Senate Bill 154
In the Legislature of the State of Alaska
Before the House Resources Committee
3/25/92
by
Al Haslebacher
President, SDFCC

The Spokane District Farm Credit Council is a trade association representing the legislative interests of cooperative lenders in the Twelfth Farm Credit District. Our members, the Farm Credit Bank of Spokane and the Northwest Farm Credit Services, an agricultural credit association, have over two billion dollars in loans outstanding in our five states of Alaska, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, and Washington. Farm Credit system loans in Alaska cover farms, rural homes, fishing boats, cooperative operations/facilities, and timber.

Lender liability relative to "clean-up" of acquired properties is a growing concern and will eventually tend to restrict mortgage credit unless some reasonableness is returned to CERCLA legislation. Alaska Senate Bill 154 is positive legislation that we support.

If any "tales of horror", relative to acquired properties and the resultant "losses" to the lender, would be helpful to your consideration of the bill, we can provide them. If you need any clarification or elaboration please feel free to call me at (509) 838-9208.

RE: SB154 "An Act Relating to the Liability of Financial Institutions Arising Out of an Unpermitted Release of a Hazardous Substance or the Substantial Threat of an Unpermitted Release of a Hazardous Substance, and to Liens on the Property of Financial Institutions Resulting From an Oil or Hazardous Substance Spill or the Threat of an Oil or Hazardous Substance Spill"

Dear Representative Davidson:

This letter is being written both as President of Denali State Bank and in my current capacity as President of the Alaska Bankers Association.

I am asking you to support SB154 as it has passed the Alaska State Senate. The passage of this bill is vitally important to financial institutions in the State of Alaska and the borrowing customers that we serve. Much effort has been put into this bill by Senator Rodey and his staff, the Department of Environmental Conservation, and the Alaska Bankers Association. I am confident that it will fulfill the needs of all parties concerned.

Your support of this bill will be sincerely appreciated. Please do not hesitate to contact the undersigned if you have any questions.

Sincerely yours,

Re: SB 154

Dear Representative Davidson:

I represent the Alaska Bankers Association in our efforts to clarify the security interest exemption in the state environmental strict liability law. As a member of the House Resources committee, you will likely be hearing of SB 154 soon. I would like to take this opportunity to briefly outline the problem, and to educate you as to what we feel is a partial solution. I have enclosed a copy of the bill for your reference.

The state strict liability law, AS 46.03.822 - 828, is patterned after the federal Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act (CERCLA, aka Superfund). In both state and federal law there was a security interest exemption for lenders and other security holders. Over all the years, because of ambiguities in the in the wording, court cases have eroded the exemption. Lenders have been held to be liable as owners by forcloseing on a property, even though the lender had nothing to do with causing the problem and was only acting to protect a security interest. Courts have gone so far as to suggest that a lender may be liable as an operator if, in the words of the court, " the lender had the capability to influence hazardous waste decisionmaking through financial relationships". Because lenders may be the only deep pocket left after a clean up, they are easy targets for enforcement agencies.

The lending industry is very alarmed at the situation. The law and case decisions greatly increase the risks of lending money. Lenders, in many cases, are unable to lend money into the communites we serve, because of the environmental risks. Not being able to lend is very unsettling to our industry, as this is the primary way we invest in our communities. However, under current law, the risks of lending into a situation with any potential environmental liability, particularly in the case of someone requesting funds to perform a clean up and also in the case of small loans, far outweigh the rewards.

As a partial solution, we have proposed SB 154, legislation that would clarify the security interest exemption. The clarification would allow a lender to hold indicia of ownership, which may include full legal title through foreclosure or equivalent, as long as the lender is holding primarily to protect a security interest, and does not participate in the management of a vessel or facility. Participating in management is also clarified, so that a lender will not risk liability unless there is actual participation in the management or operational affairs.

A second section of the bill addresses the state's lien for clean up and the ability of the state to recover on its lien from a property owner not otherwise liable, to the extent of an increase in the value of the property resulting from the state's clean up.

The Alaska Department of Environmental Conservation and the Office of the Attorney General have considered the bill, and in fact the present draft of the bill is their version. We certainly appreciate their involvement and hope for their continued support of this legislation.

Please call me if you or your staff have any questions regarding the bill. I ask for your support of the bill, as it will be crucial if we are to pass the bill this session.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Dan Mogck

Dear Senator Rodey:

The State Banking Association is supporting Senate Bill #154 which we believe would encourage lending to small business. The reason for our support for this legislation is to facilitate small business commerce in the state of Alaska and to place the blame for environmental problems on the guilty parties. We must be able to make loans to small business without the constant threat of being required to cleanup environmental problems in which we were unaware nor did we contribute to the environmental problem. We believe in a due diligence by the state to protect us from environmental hazards.

We believe in the concept of a clean environment and that Alaska is in much better shape than much of the U.S. We do become extremely skittish when a state leasing official encourages us to make loans on its property and tells us that due to our financial resources, they would require us to cleanup any environmental problems regardless whether the problem was created by the state itself, an adjacent property owner, or a previous ground lessee.

Borrowing in the future will become more difficult if the state anticipates that we pay for everyone's environmental problems. We are encountering more and more cases whereby the marginal environmental risk causes us to decline to make the loan because of unknown future problems which we might encounter. We encourage you to vote for Senate Bill #154 which will go a long way to encourage lenders to lend on real estate and to small business.

Sincerely yours,

Alaska Credit Union League
Statement in Support of CS for SB 154

There are 18 credit unions in Alaska (16 federally chartered, 2 state chartered) and all are members of the Alaska Credit Union League, a trade association dedicated to protecting and serving the interests of Alaska's credit unions and the members who own them.

Some 338,000 Alaskans are currently members of these 18 credit unions. Obviously, credit unions are considered by Alaskans to be among the safest financial institutions in the marketplace.

However, in today's economic climate, the financial services industry and its regulators are very concerned about real estate loan losses. From a lender's standpoint, the factor which creates the greatest potential for loss is not market risk or credit risk but the risk associated with environmental contamination. Under state law, a lender can be held strictly liable for the cost of clean up of contaminated properties- regardless of who contaminated the property. The current owner (which a lender becomes through the foreclosure process) is financially responsible for clean up and damages.

There is no way to guarantee that during the term of the loan the property value will not be impaired by contamination. If the individual owner is not financially capable of cleaning up a property, the state can file a lien superior to a pre-existing lenders lien. This situation has curtailed and eliminated sources of credit for real estate lending (this includes business loans secured by real estate, home equity loans and loans for the improvement and purchase of homes).

In fact, Alaska USA Federal Credit Union discontinued granting real estate loans in October of 1989 because of losses and potential losses incurred or threatened under the strict liability provisions of state law. Prior to that time, the credit union granted $50 million in real estate loans each year. It is the position of the Alaska Credit Union League that the availability of credit for real estate related purposes is an essential part of the Alaska economy.

ALASKA CREDIT UNION LEAGUE

SUITE 650, 4000 CREDIT UNION DRIVE
ANCHORAGE, ALASKA 99503-6647
(907) 562-1255

Currently, prudent lending requires not only the traditional appraisal, title insurance, etc. but also site assessment for the detection of environmental contamination. If through the site assessment contamination is discovered, then the law requires it to be reported. If the contaminated real estate is ever to have economic value, it must be cleaned up. It makes good environmental sense to encourage lending because the lender as a third party must do site assessments and has great incentive (loss of loan and collateral) to do thorough assessments to identify contaminated or potentially contaminated properties that might otherwise go undetected and unreported for years.

The changes to existing law proposed by CS of SB 154 encourage the more active involvement of financial institutions in real estate lending by limiting (not eliminating) liability of financial institutions that have acquired contaminated facilities or vessels through foreclosure or trust agreements. We believe it is in the best interest of the environment, the economy, and the people of the State of Alaska that SB 154 become law this session.

Dear Senator Rodey:

I want to ask you for your support of Senate Bill #154 which deals with issues of environmental liability to lenders. Passage of the Bill will facilitate small business commerce in the State of Alaska.

We all wish to live in a clean and healthy environment; however, we have become concerned over attempts to hold lender's liable for the cost of cleaning up a borrower's property.

Lenders already have adequate incentives to encourage their borrowers to engage in environmentally safe practices but lenders are not equipped to police the environmental activities of their borrowers. Imposition of unlimited liability on lenders can be expected to restrict credit to any borrowers where there is environmental risk. A reduction in the availability of credit threatens businesses and their ability to contribute to cleanup of the environment and thereby also frustrates environmental interests.

Banks are now examining property carefully before they foreclose and sometimes walk away from their collateral in order to avoid liability. I have been designated the banks' "Environmental Risk Officer". As such, I review loan requests to assess the level of risk to the bank.

Imposing liability for environmental cleanup costs on lenders is [redacted]likely to do little to prevent pollution, but may interfere with the availability of credit to even prudent businesses that use hazardous substances such as fish processors, all maritime businesses, trucking, car dealerships, dry cleaners, aviation and service stations to name just a few.

We recently declined credit to a gift shop in Valdez, not because they used hazardous substances, but because they were next door to a service station. In rural Alaska most communities rely exclusively on petroleum for heat and transportation and to operate all forms of equipment essential to their livelihoods. Existing State environmental laws were modeled after what others have done in the lower 48 and do not consider problems unique to Alaska.

Meanwhile, other states continue to pass legislation similar to Senate Bill #154. In 1991 alone Arizona, Illinois, Indiana, Maine, Maryland, Minnesota, Missouri, Hawaii, Nebraska, Oregon, Texas, West Virginia, Indiana, Montana and New Mexico all passed such legislation.

Again I ask you for your support of Senate Bill #154.

Ken Erickson of your office asked that I provide you with the ABC Board's position concerning SB 183.

The board has discussed the subject of mini-bars in hotel rooms on several occasions during the last few years. The board concluded that it neither supports nor opposes mini bars. However, it has indicated that it should have a role in reviewing proposals from licensees who want to provide mini-bar service in their facilities. Senate Bill 187 does provide for board approval.

Thank you for the opportunity to comment. If I can provide any additional information, please do not hesitate to call.

As stated in SB183, travellers of all sophistications now expect first class and complete hospitality accommodations. In-room food and beverage availability was once a novelty. It is now a must!

As you know the State of Alaska competes with many destinations, not only for the summer tourist, but company meetings and conventions as well. We can ill afford to allow our competition the slightest edge.

Position Paper on Hotel Mini-Bars

The Alaska Cabaret, Hotel, Restaurant & Retailers Association endorses legislation that amends Alaska State Liquor Laws to permit the placement of mini-bars in hotel and motel rooms. As a major part of the hospitality and visitor industry of the state, the Association feels that the availability of this amenity to the traveling public is necessary to maintain our competitive edge as a visitor destination. Mini-bars are available in hotel rooms in many areas of the world and we believe that Alaska's lodging industry should be able to participate fully in the modern world of hospitality.

MEMORANDUM

TO: Senator Drue Pearce

FROM: Linda J. Snow
Legislative Analyst

RE: Regulation of Hotel Mini-Bars
Research Request 91.200

You asked this office how other states regulate hotel mini-bars. You specifically asked if other states require special licenses or permits for mini-bars, how they restrict access by minors and drunken persons, and how they control sale hours. You also asked if proposed mini-bar legislation would conflict with Alaska's "Happy Hour" law.

We spoke with representatives of alcoholic beverage control authorities in California, Illinois, Nevada, New York, Texas, and Wisconsin. Our discussions with these people are summarized below. Attached to this memorandum are relevant statutes from the various states.

California

According to David Wright, assistant chief of business practices for the California Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, special controlled-access cabinet permits may be issued to California hotels which have an on-sale liquor license.[1] Mini-bar cabinets must be locked, and no access key may be issued to minors. Hotel employees allowed to stock the cabinets must be at least 21 years of age. Cabinets may not be stocked between 2:00 a.m. and 6:00 a.m., the hours during which the state prohibits sales of alcohol.

Illinois

Mr. Eric Wisette, chief of investigations for the Illinois Liquor Control Commission, reported that his state does not require separate mini-bar permits if hotels have a general liquor license. However, local municipalities have

[1]On-sale refers to establishments which sell liquor for consumption on the premises (i.e., restaurants and bars). Off-sale refers to establishments which sell packaged liquor for consumption off the premises (i.e., grocery stores and liquor stores).

the option to require permits or licenses for mini-bars. Illinois lacks legislation regarding mini-bars. The authority to regulate them comes from a Liquor Control Commission policy statement. The state has no regulations regarding hours of sale, although local governments may regulate them. Regarding access by drunken persons, the liquor license holder is ultimately responsible and risks the loss of his or her license if abuses occur. Illinois recently passed legislation (attached) which makes any person who rents a hotel room for the purpose of consumption of alcohol by minors guilty of a class C misdemeanor.

Nevada

The State of Nevada does not regulate alcoholic beverages. According to Jody Cummings of the Nevada Game and Control Board, both city and county governments regulate alcoholic beverages in Nevada. We spoke with Art Besser, chief of licensing for the Clark County Department of Business Licenses about mini-bars in Las Vegas. He reported that hotels with 100 or more rooms and a bar liquor license may receive "individual access licenses" (for mini-bars). Each license costs $1,000 per three-month period. The cabinets are locked, and upon proof of age, a guest will be given a mini-bar key on a ring with the room key. The mini-bar key cannot be removed from the cabinet without locking it, so it is assured that the cabinet will be locked when the occupant is not in the room. Las Vegas allows sale of alcohol 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Employees of an establishment with a liquor license must take a course in liquor awareness training, which may help them identify abuses of mini-bars. According to Mr. Besser, Clark County has not had any serious problems with abuse of mini-bar privileges.

New York

New York law does not require special licenses or permits for hotel mini-bars beyond a general hotel liquor license. The law requires that mini-bar cabinets have a lock, and that keys will not be issued to minors or persons who are visibly intoxicated. According to Steven Kalinsky, attorney with the New York State Liquor Authority, nothing in the New York law addresses regulation of hours when the mini-bar may be used.

Texas

Ms. Jeannene Fox, director of licensing for the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission, reported that Texas legislation passed in 1989 requires a special permit to operate mini-bars in hotels with a current "mixed beverage" liquor license. Fees for these permits begin at $2,000 annually, and decrease incrementally to $750 annually for the third and all subsequent renewals. Local governments have the authority to charge up to the same amount for permits that the state charges. Prior to issuance of a permit, mini-bars must be inspected. The cabinets must lock with a key separate from the room key, and the drinks in the cabinets must be miniature (between one and two fluid ounces) for hotels to pass inspection. Upon registration for a room with a mini-bar, every occupant of the room must present proof of age. Restocking of mini-bars cannot occur between 9:00 p.m. and 9:00 a.m. daily, or all day Sunday, and employees who restock must be at least 18 years of age.

According to Ms. Fox, Texas law views hotel rooms more like residences than licensed premises. Persons may become intoxicated, as long as they remain in their hotel room. Also, Texas law allows minors to consume alcohol in their home under the supervision of a parent or legal guardian. This pertains to hotel rooms as well. Ms. Fox also reported that prior to passage of the 1989 legislation, the commission researched control of mini-bars in other states, and found that no other states had trouble regulating access of alcohol from mini-bars by minors and drunken persons.

Wisconsin

We interviewed Roger Johnson, a representative of Alcohol and Tobacco Enforcement in the Wisconsin Department of Revenue. He reported that Wisconsin authorities initially had concerns about the control of alcoholic beverages sold in hotel mini-bars, but that no major problems have occurred.

Hotels with a general bar liquor license operate mini-bars without any special permits or licenses. Generally, only expensive resort hotels in Wisconsin have mini-bars. According to Mr. Johnson, this tends to preclude minors from obtaining access to them simply because few minors can afford to rent the rooms. The mini-bar cabinets must be locked and proof of age is required before a key will be issued. Some hotels have remote locking devises and can therefore control access to the liquor during certain hours. However, Wisconsin law states that although liquor may be furnished at the time the guest occupies the room, the sale of the liquor furnished is considered to occur at the time and place the guest pays for it. Most state laws address only hours of sale of liquor, not hours of consumption.

Bob Frohling, an analyst with the National Conference of State Legislatures who specializes in alcohol issues, stated that he has no knowledge of problems in controlling access to mini-bars by minors and drunken people. David Wright of the California Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control stated that new technology is emerging which will make control of mini-bar access easier. Hotels are now able to lock mini-bar cabinets remotely, stopping access during prohibited hours or when questions arise about the age or drunkenness of a room guest. Also, mini-bar cabinets may now be equipped with remote sensors which indicate exactly what liquor has been removed from a cabinet.

Conflict with Alaska's "Happy Hour" Law

We spoke with Mike Ford, an attorney with the Legislative Affairs Agency Legal Services Division, who is familiar with state liquor laws. He stated that the "happy hour" law prohibits delivery of a drink to a person with two or more drinks already in his possession. Technically, a guest serving himself a drink from an open-access mini-bar could not be considered delivery. Therefore, it appears there would be no conflict with Alaska's "happy hour" law.

the original package or container. In addition, wine may be sold in the original package or container in any quantity to be consumed off the premises where sold. This paragraph does not apply in municipalities in which the governing body elects to come under par. (b) or to a winery that has been issued a "Class B" license. Paragraph (am) applies to all wineries that have been issued a "Class B" license.

(am) A "Class B" license issued to a winery authorizes the sale of wine to be consumed by the glass or in opened containers only on the premises where sold and also authorizes the sale of wine in the original package or container to be consumed off the premises where sold, but does not authorize the sale of fermented malt beverages or any intoxicating liquor other than wine.

(b) In all municipalities electing by ordinance to come under this paragraph, a retail "Class B" license authorizes the sale of intoxicating liquor to be consumed by the glass only on the premises where sold and also authorizes the sale of intoxicating liquor in the original package or container, in multiples not to exceed 4 liters at any one time, and to be consumed off the premises where sold. Wine, however, may be sold for consumption off the premises in the original package or otherwise in any quantity. This paragraph does not apply to a winery that has been issued a "Class B" license. Paragraph (am) applies to all wineries that have been issued a "Class B" license.

(bm) Notwithstanding pars. (a) and (b) and s. 125.04 (3) (a) 3 and (9), a "Class B" license authorizes a person operating a hotel to furnish a registered guest who has attained the legal drinking age with a selection of intoxicating liquor in the guest's room which is not part of the "Class B" premises. Intoxicating liquor furnished under this paragraph shall be furnished in original packages or containers and stored in a cabinet, refrigerator or other secure storage place. The cabinet, refrigerator or other secure storage place must be capable of being locked. The cabinet, refrigerator or other secure storage place shall be locked, or the intoxicating liquor shall be removed from the room, when the room is not occupied and when intoxicating liquor is not being furnished under this paragraph. A key for the lock shall be supplied to a guest who has attained the legal drinking age upon request at registration. The hotel shall prominently display a price list of the intoxicating liquor in the hotel room. Intoxicating liquor may be furnished at the time the guest occupies the room, but for purposes of this chapter, the sale of intoxicating liquor furnished under this paragraph is considered to occur at the time and place that the guest pays for the intoxicating liquor. Notwithstanding s. 125.68 (4) (c), the guest may pay for the intoxicating liquor at any time if he or she pays in conjunction with checking out of the hotel. An individual who stocks or accepts payment for alcohol beverages under this paragraph shall be the licensee, the agent named in the license if the licensee is a corporation or the holder of a manager's or operator's license or be supervised by one of those individuals.

§ 23355.2. Sale of alcoholic beverages by hotel or motel by means of controlled access beverage cabinet

(a) For purposes of this section, "controlled access alcoholic beverage cabinet" means a closed container, either refrigerated, in whole or in part, or nonrefrigerated, and access to the interior of which is (1) restricted by means of a locking device which requires the use of a key, magnetic card, or similar device, or (2) controlled at all times by the licensee.

(b) Notwithstanding any other provision of this division, a hotel or motel having an on-sale license may sell alcoholic beverages to its registered guests by means of a controlled access alcoholic beverage cabinet located in the guestrooms of those registered guests, provided that each of the following conditions is met:

(1) Access to a controlled access alcoholic beverage cabinet in a particular guestroom is provided, whether by furnishing a key, magnetic card, or similar device, or otherwise, only to the adult registered guest, if any, registered to stay in the guestroom.

(2) Prior to providing a key, magnetic card, or other similar device required to attain access to the controlled access alcoholic beverage cabinet in a particular guestroom to the registered guest thereof, or prior to otherwise providing access thereto to the registered guest, the licensee shall verify, in accordance with Article 3 (commencing with Section 25657), of Chapter 16 of this division, that each registered guest to whom a key, magnetic card, or similar device is provided, or to whom access is otherwise provided, is not a minor.

(3) All employees handling the alcoholic beverages to be placed in the controlled access alcoholic beverage cabinet in any guestroom, including, but not limited to, any employee who inventories or restocks and replenishes the alcoholic beverages in the controlled access alcoholic beverage cabinet, shall be at least 21 years of age.

(4) There is no replenishing or restocking of the alcoholic beverages in any controlled access alcoholic beverage cabinet between the hours of 2 a.m. and 6 a.m. of the same day.

(c) Notwithstanding any other provision of this division, a hotel or motel having an on-sale general license may, upon issuance of a permit from the department, sell from its controlled access alcoholic beverage cabinets distilled spirits in containers of 50 milliliters or less, or in containers of comparable size. The department shall charge an annual fee for a permit issued pursuant to this subdivision equal to the annual renewal fee applicable to an off-sale general license pursuant to Section 23320.

(d) Notwithstanding any other provision of this division, a hotel or motel having an on-sale general license and an off-sale general license may sell from its controlled access alcoholic beverage cabinets distilled spirits in containers of 50 milliliters or less, or in containers of comparable size, without having to obtain the permit specified in subdivision (c).

(e) A controlled access alcoholic beverage cabinet may be part of another cabinet or similar device, whether refrigerated, in whole or in part, or nonrefrigerated, from which nonalcoholic beverages or food may be purchased by the guests in hotel or motel guestrooms. However, in that event, the portion of the cabinet or similar device in which alcoholic beverages are stored shall be a controlled access alcoholic beverage cabinet, as defined in this section.

(f) For purposes of this section, "hotel" or "motel" shall mean an establishment which is licensed to sell alcoholic beverages and which contains guestroom accommodations with respect to which the predominant relationship existing between the occupants thereof and the owner or operator of the establishment is that of innkeeper and guest. For purposes of this subdivision, the existence of other legal relationships as between some occupants and the owner or operator thereof shall be immaterial.

131. Sales to and possession by persons under 21, intoxicated persons, persons under legal disability or in need of mental treatment—Proof of identity and age—Gatherings where one or more persons are under 18—Violations and penalties—Renting hotel or motel rooms

§ 6–16. (a) No licensee nor any officer, associate, member, representative, agent or employee of such licensee shall sell, give or deliver alcoholic liquor to any person under the age of 21 years, or to any intoxicated person or to any person known by him or her to be under legal disability or in need of mental treatment. No person, after purchasing or otherwise obtaining alcoholic liquor, shall sell, give or deliver such alcoholic liquor to another person under the age of 21 years, except in the performance of a religious ceremony or service. Whoever violates the provisions of this paragraph of this subsection (a) is guilty of a Class A misdemeanor.

For the purpose of preventing the violation of this section, any licensee, or his agent or employee, may refuse to sell or serve alcoholic beverages to any person who is unable to produce adequate written evidence of identity and of the fact that he or she is over the age of 21 years.

Adequate written evidence of age and identity of the person is a document issued by a federal, state, county, or municipal government, or subdivision or agency thereof, including, but not limited to, a motor vehicle operator's license, a registration certificate issued under the Federal Selective Service Act,[1] or an identification card issued to a member of the Armed Forces. Proof that the defendant-licensee, or his employee or agent, demanded, was shown and reasonably relied upon such written evidence in any transaction, forbidden by this Section is competent evidence and may be considered in any criminal prosecution therefor or to any proceedings for the suspension or revocation of any license based thereon.

Any person who sells, gives, or furnishes to any person under the age of 21 years any false or fraudulent written, printed, or photostatic evidence of the age and identity of such person or who sells, gives or furnishes to any person under the age of 21 years evidence of age and identification of any other person is guilty of a Class A misdemeanor.

Any person under the age of 21 years who presents or offers to any licensee, his agent or employee, any written, printed or photostatic evidence of age and identity which is false, fraudulent, or not actually his own for the purpose of ordering, purchasing, attempting to purchase or otherwise procuring or attempting to procure, the serving of any alcoholic beverage, or who has in his possession any false or fraudulent written, printed, or photostatic evidence of age and identity, is guilty of a Class B misdemeanor.

Any person under the age of 21 years who has any alcoholic beverage in his possession on any street or highway or in any public place or in any place open to the public is guilty of a Class B misdemeanor. This Section does not apply to possession by a person under the age of 21 years making a delivery of an alcoholic beverage in pursuance of the order of his or her parent or in pursuance of his or her employment.

(b) Except as otherwise provided in this Section whoever violates this Section shall, in addition to other penalties provided for in this Act, be guilty of a Class B misdemeanor.

(c) Any person shall be guilty of a petty offense where he or she knowingly permits a gathering at a residence which he or she occupies of two or more persons where any one or more of the persons is under 18 years of age and the following factors also apply:

(1) the person occupying the residence knows that any such person under the age of 18 is in possession of or is consuming any alcoholic beverage; and

(2) the possession or consumption of the alcohol by the person under 18 is not otherwise permitted by this Act; and

(3) the person occupying the residence knows that the person under the age of 18 leaves the residence in an intoxicated condition.

For the purposes of this subsection (c) where the residence has an owner and a tenant or lessee, there is a rebuttable presumption that the residence is occupied only by the tenant or lessee.

(d) Any person who rents a hotel or motel room from the proprietor or agent thereof for the purpose of or with the knowledge that such room shall be used for the consumption of alcoholic liquor by persons under the age of 21 years shall be guilty of a Class C misdemeanor.

Note

"No licensee shall sell, give or deliver coholic liquor to any minor, or to any toxicated person or to any person known by him to be an habitual drunkard, spendthrift or insane, feeble-minded or distracted person."

The 1951 amendment substituted "mentally ill, mentally deficient or in need of mental treatment" for "feeble-minded or distracted person".

The 1953 amendment made the paragraph applicable to officers, agents, employees and others acting for a licensee, and it provided a penalty for violation of the paragraph.

The 1961 amendment substituted "person under the age of 21 years" for "minor".

The 1963 amendment in the first paragraph added what is now the second sentence.

P.A. 77–2410 provided that a person violating the paragraph was guilty of a Class B misdemeanor.

The amendment by P.A. 77–2410 was necessary to conform penalties under this paragraph with the Unified Code of Corrections, see ch. 38, ¶ 1001–1–1 et seq.

Section 2 of P.A. 77–2410 provided an effective date of January 1, 1973.

P.A. 78–26 designated the subdivisions of the paragraph; inserted subd. (b) which read:

"(b) Subsection (a) of this Section does not apply to the sale, gift or delivery of beer and wine to persons under the age of 21 years but at least 19 years of age."

and in subd. (a) referred to the exception of subd. (b).

P.A. 78–630 in what is now the first paragraph of subd. (a) following "21 years" inserted "or in the case of beer and wine, under the age of 19 years"; and in subd. (a) added the second to sixth paragraphs.

P.A. 78–1297, the 1974 Revisory Act, declared in its title that it related to "certain nonsubstantive revisions of the law to resolve differences among the several forms of certain Sections amended by more than one Act of the 78th General Assembly".

P.A. 81–212, in subd. (a), in the first, second, fifth and sixth paragraphs deleted "or in case of beer and wine, under the age of 19 years" where it appeared following "21 years"; deleted former subd. (b) as added by P.A. 78–26; and designated a penalty provision as subd. (b).

P.A. 82–783, Art. VI renumbered Sections of the Liquor Control Act of 1934 and amended other Acts to revise cross references to the renumbered Sections.

For provisions of P.A. 82–783, Art. I, § 1 relating to intent and supersedure and Art. XII, § 1 relating to effective dates and extension or revival of repealed Acts, see Historical Note following ch. 23, ¶ 4–2.

P.A. 83–706 revised statutory terminology related to persons under legal and developmental disabilities; deleted references to conservators or substituted references to guardians; and inserted gender references.

P.A. 83–834, in subd. (b), inserted "Except as otherwise provided in this Section"; and added subd. (c).

P.A. 83–1362, Art. II, the 1984 Revisory Act provided in § 0.1:

"This Article provides for the nonsubstantive revision or renumbering or repeal of Sections of Acts necessitated by the amendment, addition or repeal of Sections by two or more Public Acts of the 83rd General Assembly, which multiple action was not resolved by one of the Acts of the 83rd General Assembly affecting the particular Section."

For provisions of P.A. 83–1362, Art. I, § 1 relating to intent and Art. V, § 1 relating to effective date and nonacceleration, see Historical Note following ch. 5, ¶ 55.19.

P.A. 84–272, in the first paragraph of subd. (a), added "Whoever violates the provision of this paragraph of this subsection (a) is guilty of a Class A misdemeanor."

P.A. 84–1379, which incorporated the amendment by P.A. 84–272, added subd. (d).

RE: Scheduling of Psychologically Impacted Properties Bill (SB-187).

Senate Bill 187 was requested by the Alaska Association of Realtors in an effort to bring state law into compliance with federal law.

Currently, under federal law, if a seller or his agent directly or inadvertently discloses that a previous inhabitant of a property had AIDs he is in violation of the Federal Fair Housing Act of 1968 Amendment. The federal law's intent is to protect handicapped individuals from unfair housing discrimination.

Under Alaska state tort law, if a seller or his agent does not disclose "material" facts that affect the value of the property under negotiation, he can be sued for the difference in perceived value. A "material" fact is broadly defined by state courts to mean anything that affects the price a reasonable consumer is willing to pay for a product or service.

Senate Bill 187 will make the following fact "immaterial": The disclosure of any information that is deemed discriminatory under the U.S. Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. 3601 - 3631).

Would you schedule this bill for a hearing in House Judiciary Committee as soon a possible pending a referral from the House Labor and Commerce Committee.

Human immunodeficiency virus is a virus that causes AIDS. Regarding ways the HIV virus can be transmitted:

1) Blood to blood: Infected blood from one individual coming in contact with blood from another individual ie;
   Sharing IV drug needles, ear piercing and tattoo needles, razor blades, tweezers and tooth brushes (if bleeding gums). Through organ donors and blood products before 1985.

2) Sexual Contact:
   Exchange of vaginal secretions or semen through unprotected oral, vaginal or anal sex.

3) Perinatal Transmission:
   Acquired in the womb, before birth during birth or through breast milk.

There is no evidence that HIV can spread through body fluids like saliva, tears, urine, feces and sweat. HIV is not spread through routine contact in households, schools, work places or public settings.

Re: S.B. 187

Dear Senator Pearce:

The Alaska Association of REALTORS® is writing in support of S.B. 187, "an act relating to the disclosure of certain facts in real property transactions."

This short bill, if enacted, would serve to clarify the duties and responsibilities of real property owners and real estate agents with regard to disclosure of certain facts surrounding so-called "psychologically impacted" properties.

Currently, fourteen other states have this type of legislation in place. The Alaska Association of REALTORS® supports S.B. 187 and urges the legislature to act on passage of this bill.

Sincerely,

SUBJECT: S.B. 187

In response to your request for an analysis of the proposed legislation, the Alaska Association of REALTORS® offers the following.

Enactment of S.B. 187 serves several important functions. First, it provides protection to an owner's interest in real property in that it limits the stigma that may be attached to a particular property through the acts of the former owner, or by events that may have occurred on the property. Acts or occurrences are not "material facts" that should have any bearing on establishing the value of a property. Likewise, the value of a property should not be indefinitely affected by an act or occurrence that may have taken place years previously. In short, this bill protects an owner's ability to receive fair market value for the property at time of sale or rental.

Secondly, S.B. 187 protects both an owner and his agent or representative from inadvertent violation of the Fair Housing Act of 1968 amendment, which establishes certain groups of people that are protected from discrimination. One of these groups is handicapped individuals, which includes victims of AIDS.

On May 9, 1990, HUD's General Counsel, Frank Keating, made the following statement in a letter to the National Association of REALTORS®: "We agree that unsolicited statements made by a real estate broker or agent that a current or previous occupant of the property has AIDS would violate the (Federal Fair Housing Act). A broker's unsolicited statements to a prospective buyer or renter would indicate a discriminatory preference or limitation based on handicap." In this same letter, Mr. Keating went on to say that if asked whether an occupant has AIDS, a broker should decline to respond.

Finally, this bill reiterates for real estate agents as seller's/owner's representatives their fiduciary obligation to protect the client's confidences and not to disclose anything that would harm the client.

At the present time the following states have adopted similar legislation: Nevada, Connecticut, California, Rhode Island, Georgia, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Carolina, North Carolina, Florida, Hawaii, Texas, Illinois, and New Jersey.

We hope this clarifies for you the positive effect this legislation would have.

Director's Report

Between a Rock and a Hard Place

by Mary Bettis, The Bettis Co.

A new area of disclosure issues is emerging — psychologically impacted (or stigmatized) property — which involves disclosure of facts not associated with the real estate itself, but rather facts about the owner or occupant of the property.

REALTORS FIND THEMSELVES BETWEEN A ROCK . . .

Would you as a REALTOR disclose to a potential buyer or tenant that occupants of a residence have or had AIDS? Would you disclose the fact that the property was the site of a homicide, other felony, or a suicide? What is your responsibility to seek such personal information about the seller or previous tenant? Might it be considered a material factor?

. . . AND A HARD PLACE

If you were to disclose such psychological factors, would you be guilty of discrimination, or of invasion of privacy? By merely bringing up the matter in your disclosure, would you create or keep alive a stigman — feelings that adversely affect the value of the property? Would you violate your responsibility to your owner/client?

My partners and I discovered first hand the adverse effect of keeping a stigma alive. Three years ago, a woman and her two children were murdered in an apartment building which we own. Everyone, tenants and neighbors as well as ourselves, were determined to cooperate with the police investigation in any way possible. The apartment was sealed and the area cordoned off.

There was a prolonged investigation and notoriety. Tenants moved and were difficult to replace. Finally, when a relative of the victims was apprehended, tried, and convicted for the crime, and the victims' apartment was made new from the wallboard out, we thought we could put the matter behind us.

But soon after the conviction, the victims' husband and father called the new tenants living in the apartment. He told them his wife and children had been murdered there, and wondered if he could come over and look around one last time before leaving town. The tenants gave their moving notice that day.

On advice of council, we have since disclosed the matter to every prospective tenant. In doing so, we feel we needlessly keep alive the psychologically chilling effect, sabotage our efforts to create a pleasant environment, and adversely affect the value of our property.

IS DISCLOSURE REQUIRED . . .?

Much of the concern with the question of disclosure began with Reed v. King, 145 Cal. App. 3rd 261 Rprt. 130 (1983), a California court case, regarding the sale of a home in which a woman and her four children had been murdered 10 years prior to the sale. Neither the seller of nor his agent informed the purchaser that the murder had taken place. Both the seller and agent represented that the house was in good condition and fit for an alderly lady living alone. After the purchaser moved in, she was informed by the neighbors that no one had been interested in purchasing the property because of the stigma following the murders. The buyer sued alleging the property was worth less because of the murders. The trial court dismissed the case. But on appeal, the court held that a vendor of real property has a duty to disclose to the purchaser facts materially affecting the value of the property when the facts are known only to the vendor and are not readily detectable by the purchaser.

This case was the first to find a cause of action for the failure to disclose a stigma attached to a residential property. The same line of reasoning could be used for failure to disclose the stigma that might attach to a residence as a result of habitation by an AIDS victim.

The Reed v. King case was cited in a civil action involving the sale of a home in California. In Roberts v. Heramb, slip op. no. 5943942, the purchaser sued to rescind a purchase agreement and recover a $10,000 escrow desposit when she learned of the death of one of the sellers of hepatitis and the illness of the other seller with pneumonia. The purchaser suspected that at least one of the sellers had AIDS. The case was settled out of court. It has no value as precedent. But it did show that a complaint could be filed based on an allegation that the seller failed to disclose the habitation of an AIDS victim in a residence for sale.

OR IS DISCLOSURE PROHIBITED . . .?

In response to the problem, California enacted legislation which provides that no cause of action shall arise against a seller of real property, or his agent, for a failure to disclose deaths which occurred on the property more than 3 years prior to sale. The California statute also provides immunity for failure to disclose that a prior occupant had, or was suspected to have, AIDS.

The Federal Fair Housing Act of 1968 amendments, effective March 12, 1989, include the handicapped as a new protected class. Real estate agents and brokers are prohibited from discriminating agains the handicapped (which can include persons with AIDS) in the sale or rental of real property. Although the legislation does not directly address the issue of whether a real estate licensee can, without being specifically questioned by a potential buyer, disclose that an occupant of a property for sale had or was suspected to have AIDS, such a disclosure could be considered a discriminatory action which is clearly prohibited by the Federal Air Housing Act. However, neither the Act nor the regulations, makes clear a licensee's course of action if directly asked by a potential buyer whether the property has been the home of an AIDS victim.

In response to the problem, The National Association of Realtors adopted a policy and model legislation. Anita Bates and her committee got to work seeing a sponsor to introduce a bill in Juneau this session. The text of the policy and model legislation follows:

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® POLICY

Psychologically Impacted Properties

The NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® encourages states to adopt legislation to declare that all psychological impacts or stigmas which are associated with real property are not material facts and need not be disclosed to a potential purchaser or lessee. (1989 Statement of Policy, page 14)

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® ACTIVITY

In addition to the policy statement, the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® has provided each state REALTOR® Association with the following model legislative language on Psychologically Impacted Property:

The following language is proposed to be drafted into bill form appropriate to the legislative style of the state to amend the real estate license law:

Sections _____ of Chapter _____ of the laws of the State of _____ the Real Estate Licensure Act of (19____), are hereby amended to read as follows:

(1) Section _____: The fact or suspicion that a property might be or is psychologically impacted, such impact being the result of facts or suspicious, including but not limited to:
   (a) that an occupant of real property is, or was at any time suspected to be, infected or has been infected with Human Immuno-deficiency Virus or diagnosed with Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, or any other disease which has been determined by medical evidence to be highly unlikely to be transmitted through the occupancy of a dwelling place; or
   (b) that the property was; or was at any time suspected to have been, the site of a homicide, or other felony or a suicide; is not a material fact that must be disclosed in a real estate transaction.

(2) Section _____: No cause of action shall arise against an owner of real estate or his or her agent for the failure to disclose to the transferee that the transferred property was psychologically impacted as defined in Section _____ of this Chapter.

HUD Says AIDS Disclosure Can Violate Title VIII

by Robert D. Butters, Deputy General Counsel

One of the most perplexing issues confronting real estate brokers and their legal counsel is the relationship between the recent changes to Title VIII contained in the Federal Fair Housing Act Amendments of 1988 and state tort law. Nowhere is this ambiguity more acute than over the question of when, if ever, a real estate broker may disclose that an owner or occupant of a dwelling has, or recently died from, AIDS or an AIDS related illness. The issue arises from a direct confrontation between two well established public policies. The first is the policy of non-discrimination against persons with handicaps reflected in the recent Title VIII amendments. A second, and arguably conflicting, public policy is reflected in the evolving common law of misrepresentation, and the broad consumer protection statutes adopted by many states prohibiting acts or omissions that are, or can be, misleading or deceptive. The key issue in most misrepresentation or consumer fraud cases is whether the alleged statement or omission was "material." A "material" fact in turn is broadly defined to mean anything that bears upon the price a reasonable consumer is willing to pay for a product or service.

Broadly construing the "materiality" concept, a creditable argument can be made that a property owner's AIDS condition is material given the fear, albeit irrational, held by some persons that AIDS can be transmitted by casual contact notwithstanding the overwhelming scientific evidence to the contrary, and also the social stigma attached to homosexuality and intravenous drug use through which AIDS is known to be communicated. The argument that an owner's AIDS condition is a material fact is also bolstered by decisions such as Reed v. King, 145 Cal. App. 3d 261, 193 Cal. Rptr. 130 (1983), which held that a murder occurring on the premises several years earlier could be a material fact if the plaintiff could prove a loss of market value attributed to the property's stigma.

Given the conflict between the competing public policies of non-discrimination against AIDS victims in the provision of real estate related services, and prohibiting the withholding of material facts from consumers about products and services for sale, the National Association sought an opinion in January of 1990 from the General Counsel of the Department of Housing and Urban Development concerning whether, and under what circumstances, the federal fair housing laws prohibit a real estate broker from disclosing occupant is a swimming ...

The National Association's concern, therefore, is not with the substance of HUD's advice regarding the proper response to a buyer's direct question about an occupant's AIDS condition, but rather HUD's rationale for its advice. In his May letter, Mr. Keating stated that a real estate broker "may run afoul of the Act by aiding a buyer or renter in steering clear of properties owned or occupied by people with AIDS." Mr. Keating further stated that once a broker is aware that a buyer harbors a preference not to live in or around a home occupied by an AIDS victim, the broker may not cooperate with the buyer by identifying properties to pursue or avoid.

This rationale implicitly adopts the view that any reference to the protected status of a person living in or around a dwelling violates Title VIII, even if the information is truthful and provided only in response to a direct unsolicited question from a buyer. This construction of Title VIII reflects an assumption that Title VIII limits a broker's ability to cooperate with a buyer who is exercising his or her own freedom of choice in housing -- a right supposedly guaranteed by Title VIII.

One will not find any provision in Title VIII, or its legislative history, that suggests that the Act contains any limitation upon a homeseeker's freedom to choose where he or she will live. To be sure, an owner's freedom to sell or rent to whomever they choose is directly restrained by Title VIII, and any broker who cooperates with an owner to discriminate against a homeseeker unquestionably violates Title VIII. But cooperation with a homeseeker is not equally constrained. So long as a homeseeker's freedom of choice is not limited by an owner, broker, property manager or any other person providing real estate related services, a homeseeker is free to choose where to live, even if that choice is based upon criteria an owner is expressly forbidden to employ in choosing to whom to sell or rent. Therefore, if a homeseeker is free to make a housing choice based upon criteria otherwise foreclosed to an owner, a real estate broker who provides truthful information, upon request, to a homeseeker to allow him or her to exercise their freedom of choice cannot violate the Act. By analogy, one cannot commit a crime by aiding and abetting an otherwise lawful act. "Aiding and abetting" is a crime only if the underlying act is also a crime.

In conclusion, the weight of authority supports the view that an occupant's AIDS condition, is a fact that a real estate broker does not have any duty to discover, or if known, to disclose to any prospective buyer. These are also facts that need not, and should not, be disclosed even if the broker is asked a direct question by a homeseeker. What still remains unclear is whether this course of conduct is dictated by concerns about protecting the occupant's right to privacy in areas not material to a real estate transaction, or by an interpretation of Title VIII that imposes liability upon a broker for assisting a homeseeker who has freely and unilaterally chosen to take racial, ethnic, or handicap considerations into account in selecting a dwelling.■

that a homeowner, or someone in the owner's household has, or died from, AIDS. On May 9, 1990, HUD's General Counsel, Frank Keating, responded to the National Association's inquiry. In that response, Mr. Keating made the following unambiguous statement:

> "... we agree that unsolicited statements made by a real estate broker or agent that a current or previous occupant of the property has AIDS would violate the [federal Fair Housing Act]. A broker's unsolicited statements to a prospective buyer or renter would indicate a discriminatory preference or limitation based on handicap."

This portion of Mr. Keating's response is consistent with the position the National Association took in its January, 1990 inquiry letter. In the National Association's view, an unsolicited reference by a real estate broker to the handicapped status of an occupant of a dwelling could be construed as a notice or statement that the property should be avoided because of the occupant's handicap and, therefore, violate Section 804(c) of Title VIII. It is also possible that such a reference could be construed as an attempt to steer a prospect away from a dwelling based upon handicap in violation of Section 804(a).

HUD's position that unsolicited disclosure of an occupant's AIDS condition violates the federal fair housing laws is strong persuasive authority for the proposition that the federal fair housing laws preempt any interpretation of state statutory or common law that might impose an affirmative duty upon a real estate broker to investigate and disclose whether an occupant of a dwelling has AIDS on the ground that AIDS is a "material" fact in a real estate transaction.

> "... if a broker is asked whether an occupant has AIDS they should decline to respond."

Consequently, real estate brokers should be counseled that they do not have any duty to investigate whether an occupant has AIDS and, indeed, should scrupulously avoid making any inquiries that are likely to elicit this information. Likewise, if a real estate broker unavoidably learns that an occupant has AIDS, the broker does not have any affirmative duty to disclose that information while marketing the property. Hence, the obligations regarding an occupant's AIDS condition are no different than obligations regarding an occupant's race or religion. Clearly a broker does not have any duty to discover an occupant's religion, or disclose that fact, if known, to prospective buyers.

Uncertainty still remains, however, concerning the broker's liability under the federal fair housing laws for responding truthfully and objectively to a buyer's direct inquiry concerning whether a dwelling occupant has AIDS. In his letter, Mr. Keating offers his advice that if a broker is asked whether an occupant has AIDS they should decline to respond.

This is sound advice for a variety of reasons not directly related to liability under the fair housing laws. Brokers who list property for sale or rent owe fiduciary duties to owners under the common law of agency. These fiduciary duties include a duty to safeguard a client's confidences and secrets. An occupant's AIDS condition certainly could be reasonably construed to be information protected from disclosure without the client's prior consent. A person's private medical history also could be construed as information sufficiently personal to justify an invasion of privacy claim if disclosed without prior consent. For these reasons, the National Association agrees that brokers should not disclose a seller's AIDS condition, even if asked by a potential buyer. The National Association's advice to brokers who unavoidably learn of an occupant's AIDS condition, and who are subsequently asked an unsolicited question by a prospective buyer about that condition, is to respond by advising the buyer that the broker's company has a policy of not addressing that subject one way or the other. If the buyer believes this information is relevant to their purchasing decision they must pursue that investigation on their own.

QUESTIONS

ANSWERS

QUESTIONS

WHY DO I NEED TO KNOW ABOUT HIV INFECTION AND AIDS?

Like many diseases, HIV infection and AIDS are preventable. It is estimated that between 945,000 and 1.5 million people in the United States are infected with human immunodeficiency virus (HIV), the cause of AIDS. Many of these people got infected before they knew about AIDS and the steps they could take to protect themselves and others. While it can be disturbing to think about AIDS and consider your risk, getting up-to-date information is the first step toward protecting yourself.

WHAT IS AIDS?

AIDS stands for Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome. It is a serious condition that weakens the body's immune system, leaving it unable to fight off illness. People with AIDS experience certain life-threatening infections and cancers that make them very sick and can eventually kill them.

WHAT CAUSES AIDS?

AIDS is caused by a virus known as the Human Immunodeficiency Virus, or HIV. HIV is sometimes called the "AIDS virus." This virus damages the cells in the immune (defense) system that fight off infections and diseases. As the virus gradually destroys these important cells, the immune system becomes less and less able to protect against illness. Typically, HIV lives in an infected person's body for months or years before any signs of illness appear.

IS THERE A CURE FOR HIV INFECTION AND AIDS?

Currently there is no way to get rid of all the virus once a person is infected. However, new medicines can slow the damage that HIV causes to the immune system. Also, doctors are getting better at treating the illnesses that are caused by HIV infection. Many people now consider HIV infection a manageable, long-term illness.

HOW DO PEOPLE BECOME INFECTED WITH HIV?

This virus is spread through the blood, semen (cum), and vaginal secretions of an HIV-infected person. People put themselves at risk for getting HIV infection when they have contact with these fluids. This can happen by engaging in specific sexual and/or drug use practices. Also, HIV-infected women can pass the virus to their newborns during pregnancy and childbirth. Lastly, some people who received blood products between 1978 and 1985 got infected blood. Now all donated blood is screened for HIV.

Many people do not know they have this virus and therefore may unknowingly pass it to others. This is because they usually look and feel fine for many years after HIV infection occurs.

Sex and HIV

• Both men and women can pass HIV to a sex partner, whether the partner is the same sex or the opposite sex. This can occur during unprotected anal, vaginal, and oral (mouth) sex through contact with infected semen (cum), blood, or vaginal secretions.

Drugs, Sex, and HIV

• People can get infected with HIV through sharing needles, cookers, or cottons (works) with someone who is infected. This can happen even when the person passing the works looks clean and healthy.

• Some people stopped shooting and/or sharing works many years ago and do not realize that they may have become infected with HIV back when they were still shooting drugs. They also may not realize they are passing it through unprotected sex now.

Pregnancy and HIV

• More than a third of all babies born to an HIV-infected woman will have the virus and eventually get sick.

WHAT ABOUT GETTING AIDS FROM BODY FLUIDS LIKE SALIVA?

Although small amounts of HIV have been found in body fluids like saliva, feces, urine, tears, and sweat, there is no evidence that HIV can spread through these body fluids.

By now, HIV has been the subject of more research than most other diseases in history. Medical science is confident about these basic facts: You can't get HIV or AIDS from touching someone, through sharing items such as cups or pencils, or through coughing or sneezing. HIV is not spread through routine contact in restaurants, workplaces, or schools.

There has never been any danger of becoming infected with HIV from donating blood. The needles at blood collection sites in the United States are never used twice.

COULD I BE AT RISK FOR HIV INFECTION AND AIDS?

Until they know someone who has it, many people think this disease can't happen to them. Unfortunately, it can and does happen to all kinds of people. By carefully looking at your current and past sexual and drug practices (and your transfusion history), you can get a picture of your risk for HIV. Also you can figure out what you can do to reduce your future risk for HIV infection.

WHAT CAN I DO TO AVOID GETTING HIV INFECTION?

SIX WAYS TO REDUCE RISK

1. Sex. Many of the things that feel good are safe because no blood, semen (cum), or vaginal secretions get into the body. This includes hugging, cuddling, masturbating, kissing, fantasizing, body-to-body rubbing, and massage.

2. Safer Sex. Unless you're 100% sure your sexual partner is not infected with HIV, reduce your risk by using a latex condom (rubber) on the penis from start to finish if you decide to have anal, vaginal, or oral (mouth) sex.

3. After condoms, for vaginal sex the spermicides found in birth control foams and jellies are considered the next best protection against HIV and other STDs. Spermicides offer less protection than condoms and are more effective when used along with condoms – not in place of them.

4. If you use a lubricant, use one that is water-based. Lubricants containing oil (such as Vaseline) can damage the condom and might cause it to break. Learn to talk with your partner about condoms and safer sex. The adjustment to condom use can be hard for everyone.

5. If you shoot drugs, seek help. And never share needles. If you do share works, clean it with a solution of 10% bleach and water before each use.

6. Avoid mixing alcohol or other drugs with sexual activities – they might cloud your judgment and lead you to engage in unsafe sexual practices.

IS THERE A RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN HIV AND OTHER SEXUALLY TRANSMITTED DISEASES?

Yes. Sexually transmitted diseases (STDs) do not by themselves lead to HIV infection or AIDS. But the presence of certain STDs increases the risk of getting HIV infection during contact with an HIV-infected person. Infection with certain STDs results in the presence of sores on or in the anus, vagina, or penis that permit the virus to enter the blood system more easily. These STDs include syphilis, genital herpes, and chancroid. See a health care provider for testing and treatment if you think you might have any STD.

HOW CAN I TELL IF I HAVE HIV INFECTION?

The only way to know for sure if you have this virus is by taking a blood test called the "HIV Antibody Test." Some people call it the "AIDS Test," even though this test alone cannot tell you if you have AIDS. The "HIV Test" can test for antibodies to the AIDS virus and will tell you if you are able to pass it to others in the ways already described. The HIV test is not a part of your regular blood tests – you have to ask for it by name. It is a very accurate test.

If your test result is "positive," it means you have HIV infection and could benefit from special medical care. Additional tests can tell you how strong your immune (defense) system is and whether drug therapy is indicated. Some people stay healthy for a long time with HIV infection, while others develop serious illness and AIDS more rapidly. Scientists do not know why people respond in very different ways to HIV infection.

ANSWERS

Q U E S T I O N S

If your test is "negative," and you have not had any possible risk for HIV for six months prior to taking the test, it means you do not have HIV infection. You can stay free of HIV by following prevention guidelines. (In the past five years, one study indicated that a few people with HIV infection took longer than six months to test "positive." This is an extremely rare possibility.)

Less than 2% of all people who test for HIV get an "inconclusive result." This means the test cannot determine whether or not they have the virus. Repeat testing is recommended.

SHOULD I TAKE THE HIV TEST?

Recent gains in HIV medical care and treatment have increased the benefit of learning whether you have HIV infection even before symptoms of illness appear. Also, if you are planning a pregnancy, you and your partner may want to know if either of you is infected before conceiving.

Individuals who are planning to be tested should be sure that counseling is provided, both before and after the test. Consult with a health care provider with experience in HIV care or call your local health department.

You can call the National AIDS Hotline at 1-800-342-AIDS to discuss testing, and to get the name of the test site nearest you. Many test sites provide free testing and counseling. Ask for more literature on HIV testing.

IF I AM HIV POSITIVE, WHAT SHOULD I DO?

If you've tested positive for HIV, consider the following:

- See a health care professional for a complete medical work-up for HIV infection and advice on treatment and health maintenance. Make sure you are tested for TB and other STDs. For women, this includes a regular gynecological exam.
- Inform your sexual partner(s) about their possible risk for HIV. Your health department has a partner notification program that can assist you.
- Protect yourself from any additional exposure to HIV.
- Avoid drug and alcohol use, practice good nutrition, and avoid fatigue and stress.

QUESTIONS

- Seek support from trustworthy friends and family when possible, and consider getting professional counseling.
- Find a support group of people who are going through similar experiences.
- Protect others from the virus by following the precautions talked about in this pamphlet (for example, always using condoms and not sharing needles with others).
- Do not donate blood, plasma, semen, body organs, or other tissue.
- Get as much information on HIV infection as you can.

WHAT IF A FRIEND OR ASSOCIATE HAS HIV INFECTION OR AIDS?

A friend or acquaintance will need your support and understanding, just as with any other life-threatening illness. Assurance of your continued friendship is very important. Most importantly, your friend will want to be treated as usual – as a valuable human being. And remember, casual contact – a hug, a handshake, a kiss on the cheek – poses no threat of infection to you.

How You Won't Get AIDS

The U.S. Centers for Disease Control, Atlanta, discusses some myths and answers some questions about the AIDS virus.

AMERICA
TO AIDS

An Important Message from the U.S. Public Health Service
Centers for Disease Control

People today are worried about getting AIDS. Some of them should be worried and need to take some pretty tough precautions. But many others are not in any real danger of contracting AIDS, even though they think they might be. The purpose of this brochure is to tell you how you can and, just as important, how you can't become infected with the AIDS virus.

Regardless of what you may have heard, the AIDS virus is easily avoided.

You can't just "catch" AIDS like a cold or flu, because the virus is a different type. The AIDS virus is transmitted through sexual intercourse, the sharing of drug needles, or to babies before or during birth.

- You can't get the AIDS virus through everyday contact with the people around you in school, in the workplace, at parties, stores, or by swimming in a pool, even if a person is infected with the AIDS virus. Students attending school with someone infected with the AIDS virus are not in danger from casual contact.
- You won't get AIDS from a mosquito bite. The AIDS virus is not transmitted through a mosquito's salivary glands like other diseases such as malaria or yellow fever. You can't get it from bed bugs, lice, flies, or other insects, either.
- You won't get it from clothes, a telephone, or a toilet seat.
- It can't be passed through a glass or eating utensils.
- You don't have to worry about shaking hands, hugging, or being in a crowded elevator with a person who is infected with the AIDS virus, or who has AIDS.
- You won't get AIDS from saliva, sweat, tears, urine, or excrement.

- You won't get AIDS from food that has been handled, prepared, or served by someone who is infected with the AIDS virus.
- You won't get AIDS from a kiss.
- Don't worry about getting AIDS from everyday contact with a person with AIDS. You need to take precautions such as wearing rubber gloves only when blood is present.

The Difference Between Giving And Receiving Blood

1. Giving blood. You are not now, nor have you ever been, in danger of getting AIDS from giving blood at a blood bank. The needles that are used for blood donations are brand new. Once they are used, they are destroyed. There is no way you can come into contact with the AIDS virus by donating blood.

2. Receiving blood. The risk of getting AIDS from a blood transfusion has been greatly reduced. In the interest of making the blood supply as safe as possible, donors are screened for risk factors and donated blood is tested for the AIDS antibody. Call your local blood bank if you have questions.

How Do You Get AIDS?

You can become infected by having sex — oral, anal, or vaginal — with someone who is infected with the AIDS virus. You can be infected by sharing drug needles and syringes with an infected person.

Babies of women who have been infected with the AIDS virus may be born with the infection because it can be transmitted from the mother's blood to the baby before or during birth.

People with hemophilia and others have been infected by receiving blood.

Can You Become Infected?

Yes, if you engage in high risk behavior. The male homosexual population was the first in this country to be affected by the disease. No matter what you have read or heard, the number of heterosexual cases is growing.

People who have died of AIDS in the United States have been male and female, rich and poor, white, black, Hispanic, Asian, and native American.

Would You Like More Information?

If you'd like to know more about AIDS or whether you should consider a blood test, talk to your doctor, local health department, or hospital. In addition, you can get helpful, confidential information from the National AIDS Information line, 1 800-342-AIDS. It's open 24 hours a day. The Spanish hotline is 1-800-344-SIDA (1-800-344-7432). The hotline number for the hearing impaired is 1-800-AIDS-TTY.

(A) shall provide for the Secretary to make the determination to impose the penalty or to use an administrative entity to make the determination;

(B) shall provide for the imposition of a penalty only after the person has been given an opportunity for a hearing on the record; and

(C) may provide for review by the Secretary of any determination or order, or interlocutory ruling, arising from a hearing.

If no hearing is requested within 15 days of receipt of the notice of opportunity for hearing, the imposition of the penalty shall constitute a final and unappealable determination. If the Secretary reviews the determination or order, the Secretary may affirm, modify, or reverse that determination or order. If the Secretary does not review the determination or order, the determination or order shall be final.

(2) Factors in determining amount of penalty. In determining the amount of a penalty under subsection (f), consideration shall be given to such factors as the gravity of the offense, ability to pay the penalty, injury to the public, benefits received, deterrence of future violations, and such other factors as the Secretary may determine in regulations to be appropriate.

(3) Reviewability of imposition of a penalty. The Secretary's determination or order imposing a penalty under subsection (f) shall not be subject to review, except as provided in subsection (h).

(h) Judicial review of agency determination. (1) In general. After exhausting all administrative remedies established by the Secretary under subsection (g)(1), a person against whom the Secretary has imposed a civil money penalty under subsection (f) may obtain a review of the penalty and such ancillary issues as may be addressed in the notice of determination to impose a penalty under subsection (g)(1)(A) in the appropriate court of appeals of the United States, by filing in such court, within 20 days after the entry of such order or determination, a written petition praying that the order or determination of the Secretary be modified or be set aside in whole or in part.

(2) Objections not raised in hearing. The court shall not consider any objection that was not raised in the hearing conducted pursuant to subsection (g)(1) unless a demonstration is made of extraordinary circumstances causing the failure to raise the objection. If any party demonstrates to the satisfaction of the court that additional evidence not presented at the hearing is material and that there were reasonable grounds for the failure to present such evidence at the hearing, the court shall remand the matter to the Secretary for consideration of such additional evidence.

(3) Scope of review. The decisions, findings, and determinations of the Secretary shall be reviewed pursuant to section 706 of title 5, United States Code.

(4) Order to pay penalty. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, in any such review, the court shall have the power to order payment of the penalty imposed by the Secretary.

(i) Action to collect the penalty. If any person fails to comply with the determination or order of the Secretary imposing a civil money penalty under subsection (f), after the determination or order is no longer subject to review as provided by subsections (g)(1) and (h), the Secretary may request the Attorney General of the United States to bring an action in an appropriate United States district court to obtain a monetary judgment against the person and such other relief as may be available. The monetary judgment may, in the court's discretion, include the attorneys' fees and other expenses incurred by the United States in connection with the action. In an action under this subsection, the validity and appropriateness of the Secretary's determination or order imposing the penalty shall not be subject to review.

(j) Settlement by the Secretary. The Secretary may compromise, modify, or remit any civil money penalty which may be, or has been, imposed under this section.

(k) Regulations. The Secretary shall issue such regulations as the Secretary deems appropriate to implement this section.

(l) Deposit of penalties. The Secretary shall deposit all civil money penalties collected under this section into miscellaneous receipts of the Treasury.

INTERPRETIVE NOTES AND DECISIONS

1. Generally

Remedies provided by 42 USCS §§ 1981 and 1982 are independent from those provided by Fair Housing Act (42 USCS §§ 3601 et seq.), and may be utilized to grant appropriate relief in case within coverage of both Act and Civil Rights Act. Wilkey v Pyramid Constr. Co. (1985, DC Conn) 619 F Supp 1453, 39 BNA FEP Cas 25, 120 BNA LRRM 3125.

Language of Fair Housing Act (42 USCS §§ 3601 et seq.) is broad and inclusive and subject to generous construction. Stackhouse v De Sitter (1985, ND Ill) 620 F Supp 208.

Hotel chain is denied motion under 28 USCS § 1404(a) to transfer New York motor hotel's action alleging that chain expelled hotel from affiliation because it was providing lodging to black and Hispanic homeless persons under contract with local welfare department despite existence of forum selection clause selecting Arizona for resolution of disputes between parties where transfer of action would contravene strong public policy interest of local residents in determining whether chain's actions were inimical to goal of ensuring fair housing and equal access to public accommodations. Red Bull Associates v Best Western International, Inc. (1988, SD NY) 686 F Supp 447, app gr (SD NY) 1988 US Dist LEXIS 5132, affd (CA2) 1988 US App LEXIS 16532.

2. Purpose

Action by challengers of housing project fails under 42 USCS § 1982 and Fair Housing Act (42 USCS §§ 3601 et seq.), where municipality's decision not to build low-income housing on site was motivated by financial concerns and not racially discriminatory intent or purpose. Strykers Bay Neighborhood Council, Inc. v New York (1988, SD NY) 695 F Supp 1531.

4. Duties created

With respect to administration of federal housing grants to city, HUD has not satisfied minimum levels of compliance with Title VIII of Civil Rights Act of 1968 (42 USCS §§ 3601 et seq.) where (1) HUD has continued community development block grant funding for city despite city's failure to file minority needs assessment, (2) HUD has never published regulations under Title VIII, thus discouraging local enforcement and (3) HUD has accepted from city cosmetic changes regarding fair housing policies, without utilizing any of its immense authority to provide adequate desegregated housing, despite fact that HUD-financed city programs were neither intentionally discriminatory nor had discriminatory impact. NAACP v Harris (1983, DC Mass) 567 F Supp 637.

Neighborhood integration is important goal of Fair Housing Act of 1968 (42 USCS §§ 3601 et seq.). Jorman v Veterans Admin. (1984, ND Ill) 579 F Supp 1407..

HUD does not violate its duties imposed under 42 USCS §§ 3601 et seq. by continuing to fund city redevelopment authority after it knew that authority was following racially discriminatory relocation practices, where HUD entered into cooperation agreement by which city assumed responsibility for relocation under urban renewal and neighborhood development plan, and where to have cut off funds would have penalized those most in need of housing. Jenkins v Missouri (1984, WD Mo) 593 F Supp 1485.

It has been clear at least since passage of Title VIII—if not from date of Executive Order 11063 and HUD's inception as federal agency—that HUD has affirmative duty to eradicate segregation, and necessary prerequisite for fulfilling this duty is to obtain information about discrimination practices under agency's auspices. Young v Pierce (1985, ED Tex) 628 F Supp 1037.

5. Standing

Only constitutional requirements for standing need be met in suit brought under Fair Housing Act by tenants' union challenging allegedly racially discriminatory housing practices and, therefore, tenants' union has standing where complaint alleges (1) injury to organization's goal of open housing, (2) Department of Housing and Urban Development failed to condition its provision of federal funds for housing project on municipality's compliance with non-discriminatory housing policy, (3) State of Rhode Island and municipality successfully lobbied for withdrawal of developer's financing commitment to housing project in least integrated area of municipality, and (4) corporate developer's withdrawal of funds prevented construction; causation element of standing is not properly alleged as to individuals associated with defendant organizations because they did not, as individuals, have legal authority to halt project. Project Basic Tenants Union v Rhode Island Housing & Mortg. Finance Corp. (1986, DC RI) 636 F Supp 1453.

6. Remedies

When plaintiff who has standing to bring suit shows substantial likelihood that defendant has violated specific fair housing statutes and regulations, that alone, if unrebutted, is sufficient to support injunction remedying those violations; in light of subtle, pervasive, and essentially irremedial nature of racial discrimination, proof of existence of discriminatory housing practices is sufficient to permit court to presume irreparable injury. Gresham v Windrush Partners, Ltd. (1984, CA11 Ga) 730 F2d 1417.

Court lacks authority to order innocent white tenants to vacate apartments to remedy discrimination against blacks or other minorities by apartment management. Gresham v Windrush Partners, Ltd. (1984, CA11 Ga) 730 F2d 1417.

Irreparable injury for purposes of injunction may be presumed from fact of discrimination and violations of fair housing statutes; unrebutted showing by plaintiff that defendant has violated specific fair housing statutes and regulations is sufficient to support injunction remedying those violations. Gresham v Windrush Partners, Ltd. (1984, CA11 Ga) 730 F2d 1417.

Scope of review of agency action under Title VIII (42 USCS §§ 3601 et seq.) is narrow; HUD has great discretion in choosing methods to achieve national housing goals, but its action will be overturned if found to be arbitrary and capricious within meaning of 5 USCS § 706(2)(a). Little Earth of United Tribes, Inc. v United States Dept. of Housing & Urban Dev. (1983, DC Minn) 584 F Supp 1292.

INTERPRETIVE NOTES AND DECISIONS

20.5. Class action
26. Limitations

5. Application

42 USCS § 3604(a, b, d) applies to prospective black tenants of apartment complex, not-for-profit corporation organized to further goals of Fair Housing Act, apartment complex owners, and rental agents employed by complex. Davis v Mansards (1984, ND Ind) 597 F Supp 334.

8. Generally

Rental housing practice may be found unlawful either because it is motivated by racially discriminatory purpose or because it is shown to have disproportionately adverse effect on minorities; in order to prevail in discriminatory impact case plaintiffs, members of discrete minority, are required to prove only that given policy had discriminatory impact on them as individuals. Betsey v Turtle Creek Associates (1984, CA4 Md) 736 F2d 983.

In determining whether particular practice violates 42 USCS § 3604(a), court looks to whether statement or conduct would have untoward effect on reasonable person under circumstances who is seeking housing, and behind statement or conduct to intent of agent; if statement or act would have discriminatory effect and is made with intent to steer, it violates § 3604(a). Heights Community Congress v Hilltop Realty, Inc. (1985, CA6 Ohio) 774 F2d 135.

Not every denial, especially temporary denial, of low-income public housing has discriminatory impact on racial minority sufficient to establish prima facie violation of Fair Housing Act (42 USCS §§ 3601 et seq.); accordingly, naked effect of action by governmental subdivision, without more, does not invoke provisions of Act. Arthur v Toledo (1986, CA6 Ohio) 782 F2d 565.

In order to state prima facie case of housing discrimination, plaintiff must establish following elements: (1) that he is member of protected class; (2) that he applied for and is qualified to purchase housing; (3) that he was rejected; and (4) that housing opportunity remained unavailable. Jiminez v Southridge Cooperative Section I, Inc. (1985, ED NY) 626 F Supp 732.

Constitution prohibits government from funding racial discrimination with public dollar, and indeed, any tangible assistance to segregation is prohibited if it has significant tendency to facilitate, reinforce, or support private discrimination; action of Department of Housing and Urban Development in form of federal funding, technical assistance and regulatory oversight of segregations in connection with public housing was federal action that constituted direct support for racial discrimination. Young v Pierce (1985, ED Tex) 628 F Supp 1037.

9. Refusals to sell

In action under 42 USCS § 3604 against real estate firm, 2 of its sales agents and sellers, for alleged racial discrimination in sale of real estate, jury verdict for black plaintiffs is supported by evidence where broker in informing sellers that offer came from black purchasers, failed to inform sellers that federal law prohibits sellers from taking race into account, or that black purchasers' financial resources were superior to white purchaser's resources, and where offer by blacks was not revived when white purchasers were unable to produce earnest money. Green v Century 21 (1984, CA6 Ohio) 740 F2d 460.

Real estate agency and individual brokers violated 42 USCS §§ 1982 and 3604 where (1) defendants stated to prospective black home buyers different and higher terms than they stated to prospective white buyers, (2) defendants offered different and more favorable terms to white buyers after rejection of plaintiffs' offer and (3) defendants never sold or listed home to black person. Hobson v George Humphreys, Inc. (1982, WD Tenn) 563 F Supp 344.

Hispanic plaintiffs failed to state cause of action under 42 USCS § 3604 against corporate owners of co-operative residential apartment building, arising from owners rejection of plaintiff's application for acquisition of apartment building, since plaintiffs have failed to show any purposeful or intentional discrimination as result of rejection, and since evidence reveals that rejection of plaintiff's application resulted from negative information corporation received relating to prior unbecoming business dealings involving plaintiffs. Kaplan v 442 Wellington Cooperatives Bldg. Corp. (1983, ND Ill) 567 F Supp 53.

Plaintiff, who applied to purchase apartment, did not establish that he was victim of housing discrimination where his applications did not indicate that he had enough assets to purchase apartment, and did not prove that he could meet job stability requirement for purchase; in any case, defendant proffered legitimate, non-discriminatory reason for its action where it showed that its refusal to consider plaintiff's later application was based upon its previous determination that plaintiff did not meet employment stability requirement and information it had received regarding competing applicant. Jiminez v Southridge Cooperative Section I, Inc. (1985, ED NY) 626 F Supp 732.

Minority homeseekers' suit against area planning association under 42 USCS § 3604(b) for discrimination in provision of services in connection with terms, conditions or privileges of sale or rental of dwelling is dismissed, where planning association voluntarily supplied limited housing information regarding only "non-traditional moves," those of whites into integrated areas and of minorities into predominantly white, nonintegrated areas, since such activity is far removed from transactions in commercial residential market to be considered in connection with sale or rental of dwelling. Steptoe v Beverly Area Planning Asso. (1987, ND Ill) 674 F Supp 1313.

10. Refusals to rent

In determining whether all-adult conversion policy had disproportionate impact on minorities in total group to which policy was applied court considers that majority of affected tenants and majority of tenants receiving eviction notices were members of racial minority; upon showing of discriminatory impact, defendants must prove business justification sufficiently compelling to justify challenged practice. Betsey v Turtle Creek Associates (1984, CA4 Md) 736 F2d 983.

White mother of daughter whose father is black states cause of action under 42 USCS § 3604 against owners and managers of trailer park, along with lessee of trailer pad at park, for defendants' race-conscious refusal to sublease available trailer and paid to plaintiff and her daughter, since (1) manager's statement to lessee that manager did not allow black tenants in trailer park demonstrates that manager had actual control over rental of lessee's trailer, and that manger intended to exercise his control in discriminatory way and (2) manager's similar statement to plaintiff acted as continuation and confirmation of previous act of housing discrimination. Stewart v Furton (1985, CA6 Tenn) 774 F2d 706.

Black woman establishes prima facie case of racial discrimination under 42 USCS § 3604 arising from white defendant's refusal to rent apartment to plaintiff, where (1) plaintiff testified that defendant, upon seeing plaintiff, refused to rent apartment and stated that it was his prerogative to be prejudiced, (2) defendant had no good business reason for refusing to rent to plaintiff, in that plaintiff's salary clearly made apartment affordable and (3) defendant's claim that he rented only to elderly persons was impeached by his own deposition testimony that one of his tenants was in her thirties or forties. Hamilton v Svatik (1985, CA7 Ill) 779 F2d 383.

Evidence reasonably supported magistrate's finding that defendant landlord did not intentionally discriminate against prospective tenants when he refused to rent apartment to them, where almost all evidence in case was from parties themselves and close relatives or associates, and where there were 2 completely different renditions of events in case, both of which were potentially plausible, so that court felt obligated to defer to magistrate's credibility assessments of evidence. Vaughner v Pulito (1986, CA5 La) 804 F2d 873.

Apartment owners were properly held in civil contempt for violating consent decree arising from suit under Fair Housing Act (42 USCS §§ 3601 et seq.) enjoining owners from discriminating against possible tenants on basis of race, where trial court credited testimony of rental agent that owners refused to rent to prospective tenant because she was black. Hayden v Oak Terrace Apartments (1987, CA7 Ill) 808 F2d 1269.

Ample evidence supported finding that black applicant was discriminated against on basis of race in violation of 42 USCS § 1982 and 42 USCS §§ 3601 et seq. when she was refused opportunity to rent or inspect or negotiate for rental of townhouse or apartment, where evidence showed that applicant's white sister-in-law called apartment complex to inquire about availability on next day and was invited to view apartments and to see floor plans, and was not told as applicant was that children were restricted to townhouses rather than apartments, and sister-in-law was told apartments were available immediately and one would be held for her until following week, and evidence showed that there were in fact vacant townhouses at time black applicant was looking for rental unit; although landlord claimed that reasons for rejecting black applicant arose out of policies that families with one child could rent townhouses but not apartments, and families with more than one child were not permitted at all, applicant introduced evidence showing exceptions had been made to those rules on several occasions, and evidence of high percentage of minority occupancy at complex did not conclusively rebut claim of intentional racial discrimination. Asbury v Brougham (1989, CA10 Kan) 866 F2d 1276.

Claim by tenants that purchaser of apartment complex housing 95 percent Hispanic residents discriminated against tenants on basis of national origin in violation of Fair Housing Act (42 USCS §§ 3601 et seq.) when purchaser evicted all tenants in order to renovate apartments would fail, where apartments had to be closed for renovations because they had been found unfit for human habitation, not because of national origin of tenants, and where renovation project was designed to benefit persons of low to moderate income and there was no evidence of intent to force Hispanics from area. Gomez v Chody (1989, CA7 Ill) 867 F2d 395.

Evidence supported finding that apartment owners engaged in pattern or practice of making apartments unavailable to persons because of race in violation of 42 USCS §§ 3601 et seq., where owners refused to rent to black bona fide apartment seekers, gave black and white testors differing information on availability of apartments, and treated black testors significantly differently from white testors. United States v Di Mucci (1989, CA7 Ill) 879 F2d 1488.

Black couple made out prima facie case of discrimination under 42 USCS §§ 1982 and 3604 by showing that (1) they are members of racial minority, (2) they rented apartment from defendants, (3) they were locked out of their apartment and (4) apartment continued to be available and was subsequently rented to white family; defendants failed to overcome inference of discrimination by stating that they believed plaintiffs would not be good tenants where defendants (1) are experienced in business of renting apartments and have established procedures for dealing with problem tenants, (2) produced no direct evidence that plaintiff's checks would be dishonored and (3) knew that plaintiffs had good jobs and steady income. Shaw v Cassar (1983, ED Mich) 558 F Supp 303.

In order to prevail in 42 USCS § 3604 action alleging unlawful refusal to rent, plaintiff must show that defendant represented to him, because of race, color, religion, sex or nationality, that apartment was not available for rent, when apartment in fact was available for rent. Metro Fair Housing Services, Inc. v Morrowood Garden Apartments, Ltd. (1983, ND Ga) 576 F Supp 1090.

Owners and operators of apartment complex, and rental agents employed by complex, violated 42 USCS § 3604(a, b, d) by (1) failing to offer black prospective tenants available apartment for which they applied and were qualified, (2) causing to be produced, signed and disseminated letter telling prospective black tenants that no units were available at time when units were in fact available, (3) refusing to allow prospective black tenants to fill out application or place deposit for apartment, because of applicants' race and (4) engaging in systematic practice of discrimination against black applicants and homeseekers that frustrated counseling and referral services, drained resources and hindered mission of not-for-profit corporation organized to further goals of Fair Housing Act. Davis v Mansards (1984, ND Ind) 597 F Supp 334.

42 USCS § 3604 is not violated by section of application form for federally funded housing project which requests information on church affiliation, where information on religious affiliation was sought for secular purpose of allowing managers of project to notify tenant's clergyman in event of death or serious illness, and where plaintiffs have offered no evidence that refusal to rent to plaintiffs was in any way affected by plaintiffs' religious affiliations. Knutzen v Nelson (1985, DC Colo) 617 F Supp 977.

Action by dark-skinned Puerto Rican woman under 42 USCS §§ 1981-1982 and 3601 et seq. and New York Real Property Law based on alleged racial discrimination in refusing to rent apartment, stated claim where plaintiff alleged that she learned of apartment vacancy in building owned by defendants, that she was told that apartment was no longer available, but shortly thereafter she learned that defendants were continuing to accept applications for apartment, and that at plaintiff's insistence defendants agreed to reconsider her application, but ultimately decided to lease apartment to another applicant, a white, non-Hispanic male with no children. Quinones v Nescle (1986, ED NY) 110 FRD 346.

Black and Hispanic housing applicants established prima facie case of housing discrimination, by showing housing corporation gave priority to white applicants and stated criteria applied only within group of white applicants, and corporation's defense that discrimination resulted because Jewish cultural and economic sites were near apartment complexes and thus Jewish people tended to congregate in neighborhood is totally inadequate, especially in view of testimony that corporation's employees systematically discouraged or rejected black and Hispanic applicants over many years. Huertas v East River Housing Corp. (1987, SD NY) 669 F Supp 1219, withdrawn, rereported Huertas v East River Housing Corp. (1987, SD NY) 674 F Supp 440.

Prima facie case of racial discrimination by apartment complex is established under 42 USCS § 3604, in class action by blacks and Hispanics, where white applicants for apartments were universally chosen over blacks and Hispanics despite more pressing needs of minority candidates, earlier filing of minority applications, and other factors which should have given minority candidates priority. Huertas v East River Housing Corp. (1987, SD NY) 674 F Supp 440.

Apartment complex fails to establish credible nondiscriminatory basis for disparate treatment of blacks and Hispanics in applying for apartments under 42 USCS § 3604, in class action, where defense is that discrimination resulted because Jewish cultural institutions and retail shops are clustered near complex and Jewish people wish to congregate together. Huertas v East River Housing Corp. (1987, SD NY) 674 F Supp 440.

11. —Public housing projects

City violated Fair Housing Act (42 USCS §§ 3601 et seq.) when it failed to approve housing project after earlier consent decree allowed freeway through residential area only if displacees were provided with housing unit replacements, where city's actions had greater adverse impact on minorities than on whites, where court properly limited consideration of adverse impact to current displacees, and where justifications for disapproval of housing project were pretextual; 35 percent cap used by city on possible low-income tenants as part of policy of dispersing low-income tenants was not used in other developments, and although city claimed disapproval of development would present school overcrowding, other development in same school zones were approved, and no evidence was submitted to justify claim by city that denial of development application was based on potential increase in traffic in area, and attempt to justify denial on basis of extensive housing density would fail where city approved other developments in area after disapproval of development in question. Keith v Volpe (1988, CA9 Cal) 858 F2d 467.

42 USCS § 3604 is violated through operation of tenant selection, assignment and transfer procedures which were adopted by municipal housing authority in order to achieve and maintain integration in authority's low-income public housing projects, where clear effect of selection procedure is to deny otherwise eligible applicant access to unit solely because of race; fact that authority's policy can also work to detriment of white applicants is not bar to relief under § 3604. Burney v Housing Authority of County of Beaver (1982, WD Pa) 551 F Supp 746.

Low income housing tenants who reside in city and who are about to be displaced by construction of freeway project through city state cause of action against city under 42 USCS § 3604 for city's imposition of 35 percent limitation on number of units in housing development that may be rented to low income tenants and city's denial of lot split, zone change, and site development applications for another housing development, since (1) evidence demonstrates that city's actions had racially discriminatory effect, (2) city's proffered justification for its actions are merely pretextual and (3) plaintiffs merely seek to enjoin city from interfering with private property developers who wish to provide low income housing. Keith v Volpe (1985, CD Cal) 618 F Supp 1132.

13. Preferential advertising

Section 3604(c) prohibition of unlawfully making, printing, publishing, or causing to be made, printed or published any notice statement or advertisement is not limited to advertisements or written matter, but is broad enough to cover all forms of communication; section prohibits only statements by owner or agent that pertain to renting of his dwelling; court considered whether various statements violated section. Heights Community Congress v Hilltop Realty, Inc. (1983, ND Ohio) 629 F Supp 1232.

Action against housing development and advertising agency alleging that advertisement campaigns of defendants in newspaper featuring exclusively white models indicated racial preference in violation of 42 USCS §§ 3604(a) and (c) is dismissed, where (1) plaintiffs did not file complaint within 180 days after alleged discriminatory housing practice pursuant to 42 USCS § 3612(a), and (2) neither defendants' ads nor ad campaigns indicated racially discriminatory preference. Spann v Colonial Village, Inc. (1987, DC Dist Col) 662 F Supp 541.

14. "Blockbusting"

District Court erred in finding that real estate agent committed unlawful "blockbusting" in violation of 42 USCS § 3604(e), when agent mailed cards to residents in racially transitional neighborhood seeking buyer for house in neighborhood, which was ultimately sold to white buyer, since solicitation card was racially neutral, and since there was no evidence of panic selling or other incidents of racially charged atmosphere that would impute to any real estate solicitation racial
