9641 SENATE LABOR & COMMERCE

As evidenced by Table 3, the greatest amount of funds was used for the tank cleanup program, with just over $4.05 million expended or encumbered; tank upgrade was the second largest assistance category, with $610.4 thousand expended or encumbered; and the smallest category was tank closures at just over $261.5 thousand.

2. Program Administration Activities

Overall, the Department continued to administer the state Underground Storage Tank Program to prevent, detect and correct leaks; and to provide technical, educational and financial assistance to regulated underground storage tank owners and operators. As outlined below, many Department activities are continuous or performed on an "as needed" basis throughout the year, while many are repeated on an annual basis.

- a. Activities performed continuously or on an "as needed" basis during FY 96:
- Operated the UST Telephone Hotline (approximately 2400 calls) to answer technical questions from callers. Distributed reading material to provide technical assistance about UST regulations.
  - Reviewed "notification of change", "notification of tanks in use", and "notification of closure" forms for tank systems. Reviewed final reports for closure of tanks.
  - Continued to track and process payments for well over 100 active grants awarded in previous fiscal years and during FY 96.
  - Coordinated activities with the state UST and Leaking Underground Storage Tank (LUST) program for activities such as UST regulation changes and compliance implementation strategies.
- b. Activities repeated on an annual basis or at regular intervals during FY 96:
- Processed high priority applications and awarded grants and loans in the Tank Cleanup Grant and Loan Program.
  - Processed priority applications and awarded grants in the Tank Upgrade and Closure Grant Program.
  - Finalized FY 96 priority ranking lists for over 750 applications.
  - Streamlined process for FY 97 priority ranking, revised and distributed priority ranking questionnaires, and accepted and ranked over 820 applications for the Tank Cleanup Program and the Tank Upgrade and Closure Program.
  - Renewed reimbursable services agreement with the Department of Commerce and Economic Development, Division of Investments, to administer the loan portion of the Tank Cleanup Grant and Loan Program.
  - Contributed articles to the Alaska Underground, a quarterly newsletter published by the Department and distributed to over 1800 program participants.
  - Sent 579 invoices and collected UST registration fees totalling $293,540 during 1996.
  - Maintained a list of tank owners who have not paid tank registration fees and worked with the Attorney General's office to negotiate collection of delinquent registration fees and the associated late fees.

- Participated in quarterly Board of Storage Tank Assistance meetings, while providing information to the Board as requested and participating in appeal and grievance hearings.
- c. Activities unique to FY 96 for improving program efficiency:
- Developed and maintained a public service oriented Tank Homepage on the World Wide Web. The web site enables the public to access useful information about tanks including forms, qualified contractor lists, frequently asked program questions, and copies of the entire UST database and regulations.
  - Provided public outreach to local governments in Alaska who own USTs by sending them specific local government publications about how best to manage their tanks.
  - Coordinated with various state agencies and developed a capital budget to remove, replace, or upgrade 200 state-owned tanks that must comply with the looming 1998 deadline.
  - Developed strategy to extend prior year grants to June 30, 1997 for final close out. As part of this strategy, future funding requests will be made in the Capital Budget to allow sufficient time for project completion.
  - Assisted with development of new petroleum compound cleanup standards to provide for risk-based corrective action and allow for lower risk sites to be closed under acceptable risk conditions.
  - Worked with the Environmental Protection Agency to convert existing database information from the UST Data Management System (USTDMS) to a new Microsoft Access database developed by EPA. This will provide a more user friendly database for tracking and reporting UST information. Staff recently tested and verified the new UST Access database and will begin training during January 1997.
- Contracted for development of a financial assistance module on the new UST Access database. Data should be converted by December 31, 1996. The former financial assistance module from the USTDMS was greatly expanded to track additional financial assistance information and eliminate duplicate program information kept on various spreadsheet programs.
  - Sent compliance assistance letters to over 400 tank owners with tanks temporarily out of service longer than 12 months. Over half responded with additional information clarifying the status of these tanks to resolve the violations by either permanently closing tanks, submitting proper notifications of prior tank closures, or scheduling permanent closure of the tanks. Staff are working with the remaining tank owners to resolve the temporary out of service issues.
- D. Assistance Requested and Funded for FY 96
- As shown on Table 3 (page 6), not all funds authorized and encumbered for FY 93, FY 94, and FY 95 were expended by the end of the fiscal year. Encumbered FY 93, FY 94, and FY 95 appropriations were therefore extended to FY 96 for grants, loans and reimbursements from the Tank Cleanup Grant and Loan Program, and the Tank Upgrade and Closure Program.
- Over 750 applications, representing in excess of $37 million, were priority ranked for FY 96 in accordance with the regulatory criteria set out in 18 AAC 78. The initial priority ranking list was advertised by the Board of Storage Tank Assistance for a thirty day public comment period. After pertinent public testimony, the priority ranking lists were revised as of September 15, 1995.

As summarized on Table 4, below, $1.98 million was allocated for grants and loans by the Board of Storage Tank Assistance. Of this amount, $1.50 million was allocated to the Tank Cleanup Grant and Loan Program for continuation of ongoing projects. An additional $472.0 thousand was allocated to the Tank Upgrade and Closure Program; of this amount, $301.6 thousand was actually expended/encumbered for tank upgrades and $155.1 thousand for closures, with the difference remaining in the contingency reserve.

Based upon the amount of funds available for each program and the preliminary cost estimates submitted by the list of applicants, all 40 continuation cleanup applicants, the first 15 highest ranking closure applicants, and the first 5 highest ranking upgrades applicants were notified of their eligibility for financial assistance within 30 days after the close of the public comment period. Of all continuation cleanup applicants notified, only 26 required new funds for FY 96, for a total encumbered and expended of $1.70 million as of 6/30/96. Once the initial groups for closure and upgrade applicants received grant offers, as funds became available, the department then notified applicants further down the list of funding availability. As a result, the Tank Upgrade and Closure program funded a total of 28 applications for FY 96.

Appendix A lists all projects funded during FY 96 and is divided into grant activities by appropriations. Within each appropriation, the amount encumbered or expended per program during FY 96 is listed as well as specific activities paid for by grant funds. In accordance with the UST regulations, the remaining projects, which were denied financial assistance because of insufficient funding, were reranked with applications for FY 97. If they continue to fall below the cutoff for FY 97 funds they will continue to be reranked in future fiscal years, and will be processed at the earliest date money is available after higher ranked projects have been funded.

1. Tank Cleanup Program

As shown on Table 3 (page 6) and Appendix A, as of June 30, 1996, $4,050,734 in grants and $3,296 in loans had been expended or encumbered for the Tank Cleanup Program. Of this amount, $2,799,403 (44 grants) was from the prior year appropriations, while $1,251,332 (26 grants) was from the FY 96 appropriation, for a total of 70 cleanup grants administered during FY 96. However, the priority ranking list for FY 97 in Appendix C, shows that 240 cleanup applications still remain to be funded. Appendix A, pages 1, 2, and 3, shows the amount expended or encumbered for cleanup grants and the specific activities described in AS 46.03.410.(c)(3) for each site. Some facilities may be listed more than once since each grant received is listed separately. Cleanup grants generally paid for the costs of assessment, testing, and containment, and soil and water remediation. Grants for cleanup also exclude a portion of costs not payable which is equal to 10% of the total costs, up to a maximum of $25,000. The Department then offers the excluded amount to the grantee in the form of a loan.

2. Tank Upgrade and Closure Program

As of June 30, 1996, $871,933 had been expended or encumbered for upgrade and closure grants from the FY 96 and the prior year appropriations. Of this amount, $610,423 in upgrade grants--$301,606 from FY 96 appropriations and $308,817 from prior year funds--was expended or encumbered for 18 facilities (7 for FY 96 and 11 from prior years). As shown on Appendix A, forty facilities (21 for FY 96 and 19 from prior years) received closure grants totalling $261,509--$106,439 from prior year appropriations and $155,070 from FY 96 funds. As with cleanup requests, tank upgrade and closure applications not funded in FY96 were kept on file and priority ranked with applications for FY 97.

A detailed list of all owners and operators receiving grants for upgrade or closure which were encumbered or expended during FY 96 from the prior year appropriation appears on page 4 of Appendix A, while page 5 lists grants issued from the FY 96 appropriation for the Tank Upgrade and Closure Program.

IV. FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE FOR FY 97

As outlined in Table 5 (page 12), the Board of Storage Tank Assistance allocated $2.23 million for FY 97 grant activities; this amount consisted of the balance of the extended FY 96 funds ($264,895) and $1.97 million in FY 97 funds. Of this total, $1.59 million was allocated to the Tank Cleanup Grant and Loan Program and $637,323 was allocated to the Tank Upgrade and Closure Program. Within the tank cleanup program, funds are sufficient to continue cleanup efforts at those sites previously funded under the financial assistance program, and issue approximately six new cleanup grants.

Based on the maximum grant amount of $60,000 for tank upgrade projects and with the average cost for the previous year's tank closure grants at $9,000 for closure of 2 to 3 tanks at a facility, it is also estimated that 6 upgrade grants will be given along with 30 closure grants for FY 97.

To arrive at the list of facilities which were chosen to receive potential funds, all unfunded, eligible applications from the FY 96 priority ranking list were reranked with applications received for FY 97 funding--a list of over 820 applications. In order to rerank sites, it was necessary to have each applicant fill out a priority ranking questionnaire. Also, all applicants were encouraged to submit any new information they may have obtained about their sites which would influence their scores. In addition, sites were ranked separately for closure activities or upgrade activities, resulting in a priority list for each activity.

The applicants were ranked according to Article 5 of 18 AAC 78; new priority ranking lists were compiled, and the lists were public noticed prior to publishing to final lists. Appendix B shows the priority ranking list for the continuing cleanup projects for FY 97. Appendix C is the priority ranking list for new cleanup projects. Appendix D is the priority ranking list for tank upgrade projects and Appendix E is the priority ranking list for closure projects.

V. PROJECTED COSTS AND UNFUNDED REQUESTS

As shown below on Table 6, the amount of unfunded requests from all programs which will remain after FY 97 funds are utilized is 953 unfunded requests totaling $48.3 million.

In order to adequately address the total estimated costs for financial assistance requests, in addition to considering the projected financial assistance for FY

97 discussed previously in Section IV, it is necessary to summarize unfunded requests from three categories: (1) requests from prior years which were not funded due to inadequate funding; (2) new requests received by the June 30, 1996, deadline for FY 98 funding; and (3) projected costs to continue cleanup projects already funded by the program. (See Table 6)

A. Prior Unfunded Requests

A total of 749 applications submitted in previous years will remain unfunded after the FY 97 funds are used. Of this total, 234 are for cleanup, 184 for upgrades, and 331 for closures. In addition, 158 applications were made to the Reimbursement Program by the deadline on March 5, 1991 requesting $3,388,437 for cleanup, closure or upgrade activities occurring on or after December 22, 1988 and before September 5, 1990. As outlined below, these reimbursement requests will not be funded in the foreseeable future.

When making its annual allocation to the grant programs, the Board of Storage Tank Assistance is required to consider work completed under the Reimbursement Program as the lowest priority for reimbursement. By statute, the reimbursement program may be funded only when all eligible requests for funding in the other categories have been satisfied in a given fiscal year, and since requests for upgrade, closure, and cleanup grants have exceeded available amounts, no funds have yet been allocated to the reimbursement program. Appendix F lists the applicant's name, the facility name, and the amount requested from the Reimbursement Program.

B. FY 98 Applications

As explained previously, HB 513 extended the deadline to apply for upgrade and closure grants through December 30, 1994. In addition, HB 513 allowed an applicant on the upgrade and closure list additional time to apply for financial assistance for cleanup if the spill was reported by July 1, 1996 and if they can prove that the contamination was not reasonably obvious before December 22, 1993.

Appendix G includes a listing of the 19 cleanup applications totaling $2.39 million received for FY 98 priority ranking under the HB 513 extension.

C. Continuation of Cleanup Activities

Tank cleanups are funded according to a phased approach so that a number of cleanup projects will continue to require funding the following fiscal year. Currently, it is projected that 15 facilities will require continued funding for an estimated $1.36 million during FY 97 (Table 5.)

If funding levels remain insufficient to meet the demand described above, the Department will continue to fund the higher priority ranked projects while keeping unfunded requests on file until such time that funding becomes available.

VI. PROGRAM SUMMARY SINCE INCEPTION

From the inception of the Underground Storage Tank Financial Assistance Program on September 5, 1990, until December 31, 1996, $18.67 million in grants and $324.0 thousand in loans have been expended or encumbered to pay a portion of the costs of tank tightness testing, site assessment, cleanup, upgrade or closure. Of 1,990 applications received, 688 have already received funding and 51 are anticipated to be funded during FY 97. The remainder of applications are waiting or ineligible to receive funds.

Table 7 lists all activity for applications received for all programs since program inception through December 31, 1996. The number and dollar amount of applications received, applications funded in prior years, applications anticipated to be funded, and ineligible applications are summarized on the table. The largest amount of funds disbursed is $13.93 million for tank cleanup grants and loans, while the largest number of grants expended has been tank tightness testing or site assessment at 286 facilities.

Figures 1 and 2 are graphic representations of the data in Table 7.

Cleanup applications funded include $324,783 for loans issued since the program inception.

New FY 97 cleanup applications include 19 applications received after the deadline for FY 97 priority ranking and will be priority ranked for FY 98.

Labor and Commerce Committee

MEMORANDUM

TO: Senator Loren Leman, Chairman
Senate Labor & Commerce Committee

FROM: Representative Norman Rokeberg, Chairman
House Labor & Commerce Committee

DATE: February 17, 1998

SUBJECT: Hearing Request for HB 178 – Uniform Commercial Code: Letters of Credit

I would like to request a Senate Labor & Commerce hearing for HB 178, Uniform Commercial Code: Letters of Credit. The bill was introduced by the committee at the request of Alaska's Model Law Commissioners.

This bill makes changes to our law incorporating revisions that the National Conference of Commissioners identified as necessary to avoid litigation. HB 178 proposes to revise and bring up-to-date our statutes to reflect the changes in technology, language and commercial practices that have occurred since the original Uniform Commercial Code was enacted years ago. The proposed changes have been adopted by 49 other states and the District of Columbia.

Mr. Art Peterson of Juneau and Mr. Jerry Weaver, President of the Alaska Bankers Association have made themselves available to testify on this bill. Mr. Weaver can be reached at the National Bank of Alaska in Anchorage at 265-2960 and Mr. Peterson at 586-4000.

HB 178 had three hearings in House Labor & Commerce Committee and received no testimony opposing the changes. The Alaska Bankers Association is on record as supporting this legislation.

Attached is the backup information that was provided to our committee.

Thank you for your consideration.

MEMORANDUM

March 13, 1997

SUBJECT: Sectional summary of HB 178 relating to letters of credit (Work Order 20-LS0644\A)

TO: Representative Norman Rokeberg, Chair
House Labor and Commerce Committee
Attn: Shirley Armstrong

FROM: JB
Theresa Bannister
Legislative Counsel

You have requested a sectional summary of the above-described bill.

As a preliminary matter, note that a sectional summary of a bill should not be considered an authoritative interpretation of the bill. The introductory remarks and the other descriptions of the sections necessarily contain some generalizations and simplifications. As a result, please keep in mind that the bill itself is the best statement of its contents.

Basic description: definitions used in summary. In general, a letter of credit is an agreement by a bank or other person made at the request of a customer that the bank or other person will honor demands for payment (or a demand for delivery of an item of value) when the conditions in the letter of credit are met. As an example, a letter of credit may be used when a bank customer wants to buy some merchandise, but the manufacturer won't ship without assurance of payment. The bank issues a letter of credit and is the "issuer." The customer requesting the letter of credit is the "applicant." The manufacturer (or other person who will be paid) is the "beneficiary."

To obtain the payment or delivery, the beneficiary must present the required documents. This is referred to as a "presentation" of the documents or "presenting" the documents. When the bank pays or delivers the item to the manufacturer, the bank "honors" the letter of credit. If the bank doesn't pay or deliver upon presentation of the documents, the bank "dishonors" the letter of credit.

If the bank authorizes another person to make the payment or deliver under a letter of credit, that person is a "nominated person." If the nominated person also undertakes to honor a letter of credit, that person is a "confirmer."

An "adviser" is a person who notifies the beneficiary (or another "adviser" who will notify the beneficiary) that a letter of credit has been issued, confirmed, or amended.

This bill revises the rules that set up how letters of credit work and the relationships between all of the various parties involved.

Section 1. AS 09.30.070(b). Makes an amendment conforming this subsection to proposed AS 45.05.111(d). This bill section deals with interest on a court judgment and establishes when interest starts accruing before the judgment is handed down. Under AS 45.05.111(d), interest on money owed for a liability found under AS 45.05.111(a) - (c) starts when the letter of credit is wrongfully dishonored or on another appropriate date.

Section 2. AS 45.01.105(b). Makes an amendment conforming this subsection to the proposed AS 45.05 changes. AS 45.01.105 identifies which state or nation's law governs in certain cases involving more than one state or nation. The amendment states that AS 45.05.116 establishes what law governs for letters of credit.

Section 3. AS 45.02.512(a). Makes an amendment conforming this subsection to proposed AS 45.05.109(b). Excuses a buyer from making payment, even if the contract requires payment before inspection and the required documents are tendered, if the circumstances would justify an injunction under AS 45.05.109(b).

Section 4. AS 45.05.102. Defines the terms used in the revised chapter on letters of credit (AS 45.05). See the introductory comments to this memo for more simple definitions of the most important terms.

Section 5. AS 45.05.103. Defines the scope of AS 45.05.

AS 45.05.103(a). States that the chapter applies to letters of credit and transactions involving letters of credit.

AS 45.05.103(b). States that this chapter, by itself, does not govern how to treat another situation or person not covered by this chapter.

AS 45.05.103(c). States that you can change the provisions of this chapter by an agreement, except as provided by certain listed statutes. States that a general provision to excuse liability or limit remedies won't work to change the obligations imposed by this chapter.

AS 45.05.103(d). States that the rights and obligations of an issuer to a beneficiary, or to a nominated person, are independent of the contracts and arrangements underlying the letter of credit. In other words, the existence, performance, and nonperformance of the underlying contract or arrangement don't affect the rights and obligations under the letter of credit.

Includes under this subsection contracts between the issuer and the applicant and between the applicant and the beneficiary.

Section 6. AS 45.05.104. Sets out just what a letter of credit and certain related documents must consist of. They must be in a form that can provide a record and must be authenticated by a signature or authenticated as required under the parties' agreement or by the standard practice referred to in AS 45.05.108(e).

Section 7. AS 45.05.105. States that you don't need consideration (something of value to be received by a party) in order to issue, amend, transfer, or cancel a letter of credit, advice, or confirmation. Contracts usually require that each party receive something as consideration (not necessarily money or other property, but something of value to the party).

Section 8. AS 45.05.106(a). States that a letter of credit becomes enforceable against the issuer when the issuer sends it to the beneficiary or adviser. States that you can't revoke a letter of credit unless the letter says so.

AS 45.05.106(b). States that an amendment or cancellation of a letter of credit does not affect the rights and obligations of certain listed persons (e.g., beneficiary and applicant) unless they consent to the amendment or cancellation, or unless the letter of credit says it is revocable or that the issuer can amend or cancel it without the consent.

AS 45.05.106(c). States when a letter of credit expires if it does not state the date or does not have a provision that determines when it expires. The letter of credit expires one year after its stated date of issuance or, if not stated, one year after the date it is issued.

AS 45.05.106(d). States that a perpetual letter of credit expires five years after its stated date of issuance or, if not stated, five years after the date it is issued.

Section 9. AS 45.05.107(a). States that a confirmer is directly obligated on the letter of credit and has the rights and obligations of the issuer (as far as the letter of confirmation says it does). Also states that the confirmer has rights against, and obligations to, the issuer as if the issuer were the applicant and the confirmer had issued the letter of credit at the request of the issuer.

AS 45.05.107(b). States that a nominated person does not have to honor or give value when the necessary documents are presented to collect under a letter of credit, unless the person is also a confirmer.

AS 45.05.107(c). States that a person requested to advise may decline to act as an adviser. States that an adviser is not required to honor or give value when the necessary documents are presented to collect under a letter of credit, unless the adviser is also a confirmer. States that an adviser's job is to advise accurately about the terms of the letter of credit and related documents, and, with regard to the beneficiary, to check if the request to advise is authentic. States that a letter of credit, confirmation, or amendment is enforceable as issued even if the advice is not accurate.

Representative Norman Rokeberg

AS 45.05.107(d). States that a person who notifies a transferee beneficiary (a person to whom the beneficiary has transferred the beneficiary's interest under the letter of credit) about the terms of a letter of credit or related document has the rights and obligations of an adviser under (c) of this section. States that the terms of the notice to the transferee beneficiary and transferor beneficiary (the beneficiary who transferred the interest in the letter of credit) may be different, as allowed by the letter of credit or related document that is received by the person who notifies the transferee beneficiary.

Section 10. AS 45.05.108(a). Except as provided in the section on fraud and forgery, requires an issuer to honor a presentation that appears on its face to comply strictly with the letter of credit. The standard practice of financial institutions determines whether the presentation complies as required. Requires an issuer to dishonor a presentation that does not appear to comply, except as provided in AS 45.05.113 or otherwise agreed with the applicant.

AS 45.05.108(b). States that upon presentation an issuer has a reasonable time to perform certain acts. The reasonable time may not exceed seven business days after the day of receipt. These acts are to honor the presentation, to notify the presenter that there are problems, or, if the letter of credit provides for honor after seven business days after presentation, to accept a draft (check) or incur a deferred obligation.

AS 45.05.108(c). States that in two situations an issuer is prevented from asserting that a problem causes the issuer to dishonor the letter of credit. The first situation is when the issuer does not give timely notice of the problem. The second situation is if the issuer gives notice but the problem is not stated in the notice. This subsection is subject to the fraud, forgery, and expiration assertions under (d).

AS 45.05.108(d). States that an issuer can still assert that there has been fraud or forgery (under AS 45.05.109(a)) or that the letter of credit has expired before presentation in order to dishonor a presentation, even if the issuer failed to give the required notice or to mention the fraud, forgery, or expiration in the notice.

AS 45.05.108(e). Requires an issuer of a letter of credit to comply with the standard practice of financial institutions that regularly issue letters of credit when the issuer handles letters of credit. States that a court is the determiner of whether the issuer has complied with the standard practice. Directs a court to allow the parties to present evidence of what is the standard practice.

Representative Norman Rokeberg

AS 45.05.108(f). States what an issuer is not responsible for. An issuer is not responsible for the performance or nonperformance of the contract, arrangement, or transaction underlying the letter of credit. An issuer is not responsible for another person's acts or omissions. An issuer is not responsible for knowing the usage of a particular trade, except for the standard practice of financial institutions issuing letters of credit.

AS 45.05.108(g). Directs an issuer to ignore certain nondocumentary conditions contained in a letter of credit.

AS 45.05.108(h). Requires an issuer who does not honor a presentation under a letter of credit to return the documents presented, or to hold them for the presenter and notify the presenter.

AS 45.05.108(i). Establishes certain rights and limitations for an issuer when the issuer honors a presentation under a letter of credit. The issuer is entitled to be reimbursed by the applicant; the reimbursement must be made in funds that are available immediately to the issuer not later than the date of payment. The issuer takes the documents presented without any claims by the beneficiary or presenter. The issuer may not claim a right of recourse under AS 45.03.414 - 45.03.415 on a draft (check). Except as provided in two other sections, the issuer may not get the money or another valuable back if there was a mistake, if the mistake involves obvious problems in the documents or tender that are apparent on the face of the presentation. The issuer is discharged unless a required signature of the beneficiary was forged.

Section 11. AS 45.05.109(a). Gives an issuer directions on what to do if presentation documents appear to meet the requirements of the letter of credit, but a document is either forged or materially fraudulent, and honoring the documents would result in a material fraud by the beneficiary on the issuer or applicant.

Directs the issuer to honor the presentation of the documents if honor is demanded by certain persons under certain circumstances. The first is a nominated person that has given value in good faith and without notice of the forgery of fraud. The second is a confirmer that has honored its confirmation in good faith. The third is a holder in due course of a draft (check) that was drawn up under the letter of credit and taken by the holder in due course after acceptance by the issuer or nominated person. The fourth is the person who has had the issuer's or nominated person's deferred (doesn't have to be paid immediately) obligation transferred (assigned) to the person, if before the obligation was incurred by the issuer or nominated person, the person gave value to get the assignment and did not have notice of the forgery or fraud.

Allows the issuer to honor or dishonor the request for payment if the issuer acts in good faith and if the situation does not fall under categories (1) - (4) above.

AS 45.05.109(b). Authorizes a court to enjoin an issuer from honoring a request for payment (or grant similar relief against the issuer or other persons) when an applicant claims forgery or fraud, but only if four listed conditions are met. The first is that the relief must not be prohibited under the law governing drafts that have been accepted by the issuer, or governing a deferred obligation incurred by the issuer. The second is that a beneficiary, issuer, or nominated person who may be adversely affected must be adequately protected against loss resulting from the court giving the relief. The third is that all of the conditions for obtaining the court relief in this state must be satisfied. The fourth is that applicant is likely to succeed on the claim of forgery or fraud and the person demanding that the presentation be honored does not qualify for protection under (a)(1).

Section 12. AS 45.05.110(a). Establishes certain things that the beneficiary warrants when the presentation is honored. The beneficiary warrants to the issuer, to another person to whom the presentation is made, and to the applicant that there is no fraud or forgery as those terms are described in AS 45.05.109(a). The beneficiary warrants to the applicant that the payment (or transfer of value) does not violate an agreement between the beneficiary and the applicant or another agreement connected to the letter of credit.

AS 45.05.110(b). States that the warranties in (a) are in addition to other warranties under AS 45.03 (UCC: negotiable instruments), AS 45.04 (UCC: bank deposits and collections), AS 45.07 (UCC: warehouse receipts, bills of lading, and other documents of title), and AS 45.08 (UCC: investment securities) that are related to the presentation or transfer of the documents.

Section 13. AS 45.05.111(a). Allows a beneficiary, successor beneficiary, or a nominated person to recover from the issuer of a letter of credit the amount in dispute if the issuer wrongfully dishonors or states that the issuer will not honor its obligation. If the issuer's obligation is not to pay money, this subsection allows the claimant to make the issuer perform what the issuer was supposed to perform, or, if the claimant elects, to recover an amount of money that equals the value of the performance. Allows the claimant to also recover damages that flow directly and immediately from the dishonor but not more remote damages. States that the claimant does not have to take action to avoid the damages that might result. However, reduces the awarded damages to the extent the claimant does avoid the damages. Requires the issuer to prove the amount of the damages that the claimant avoided. If the claim is based on the issuer repudiating the obligation before presentation of the documents, states that the claimant does not have to present the documents normally required to require the issuer to pay or deliver the value required.

AS 45.05.111(b). Allows the applicant to recover damages from the issuer if the issuer wrongfully dishonors a draft or demand presented under a letter of credit, or if the issuer wrongfully honors a draft or demand under the letter of credit. Allows the claimant to recover damages that flow directly and immediately from the wrongful act, but not the more remote "consequential" damages. Reduces the amount of awarded damages by any amount saved due to the wrongful act.

AS 45.05.111(c). Allows a person to recover from an adviser or nominated person, other than a confirmer, the person's damages resulting from the adviser's or nominated person's breach of an obligation under this chapter or from an issuer's breach of an obligation not covered by (a) or (b). Allows the person to recover only damages that flow directly and immediately from the breach, but not the more remote consequential damages, less any amount the person saves due to the breach. States that a confirmer has the liability of an issuer under (a), (b), and this subsection, to the extent of the confirmation.

AS 45.05.111(d). States that an issuer, a nominated person, or an adviser who is liable under (a) - (c) must pay interest on the amount owed from the date of the wrongful dishonor, or from another appropriate date.

AS 45.05.111(e). Directs the court to award attorney fees and costs to the party who wins a court action for a remedy under this chapter.

AS 45.05.111(f). Allows parties to establish ahead of time by agreement the amount of damages that would result from a breach of an obligation under this chapter. However, the amount or formula for calculating the amount must be reasonable.

Section 14. AS 45.05.112(a). Prohibits transferring the right of a beneficiary to payment or performance under a letter of credit, except when the transfer occurs by operation of law as provided under AS 45.05.113, or unless the letter of credit says the right is transferable.

AS 45.05.112(b). Allows in two circumstances an issuer to refuse to carry out or recognize a transfer, even if allowed under the letter of credit. The first circumstance is that the transfer would violate the law that applies to the situation. The second circumstance is that the transferor or the transferee has failed to comply with the letter of credit, or with another requirement that relates to the transfer, and that is within the standard practice of financial institutions regularly dealing with letters of credit or that is otherwise reasonable under the circumstances.

Section 15. AS 45.05.113(a). Allows a person who succeeds another person as the beneficiary under a letter of credit to perform certain listed acts without having to disclose that it is a successor of the beneficiary. The successor may consent to amendments. The successor may sign and present documents. The successor may receive payment or other items of value in the name of the beneficiary.

AS 45.05.113(b). Allows the successor of a beneficiary to perform certain listed acts in its own name as the disclosed successor to the beneficiary. The disclosed successor may consent to amendments. The disclosed successor may sign and present documents. The disclosed successor may receive payment or other items of value. Except as provided by (e), directs an issuer to recognize a person who is disclosed to be a successor beneficiary as a full beneficiary if the successor beneficiary complies with the standard practice for financial institutions regularly dealing in letters of credit, or, in the absence of the standard practice, with other reasonable procedures that will protect the issuer.

AS 45.05.113(c). States that an issuer does not need to determine whether a person alleging to be a successor beneficiary is actually such a beneficiary or whether the purported successor's signature is genuine or authorized.

AS 45.05.113(d) States that honoring a purported successor's presentation under (a) or (b) that appears to be in compliance has the consequences identified in AS 45.05.108(i) even if the person is not really the successor of the beneficiary. States that documents signed in the name of the beneficiary or a disclosed successor by a person who is not really the beneficiary or the successor beneficiary are considered to be forged documents when applying AS 45.05.109.

AS 45.05.113(e). Allows an issuer (if the issuer's rights of reimbursement are not covered by (d) or by similar law), any confirmer, and any nominated person to decline a presentation as provided in (b).

AS 45.05.113(f). States that if a beneficiary changes its name after a letter of credit is issued, the beneficiary has the same rights and obligations as a successor beneficiary under this section.

Section 16. AS 45.05.114(a) Allows a beneficiary to assign (transfer to another person) its right to the proceeds of a letter of credit. Allows the beneficiary to do this before presentation, by assigning the right to receive proceeds when the conditions are satisfied in the letter of credit.

AS 45.05.114(b). Allows the issuer or nominated person to refuse to recognize an assignment of the proceeds of a letter of credit until the issuer or nominated person agrees to the assignment.

AS 45.05.114(c). States that an issuer or nominated person is not required to give or withhold its consent to an assignment (transfer to another person) of the proceeds of a letter of credit. Prohibits the issuer or nominated person from withholding the consent unreasonably if the assignee has and shows the letter of credit and if presentation of the letter of credit is required before honor.

AS 45.05.114(d). States that the rights of a transferee beneficiary (a subsequent beneficiary to whom a beneficiary's rights have been transferred) or of a nominated person do not depend on the beneficiary's assignment (transfer) of the proceeds of a letter of credit and are superior to the assignee's right to the proceeds.

AS 45.05.114(e). States that the rights under this section between an assignee and an issuer, a transferee beneficiary, or a nominated person, and the issuer's or nominated person's payment of proceeds to an assignee or a third person, do not affect the rights between the assignee and a person other than the issuer, transferee beneficiary, or nominated person. States that the creation and perfecting (making effective) of a security interest (an interest taken to secure a payment) in (or granting) a beneficiary's rights to proceeds, and assignment of (transferring) those rights, are governed by AS 45.09 (UCC: secured transactions) or other law. States that the rights and obligations arising on the creation and perfection of a security interest or arising on another assignment (transfer) of a beneficiary's rights to proceeds, are governed by AS 45.09 or other law, as against a person other than the issuer, transferee beneficiary, or nominated person.

AS 45.05.114(f). Defines "proceeds of a letter of credit" for the section.

Section 17. AS 45.05.115. Limits how long a person has to bring an action in court to enforce a right or obligation under this chapter. Limits the time to the later of (1) one year after the expiration date of the letter of credit, or (2) one year after the basis for the action occurs. States that a basis for the action arises when there is a breach (of an obligation) under this chapter, even if the injured party does not know about the breach.

Section 18. AS 45.05.116(a). States that the liability of an issuer, a nominated person, or an adviser is governed by the jurisdiction that the parties choose by agreement if the agreement is in the form of a record signed or otherwise shown to be authentic by the parties under AS 45.05.104 or by a provision in the letter of credit, confirmation, or other undertaking. States that the selected jurisdiction is not required to be related to the transaction involved.

AS 45.05.116(b). States which jurisdiction governs the liability of certain listed persons for their acts or failure to act, unless (a) applies. States that the jurisdiction is the jurisdiction where the person is located. Considers the person to be located at the address stated in the person's promise. States that if more than one address is indicated, the person is considered to be located at the address from which the promise of the person was issued. When dealing with jurisdiction, selection of whose law to apply, and recognition of letters of credit between bank branches, but not a court judgment, the branches of a bank are considered to be separate judicial entities, and a bank is considered to be located where the bank's branch that is related to the matter is considered to be located under this subsection.

AS 45.05.116(c). States that, except as provided otherwise in this subsection, the liability of certain listed persons is governed by rules of custom or practice that the parties expressly select for the letter of credit or confirmation, or undertaking. Gives as an example the Uniform Customs and Practice for Documentary Credits. States that if both this chapter and the rules of custom or practice apply to the liability, the rules govern, unless they conflict with a provision of this chapter that cannot be changed (see AS 45.05.103(c)).

AS 45.05.116(d). States that this chapter governs if a conflict occurs between this chapter and AS 45.03 (UCC: negotiable instruments), AS 45.04 (UCC: bank deposits and collections), AS 45.09 (UCC: secured transactions), and AS 45.14 (UCC: funds transfers).

AS 45.05.116(e). States that the location for settling disputes under this chapter may be chosen in the same manner as the governing law is chosen under (a), and that the selection has the same binding effect.

Section 19. AS 45.05.117(a). States that an issuer who honors a letter of credit is subrogated to the rights of (is substituted for and can claim the rights of) certain listed persons. The first person is the beneficiary, and the substitution is the same as if the issuer were a back-up debtor on the underlying obligation owed to the beneficiary. The second person is the person who requested the issuer to issue a letter of credit and the subrogation is to the same extent as if the issuer were the back-up debtor on the obligation owed to the applicant.

AS 45.05.117(b). States that an applicant that reimburses an issuer is subrogated to the rights of (is substituted for and can claim the rights of) certain listed persons. The subrogation is to the same extent as if the applicant were the secondary debtor on the obligation owed to the issuer, and the applicant has the subrogation rights of the issuer to the rights of the beneficiary stated in (a).

AS 45.05.117(c). States that a nominated person who pays or gives value against a draft (check) or demand presented under a letter of credit is subrogated to the rights of (is substituted for and can claim the rights of) certain listed parties.

AS 45.05.117(d). States that the right of subrogation in (a) and (b) don't arise until the issuer honors the letter of credit or otherwise pays under the letter of credit. States that the rights of subrogation in (c) don't arise until the nominated person pays or otherwise gives value under the letter of credit. These provisions apply even if there is an agreement that states otherwise. Until the events occur, the persons do not obtain under this section any present or future rights that would form the basis for a claim, defense, or excuse.

Section 20. AS 45.09.103(a). This amendment adds "rights to proceeds of written letters of credit" to the items that are covered by this section. The section deals with determining which jurisdiction's law applies when perfecting (making effective) secured transactions (agreements where one party transfers an interest in property to secure a contract).

Section 21. AS 45.09.104. States that AS 45.09 (UCC: secured transactions) does not apply to the transfer of an interest in a letter of credit, except for the rights to proceeds of a written letter of credit.

Section 22. AS 45.09.105(c). Adds two definitions to the definitions that apply in AS 45.09 (UCC: secured transactions): "letter of credit" and "proceeds of a letter of credit."

Section 23. AS 45.09.106. Adds "rights to proceeds of written letters of credit" to the definition of "general intangibles" that is used in AS 45.09 (UCC: secured transactions).

Section 24. AS 45.09.304(a). States that to perfect (make effective) a security interest (interest given to a person to secure performance of a contract) in the rights to proceeds of a written letter of credit, the party that is secured must take possession of the letter of credit.

Section 25. AS 45.09.305. Allows a person to obtain an interest that secures performance of an obligation in the "rights to proceeds of a written letter of credit" by taking possession of the letter of credit.

Section 26. Subsection (a) states that this Act applies to a letter of credit that is issued on or after the effective date of this Act. States that this Act does not apply to a transaction, event, obligation, or duty that is associated with a letter of credit issued before the effective date of this Act.

Subsection (b) states that a transaction associated with a letter of credit issued before the effective date of this Act, and the accompanying rights, obligations, and interests are governed by current law as if this Act had not occurred.

Section 27. Makes the Act effective January 1, 1998.

Re: HB 178, Uniform Commercial Code, Revision of Article 5 (Letters of Credit)

Dear Senator Leman:

I understand that HB 178 has been referred to your committee, and I urge you to schedule an early hearing on it.

This bill presents the revision of Article 5 of the Uniform Commercial Code (UCC) promulgated by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws (NCCUSL), the same body that produced the entire UCC a few decades ago.

The basic purpose of this revision is to update the law governing the $200 billion U.S. letter-of-credit industry. All 50 states and Puerto Rico, Guam, and the District of Columbia have adopted the UCC, including Article 5. It is now necessary for Article 5 to be revised, to recognize changes in technology and in commercial practices, so as to avoid litigation over the increasing number of issues that are no longer adequately dealt with in the decades-old current law. One of the main features of this revision is the simplification of Article 5. Another is its express recognition of the Uniform Customs and Practices for Documentary Credits, a body of material that is used in connection with most international letters of credit. The revised article continues to provide rules that can be waived or modified by agreement between the parties.

As the NCCUSL points out, since the 1950's, when this article was originally promulgated, "the practices and technologies employed with letters of credit have changed substantially, including the use of electronic and computer technology. Litigation has increased as the volume of credits and the uncertainties of the law have stimulated controversies."

Senator Loren Leman

It is anticipated that all jurisdictions will soon enact this revision of Article 5. Alaska will be at a severe disadvantage if its law does not keep pace with this development.

I would be happy to provide any additional information that you may need. However, in Alaska's uniform laws delegation, Commissioner Jerry Kurtz is the one with the most expertise in this area. He can be reached in Anchorage at 276-6100.

Thank you for considering this bill. I strongly urge a "Do Pass" recommendation from your committee.

Yours truly,

Arthur H. Peterson

Re: HB 178 An Act Relating to Letters of Credit
under the Uniform Commercial Code

Dear Vice Chairman Rokeberg:

Please consider this letter support by the Alaska Bankers Association for House Bill 178, an Act to revise the Uniform Commercial Code relating to Letters of Credit. Our Lending Officers and International Banking Officers have reviewed this bill and discussed it with representatives of the NCCUSL and we believe the proposed changes contained in HB178 are satisfactory. The UCC governing Letters of Credit has worked well for many years, however, we believe these uniform changes will clarify and improve existing law.

Conversely, we are opposed to the proposed Amendments to HB178 that were made April 25, 1997. We do not believe these proposed changes from the NCCUSL recommended uniform draft would improve Letter of Credit transactions.

The Alaska Bankers Association represents all of the commercial, savings and mutual banks of Alaska. Please feel free to call Jerry Weaver, Secretary on (907) 265-2920 if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Soderberg
President

Re: House Bill 178 An Act Relating to Letters of Credits and its Proposed Amendments under the Uniform Commercial Code

Dear Vice Chairman Rokeberg:

Please consider this letter support by National Bank of Alaska for House Bill 178 an Act to revise the Uniform Commercial Code relating to Letters of Credits. We believe that the current UCC's governing Letters of Credits has worked well for many years and that these changes will clarify and improve the existing law.

WE OPPOSE the Proposed Amendments to HB178 dated April 25, 1997 and May 02, 1997. HB178 revision to UCC does coincide with the UCP 500, International Chamber of Commerce Uniform Customs and Practice for Letters of Credit operations. However, the proposed amendments deviates from the Uniform Customs and Practice and would cause confusion.

We do not believe that the Proposed Amendments will improve Letter of Credit transactions for banks, but would rather cause more concern. One of our concerns is that not enough time is given to the Issuers to review documents; authenticating the issuance of Letters of Credits; Letters of Credits should only be assigned outside of the Letter of Credit transactions (for the sake of uniformity, we use "transferable" rather than other words such as "assignable"); if there are discrepancies, how is an impartial third party defined; and it is confusing that the proposed amendment mingles Letters of Credits with Pawnbroker Loans.

To conclude, we recommend that House Bill 178 as presented by the Uniform Commercial Code Commission be approved and the Proposed Amendments be rejected.

Should you have any questions or need further clarification, please contact Ms. Melody Little at (907) 265-2938, or myself at (907) 265-2788.

UCC ARTICLE 5 – LETTERS OF CREDIT

WHAT: Modernizes and clarifies our country's principal law dealing with letters of credit.

WHY: Our present law was drafted almost 40 years ago. It is outmoded and no longer reflects commercial practice.

New legal issues have developed which are resolved by the new law.

Revised Article 5 also conforms our law with international law and practice, which facilitates international trade.

Finally, the use of letters of credit has expanded enormously in the past decade or two. They are now used in many large domestic commercial transactions.

WHEN: Now.

Revised Article 5 has been approved by the American Law Institute and the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws.

American Bar Association approval is anticipated in due course.

The final text of revised Article 5 is available now.

HOW: Introduction is anticipated this year or next year in about 20 states, including major money center states such as New York, California and Illinois.

States which do not adopt revised Article 5 will find themselves behind the rest of the country and the rest of the world.

WHO: Drafted with the active participation of advisors from national and international businesses, banks, bar associations and government agencies.

Professor James J. White, co-author of the White & Summers treatise on the Uniform Commercial Code, was the reporter.

WHY STATES SHOULD ADOPT UCC ARTICLE 5 – LETTERS OF CREDIT

The revision to Article 5 of the Uniform Commercial Code -- Letters of Credit -- updates the law governing the $200 billion U.S. letter of credit industry. Banks, and occasionally other persons, issue letters of credit to better assure payment to a third party by a customer up to a stated amount, for a stated period of time. Half of all exports outside the U.S. are financed by letters of credit.

Since the 1950s when this article was originally promulgated, the practices and technologies employed with letters of credit have changed substantially, including the use of electronic and computer technology. Litigation has increased as the volume of credits and the uncertainties of the law have stimulated controversies. Thus revision to UCC5 is both appropriate and timely.

There are a number of reasons why every state should adopt revised UCC Article 5:

- ▶ LETTERS OF CREDIT ARE IMPORTANT – Letters of credit are very important in international trade. It has become a common method of guaranteeing and obtaining payment. The use of letters of credit has increased in recent years as foreign trade has expanded and increased. The law which regulates letters of credit – UCC Article 5 -- is obviously an important component to expansion of foreign trade.
- ▶ UCC5 RECOGNIZES THE UCP 500 – UCC5 recognizes the Uniform Customs and Practices for Documentary Credits (UCP 500), which is used in most international letters of credit. The UCP 500 was promulgated by the International Chamber of Commerce and provides operational rules and standards that have international acceptance.
- ▶ STANDARDS OF PRACTICE ARE RECOGNIZED – Revised UCC5 specifically includes the most commonly used standards of practice. The revision coordinates with current standards of practice by including: deferred payment obligations, reasonable time to examine documents, preclusion, and the return of documents.

UNIFORM COMMERCIAL CODE
REVISED ARTICLE 5. LETTERS OF CREDIT

- A S U M M A R Y -

A "letter of credit" is an instrument that participates in the payment system along with drafts, checks, electronic fund transfers, and money. But it expresses a unique creditor-debtor relationship that distinguishes it from the other methods of payment that are codified under the Uniform Commercial Code, and has distinct uses in the extension of credit not shared with other kinds of payment. It is specifically defined in Revised Article 5 as an undertaking by an "issuer" of the credit to a "beneficiary," the individual who gets paid, on behalf of an "applicant," the individual to whom credit is extended by the "issuer." As defined, payment requires the presentation of a document, usually a draft on behalf of the beneficiary to the issuer.

Commonly, the issuer is (but not necessarily) a bank or similar financial institution. Commonly, the applicant is a customer of that bank, and the beneficiary is somebody with whom the applicant is doing business and who wants assurance that he or she will be paid.

A typical example of a letter of credit involves an American company intending to buy goods from a European manufacturer. The European manufacturer is willing to do business providing that it has assurances of payment for the goods that are to be purchased. The American company applies to its bank, with which it has accounts and lines of credit, for a letter of credit. The bank issues a document that is in actual letter form. In that letter it guarantees to the manufacturer that it will pay money up to a certain amount, upon receipt of an appropriate document, usually a draft, on behalf of the manufacturer. The letter contains any other documentary conditions agreed upon.

The applicant then takes the letter to the manufacturer while negotiating the purchase of the goods. The letter provides guarantee of payment, facilitating the transaction. At the appropriate time in the transaction, the manufacturer is paid upon presentation of the draft to the bank. Then the bank debits the appropriate account of the American company or establishes whatever creditor-debtor relationship is contemplated between it and the American company. Ultimately the bank is paid.

But Revised Article 5 leaves larger room for the evolution of business practices. Revised Article 5 does not change this basic orientation of the original drafters, except it considerably simplifies the rules.

For example, original Article 5 has rules for "notation credits" which are defined as credits that are payable only upon a notation of the amount of the payment on the actual letter. Honor of the draft or demand for payment requires the notation. This concept is not continued in Revised Article 5. It is one of those formal requirements with legal effect that results in dishonor of otherwise perfectly presented drafts or documents, impeding legitimate transactions.

Original Article 5 permits beneficiaries to use portions of a credit unless otherwise specified. Revised Article 5 simply leaves the issue to existing standards of practice. This is another example of simplification in the Revised Article 5

The primary reason for such simplifications is the specific inclusion of standards of practice in Revised Article 5. It provides that "An issuer shall observe standard practice of financial institutions that regularly issue letters of credit. Determination of the issuer's observance of that standard practice is a matter of interpretation for the court." The original Article 5 assumes that standards of practice are assumable as a matter of contract between the parties to a letter of credit. In Revised Article 5, the standards apply unless the contract otherwise specifies.

Standards of practice for letters of credit are very well formalized. First and foremost are the Uniform Customs and Practices for Documentary Credits (UCP), I.C.C. Publication No. 500, which are promulgated by the International Chamber of Commerce. The UCP is updated on a decadal basis, and is much relied upon in international trade as a common language of letter of credit transactions. The simplification in revised Article 5 suggests a clear recognition of the UCP as the source for many of the formal requirements and details of letters of credit. This permits business practices to govern the evolution of letters of credit within the aforementioned basic framework that Article 5 intends to provide.

Since almost the entirety of Article 5 in revised or original form is variable by agreement, specific provisions of the UCP may also become part of the agreement between the parties, or its provisions may be waived by agreement as well. Between the expanded reliance upon existing standards of business practices as a default rule in Revised Article 5 and the ordinary ability to vary the default rules in Revised Article 5, people and institutions are given maximum flexibility in the tailoring of their relationships under letters of credit.

The standard of practice provision in Revised Article 5 is undoubtedly the most significant part of these revisions. There are some other significant changes, however.

In original Article 5, the injured party can obtain the amount of the dishonored document plus incidental damages less the amount realized on the underlying transaction. If goods or documents of value as a result of the transaction are not sold to cover the losses, the issuer is entitled to them upon payment of judgment.

In Revised Article 5, the beneficiary or appropriate nominee is entitled to "the amount that is the subject of the dishonor or repudiation." If the obligation is not for payment of money, the injured party may have specific performance in lieu of damages, at the option of the injured person. Incidental damages are allowed, but not consequential damages. There is no obligation to cover the losses. If there is cover, the savings must be deducted from the recovered damages.

The applicant has a remedy for damages "resulting from breach," including incidental but not consequential damages. A breach by a confirmer or advisor gives rise to actual damages plus incidentals. Interest is due for any damages from the date of breach or dishonor. The prevailing party has a right to attorney's fees. There is a specific authority for prior agreement to liquidate damages. These provisions vastly improve and make more specific, the remedies available under Article 5.

A subject not specifically addressed in original Article 5 is the subject of subrogation of one party to another party to a letter of credit, upon payment of the other party's obligations. Subrogation rights are available by contract under original Article 5. The courts have not agreed upon their availability otherwise, giving rise to confusion in the law.

Revised Article 5 provides specific rules. For example, if the issuer pays the beneficiary, the issuer is subrogated to the rights of the beneficiary and the applicant to the same extent as if the issuer were a secondary obligor of the underlying obligation. Subrogation rights do not arise until there has been an actual payment to the party whose rights are subrogated.

Subrogation puts the person with the subrogation right in the shoes of the person who benefitted by the payment that triggers the subrogation right. Subrogation rights balance equities between parties in complex transactions like letters of credit. Revised Article 5 solves the judicial quandary under original Article 5 as to whether automatic rights of subrogation exist.

It is not possible to list entirely in a short summary all of the problems under original Article 5 that are solved in Revised Article 5. For example, it was not clear under original Article 5 whether a letter of credit had to be a documentary letter of credit. It is not entirely clear under original Article 5 that a letter of credit is different from a guarantee. Revised Article 5 erases these ambiguities.

A Few Facts About
UCC ARTICLE 5 – LETTERS OF CREDIT

PURPOSE: Letters of Credit are used to obtain payment as a backup to other kinds of credit extension; they are very important in international trade. In the revisions there is explicit recognition of standards of practice, so that standards such as the Uniform Customs and Practices for Documentary Credits can govern many of the particulars of letters of credit. Prior ambiguities with the concept of fraud in the transaction are clarified. Damages for a dishonored or repudiated letter of credit are limited to amount of the document plus incidental damages. Consequential damages are not permitted. Cover is not required to obtain damages. There are clear subrogation rights for any party who pays on a letter on behalf of another. Article 5 becomes much simpler and less detailed because of the explicit reliance upon standards of practice. Article 5 continues to provide rules that can be waived or modified by agreement between the parties.

ORIGIN: Completed by the Uniform Law Commissioners, in conjunction with the American Law Institute, in 1995.

House Bill 199

Sponsor Statement

This Sponsor statement provides a summary of the income tax advantage of community property and a short overview of the Community Property bill. The bill is designed, among other things, to allow married Alaskans to obtain the income tax advantage available to residents of community property states and to produce business in Alaska.

Income tax advantage of community property

A person who owns assets with his or her spouse as community property in one of the nine community property states (Louisiana, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, California, Nevada, Washington, Idaho, and Wisconsin) has a major income tax advantage over a married person who owns assets with his or her spouse but that are not community property. This advantage results from the incongruous operation of the step-up in basis rule. This rule is one of the few, if only, income tax advantages that a person's estate receives upon his or her death.

The best way to explain the step-up in basis rule is to start with an example of a single person in Alaska on her death bed who twenty years ago paid $10,000 for a homestead that is presently worth $110,000. If the person sold the homestead before she died, she would realize a long-term capital gain of $100,000. The gain would be subject to a maximum capital gains tax of 28%, or $28,000. On the other hand, if the person decided not to sell the homestead and died the next day, the $100,000 profit would be forgiven. This means that her heirs could sell the homestead for $110,000 and pay no income taxes! This is because the original cost basis of $10,000 is "stepped-up" to $110,000, the fair market value of the homestead at death. If the homestead is sold for $110,000 with its new basis of $110,000, there is no gain and no income taxes will be owed.

The step-up in basis rule gets more complicated when a married couple is involved. If we assume that a married couple in Alaska bought the homestead twenty years ago for $10,000 and held title as husband and wife, then each would own one-half of the homestead. If the husband was on his death bed and the couple sold the homestead before the husband died for its current fair market value of $110,000, the couple would realize a $100,000 long-term capital gain just like the single person did. However, if the husband died and the wife inherited his half of the homestead and then sold it, she would only realize only a $50,000 long-term capital gain. This is because the profit in the husband's half of the homestead would be forgiven by the step-up in basis rule. The husband's half of the homestead would get a "step-up" in basis to $55,000. When the husband's half was sold for $55,000 there would be no gain. However, the wife would have a gain on the sale of her half of the homestead. Her half of the homestead would have a basis of $5,000 (one-half of the original cost basis of $10,000). When this half was sold for $55,000, the wife would realize a $50,000 long-term capital gain and would pay a maximum of $14,000 of income taxes (28% of $50,000).

If, on the other hand, the couple lived in a community property state like Washington, the income tax savings would be even greater. If the homestead was community property under Washington law, for example, the wife would get a step-up in basis in both halves of the homestead to $110,000. After her husband's death when she sold the homestead for $110,000 she would pay no income taxes! In contrast, in the prior example of the married couple in Alaska who owned the homestead that was not community property, the wife who sold the homestead after her husband died would pay $14,000 of income taxes. In this way the income tax laws favor spouses in community property states who own assets as community property over spouses in non-community property states like Alaska who as a general rule cannot own assets as community property.

Overview of HB 199

This bill will allow married Alaskans to execute a written agreement to recharacterize their assets as community property. Unlike other states which have a community property form of ownership for married persons, Alaskans would have their assets treated as community property only to the extent they execute a written agreement and elect into a community property system under Alaska law. In contrast, community property states mandate the married couple's assets to be community property unless the spouses elect out.

The bill not only allows Alaskan couples to enter into an agreement to have some or all of their assets treated as community property, but it also permits married persons who do not reside in Alaska to have their assets treated as community property under Alaska law by executing an Alaskan Community Property Trust. Such a trust must have an Alaskan trustee. It is anticipated that many married persons who reside outside of Alaska will wish to label a portion, or all, of their assets as community property because they believe that it is a more appropriate method of owning their assets and they wish to obtain the income tax advantages which are available to community property upon the death of the first spouse.

Some believe that community property represents a more fair and rational system of sharing the ownership of property during marriage because it essentially treats the marriage like a partnership; as assets are earned during the marriage, they are treated as owned 50/50 by the two partners (the husband and wife). Others believe community property is not a fair or rational system. Regardless of one's beliefs, it seems appropriate to allow Alaskans, and residents of other states, the freedom to choose the arrangement that is most appropriate for them.

It should be emphasized that no asset would be labeled as community property under the bill. Rather, the bill merely authorizes married persons to execute a written agreement or trust in which they expressly elect to treat some or all of their assets as community property under Alaska law.

MEMORANDUM

March 25, 1997

SUBJECT: Sectional Summary of HB 199, the "community property" bill (Work Order No. 20-LS0522 E)

TO: Representative Joe Ryan
Attn: David Pree

FROM: Theresa Bannister
Legislative Counsel

You have requested a sectional summary of the above-described bill. As a preliminary matter, note that a sectional summary of a bill should not be considered an authoritative interpretation of the bill. The descriptions of the sections necessarily contain some generalizations and simplifications. As a result, please keep in mind that the bill itself is the best statement of its contents.

Section 1. States that community property under the new chapter (AS 34.75) is not included in the augmented estate. "Augmented estate" is a term used in the state's Uniform Probate Code to refer to the pot of property from which a surviving spouse can elect to take a one-third share; the property in the estate is "augmented" by adding to it certain other property transferred to others by the decedent.

Section 2. Makes an amendment to AS 25.15.010 to show that its provisions are subject to the new community property chapter (AS 34.75).

Section 3. Makes an amendment to AS 25.15.020 to show that the section is subject to the new community property chapter (AS 34.75).

Section 4. Makes an amendment to AS 25.15.050 to show that the provisions of the section are subject to the new community property chapter (AS 34.75).

Section 5. Makes an amendment to AS 25.15.060 to show that the provisions of the section are subject to the new community property chapter (AS 34.75).

Section 6. Adds a subsection to AS 25.24.160 (dealing with court judgments in divorce actions). The new subsection directs the court to distribute the parties' property under AS 34.75 according to their community property agreement or community property trust under AS 34.75, if they have one. Directs the court to award one-half of the value of the community property to each party, unless the parties have agreed otherwise in the community property agreement or trust.

Section 7. Amends AS 25.24.200(a) (relating to dissolution of marriages) to include community property under AS 34.75.

Section 8. Amends AS 25.24.310(b) (relating to the payment of attorney fees, costs, and other disbursements in a child custody, support, and visitation matters) to include community property in the property that can be used to pay for a minor's legal representation or for other services.

Section 9. Amends AS 34.15.110 to make its provisions subject to the section in the new community property chapter, AS 34.75, that addresses how spouses can hold property. (The citation should be corrected to read "AS 34.75.110" in both places.)

Section 10. makes an amendment to AS 34.15.130. States that the conclusion that persons are tenants in common if they have an undivided interest in real property is subject to the provisions of the section in the new chapter, AS 34.75, that addresses how spouses can hold property. (The citation should be corrected to read "AS 34.75.110.")

Section 11. Adds a new chapter related to the property of spouses.

AS 34.75.010. Requires spouses to act in good faith towards each other if the matter involves community property. Prohibits changing this obligation in a community property agreement or trust.

AS 34.75.020. Allows a community property agreement or trust to change this chapter's effect, except for certain listed provisions.

AS 34.75.030. Limits the classification of property as community property to what the spouses say in a community property agreement or trust, except where this chapter classifies property otherwise.

Establishes a presumption that the spouse property acquired during marriage and after the determination date (see AS 34.75.900 for definition) is community property, if the spouses' community property agreement says that all their property acquired during marriage is community property.

Gives a spouse a one-half interest in community property.

States that if the community property agreement states that all property acquired during marriage is community property, the income on the property is community property.
