HB 199

1836

From Ketchikan to Kotzebue, fishing is Alaska's largest private employer

The dozens of species of fish and shellfish available in commercially harvestable quantities in Alaska are found in radically different environments, ranging from deep ocean waters warmed by southern Pacific currents to the muddy surf of wide, shallow bays that are covered much of the year by pack ice.

The fishing boats and processing plants designed to handle these widely varying conditions are extremely diverse: herring skiffs in Norton Sound, multimillion-dollar crab vessels in the Bering Sea, classic wooden halibut schooners in the Gulf of Alaska, and modern fiberglass salmon seiners in Sitka Sound; huge cold storage plants in Kodiak, converted liberty ships in the Aleutian Islands, fish-buying stations on the Yukon River and salmon canneries in Bristol Bay that can handle as many pounds of fish a day as the entire U.S. tuna industry.

The seafood products shipped from the state include five species of salmon, three species of crab, shrimp, halibut, herring, sablefish, Pacific cod, Alaska pollock, scallops, abalone, clams, rock fish and fish meal. Expansion into the 200-mile waters will mean handling large volumes of many new species.

The major fisheries and products are:

Salmon

The state is the major producer of salmon in the world. About 110 million salmon were caught in 1980, making it the fourth largest harvest in history. Salmon are harvested by seine, gillnet and hook-and-line gear in fisheries scattered from Southeast to Kotzebue Sound. The salmon fisheries are the most important in terms of volume, value and jobs. In 1979, about 150 million pounds of salmon were frozen and 3.1 million cases canned.

Crab

Bering Sea crab vessels comprise one of the world's most efficient and sophisticated fishing fleets: 230 boats harvest about 120 million pounds of king crab in a month. In 1979, 154 million pounds of king crab and 131 million pounds of snow crab were processed in Alaska plants, mostly by modern cold storages in the Aleutian and Kodiak Islands.

Shrimp

Although catches declined from the 1976 peak of 128 million pounds to 51 million pounds in 1979, shrimping remains one of Alaska's most important fisheries. Five species of shrimp are frozen and canned in plants dotting the coastline from Southeast to the Aleutians.

With 34,000 miles of rugged coastline, Alaska's destiny always has been tied closely to the sea. An abundance of sealife is supported by the nutrient-rich waters of wide continental banks, vast river deltas and countless bays, fjords, lakes and streams. The wholesale value of Alaska seafood is more than double that of any other state. The seafood industry is Alaska's largest private employer; in many rural communities there is no other way to make a living. Of special importance, the seafood industry will continue putting Alaskans to work, contributing to the economy and providing a long-term tax base as long as man needs protein.

Halibut

One of Alaska's oldest fisheries, halibut are caught by long lines of hooks strung along the bottom of some of the world's stormiest seas. More than 16 million pounds of halibut were frozen in cold storages from Southeast to the Bering Sea during 1979.

Sablefish

One of the fastest growing fisheries, sablefish catches climbed from 1.8 million pounds in 1977 to 5.3 million pounds two years later. Sablefish, also called black cod are frozen and smoked.

Bottomfish

A growing fleet of U.S. trawlers is beginning to cut into the huge foreign catches of bottomfish in the Bering Sea. The 1980 U.S. harvest of Pacific cod in the Bering Sea was almost five times larger than the previous year's total. Still, there's a long way to go: the 1979 foreign bottomfish catch in Alaska's 200-mile zone of 3.1 billion pounds was valued at $1.8 billion.

Wholesale Value of Alaska Seafood (millions of dollars)

The value of Alaska's seafood products increased by 424 percent in the five-year period ending in 1979.

The seafood industry is much more than succulent crab legs and tender salmon fillets. It is thousands of Alaskans scattered from Ketchikan to Kodiak to Kotzebue, from hundreds of miles up the Yukon River to downtown Anchorage.

The industry includes not only fishermen and processing workers, but air charter pilots, truck drivers, construction workers, longshoremen, grocers and bankers. It is easy to see the seafood industry in a community like Kodiak, with its sprawling processing complexes and busy harbors, but you have to look closely in a city like Anchorage for the 1,500 direct jobs generated by the processing and transporting of salmon.

- The wholesale value of Alaska seafoods stood at $1.2 billion in 1979.
- More than 25,000 fishing vessel crew member licenses were issued in 1979. Another 17,609 individuals received permits to operate commercial fishing gear.
- With a range of up to 12,000 jobs during peak months, the annual number of seafood processing jobs was 7,251 for 1980. The payroll for these workers was estimated at $104 million.
- There were about 250 companies and individuals licensed to buy and sell seafood in 1979. More than 15,000 commercial fishing vessels were registered.
- The replacement value of Alaska's processing plants was estimated to be $392 million in 1978, while the replacement value of fishing boats was set at $829 million in 1979.
- The State of Alaska collected $3.1 million in raw fish taxes in 1976, while the figure hit $14.6 million in 1980. That amount was in addition to property, corporate income and payroll taxes.

During the heyday of Alaska's salmon fisheries, the Territory of Alaska's economic backbone was a network of salmon canneries dotting most the coastline from Ketchikan to Bristol Bay. Huge quantities of canned salmon were sold on grocery shelves across the United States and Europe.

A slow decline in salmon catches came during the fifties and sixties. Salmon stocks were knocked down to alltime lows in the 1970s by two successive severe winters that killed millions of vulnerable eggs and fry. Considerable belt-tightening by fishing communities under strict biological management of the salmon fisheries has helped to rebuild the runs to historic strengths.

The resurgence of the salmon harvests has come at a time when the industry already was wrestling with the problem of trying to establish solid sales outlets for large volumes of frozen products. Virtually all of the canneries developed in the seafood boom of the seventies are based on frozen products. Even in salmon the trend has been toward quick frozen processing: the portion of Alaska's salmon pack ending up in cold storages increased from 29.9 percent in 1976 to 52.2 percent in 1979. Three-fourths of Alaska's seafood pack was frozen that year.

The marketing challenge is much greater as the takeover of fisheries in Alaska's 200-mile zone from foreign fishing fleets becomes a reality. Americans won't be able to catch or process the huge quantities of bottomfish unless the existing seafood industry is financially sound enough to expand. Handling the entire foreign harvest off Alaska's shores would mean finding markets for an additional three billion pounds of seafood a year.

The selling of seafoods in the United States is a highly competitive affair that pits the largely independent Alaska processing companies against well-financed efforts like the tuna industry, North Atlantic Seafood Association (Iceland, Norway, Denmark and Canada), and government-aided industries of the Soviet Union, Korea and Peru. The large supplies of protein also are competing against well-established foods like beef, pork and chicken.

Fishermen and processors accounting for the bulk of the state's seafood production have joined forces with the State of Alaska under a non-profit group called the Alaska Seafood Marketing Institute in a unified effort to promote Alaska's varied line of seafood products. The institute is attempting to broaden the national and international markets for Alaska seafoods through market research, product development, generic advertising and promotional programs.

The Honorable Jim Duncan
Speaker of the House
Alaska State Legislature
Pouch V
Juneau, AK 99811

Dear Mr. Speaker:

Under the authority of art. III, sec. 18, of the Alaska Constitution, I am transmitting a bill amending the Guide Licensing and Control Board law, AS 08.54. The bill would continue the existence of the guide board which, if not continued by the legislature, is scheduled to terminate on June 30, 1981. The bill would also delete licensing of transporters which, under existing law is difficult to enforce. The major points covered in the bill are set out below.

Section 2 would provide for sunset review of the guide board in June 1984.

Section 5 would move to a more logical place in AS 08.54 the board's authority to give oral examinations to residents of the state who, because of a language barrier, are unable to take a written test.

Section 10 would prohibit an assistant guide from contracting for a hunt. This prohibition had been inferred under existing law, but would be clearly stated to avoid confusion.

Section 11 would require the board to give guide examinations in various locations in the state to allow easier access by applicants who reside in rural areas.

Sections 12, 16, and 18 would delete language concerning transporters from existing law and is consistent with the amendments proposed for the definitions of "guiding" contained in section 20.

Section 13 would establish the authority of the board to grant exclusive and joint use guide areas, and would provide a mechanism for board review of complaints regarding the assignment of existing areas. This section would also establish criteria for allocation of guide areas, and would enact into law some of the board's regulatory requirements for use of these areas.

Section 14 would amend the grounds for the discipline of licensed guides, to specify that the board may not hold disciplinary hearings on matters that occurred more than five years before the hearing is convened. This section would allow a preliminary review of complaints by the division of fish and wildlife protection to screen out frivolous or unfounded complaints from clients of guides. Under existing law the board may suspend, revoke, or take other action (or no action) against a guide's license, but must revoke for certain other violations. Section 14 would amend existing law to make a suspension or revocation, based on a finding of incompetency, discretionary rather than mandatory as provided under existing law.

Section 15 would require revocation of a guide license if the guide was convicted twice of the five most serious game violations within the preceding five years. Existing law does not limit this revocation to serious fish and game crimes and does not specify how recent a conviction must be before it ceases to be a ground for revocation.

Section 17 adds new subsections to AS 08.54.200 which would allow the board to immediately suspend the license of a guide if it receives a certified copy of a judgment of conviction of the guide for commission of four serious fish and game crimes. This is a procedure similar to that authorized for other agencies, including discipline of attorneys in the state under the Alaska Bar Rules. The suspension would remain in effect until a hearing is held by the board.

Section 18 would make a guide criminally responsible if he fails to report a fish and game violation which he witnessed. Under existing law, a guide is responsible only if he witnesses a violation committed by a client.

Section 20 would make amendments to the definition of "guide" to delete the provisions that guiding means accompanying a client for the duration of the hunt. This amendment will help enforcement of illegal guiding. It is possible under the existing definition for a guide to circumvent prosecution for guiding without a license by avoiding being with the client for the duration of the hunt. Certain persons who transport hunters to hunting areas and supply hunting and camping equipment would be under the licensing jurisdiction of the guide board under another amendment proposed in section 20.

Section 21 would amend the definition of "unethical activity" to make clear the scope of that activity so that disciplinary cases can either be avoided by a guide because he knows what conduct is prohibited or easily prosecuted by the board.

Section 22 would make the guide board subject to the conflict of interest law.

Section 23 would repeal (1) redundant sections allowing oral examinations which would be covered by the amendment proposed in section 5 of the bill; and (2) the requirement that a transporter be licensed by the guide board.

Sincerely,

S/SSH

Mr. Fred F. Zharoff, Alaska State House of Representatives

Dear Mr. Zharoff,

The purpose of this letter is House Bill 199, the Governor's Guide Bill.

It is extremely important that the guiding industry have a good sound framework for ethical guides to work in. The Governor's Guide Bill would provide this.

Some changes should be made to make this bill a bill that will stand the test of time and the courts.

No. 1 Our legal system is based on hundreds of years of precedents and safeguards. I believe in a strong system, and that if a guide breaks a law he should be punished, but this can never be a function of the Board. That is the function of the Courts, and we will never have a satisfactory system in Alaska until this is understood.

No. 2 The transporter loophole must be closed. There are many "fly-by-night" outfits operating that have all the advantages of a guide, plus can hunt anywhere, but have none of the responsibilities of the guide when operating under the transporter law. I am not referring to legitimate air taxi businesses.

No. 3 There is extremely strong prejudice among the people of the industry against one or two past Guide Board Members for cause, and it would be good to force removal of those members or appoint an entirely new Board.

I hope you can put a good Guide Bill together that will be here two decades from now.

Best of luck!

Sincerely,

Dennis Harms

Re: HB 199 -- Guide Board
Car file: J-77-097-81

Dear Representative Zharoff;

This memorandum confirms my conversation of February 25, 1981 with your aide Richard Austerman. I advised Mr. Austerman that a drafting error was discovered in HB 199, "An Act relating to the Guide Board." The error involves an omission from sec. 15 of the bill. The error may be remedied by making the following amendment:

After "of" insert the following new material:
"one or more of"

The original intent was to provide that the Board must revoke a license of a guide if the guide was convicted of any of the offenses listed in sec. 15. However, the bill could be interpreted to require mandatory revocation only if the guide has committed all of the offenses listed in sec. 15. Under existing law which would be repealed by sec. 15, the Board must revoke a guide's license if the guide has been convicted of two or more fish and game violations.

Please call me if I can assist your further.

Sincerely,

MEMORANDUM

State of Alaska

Kris.
TO: Keith Specking
Legislative Assistant
Office of the Governor

DATE: June 2, 1981

FILE NO.

Mr. Skoog
FROM: Ronald O. Skoog
Commissioner
Department of Fish and Game

TELEPHONE NO: 465-4100

SUBJECT: HB 199

I think it is important to clarify the position of this Department on HB 199 and the subject of guide regulation in general. Comments and questions from a number of legislators indicate that my previous letter to Representative Duncan may have been too general to adequately represent my views.

The Department of Fish and Game favors the concept of a Guide Board to set and enforce standards of guiding and generally to regulate the industry. We also favor the concept of exclusive guiding areas as a means to control mobility of guides and their non-resident hunters, and to foster a sense of responsibility for game resources in an area by the guides.

2 tive date of this section creates a substantial injustice as determined
3 by criteria set out in (c) of this section. If the board determines
4 that an injustice was created, the board shall modify, terminate or re-
5 assign the area, or take other reasonable steps to correct the injus-

3 of a guide or the loan of the use of the area to another master or 4 registered guide.

The boards shall set the number and terms of each of the members of the advisory committees, shall delegate one member of each committee as chairman, and shall give him authority to hold public hearings on fish or game matters. Recommendations from the advisory committees shall be forwarded to the appropriate board for their consideration but if the Board of Fisheries or the Board of Game chooses not to follow the recommendations of the local advisory committee the appropriate board shall inform the appropriate advisory committee of this action and state the reasons for not following the recommendations. The commissioner shall delegate

Ref: APHA Testimony on H.B. 199, submitted March 16, 1981 by Lynn Castle

I should like to correct a portion of my testimony which involved my answer to Representative Barnes's question about the APHA membership:

I was asked if Ron Hayes had been, or is a member or on the board of directors of the association. I replied that he had been, but had resigned his membership upon indictment of certain charges pending at this time. This information is incorrect. Ron Hayes did not renew his membership in either 1979, nor in 1980 or 1981. He was a member for several years prior to 1977. During the period that he was a member in good standing his guiding record showed no arrests, convictions or other pending legal problems associated with guiding activity insofar as the association could determine.

It should be noted perhaps, that at the annual meetings of APHA in December, 1980 the APHA Board of Directors unanimously adopted a resolution, which subsequently received widespread approval from the membership that, "in the event one of the association members is indicted for one of the following major game or guiding violations: 1 - Hunting same day airborne, 2 - Waste of a wild food animal (wanton waste), 3 - Hunting in an area closed by State law or regulations, 4 - Hunting during a closed hunting season, and 5 - Hunting in another guide's exclusive assigned area; that his membership be automatically suspended pending adjudication of the alleged violation by the courts."

Thank you,

To: House Resources Sub-Committee on House Bill 199 (Guide Bill)

Ref: Recommended amendments from the Alaska Professional Hunters Association page 1, lines 19 & 20 -- Delete (Not more than), and require that Three members of the board shall be..... etc.

page 2, line 4 -- Add after license, or assignment and/or modification of an exclusive guide area.

page 2, line 28 -- Delete (limiting), and change word to determining page 3, lines 21 & 22 -- Delete words (shall), and change word to may page 5, line 23 -- Change to read, (3) a licensee has been convicted of any two of the following violations within (remark: this is one of the changes we are MOST interested in seeing made. The bill is tight enough already, without mandatory revocation upon conviction of only one violation. We would concur with language which provided a 'may' option for one violation, and a 'shall' option for two of the major violations as listed under sub-section (3) of this section.)

(remark: this requirement is no longer necessary now that Guide Board has successfully eliminated sub-contracting of areas, only works as a hardship on many guides, particularly those involved in boat crew operations such as walrus hunting, and/or lodge ownership. An alternative to this deletion would be adoption of the Advisory Committee's recommendation for changing the qualifications for a Class A Assistant Guide license. APHA would support either approach, but we do NEED one or the other.)

page 8, lines 21, 22, & 23 -- Delete sub-section (B) as written, and insert, includes the providing and/or contracting to provide for packers, camp helpers, temporary camps, hunting equipment or other services in the hunting area to non-resident hunters for monetary or material remuneration. Nothing in this definition shall preclude rental of permanent overnight cabins existing prior to July 1, 1981.

(remark: this definition would appear an equitable solution to the problems identified during the House Resources Committee Hearing of H.B.199, March 16th, and APHA endorses such language.)

Remark: APHA has no conflict with any of the other proposed amendments submitted by the Guide Board Advisory Committee, however the association has taken no official stand on each of those amendments. We would like to see the deletion of requirements to possess a fishing license, as well as deletion to referral to violations of sport fishing regulations in the bill for fishing really has nothing to do with the guide bill. But we can certainly accept these items without hardship. I've tried to limit our recommended amendments to those items of particular concern to association and industry members.

Thank you for your consideration of our industry.

Respectfully submitted,

Lynn M. Castle, President APHA

ALASKA GUIDING INDUSTRY FACTS

(Summary of data obtained from a sample of 133 returned questionnaires which were mailed to a total of 433 master and registered guides licensed during the 1977 and 1978 calendar years. Creditability of these figures is good as evidenced by comparing portions of sample data to Department of Revenue and Department of Commerce figures for this period. Data was originally obtained as part of an Alaska Professional Hunter's Association project to determine the dollar value of the guiding industry to the State of Alaska. Licensing figures were obtained from the Alaska Department of Commerce and Alaska Guide License and Control Board.

Since 1977-78 we have observed an increase in the number of guiding contracts (up 15 - 20%), however the average number of animals taken as result of each of these contracts has dropped markedly subsequent to increasingly restrictive and non-overlapping game seasons. For instance, August hunts for sheep have traditionally included caribou and/or moose; this is no longer possible as moose and caribou seasons do not open until September in most areas of the state today. The following figures have been projected from the 1977-78 data, conservatively assuming that guiding revenues within the overall state have remained relatively constant other than an inflation factor which appears to average between 40 and 60 percent. I've conservatively used a 40% factor to relate relative values for 1981.)

Number of Registered and Master Guides licensed in 1980 -- 366

Number of Class-A Guides licensed in 1980 -- 109

Number of Assistant Guides licensed in 1980 -- 575

Number of Registered/Master guides expected to file one or more guiding contracts (that is expected to be active) in 1981 year -- 220 to 260

Approximately 55% of active Registered/Master guides list guiding as full-time or major profession

Approximately 45% of active Registered/Master guides list guiding as part-time or secondary profession

Approximately 19% of guiding operations gross less than $14,000 in 1980

Approximately 28% of guiding operations gross $14,000 to $35,000 in 1980

Approximately 28% of guiding operations gross $14,000 to $35,000 in 1980

Approximately 38% of guiding operations gross $35,000 to $105,000 in 1980

Approximately 15% of guiding operations gross more than $105,000 in 1980

Average gross of all operations in 1981 -- $65,261

Industry reports clients spend additional monies within state for travel, hotel, souvenirs, taxidermy preparation, etc. equal to approximately 28-30% of guiding fees (exclusive of license fees and travel to and from Alaska)

Each Master/Registered guide operation supports an average of 7.5 employees

Each Master/Registered guide operation supports therefor a total average of 31.6 Alaskans directly dependent upon guiding income for all or a portion of their livelihood (i.e. family members and dependents). Thus some 8,216 Alaskans receive direct benefit from the guiding dollar from within the guiding industry annually; questionnaires reflected comments which would place this figure some what higher than this figure, or approximately 12,000, however if we take into account that in any given year not all 'active' guides are active owing to the provisions of the guide law which allow a guide to be listed as 'active' if he hunts only every other year., Thus, the 8,216 figure more accurately represents an annual figure.

Estimated (conservative for we have used the lower inflation factor) dollars guiding industry brings into Alaska exceeds 22.8 million dollars (250 active guides in any given year times average gross income plus related expenditures reported at 28% of guiding gross)

License revenue dollars guiding industry brings into Alaska exceeds 1.5 million dollars. These figures are somewhat lower than the total non-resident license and tag revenues reported by the Department of Revenue figures owing to involvement by non-guiding, primarily air-taxi-guiding operations operating within the State.

(figures prepared by Lynn Castle and the board of directors of the APHA, with the help of the Anchorage office of the Guide License and Control Board, and Department of Commerce figures)

P. O.M.

To All Represenatives

I am strongly opposed to House Bill 199 for the following reasons.

1. This legislaton captivates an enonomic market of non residents who have no alternative but to solicit the services of a guide for the purpose of hunting all special of Alaskan big game. The guise to justify expanding the species of game cannot be logically accepted on the grounds previously maintained for bear & sheep.
2. This is an economic bill designed to benefit only guides and serves to unjustly discriminate against non residents precluding them from utilizing the services fofother existing publically licensed businesses who can more economically fulfill the transportation requirements of non residents to remote hunting areas in Alaska. It would prohibit the non resident hunter from utilizing the services of non guiding, air taxi operators to supply air transportation, and thus removing non residents hunting revenues from air tax operators, such as ourselves, who depend substantially on an open market for cliental.
3. This bill is an injustice to the free enterprize system & is only of special interest to a small segment of Alaskan economic development, primarily the guiding industry.
4. When reviewing the score board of the buiding industry it is evident that both judical & self governing practices have failed to eliminate the "bandit" from theirmidst & this bill tends to propogate the opportunities of a select group to infringe upon the public rights of others in pursuing both recreational & economic interests.

Pleade vote no on HB 199.

I OPPOSE HOUSE BILL 199. THE BOARD HAS ESTABLISHED EXCLUSIVE USE OF THE STATES RESOURCES FOR THEIR OWN SELF INTERESTS. NOT BEING ALLOWED TO HUNT AND FISH WITHOUT THE USE OF A GUIDE IS TAKING AWAY MY RIGHT TO HUNT.
I DON'T NEED SOMEONE TO HOLD MY HAND WHEN IT'S APPARENT THAT'S WHAT IS HAPPENING. I'M NOT PROFITING BY THIS BILL. THIS IS ALLOWING A SELECT FEW FULL RIGHTS.

SEC. 08.54.195, EXCLUSIVE GUIDE AREAS SHOULD BE DELETED FROM CSMB 199.
IT ALLOWS SPECIAL GUIDES TO RECEIVE USE OF PUBLIC RESOURCES AT THE EXPENSE OF OTHER GUIDES. GUIDE AREAS ARE OFFERED FOR SALE TO GERMAN HUNTING GROUPS.
SOME GUIDES HAVE FIVE AREAS AND SOME DO NOT HAVE ONE. PLEASE DELETE
SEC. 08.54.195 FROM CSMB 199.
