16 Q. It's just like my boy, now. He's fighting for his limited entry. And he's 17 been fishing with his mother down there ever since he was a young feller.
18 Now he's ready to become on his own. And how is he gonna get his?

19 MR. ANDERSON: Dan, uh, going back to that 20 comment you made. You said people you
21 know -- you know of people that have fished

5 MR. ANDERSON: Uh-huh.

6 Q. The guy fished over in Dillingham. I don't know what his name was offhand
7 (indisc)

8 A. Did he get a permit from the commission or did he buy one?

9 Q. I understand he had one issued to him. I mean this is why (indisc - cough)
10 I could see if they are buying 'em. Sure. I mean, that stands to reason, 11 but when they get them issued to them and I can't get one issued to me, 12 I mean, this makes me wonder.

13 A. Again, we'd -- we'd like to look into that. Without having specific facts 14 about a guy's situation in front of us, it's really hard for me to try to 15 explain. Let me -- let me suggest ...

16 Q. (indisc)

17 A. ... one possibility.

18 Q. What I'm doing is bringing up what I hear and stuff.

20 Q. But the two facts I told you about this guy buying one when he already had 21 one, and this guy getting issued to him twice, I know that for a fact.

22 MR. ANDERSON: Allan will check those out.

23 A. What might have happened was this other guy that you're talking about -- we 24 have a provision in our regulations, uh, for what we call unavoidable 25 circumstances. If you were going to go fishing but you got hit by a truck,

1 you're in the hospital and you can't fish. But it was clear that you had a 2 specific intent to go fishing and that you made all reasonable efforts to 3 go fishing up until the time you got hit by the truck. And that your 4 unavoidable circumstance, you know, came along. We will give a guy credit 5 as if he fished for that year. Because through no fault of his own, uh, 6 something took him out of the action so he couldn't fish. Now, it might 7 be that this type of guy that you're talking about was somebody who came 8 to us and as a part of his application showed that he did have some 9 unavoidable circumstance that kept him from fishing in that year, plus he 10 also proved that if whatever it was hadn't happened - he hadn't got hit by 11 the truck - he would have been out there fishing. Now we do credit guys 12 with points under -- under cases like that. It seems like the only fair 13 thing to do. So, you know that -- that might explain it. Again, I can't 14 tell without specific facts of the individual in front of me. But as a -- 15 that is one of the gentleman things we do because accidents happen.

2 Q. Yeh. Well, I'm gonna bring up this thing like being hit with a truck. Does 3 this apply also to, uh, military? (indisc) if you were in the military 4 service and couldn't fish for so many years? (indisc)

5 MR. ANDERSON: The legislature -- the 6 legislature when it passed the law, uh, 7 included a letter of instructions to the 8 commission. And in that letter they said
9 that the commission should credit individ-
10 uals whose participated in the fishery
11 was interrupted because of military service 12 as if they had kept on fishing. Uh, the 13 commission then said for those people who,
14 uh, submitted applications they will credit 15 them with points as if they were fishing 16 for their first tour of duty in the military, 17 uh, in the same way that they fished before 18 they entered the service. Uh, so if a guy
19 was a puller before he went into the service 20 he would receive points for -- for -- as if 21 he was a puller while he was in the service 22 (indisc - end of tape signal, static) ...
23 was in the transition, if -- if he was a 24 puller but was just in the process of 25 becoming a gear license holder, it would

1 show that he would have been uh, an 2 operator of a boat during that time that he 3 spent in the military, then we can treat 4 him as if he would have been an operator of 5 a boat. So -- so that capability is in the 6 regulations and points were awarded under 7 those circumstances as well.

8 Q. Okay, another question I have is, during the critical years of the point 9 system, '69, '70, '71, and '72, right? Okay, in those years the resident 10 people up here (indisc) prediction poor in the Bristol Bay areas, and they 11 didn't want to go down and fish, and a lot of them didn't fish in the 12 critical years. That's the reason a lot of them get permit problems. They 13 stayed home to fight the (indisc) construction work. And it's kind of a 14 shame that that was for these years.

15 MR. ANDERSON: Yeh -- yeh, we understand 16 that, uh... That's a clear fact that even 17 the Department of Fish and Game was 18 discouraging people from going out fishing.
19 That's clear and that's -- that's evident.
20 Uh, we do know that there are legal suits
21 challenging, ya know, the problems that, uh, 22 occurred because of the state of the 23 fishery. And we just couldn't afford to 24 have more people going down and taking a 25 limited number of fish. So people were

1 discouraged from going out fishing. So
2 because of that and those were the critical 3 years for being evaluated for points, you
4 got left out. It's totally unfair and, uh,
5 something that I know is beyond the control 6 of the law that -- as it was passed and did 7 not take that -- or the legislature did 8 not take that into consideration. It was 9 something that these guys can't do any-10 thing about. The law was passed. They're 11 required to follow the law that was passed 12 by the legislature, and it's something that 13 was not taken into consideration. We know 14 that. Uh, we do know, again going back 15 to court cases, that this is being discussed 16 in the courts now and that there probably is 17 going to be some kind of, uh, uh, answer to 18 that particular problem because it certainly 19 wasn't your fault, ya know, people's fault.
20 Clear ... Uh, Mr. Vantrease? Oh, excuse 21 me ...

22 BY: MR. VANTREASE:

23 Q. Well, I just would like to pass my opinion on to the commission and I -- you 24 know I'm not sure how much control they have legis -- legislatively, but I 25 feel that it should definitely exercise, uh, or be permitted to exercise

1 control over the transfer of these permits. Every trade - and fishing is a 2 trade - every trade requires an apprenticeship. And I think that every 4 or wherever should be building up preference rights and, uh, you know ...

5 He's making a history of what he has for a life goal, and, uh, should be 6 permitted to pursue his goal and not let someone with a pile of money outside 7 suddenly decides he wants to be a commercial fisherman, plunks down this 8 pile of money and buy a permit. It's -- it's just not right to cut the, uh, 9 apprentices out and give it to someone else just because he has the money.
10 Okay, the other thing I want to say about this, uh, control that the 11 commission should have. I don't know whether they have it or not, but I'm 12 against brokers. It's not right to permit a broker to buy a permit and turn 13 around and sell it at a tremendous profit. That's absolutely wrong. There's 14 no way that should ever be permitted.

15 UNIDENTIFIED MALE: Then how do you have any 16 control over ... You don't know that some-17 body walks up to somebody and says, hey, 18 I'll buy ...

19 Q. If he isn't an apprentice fisherman, he has no right to buy a permit. Okay.
20 If he doesn't intend to exercise the use of that permit, he has no right to 21 that permit.

1 It will take, uh, legislative action to enable us to control brokers in one 2 way or another. Uh, but it is a problem that we are aware of that is, uh, 3 beginning to, we think, artificially inflate the prices of permits and, uh, 4 we will be watching it very closely.

5 BY: MR. ANDERSON:

6 A. Now, the -- again going back, I'd like to respond as a -- as a representative 7 of the legislature side of it. The broker problem, of course, whatever it 8 is, I -- I shouldn't call it a problem. It's just that I do know it exists 9 or at least I heard rumors that it exists and, uh, I happen to know, I think 10 I know, who one of the gentlemen is now. And I -- I know of no law that 11 makes it illegal at this point in time. I do know there are no regulations 12 that govern their activities as well. I think Mr. Adasiak did point out 13 that, uh, there could be regulations that would severely curtail or 14 regulate their activities so that the kind of things that you mentioned 15 could be prohibited in the future. I don't know to what extent that you're -- 16 I -- I want to move in that direction because I'm not exactly sure what kind 17 of fees or abuses may be occurring. I -- I want to know what the facts 18 are and there have been none placed on my table yet. I won't, as I said, 19 I'm only operating on rumor, and until I hear facts and until I see them, 20 will I know how to deal with, uh, with the situation. So if it looks like 21 it's an abuse, if it looks like something that should be corrected, then by 22 all means it will be. And, uh, you can depend on that. Uh, Mr. Delkittie, 4 (indisc) year in the Bristol Bay area. Uh, what Wassie's saying is the -- 5 that a lot of guys went fire fighting. Okay, in order to make a few dollars 6 just to make it, uh ... Okay, I think these people that held back and not 7 participated in fishing in the Bristol Bay, really what they did, they just 8 sacrificed. In other words, give the fish a chance to get up to the 9 spawning ground, and I think these peoples did a lot of good, but it is the 10 opposite way where the commissioner's said, okay, if you fished in that year 11 you gain points. (indisc) the ones that didn't fish that year, didn't 12 show no interest, so they didn't get ... Okay, to me, the guys (indisc -

4 UNIDENTIFIED MALE: That was 1974. Yeh.

5 A. Yeh, that was '74, but before that time, before that time they did predict

7 it wouldn't pay for people to go out and fish. I don't -- there is a record, 8 there is a history of what they said. I know there is, and I do know that, 9 they were directing their statements at Bristol Bay fishermen. But, uh, 10 that -- that's a real good point that you bring up because it had the 5 A. Well, the purpose of this meeting is just to do -- accomplish what -- attack 6 the problem that -- that we recognize or at least, uh... I have to give 7 credit to (indisc), I think, because she felt very strongly about this, and uh, 8 really insisted that there should be meetings, uh, in Dillingham, Naknek, 9 and of course, here. And, uh, it's an understanding and recognition of the 10 problem. Okay, I intend to do the (indisc) about doing this more often 11 about programs that directly affect the life of these -- you know, the life 12 the people. I think it's really helpful not only from the legislator's point 13 of view and your point of view as people who are affected by this law, but 14 it also helps these guys to understand the frustrations that you people have 15 so that they know how to deal with the problems that -- that -- that they 16 read about on a piece of paper. I -- I have a piece of paper here that, uh, 17 if I had received it, it would have been a real cold type of relationship 18 because of -- they have about 15,000 files. Okay? And then after a while 19 you get a tendency to just look at that piece of paper and it doesn't 20 represent a face or a name any longer. It's just -- here's a case. Now they 21 are coming out here and they're putting faces and files together now, and 22 it's gonna be a -- a little bit easier for everyone to look at these guys 23 a little bit more and say, hey, they're -- they're a lively breed. They have 24 feelings and, uh, they're not a bunch of klutzes that -- that, uh, they 25 think they are. And, uh, sometimes and, uh ... Yeh, I think -- I think

1 we have to do a little bit more. I have honestly made an attempt to let 2 people know what's going on, but I'm only as effective as I can get money 3 from the legislature, to appropriate money to these people to get out here.
4 And as I said earlier, we did -- I was successful in getting some money 5 from the legislature to -- that I give to these people to contract with the 6 Bristol Bay Native Association and other native associations throughout the 7 state who had similar problems. Because we're not -- we're not the only 8 fishery in the state that's affected by this law, so the money had to be 9 distributed and it wasn't as much as I would have liked it to have been. I 10 think these people are going to go back and they're going to -- and they do see 11 now the need for this kind of activity, where they have to get out and 12 explain a little bit more clearly the kind of program that they're operating 13 and also to give you an understanding the kind of problems that they have.
14 Because first of all, they don't have all that kind of money in their budget 15 to do this kind of travelling. I think they will begin now to do a little 16 bit more planning so that they can get out more than they have in the past.
17 The other thing that happened, too, as far as travel is concerned, to begin 18 implementing this program took an awful lot of time. It took staff time, 19 in-house time, where there really wasn't that much time to travel. They 20 really don't have much time to travel now because they're involved in about 21 sixty court cases where they're required to be in court to answer questions 22 that the judge asks them. And all their information that they have in their 23 files is supposed to be available and they're supposed to be there to 24 testify on their own behalf. So, their taking their time to be here is 25 really great for us, I think. And -- and I think we're -- I'm learning an

1 awful lot about the system as well. And, uh, I think that, uh, again going 2 back to Terry Gardiner. He understands this and I think I'll get more 3 support from the legislature to do more of these things. We also have -- I 4 don't know how many people received KDLG, but perhaps there could be more 5 of a, uh, an effort to use that media that wasn't there before 1971, 1972, 6 where, you know, more of this information could have gotten out. We have 7 more media, uh, available to us that we can use more effectively, and I think 8 these people probably will be able to use that and so will I.

9 BY: UNIDENTIFIED MALE:

10 Q. Another one of our problems is that the people don't understand what you in 11 Juneau are saying. We get a lot of bulletins. We've probably read all of 12 this that's gone on but it doesn't mean anything to us. Some of the people 13 cannot read. Other of the people that can read can't explain it fully or 14 they can explain it wrong. And even if you -- your -- the commission itself 15 cannot come out here, maybe a representative of the commission can come out 16 or some interested party - the Bristol Bay Native Association or maybe 17 Legal Services - someone that could explain it.

6 A. Are there any other questions or comments that, uh, people want to get into 7 at this time? If not, uh ... Oh, go ahead.

8 BY: SKIP AVRIL:

9 Q. I have two questions that I would like to ask. The first one is ...
10 My name is Skip Avril of (indisc). Uh, what about these people that transfer 11 these permits for a year? Like if I want to go and fish, say, assign a 12 permit over to me for a year and I go and fish this. Is there any way to 13 really regulate that?

14 BY: MR. ADASIAK:

15 A. Skip, uh, two years ago the legislature amended the law to explicitly pro-16 hibit the leasing of permits. Uh, leasing is really not defined in the 17 legislation. The commission now is in the process of developing regulations 18 that would try to implement that section of the law. Uh, it -- but it is 19 a very complex question. Uh, and a few examples might illustrate that. Well 20 we take on the surface that the lease would require an exchange of money for 21 the use of the permit. Uh, and so the mere fact that a permanent transfer 22 to an individual and then transfer back a year later may not be a lease if 23 no money exchanged hands for that permit. Uh, it's complicated because if 24 the boat was also leased along with the transfer of the permit, then there's 25 the question as to whether or not money has exchanged hands (indisc - cough)

1 permit as well. The commission is developing regulations within house right 2 at this point that will attempt to implement the staff by essentially 3 creating a presumption that a transfer back of the permit (indisc) would in 4 a given period of time, probably two years, presume to be a lease and there-5 fore, would not be allowed. Uh, a person would have the opportunity to 6 rebut that presumption. Uh, for instance, in -- in setnet operations, it's 7 quite common for setnet permits to be transferred inter-family for, uh, 8 various reasons, uh, uh, upon a yearly basis. Uh, a total bar, an absolute 9 bar on the transfers made wrongfully prevent that kind of inter-family 10 transfer. So we're only creating presumption, and the presumption could be 11 rebutted by showing that it wasn't leased, (indisc) exchange of money for 12 purposes of using the permit.

13 Q. Could they, on that, can they say, all right, it could be transferred inter-14 family and not give different names or other, you know ... Like we talk 15 about people that are in, like Seattle or some other place, or even in 16 Alaska. You know, they say well I want to fish this year, you know. And 17 they just transfer the permit, you know, the name -- you put it in somebody 18 else's name. That person fishes it, and then next year they give it back 19 (indisc).

20 A. Yeh, that kind -- kind of practice will be presumed to be a lease (indisc) 21 to the regulations and the policies.

22 Q. Okay, another question is, I know people that have had, ya know, that have 23 had permits and that haven't fished in, like, the last two or three years.
24 Now, for these young people who want to get in, here's a permit that's sitting 25 idle, that isn't even being used. Is there anyway to regulate that?

1 A. The -- the legislature was faced with a, what I think was a very difficult 2 choice to make with that kind of problem. Uh, they wanted permits to go 3 to fishermen. They didn't want them to be in the hands of speculators and 4 non-fishermen, and so there was, uh, part of the legislature that said we 5 ought to require the use of that permit. If they don't use it, then they're 6 going to forfeit it in some way. Uh, it was called the "use it or lose it" 7 provision; you use it, if you don't use it, you lose it. The other part of 8 the legislature, the part that prevailed, said, look, if we force people to 9 use permits, we're simply going to be compounding the problems that we've 10 already got. We've got a problem of too much gear in the water. In 1973 11 when the law was passed, they were faced with really some very low runs on 12 the watersheds, particularly Bristol Bay. It was expected that '73 and '74 13 would be very poor years, and in fact, it turned out to be that way. Uh, 14 and consequently they said, well, at least for the time being, we shouldn't 15 require the use of that permit because that would be harmful to the resource.
16 Uh, that's the way that the law is presently written. Uh, and it was written 17 that way because of that reason. They didn't want to require the over-18 intensive (indisc - static) of the permits because of the damage that it may 19 have on the resource (indisc - static)

20 UNIDENTIFIED MALE: I know fishermen who 21 truly did want to fish ...

22 BY: MR. ANDERSON:

23 A. We're under, in the legislature, though -- you know, we're under a lot of 24 pressure now because we do know that there are something like 350 or 400 25 possibly -- about 400 permits that were not used this year and we do know

J & R Associates

1 that there are an awful lot of people who are waiting to get in. And, uh, 2 this -- at this point in time now, we're being told that this isn't fair, 3 so we're -- we're going to be forced to face that. What are we going to do
4 with, uh, uh, these 400 permits that are not in use. Shall they be retired 5 and reissued to other fishermen? But we get in then -- we step into another 6 problem then. I think people ought to be aware of, and we haven't talked 7 about it. When you get into the buy-back program which is on the horizon, 8 it's in the future, it's not contemplated for 1979 but you ... The Depart-9 ment of Fish and Game is coming out with what numbers that they call the 10 optimum numbers of gear or units of gear that can be, uh, used in the Bristol 11 Bay fishery. That number as we anticipate it might be is going to be 12 substantially lower than the number of permits that are now in -- that -- 13 that have been issued. That optimum number is going to be a little -- quite 14 a bit lower than what are already out, uh, and issued to -- to, uh, people 15 who now have permits. So that's going to have -- we're going to have another 16 problem. The other thing that's going to happen is that if these lawsuits 17 that are now before the courts are successful, there are going to be more 18 permits issued. Okay? So that's going to be another -- another thing. So, 19 how seriously we can look at the use -- use it or lose it type concept for 20 retiring those permits that haven't been used or not going to be used in the 21 future. We're not quite sure how to deal with that at this point in time.
22 However, we do know it's a problem. People are telling us now that it's 23 unfair. That if they're trying so hard to get a permit, why can't we get 24 one of those permits that's sitting in somebody's pocket. Because, for the 25 most part, those people are speculating. They're sitting there knowing that

1 all they have to do is refile, they'll still retain control of that permit, 2 and when the market becomes to the point where they feel that they can sell 3 that permit for a substantial profit, that's all they're going to do. And 4 it will more than likely move out of the state because the honest dealers 5 are the ones that appear to have more access to ready capital. So we do have 6 to look at it, but then again, I don't -- I'm not sure that I want to do 7 anything at this point in time until more of these things that I've mentioned

11 because they said the Bay was going to be closed. Which is -- I can't under-12 stand some of these people ... These kids that never been in a boat before 13 or in a year or two, they got their permits. In fact, it's a drift permits,

20 points and permits? And (indisc) that's supposed to be getting our permits 21 is from Juneau. And how are these other people get theirs points? That's 22 really incredible.

23 A. I'm not sure there's an adequate answer for you on that one, but let me try 24 to explain what the law says the commission must look at and -- and how we've 25 implemented that law to give you a better understanding of -- of what has

1 happened. The -- the -- the legislature was concerned about getting permits
2 to people who were actually fishermen. Uh, and so, they wanted to know -- 3 they wanted to make sure that the people had their licenses and they wanted 4 to make sure that they were participating. So there were kind of two kinds 5 of proof that were necessary to receive points, uh, that would qualify you 6 for, uh, for a permit. One side of the proof dealt with your proper licensing.
7 The other proof dealt with, uh, showing that you were participating in the 8 fishery. Uh, it was very difficult to decide what kind of proof would be 9 adequate for showing that a person was fishing. Uh, the commission couldn't 10 require just a fish ticket because there are lots of cases where people 11 really are fishing but they pool their fish together, sell them under one 12 license, and only one person shows on the fish ticket as fishing, when in 13 fact there were a lot more. So we -- we had to -- to accept evidence of 14 participation other than fish tickets themselves.

15 Q. I'm talking about the license. We bought licenses since 1963 for George 16 He's -- he has his own boat and buys his gears -- gear license. And George 17 has his own set of license, that's how he wanted it. I went to King 18 Salmon for this ... How will he -- could he -- (indisc) going in his 19 boat with his (indisc) when he's nine years old? And, uh, the commissioner 20 told me that he has to have license (indisc) I have to buy him license, and 21 since then I've been buying him a license, and then he can't get his permit.
22 And some of these kids that never have been in a boat before and never have 23 license, how are those people get their license and entry permits?

24 A. Yeh.

25 Q. That's what I wanted to know.

12 UNIDENTIFIED FEMALE: How do you deal with 13 false information?

14 A. When we've discovered it. We've -- we've -- there are two steps that are 15 taken. One is revocation of the permit that was issued, and two, is 16 prosecution of the individuals who were involved in submitting false informa-17 tion. It is very difficult, though, to -- to prove that false information 18 has -- has been submitted. Uh, the commission, uh, for instance in terms of 19 showing that a person has been fishing, we knew the fish tickets were not the 20 only source of proof, we knew that settlement sheets wouldn't be the only 21 source of proof. And so at times we've even had to rely on affidavits from 22 the people who were fishing with them. Like in the setnet fishery, it's very 23 common that, uh, uh, that uh, the fish are pooled under one gear license and 24 sold, and affidavits would be accepted from people who were fishing on the 25 site to show who was fishing there. Uh, and it is possible that we have 5 A. Allan, let me say something here. You know, going back to your concern in 6 saying that, you know, it's really important to get the people up here so 7 that they know what's going on. When they -- when they were sitting in 8 Juneau, I think they heard some of these things, you know, they heard about 9 them but they didn't know. So now that they've heard things in Dillingham 10 and Naknek, now they're hearing things here, I think they're going to want to 11 know a little bit more about what you're talking about so that they can look 12 into it and make sure that if people are not telling the truth about getting 13 their permits, they're going to try to stop it. Okay. Because a lot of our 14 people need their permits and they're not getting them. Okay. Why -- you 15 know, you have a good question. Why are these other people getting them when 16 our people that live here are being left out? And we have to try to change 17 that. That's why they're here, they want to hear these things and they're 18 going to -- I know they'll try to do something about it. Uh, Allan?

1 A. Right. Okay, I wanted to make sure I understood what -- what was really -- 2 really bothering you. Now when the legislature, and Nels was not in the 3 legislature at the time, but I was -- I was around so I know some of what 4 the legislature looked at. When the legislature looked at the limited entry 5 law, uh, they -- one of the sets of numbers that they looked at was how many 6 people would we let in if we gave permits not just to gear license holders, 7 skippers, but to crewmen, too. (end of tape) That in order for a person 8 even to apply for a permit, not necessarily get one, but just come in the 9 door and apply for one, that they would limit that to people who at sometime 10 had fished as a skipper, operated gear, because they felt that we were talk-11 ing about the number of boats that were out there, the number of setnets 12 that were being operated, the -- the gear that was out there. So that the 13 person who is licensed to operate that gear was one of the things they were 14 concerned about. And if your sons worked just as pullers, just as helpers, 15 then the way the law is written right now, the legislature says to us, you 16 can only even take an application from somebody who has gear license and 17 fished. The way the law is set up, we can't look at their applications 18 because to look at all the pullers, all the helpers, all the crew members, 19 we just let in way, way too many people. That was the -- the kind of 20 decision that the legislature made when this law ... Okay, Nels ...

1 for the Limited Entry Commission. And, of course, you all know Adelaide 2 Herman. She's my -- my administrative assistant from Juneau. And I'm 3 Nels Anderson. And I think we, probably most of us already know that, uh, 4 the purpose of these meetings. Uh, if there are any questions, further 5 ~~questions~~ or, uh, suggestions or ideas that you want us to consider, uh, 6 you know, we -- we sure want to hear from you now. If you don't feel like 7 saying anything at this time, you really haven't -- haven't really developed 8 what you want to say, uh, write us a letter. Uh, you could write to me in 9 Dillingham or you could write directly to the Limited Entry Commission in 10 Juneau, and, uh, with any thoughts or ideas that you feel can improve the 11 program that would make it easier for the Bristol Bay resident to get a 19 permits and we lose them. And then if they transfer to their kids and want 20 to take it back, and then what? Or just could take it back and say, even if 21 they never used it in the season? Like if they're not using the permit, and 22 transfer to their kids or the family for one year, and if they may want to 23 take it back. Like part of the -- they just let it, uh, let the -- let the 1 Would you be able to get it back then?

2 BY: MR. ADASIAK:

3 A. If you do it for free, you can get it back. If you charge your son money 4 when you give him the permit, then that's leasing and that's against the law.
5 But if you just want to transfer it him and give it to him - do it for free - 6 and then get it back after a year or two, that's all right.

7 MR. ANDERSON: Is -- is the question to 8 (indisc) Let's say that the one you did 9 that for didn't want to give it back. Then 10 what do you do? Is that the question, too?

11 Q. Yes.

12 MR. ANDERSON: Okay. What do you do in that 13 case?

14 A. Okay. There -- there -- there you have a problem. Uh, you better know your 15 son. Uh ... The -- the way the law is, when you transfer a permit to some-16 body else, it's then his. And unless he wants to transfer it back, you can't 17 force him to transfer it back. Now if -- if there's an emergency, if your 18 husband is on the boat and he gets hurt, and you need somebody to fish it, 19 you can make an emergency transfer to your son, which is good just as long 20 as your husband is getting well. Then the permit will come back to your 21 husband. And in an emergency, it's just a temporary switch until the 22 emergency is over. But if you do a permanent transfer and you want it back 23 later, you better know who you're transferring it to.

24 MR. ANDERSON: That was a good question. I 25 can see some -- a lot of people thinking

1 about that.

2 A. For -- for the people who have just come in, I, uh, again as a reminder as 3 well, Jim Larson of our staff is in the back and has microfilmed copies of 4 most of the applications of the people in this area, so if you have questions

7 your application, uh, with you.

8 BY: MR. ANDERSON:

9 A. Are there any other questions? Yes.

10 BY: UNIDENTIFIED MALE:

11 Q. I'd like to -- address the comment that was made before lunch. It concerned, 12 uh, a lot of inactive permits that, uh, that aren't being used. And I think 13 it's obvious that the poor seasons we've experienced has, uh, influenced 14 their thinking or their inactivity. But now that we have the big years 15 coming back, we're going to see those permits popping out of the ground all 16 over the place and, uh, and well ... We who've been actively involved in 17 the fishing the last few years have sensed a real brotherhood spirit in the 18 fleet, you know. It's -- it's a small fleet and, uh, there's room on the 19 beaches where we didn't have before. And there was lots of problems on the 20 beaches, people shooting at each other, climbing all over each other. I mean 21 really tromping each other down. And we -- we see a tendency to that this 22 year. People saying I'm going to come back and take my site. And, uh, you 23 can -- you can look for a lot of trouble even for the permits that are in 24 existence today. And if -- if everyone were honest that they would not be in 25 favor of a wide open door like we had before because there was a lot of 1 trouble. And a person who has a legitimate claim in his application for a 2 permit would abhor that possibility, you know. He would like to see his 3 permit honored but not everybody else, because that would create a situation 4 that is dangerous. It's -- I mean I'm sure you realize that the lid was put 5 on for that purpose. Okay, with these big years coming back, we -- we just 6 take the big harvest. And while these people may not be here today to 7 consider, uh, a need for additional processing, I'm sure you realize that 8 we can swamp those canneries with the size of the fleet that there is in, uh, 9 motion right now. And they can't begin to take the fish that we do catch.

10 So we, uh, we're encouraging some foreign fishery, uh, participation that 11 would permit these canneries to move that fish and maybe that -- maybe that's 12 already on -- on the board, so to speak, but ...

13 BY: MR. ANDERSON:

14 A. Okay, this is something I can respond to. Uh, we did get into, uh, into 15 the discussion of, uh, of the marketability of the salmon because of the big 16 years coming up. And, uh, we do know that there were several canneries that 17 ceased operation or put their fishermen on a limit, uh, during the summer 18 where the -- where the processors did, uh, tell the Department of Fish and 19 Game in a survey that was conducted -- that is conducted annually, that they 20 had the capability to handle the forecasted run. Of course, the forecasted 21 run came in at -- at a larger or, you know, larger numbers than what they had 22 anticipated. So therefore, they were faced with some problems. However, even 23 with that in mind, uh, they still stated that they were able to process those 24 fish. It turned out not to be the case. Now we -- I have asked the Depart-25 ment of Fish and Game to give me a copy of their survey, uh, that they have

1 sent out to the processors, and I want to see the results and the responses.
2 Uh, in addition to that, if they indicate that they can, I want to see what 3 the processors are doing about increasing their capability to process. Uh, 4 in addition, I am going to be -- I have already talked to the Alaska Federation 5 of Natives and, uh, Community Enterprise Development Corp -- Cooperative 6 to see what they could do about helping us alleviate the -- the large 7 numbers of fish that I know are not going to be able to be processed by the -- 8 by the industry. The final thing that we're doing is that there is a special 9 committee on transportation that was formed last year that is going to be 10 meeting with the processors and the, uh, the, uh, AIFMA, I think it is - 11 Independent Fishermen's Marketing Association - Western Alaska Cooperative 12 Marketing Association to determine to what extent additional airfields are 13 going to be needed -- extended airfields to fly fish out directly from the 14 fishing grounds so that people who can't fish for the canneries because they 15 know they can't handle more fishermen, can go directly to a fish buyer.
16 In addition to that, uh, uh, we will be working to see what we can do to 17 encourage the foreign, uh, foreign processors to come into the grounds to 18 take the, uh, surplus off of our hands because we do know that next year and 19 the following year even to a greater degree, uh, is going to be a tremendous 20 problem for us. So we do have to protect our -- our fishermen to -- to what -- 21 to what degree we can to make sure they have a market, so we are working on 22 it, and very much aware of the problem that, uh, could develop. I also 23 found out last year that there were some fish that, uh, large numbers of 24 fish that were dumped and wasted and, uh, we don't want to see that happen, 25 because we've had too many lean years and -- and to see waste like that is

Q. And another thing well, on the subject of limited entries. When they were back on the drawn deal, back to three years. Every year you sit in a bucket, they, uh, if you, uh, put your application in and they take four or five hundred applications and they draw one hundred twenty-nine or one hundred and thirty every year. Were you ever aware that (indisc) Alaskan got their limited entries when they were doing this for the past two years, up until last year before?

A. No, I can't understand ... I'm not even sure I understand the question.

Q. Well, what I'm asking is every year, you know for three years -- every year if you was turned down the first year, you fill out an application for limited entry. Then if you was qualified or if you had so many points, every year they'd -- they'd put, uh, your name in a basket, they would draw -- the state would draw so many names and give so many limited entries for three years. Am I right or wrong?

MR. ADASIAK: It doesn't work that way.

Q. Well, that's what ... I had my two kids on that for three years in a row and their names were never drawn for setnet permits, but that's -- that's neither here or there. I finally got them through fighting other ways. But how many setnet permits were given and how many drift permits were given in them three years?

BY: MR. ADASIAK:

A. We haven't somehow taken applications and then drawn people's names.

Q. That's what I'm asking.

1 that way, uh, at least not at this point. What we have done is taken 2 people's applications and started issuing down the point level, twenty 3 points and above automatically you've got a permit. If we still had some 4 left over up to that maximum number ...

5 Q. Okay, that's what we're asking.

6 A. ... we started going down the point scale and giving everybody with nineteen 7 points a permit, everybody with eighteen points a permit. With the Bay, 8 we hit seventeen in the drift fishery and we stopped. Uh, but there -- 9 there were no drawings, uh, of any kind. Now, there -- there were two 10 application periods and a lot of people got confused about those application 11 periods. The first one, when we did it, we thought it was going to be the 12 one, but we got into a court suit and the result of the court suit was that 13 the court told us we had to have another application period. And the only 14 people who could apply this time were people who held a gear license and 15 fished, had gear license holders for the first time in either '73 or '74.
16 So we held that period which finished up this last September, and then we 17 had to take their applications and use the same point system on them and see 18 where they came out. So there were two application periods, but the same 19 rules of the game as far as how you got points - same years, everything else.
20 And we did issue a couple of permits. We've still got some of those applica-21 tions we're looking at.

22 Q. (indisc - static in tape) I heard all kinds of rumors and I never did get

5 Q. Oh, no. I -- I was just asking ... I know he had a visa, whatever you call 6 them, for sixty days, and yet he held a limited entry. He couldn't even talk 7 English - well, he talked a few words. (indisc) limited entry.

8 A. But that individual, as I understand it, had been doing that for a number of 9 years.

10 Q. Yes, he -- he came back with -- with two different ones in two different 11 years, him and his brother both. Yeh, he had a brother, also.

12 A. Would you like a job with the commission?

13 Q. I get it from watching to see how close you guys are doing your job.

14 MR. ANDERSON: Are there any other super

2 Q. If you presently hold a permit ...

3 A. He (indisc) holding the permit -- the permit's the one I'm talking to. He's 4 been fishing for long before I did, and he (indisc) hasn't applied for one.
5 I thi thinks he was too -- too old or something. He's got lots of 6 grandchilids coming up and his grandchilids doesn't have any, you know, any

8 Q. Yen, unless he holds the permit, then the only way that he can give a permit 9 to his grandchildren is by having one himself.

10 A. But after, uh, I'm asking you this. Can he apply for one, even if, uh, he's 11 not -- not fishing anymore? While he's living. Because I saw him fishing 12 in 1907, from '70 when we were holding the permits, you know. I think he 13 loses his permit, I don't know. I never asked him. 'Cause he's gots lots 15 Q. The application ...

16 A. Are those grandchilids of ours more important to us right now. We might be 17 living one day and what we do about permits for our grandchilids.

18 Q. The application deadline for applying for a permit has, uh, passed. Uh, the 19 commission met -- nevertheless is involved in a lawsuit over whether that 20 application deadline should be extended for, uh, particularly people who live 21 in this region. And David Snyder who will be giving a little talk a little 22 bit later on, uh, this afternoon, will explain that lawsuit and what its

1 son, George and Gillie Jack of, uh, Aggie Hobson, they've -- they've gone to 2 court. Uh, if we're successful that'll -- that'll -- that'll help people 3 who didn't apply originally to get in their application. And you've 4 identified a number of people and we're still -- we're still coming up with 5 some people who -- who, uh, still don't know about it, and they didn't know 6 that they -- they had a chance to apply and we haven't gotten in contact 7 with them, so this sort of points up, uh ... (end of tape) Our argument 8 there is that you've got a certain number of points for earning all your 9 money from fishing in 1971 and '72. Those points push you closer to the 10 points that you need to get a permit. Well, uh, right now the way the law 11 reads only people who fished as a -- as a captain could get those points.
12 And if we're successful in that lawsuit, that may give some -- some, uh, 13 people who fished as pullers some more points on their applications, and that 14 could change things around a little bit. Now, there's also a couple of 15 other, uh -- couple of other lawsuits. Uh, there's -- there's a lot -- a lot 16 of people who are still in the administrative hearing stage where they don't 17 have enough points yet - they have to prove a couple more points before they 18 get, uh -- before they can get a permit. That's a matter of trying to come 19 up with -- with evidence and -- and we talked a little bit before about the 20 problems of proving things. We don't have papers that say you fished in 21 1971 and can't find your gear license, can't find, uh, copies of your fish 22 tickets, you know. They -- they've been thrown out a long time ago, they 23 got burned in the case of, uh, some people that we know about. Uh, that's -- 24 that's a real problem. But, uh, again, there's -- there's some -- there's 25 some problems that we can't address in the courts and that -- it's -- it's

1 a matter for Nels and the people who are down in Juneau, uh, to take a look 2 to see whether they can -- they can -- they can change the -- change the 3 law. And as -- as we talked about here, there's real problems. One of the 4 biggest problems and I think everybody here has talked about it is the 5 problems of -- of young people who can't, uh, can't get a permit. They don't 6 have enough points, they fished as a puller for their father, and, uh, you 7 know, as the law is written now they're not -- they're not going to have a 8 chance to apply. One thing that was talked about in Dillingham and, uh, this 9 is just (indisc) is that a guy who works in my office and those people who 10 are being represented by Alaska Legal Services, the (indisc) we got in the 11 letter from him is probably (indisc) from him. Uh, one of his ideas is -- is 12 to maybe create a pool of younger people now who might, uh, might have the 13 option or the chance to apply for a permit that was going to be -- going to 14 be given back to the commission, retired back to the commission. And, uh, 15 this is one proposal that, you know, is probably just starting to be consider-16 ed. There's -- there's a lot of problems with the proposal and I'll -- I'll 17 just try to outline briefly what they are. Uh, I guess the way it might 18 work is -- is we'll take a -- we'll take a look at the people who've been 19 fishing, say for the past ten years as a puller, and if somebody were to 20 retire a permit that didn't have anybody that they were going to give it to 21 like a son, and give it back to the commission or sell it back to the 22 commission, uh, they might -- they might give a younger person a chance.
23 And you start with the people who are most dependent upon fishing, uh, 24 say, if somebody who fished ten years would have -- would have a first 25 chance to get the permit rather than somebody who'd only fished the last

1 three or four years. And there's a lot of things that have to be thought 2 about. That's, uh -- that's something that -- that might possibly be done, 3 uh, and you know ... I just -- I just don't know. There -- there's some 4 legal problems in -- in doing that. There's some problems in administering 5 that because it's very difficult to set up a whole system for -- for just 6 thousands of people who are fishing in the Bay in terms of -- of determining 7 who is most eligible to -- to get a permit that's no longer going to be 8 fished. Uh, but in any case, uh, right now the way -- the only way a young 9 person can get it or somebody who's, you know, who's four years old, uh, 10 they haven't started fishing yet, and they're going to be fishing as a 11 puller, say, in a couple of years. Their only way is to get a transfer from 12 their father or from an uncle or grandfather, or something like that. And 13 we've been talking today about the fact that the commission probably isn't 14 going to be issuing more permits because, uh, they think they've got the 15 number of permits that they need now, that any more might, uh -- might harm 16 the fishery. Uh, I have another -- I have another suggestion that wasn't 17 mentioned at an earlier meeting, uh, something I would want to talk to Nels 18 and the commissioners about, and that's a provision for a permit being held 19 in trust by a family. Now what that means, I ... One of the things that 20 I've been doing, and I'm sort of concerned about is -- is getting a will for 21 a person, ensuring that uh, if somebody were to die that their property is 22 going to be transferred the way they want it to be, rather -- rather than 23 divided up or whatnot. And, uh, if a father were to die, uh, the permit 24 will ordinarily go to the wife under existing laws - go directly to the wife.
25 Now, one thing, if a person's wife can't fish it, say, she has, uh -- she

1 has younger children, uh ... I'd like to see some kind of provision for, uh, 2 the permit, rather than having to sell it, rather than having to give it 3 away to somebody, some kind of provision for it to be held in trust. Some-4 body being able to fish it, but the wife still legally owning it, so that 5 she'd be able to get it back in, say, ten years when her kids are old 6 enough. And, this is something that -- that, uh, the legislature might 7 consider. And it's -- it's a minor problem but I think that if it, uh, if 8 it helps a few people it -- it might be, uh, it might be a good thing. Uh, 9 Bobby talked about the need for education. I think other people talked 10 about the need for education so that people know exactly what's going on.
11 Uh, there's -- I mean, there -- there is a need for that. There's a need 12 for people to know what their rights are, to know, you know, what it means 13 when they get a letter from the commission that says they don't have enough 14 points and they can't get a permit. Uh, I talked to a couple of people in, 15 uh, (indisc) yesterday that had gotten letters from the -- letters from the 16 commission and -- and they hadn't -- they hadn't really done anything since 17 then 'cause they didn't think there was anything that they could do. Well, 18 uh, I think that just sort of, uh -- sort of points up the fact that a little 19 bit more education, a little bit more knowledge has to be, uh -- has to be 20 given because there are -- there are ways to, uh -- there are ways to, uh, 21 possibly -- possibly fight these things. There are ways that people can be 22 made to know what a permit is, what, uh -- whether they have a chance of 23 getting a permit, uh, and that may be something the Bristol Bay Native 24 Association could -- could try to do. Uh, and I'm -- I'm happy to talk to 25 any person, you know, at any time who has questions and I just might say that

1 I'll probably be going up to Nondalton and Kokinok. People think, uh, a -- 2 a meeting up there for people who -- who didn't -- weren't able to attend 3 this meeting is a good idea, then I'll be happy to do that. Uh, so I think 4 that some kind of educational program will, you know, will help. Also, uh, 5 at the other meetings it was brought up that some -- some people had sold 6 their permits, uh, thinking that their sons would still be able to get a 7 permit by fishing a couple of more years and getting a couple of more points.
8 Uh, an educational program would maybe eliminate that kind of a problem, uh, 9 because the way the law reads, under the present law your fishing history 10 up to '72 was all that mattered in terms of how many points you could get to 11 earn a permit. And, uh, this one gentleman who -- who, uh, who had sold his 12 permit thinking his sons, as long as they kept fishing, say three more years, 13 they get three more crewmen points and then they'd have enough points for a 14 permit. Well, if somebody had told him that no, that wasn't true, then he 15 would have kept the permit and would have given it to his children. And, I've 16 talked to Macy Hobson a little bit earlier today about the problem of -- of 17 transferring a, uh, a permit out, and he wanted -- he wanted me to say that -- 18 that a permit is -- is something that -- that shouldn't be transferred. It -- 19 that people should keep it for -- keep it for their family and, uh, uh, that 20 it's... And as long as people know that it's -- it's something that can't 21 be, uh, brought back after it's sold, then, uh, hopefully they're not going 22 to be selling it and they'll hang on to it for their kids or -- or for their 23 grandchildren. So, uh, I guess where we're left is that for -- for some 24 changes that -- that can be made in the law. There's real problems in -- in 25 making major changes in the law because of what they've talked about, namely

1 the fact that they're trying to limit the number of people who are fishing 2 there, and you know, to expect any kind of major change, I -- I don't think 3 you're going to get it. You're going to have, uh -- you may have some 4 people who -- who'll have a chance to apply if -- if, uh --if there -- if 5 another application period is opened for those who didn't apply in 1975.
6 But in terms of -- of the young people, uh, the problems of, uh, limited 7 entry are probably going to remain and -- and people, you know, come to me 8 and they -- they -- everybody who's -- who's talked here today, I know ...
9 (indisc) mentioned the fact that her son George couldn't get her permit.
10 Well, uh, that's the way -- you know, that's the way the law is, and unless 11 there's a change, then, you know, I think the younger people are going to have 12 to continue to fish as pullers unless some kind of a system can be devised 13 for, uh, giving them the -- the first right to maybe buy a permit back from 14 the commission if somebody were to sell it back to the commission, or some-15 thing like that. It's -- it's, uh ... Those are problems that, you know, 16 that for the legislature to wrestle with and, uh, you know, who knows what -- 17 whether there are going to be any change -- changes in that -- uh, on that 18 standpoint. So, that's really all I have and we'll just open it back up for --

6 Q. (indisc - very low volume) for like (indisc) setnet fishery. Like for 7 that year is fishing?

8 A. Yeh, that question was asked in Naknek and, uh, right now there is no answer.
9 Uh, I think it was, uh, Amos that, uh, wrote or let me know that there was 10 a problem like that because I think it was the south side of Naknek or the 11 Naknek River was closed and, uh, they -- the setnet fishermen didn't make 12 any money at all. However, the Department -- the Fish and Game Department 13 did allow those people to transfer if they had a place to transfer. The 14 problem was, again, though, that, uh, the people that were setnetting didn't 15 have skiffs or weren't able to get to another place. Therefore, they were 16 left out of the fishery. This also happened in the Quijak River for, I 17 think, four years in a row where the Quijak fish -- the setnet fishermen 18 were not able to fish because the Quijak River was closed. There was no 19 harvest at all allowed. Uh, going back to the question itself, on whether 20 or not, uh, a person could be given an opportunity to change the status of 21 that permit. There is no, uh, law or I don't think the commission has the 22 authority at this time to, uh, change the setnet status to a driftnet status.
23 I -- I don't believe they have it. If they do, then I'm unaware of it. But, 24 uh, it's something that we've been asked to look into, something that we 25 have to, you know, very definitely work on because there are people who are

1 going to get hurt if we don't figure out some way of -- of getting these 2 people involved in the fishery. The reason why they're being left out, of 3 course, is simply to protect the fishery. And they're the ones having to 4 sacrifice and since they can't fish, what should we do to give them relief?
5 And there's got to be answer somewhere. I don't have it now but, believe

1 dragging on to the point where, uh, it looks like it's going to just go on 2 past the fishing season and cause hardship, then the legislature's on the -- 3 on the firing line, uh, at that time. And we -- we will have to then face 4 the problem and try to find out just exactly when there is going to be some 12 this would open it up -- would this open it up to all new areas where a lot 13 of fish buyers could apply that didn't, uh ...

19 of education, geographic location, uh, ability to speak or read or write 20 English, who were unable to submit an application by the May 18, 1975 21 deadline. Uh, so it's -- it's possible that you could have an Alaska native 22 who was a nonresident who would fit those -- those terms, but predominantly 23 it would be Alaska residents.

24 A. It wouldn't open it up, then, to a whole bunch of -- of, uh, out-of-state

7 Q. One thing in relation to that that we haven't yet discussed. Uh, there 8 (indisc - cough) many of you who have written letters to the commission, uh, 9 in the last four or five months that you haven't received answers to. And, 10 uh, we apologize for the delay that -- that you've been experiencing in 11 getting answers from us. That's not normal but because of the time that 12 we've spent in some of the litigation and because of the -- the really large 14 we have not been able to get to our, uh, letter writing as fast as we would 15 normally like. And we hope to be getting answers out on, uh, that correspond-16 ence that has built up in the next several months, uh, at least. As you may 17 recall, one of the reasons for a lot of the correspondence that has gone on 18 is because the commission did advise all of -- all of you who had applied 19 for permits and not received them, that there was a deadline for submitting 20 evidence on your applications. Uh, and many of you wrote back in response

5 A. Could I ask Dave to simply restate, uh, the issue involved in this lawsuit 6 that we're anticipating a decision on?

7 BY: MR. SNYDER:

8 Q. Well, there's a lot of issues. I -- I guess it's -- it's basically comes 9 down to the question of -- of what is fair to the people who were in the 10 area in 1975, whether they had a chance, whether they -- they were notified, 11 and whether under the Constitution - the Constitution requires, uh, everyb -- 12 every person receive due process of law - and that means a fair -- fair 13 chance to be able to, uh, to do something about a law that affects their 14 rights. And, uh, that's -- that's the basic -- that's the basic issue. And 15 we're saying that people didn't have a fair chance to get a -- get in applica-16 tions because of -- because of a number of different factors; people who -- 17 who, uh, you know, weren't in the area, who, uh, didn't understand what was 18 going on, uh, and ...

19 A. Or even were they aware that they were eligible or not.

1 people on the commission are so dense, so dumb, so insensitive, that we don't 2 realize that there are problems out here. Uh, you know, we do understand, 3 we do understand that there are some people who didn't apply for various 4 reasons, didn't understand what was going on. And all I want to say is that 5 really, things aren't that simple in terms of one guy being right and the 6 other guy being wrong in the lawsuit. The -- these things are very complicat-7 ed and even within the framework of the law -- lawsuit in the way, we are 8 trying to work out some kind of a solution to a problem. It's not -- it's 9 not nice and clean with, uh, the winners and the losers, and the good guys 10 and bad guys. We -- you know, we do understand that you people have 11 difficulties like this and going through the courts is another way of trying 12 to resolve some of these problems that we do know exist.

13 BY: UNIDENTIFIED MALE:

14 A. I have another question on limited entry. Uh, why couldn't they get the 15 right the first time when they first established this limited entry in 1975 16 to residents before outsiders? Why couldn't they get the residents first 17 then the outsiders last? See it gives -- it gives, uh, more reasonable 18 understanding between the people in the state than out-of-state because we 19 live here, we work here, we watch the land, uh, how it grows, or everything 20 else? Then, uh ... That's the question, now what's the answer?

21 BY: MR. ADASIAK:

22 Q. The -- I think that all of us agree that -- that residents and particularly 23 residents in -- in this watershed area ought to be the ones who are permit 24 holders for Bristol Bay. Uh, I don't think anybody in the room disagrees

1 A. Why couldn't ...

2 Q. But the legislature was faced with the problem, because they could not enact 3 a law which would explicitly favor residents that would be constitutional, 4 that would be upheld in the court. So if they really wanted a limited entry 5 law, they had to enact one that treated all people who fished regardless of 6 where they lived a life. Uh, they could do a few things trying to favor 7 residents and -- and they did that. They gave points for, uh, the place 8 that you lived and that favored people who lived in the Bay. But as a gener-9 al matter they just -- they simply could not enact a law which would 10 explicitly favor residents over nonresidents because it would not be upheld 11 in the courts.

12 UNIDENTIFIED MALE: Ray, I -- I think ...

13 BY: MR. ANDERSON:

14 Q. Well, okay, I think you understand that I'm with you on this. Okay? I 15 believe the same way you do. I think that -- I don't think there should be 16 any outside fishermen, period. However, the legislature as -- as John 17 indicated -- the state had a problem with a large amount of gear and a -- 18 and a diminishing fishery. There were fewer and fewer fish, more and more 19 boats. There were two choices; one was to adopt the limited entry program 20 that could reduce the amount of gear, or do nothing at all. And if we did 21 nothing, we would have had all that gear out there and, uh, you'd have had 22 these, uh, the sliding years scale and really -- come into really in effect 23 at that point to reduce the gear and the amount of time that you'd have been 24 able to fish would have been maybe six hours a year, or maybe even an hour 25 a year because of -- the fishermen are and the -- the kind of gear that we

1 have now is really efficient stuff. You know, it's really efficient. They 2 can go out there -- the fishermen we have right now can go out there and 3 wipe out the -- the -- wipe out that fishery. They could really do it. So 4 that was the situation; it was either adopt the limited entry program and -- 5 and I know the legislature knew that people were going to get hurt. They 6 knew going in that some people were going to get hurt really badly, but what 7 were we to do? You know, what was the state going to do? Let the fishery 8 go or develop some kind of a program where the fishery could be protected, 9 and then once it was adopted, like we're doing now, try to figure out a way 10 where we can turn this thing around and get those permits in the Bristol Bay 11 fishery -- fishermen's hands. It's going to take time to do it. And I think 12 we might go into some of the things that, uh, I asked Terry Gardiner to do, 13 is to look at the legislative problems and kind of wind things up here now.
14 Uh, I don't think that you're going to find the legislature that's going to 15 want to dump the limited entry program. Okay. Despite the problems that 16 we know we have that are really severe, there is a sense of feeling that the 17 limited entry program to a certain extent is proving to be successful. So 18 I don't think that you're going to find the legislature that's going to be 19 willing to dump it. However, since the program has been effect, since we've 20 had these three meetings, since we do know the scope and the magnitude of the 21 problems, there are going to be certain things that are going to have to be 22 changed in order to turn the thing around to bring those permits back home 23 where they belong. Okay? I think there's going to be a lot of sympathy 24 for that. Uh, a lot of these things, I think, will be changed in the courts.
25 A lot of these things will be changed by the legislature themselves. It's 1 going to be a time-consuming process. We're going to have to evaluate very 2 carefully all the suggestions that have been made to us, and there have been 3 several that -- that weren't mentioned or brought up here and I'd like to 4 talk a little bit about them and also review some of the problems that, uh -- 5 that everybody has expressed, not only here but in Dillingham and Naknek as 6 well. We have a great concern for the young people. We want to make sure that 7 somehow they get in. An appren -- an apprenticeship program was mentioned by 8 Jack Vantrease that was also suggested in Dillingham and in Naknek, that 9 some kind of an apprenticeship program be created so that young people who 10 go out as, uh, crew -- crew members are given consideration in a point system 11 so that when they become eligible, they are building up their points every 12 year they have experience, so that the watershed resident is given considera-13 tion. Okay? We also are very much concerned about the people who have been 14 left out for reasons beyond their control, such as being discouraged by the 15 Department of Fish and Game not to go fishing, and in your hearts and mind 16 you felt you were doing the fishery a favor, you sacrificed, and the reverse 17 is pulled on you. You're penalized for doing the right thing. We've got to 18 deal with that. The price of the permits has gone out of sight. Uh, those 19 of you that weren't hear earlier, at a public meeting in Dillingham, uh, day 20 before yesterday, a young fellow told me that he had a permit and he was going 21 to sell it, the permit and his boat for $100,000. Now where are you going to 22 get $100,000 that leads into the next problem, that is again very simply, the 23 price of a permit. But the permits are going for a high price. How do we 24 get the money to you people that need it? We obviously have to rework some of 25 the loan programs we have, reduce the downpayment, spread out the payments,

1 so that the ability to pay for these permits is more reasonable for the 2 Bristol Bay watershed residents. We already have loan programs that 3 discriminate in favor of Alaska residents. I think that's a tool that we can 4 continue to use more effectively by being more lenient in -- in, uh, giving 5 more consideration to reducing the requirements for getting a loan. We 6 have to take care of those people that were considered or are considered 7 late filers. That has to be dealt with somehow or other. If it's not taken 8 care of in the courts, I think Legal Services and the people from this area 9 are going to come to the legislature with both feet and say, hey fellows, 10 you know, you guys really put the screws to us. We live here and we want 11 something done. The legislature is going to have to deal with it. To what 12 extent and how much they are going to be able to do to satisfy you is an 13 open question at this point in time. I can't predict what will be done but 14 we will have to face the issue at some point in time. Uh, the problems of 15 partners came up, the partner (indisc) the partnership. Can we issue a permit 16 to people who share the expenses, who bought a boat, and paid for the 17 expenses of fishing, uh, during the years -- can we -- can we get a permit to 18 these people? Right now the question is -- or the answer to the question is 19 I don't know, but we have to look at it because it is a consideration that 20 has to be dealt with. The idea of pooling points offered by the young lady 21 in the back - pooling points within the family. That was brought up also 22 in -- at an earlier meeting. The idea has possibilities and we want to look 23 at that and quite possibly, that kind of an idea could be worked out and 24 could be proved to be very effective. And there again you'd have an outlet 25 to get the permits into Bristol Bay hands. Another idea that was expressed

P.O. Box 29 • DOUGLAS, ALASKA 99824

JUDY JONES
586-6846

RITA STONICH

1 and I think has some possibilities is the tax -- tax incentive. In other 2 words, you create a tax incentive. If you want to sell your permit, if you 3 sell to an Alaskan resident, you get a capital gain type of, uh, a considera-4 tion. In other words, you get a tax break for selling it to a resident. If 5 you sell to an outsider, you really get the -- the works -- the shaft, or 6 whatever you call it. All right. That's -- that's an idea we want to look 7 at. Anyway, it has some possibilities. In other words, if you sell to your 8 friend in Kokonak, you get a tax break for selling it to him. You don't -- 9 you don't get penalized. However, if you sell to someone outside, you're 10 faced with a large capital gain shot, uh, when it comes time to pay your tax.
11 Uh, the idea of using and losing your -- your permit has been given some 12 consideration. I think I went into the answer at some depth, but, uh, the 13 use and lose concept begins to take on more and more of a desirable aspect 14 because there are so many people wanting to get in, that should have gotten in 15 that are not in. So how do we retire those unused permits? That's something 16 we have to look at. Now, the other thing that we've learned -- that I've 17 learned, of course, is that a lot of people are thinking about the problem 18 and have come up with some really good ideas, and I don't think we've heard 19 all of them yet. And I really wish we could have more meetings like this so 20 that we could work together and try to -- to come to some solutions. These 21 meetings that I've be -- I've become aware of the fact that people are really 22 concerned about the lack or the failure on the part of the state to fund 23 sufficiently the education programs so that we can learn more about the limited 24 entry program. We already admit, and I admit very freely that not enough has 25 been done, although I have tried my very best to make sure that these people

1 got the money to contract with BBNA so that there was some effort as limited 2 as it may have been at least there was an attempt to get out to explain, uh, 3 what the problem was. There was no understanding or appreciation of how 4 great the problem was, though. The failure to educate is really greater than 5 even I understood it to be. I know that, uh, from the meetings at Dillingham, 6 at Naknek, and here, that the state really did fail. And there's really an 7 awful lot of work that we have to do and I have to really work hard to get 8 money to fund these people to get out here more often so that they can meet 9 directly with you, so that you don't have to go to -- through the paper 10 route which is a cold, impersonal route, and a lot of times a lot of mis-11 understandings are created by that paper simply because people who get this 12 paper, first of all, have a very difficult time understanding what's being 13 written. So that creates problems and we'll try to eliminate that problem 14 as much as we possibly can. But I think -- I think that more or less, uh, 15 summarizes the things that we're going to have to look at. Uh, somebody 16 asked me in Naknek, well, what are we going to do after the, uh, after these 17 meetings. Are we simply going to forget? Well, uh, you've already heard 18 the commitment that I've made, that things that I feel have to be done, and 19 I know we have a similar commitment from these people in the commission, 20 and I know Alaska Legal Services will continue to work to try to make some, 21 uh, improvements to the program. Uh, I intend to get together with the 22 commission, uh, with Alaska Legal Services, Adelaide Herman, Terry Gardiner, 23 and, uh, John (indisc) who works in Alaska Legislative Affairs Agency as a 24 research assistant, uh, either the twenty-first or twenty-third of October,

4 a lot of work in the long-term. And then also try to develop some programs, 5 uh, funding programs that we could place before the legislature to get more 6 money into an educational program first of all, and then work on some of the 7 other ideas that, uh, that have been presented by you people here. I don't 13 uh, I want to be if not the bad news man at least the grey weather man, uh, 14 so that people don't get to hoping for too much. Uh, we want to keep some 15 kind of a lid on the fish. We could solve everybody's problems if we just 16 started giving out permits to everybody, but as long as you try to keep that 17 lid on, it starts to become very difficult, and solutions for a lot of these 18 problems that have been identified are not going to be easy to come by.

19 And the kinds of solutions that we have in many cases will not be perfect 20 solutions. They're going to get at part of the problem, but not all of it, 21 whether it's something the commission can do and we try to do or whether it's
