This legislation would make it an aggravator in felony sentencing if the defendant knowingly directed the conduct constituting the offense at a school employee during or because of the exercise of official duties. The Department believes this bill will have minimal fiscal impact. We do not anticipate many cases that would elevate themselves to felony levels.

NEA-Alaska Position Paper April 21, 2001

HB 85 – School Employee Aggravating Factor Representative John Coghill

NEA-Alaska commends Representative John Coghill for introducing HB 85 that makes directing violent conduct to a school employee an aggravating factor for criminal sentencing. The aggravating factor applies to a school employee who is performing school-related teaching and work.

In 1996, the Delegate Assembly of NEA-Alaska went on record requesting legislation be passed making the consequences of an assault of an educational employee the same consequences as though the assault were to occur on a police officer.

Safe schools and classrooms are absolutely essential for student success. During the past few years schools have worked hard to maintain a positive school environment. Despite that, threats and instances of violent behavior toward teachers and school employees have increased. We commend the legislature for taking steps to make schools safer. For example in 2000, passage of HB 253 by Representative Fred Dyson requiring school disciplinary and safety programs provided a means for some communities to focus attention on student discipline and safety.

We now call on the legislature to take an additional step to make our schools and classrooms as free of violence as possible by passing this bill. HB 85 may deter persons from assaulting a school employee while the employee is engaged in school related responsibilities.

This aggravating factor is not automatic but may be considered by the court in adjusting a sentence. By enacting HB 85, the legislature serves notice to anyone disturbing the peace in schools that the people of Alaska take safety in our schools and the safety of Alaska's school employees as a serious matter.

NEA-Alaska has committed greater levels of its budget and staff time to make our schools safer. Passage of HB 85 is a step in the direction to make our schools safer. We request that the House Special Committee on Education pass HB 85.

HB 85 Assault of School Employees Sponsor Statement

Parents have always sent their children to school feeling their children are in the safest place they could be when away from home. Because of acts of violence in public schools around the country in recent years, the safety of a child or a school employee in the school environment has increasingly been questioned.

On his School Safety Resource Site on the Internet, Senator Robert Byrd states:

"These acts are not limited to specific geographic regions or family backgrounds, nor do they have a single catalyst. Those who have committed such heinous acts have done so for different reasons, at different times, in different schools. But these acts of school violence have at least one thing in common-- they have spurred all of us to take a closer look at what can be done to better protect children at school.

Protecting our children is not simply a matter of public policy. It is a matter of strengthening basic values, of teaching children right from wrong, of instilling in them respect for others. We each have a responsibility to work to end youth violence and to keep schools safe for children and for those who teach them." Part of reassuring safety in the schools is assuring the safety of all school employees who facilitate that safe environment. "

HB 85 amends state statutes to allow for a judge to increase the imprisonment of a person who knowingly assaults a school employee during or because of the exercise of the school employee's duties. I believe an aggravating factor in sentencing will instill in children and their parents respect for others, especially employees of the schools they attend.

From: Rynniewa Moss, Legislative Aide Rynniewa Moss
Re: HB 85 Assaulting a school employee

Sec. 12.55.125. Sentences of imprisonment for felonies.

(k) A first felony offender convicted of an offense for which a presumptive term of imprisonment is not specified under this section

(2) except as provided in (1) of this subsection, may not be sentenced to a term of unsuspended imprisonment that exceeds the presumptive term for a second felony offender convicted of the same crime unless the court finds by clear and convincing evidence that an aggravating factor under AS 12.55.155 (c) is present, or that circumstances exist that would warrant a referral to the three-judge panel under AS 12.55.165 .

Sec. 12.55.155. Factors in aggravation and mitigation.

(a) If a defendant is convicted of an offense and is subject to sentencing under AS 12.55.125 (c), (d)(1), (d)(2), (e)(1), (e)(2), (e)(4), or (i) and

(1) the presumptive term is four years or less, the court may decrease the presumptive term by an amount as great as the presumptive term for factors in mitigation or may increase the presumptive term up to the maximum term of imprisonment for factors in aggravation;

(2) the presumptive term of imprisonment is more than four years, the court may decrease the presumptive term by an amount as great as 50 percent of the presumptive term for factors in mitigation or may increase the presumptive term up to the maximum term of imprisonment for factors in aggravation.

(b) Sentence increments and decrements under this section shall be based on the totality of the aggravating and mitigating factors set out in (c) and (d) of this section.

Sec. 12.55.165. Extraordinary circumstances.

(a) If the defendant is subject to sentencing under AS 12.55.125 (c), (d)(1), (d)(2), (e)(1), (e)(2), (e)(4), or (i) and the court finds by clear and convincing evidence that manifest injustice would result from failure to consider relevant aggravating or mitigating factors not specifically included in AS 12.55.155 or from imposition of the presumptive term, whether or not adjusted for aggravating or mitigating factors, the court shall enter findings and conclusions and cause a record of the proceedings to be transmitted to a three-judge panel for sentencing under AS 12.55.175 .

(b) In making a determination under (a) of this section, the court may not refer a case to a three-judge panel based on the defendant's potential for rehabilitation if the court finds that a factor in aggravation set out in AS 12.55.155 (c)(2), (8), (10), (12), (15), (17), (18)(B), (20), (21), or (28) is present.

House Bill 91 "An Act relating to the membership and quorum requirements of the State Medical Board."

SPONSOR: Representative Hugh Fate

SPONSOR STATEMENT:

House Bill 91 is based on a request brought forward by the Alaska Academy of Physician Assistants. The Alaska State Medical Board supports House Bill 91. House Bill 91 adds one licensed physician assistant to the State Medical Board and changes the quorum for meetings, from four to five members.

Currently, there is no representation of physician assistant licensees to the Board even though consideration of physician assistant licensure, regulations and discipline are frequent topics. Physician Assistants are also an increasingly significant factor in providing medical care. Participation of a physician assistant would strengthen and support the State Medical Board and contribute to its decision-making process by providing valuable opinions representing a wider spectrum of medical practitioners in Alaska.

Dear Mr. Jordan:

I am with the Alaska Academy of Physician Assistants and am sending you some information regarding adding a Physician Assistant to the State Medical Board. As an academy we have been working towards this for four years. We have committed funds to send selected representatives to the quarterly meetings of the Medical Board. A physician assistant from Fairbanks (Tom Wilson) and myself are the designees to attend these meetings on an alternate basis. We have attended the last two meetings together working on our proposal. I am sending you a copy of our proposal and a letter from the State Medical Board supporting our proposal. At the last board meeting in Juneau, Tom Wilson and myself spent three days lobbying for this change and I am happy to report that it is now a proposed bill in the House and Senate (HB 91 and SB 58). So far we have not come across anyone or any group opposed to the proposal.

We would like to have the support of the Alaska State Medical Society which is my reason for writing you. If you could disseminate this information to the members somehow we would appreciate it. I would be happy to address the next membership meeting if necessary. I would also be willing to meet with you or talk with you if you have any questions. This proposal would create a minimal fiscal note (est. of $3000). We are hoping to have the support of all those MD's who collaborate with PA's as well as any other MD's who would be willing to write letters to their representatives in support of the bill.

Thank you for your help. I look forward to hearing from you.

SPONSOR STATEMENT

HOUSE BILL 96

"An Act relating to acquisition and development of the Jesse Lee Home; and providing for an effective date."

The Jesse Lee Home for Children is located in Seward, Alaska, and is rich in cultural history.

The home was listed on the National Register of Historic Places in 1995 for the critical role it played in serving the health care and educational needs of Alaska Native children orphaned during a wave of devastating epidemics. John Ben (Benny) Benson Jr. had a vision to design a symbol for Alaska while residing at the Jesse Lee Home. That vision became the Alaska State Flag.

The Jesse Lee Home site was honored as the location for the first official raising of the Alaska State flag on July 9, 1927. The home also housed American soldiers during World War II.

The intent of this legislation is to have an advisory committee determine the costs and procedures necessary for the State of Alaska to acquire, develop, and manage the Jesse Lee Home property. The Jesse Lee Home was badly damaged by the 1964 earthquake. It is hoped the property will be acquired by the State and managed in a manner that recognizes its place in the State's history because of the flag raising, and honoring Benny Benson for his role in designing the Alaska State flag.

Countless places are endangered. That's why you must show how your nomination is representative of other sites facing the same serious threat. We consider sites from a range of backgrounds, from pre-history to the Civil Rights era.

JESSE LEE HOME FOR CHILDREN
AMERICA'S 11 MOST ENDANGERED HISTORIC PLACES
2001 NOMINATION

1. Describe the Site

The Jesse Lee Home for Children has remained vacant and abandoned for nearly 40 years, yet it continues to stand, overlooking Resurrection Bay in Seward, Alaska. Although severely neglected and deteriorated, the two imposing Tudor-style buildings are a strong reminder of Seward and Alaska's history.

Jewel Guard Hall, built in 1925, was formerly a boy's dormitory with classrooms. The Balto Building built in 1936-37 housed teachers, library, theater, shops, classrooms and the physical plant.

As the surrounding residential property has seen developed with multi-family apartments and single-family homes, and the trees and brush have nearly overshadowed the site, the two remaining buildings of the Jesse Lee Home have been waiting patiently for their salvation from the ever present threat of demolition.

2. What is the sites history? Has it been nominated or named to other lists?

The historical significance of the site is based on two facts. First, the facility played a critical humanitarian role in serving health care and educational needs of Alaska's children orphaned during a devastating wave of epidemics. Secondly, the home fostered children who have distinguished themselves in a wide variety of fields. The most famous of these today is John Ben (Benny) Benson, Jr., who while residing at the Home, designed Alaska's State flag. The Jesse Lee Home in Seward was also honored as the site where the State Flag was first officially raised on July 9, 1927. The Home also housed American soldiers during World War II.

The Jesse Lee Home in Seward was one of the most prominent examples of outstanding institutional response to the massive changes that took place in Territorial Alaska during the early twentieth century. As the time the Jesse Lee Home was built in Seward in 1925, Alaska was in the midst of successive waves of epidemics and alcohol-induced disorders that devastated the Native population. Thousands of Alaska Natives died. Many others were confined in Sanitariums so that they could recover from tuberculosis. The Jesse Lee Home for Children was one of the largest and most stable institutions to care for and educate the orphaned and abandoned native children that were the result of the massive social and cultural changes that devastated great numbers of Native Alaskans.

The Jesse Lee Home's history is very well known in the State of Alaska and is well documented. The site is listed on the National Register of Historic Places, the State of Alaska Heritage Resources Survey, and the local Seward Register of Historic Places. The Alaska Association for Historic Preservation identified the Jesse Lee Home on Alaska's Ten Most Endangered Properties list in 1993 and 1994.

3. How well known is the Site? Who goes there (tourists, school children)? Is it open to the public?

The Jesse Lee Home has been consistently cited by Seward residents as a high priority for historic preservation, however, many residents also feel its salvation is beyond the scope of a small community, and that its status as a state historic treasure and home of the Alaska State flag design should be recognized. The site has been in private hands and has been "closed" to the public for over 35 years.

It is an interesting place and many observers have a natural curiosity to explore the massive building, but their neglected condition makes this a real danger. The Jesse Lee Home is included on the Seward Historic Preservation Commission's annual tour of the city's nine National Register of Historic Places sites.

4. Why is the Site important? Why should anyone Care?

The Jesse Lee Home is rich in cultural history, as it was the home of children from all ethnic background brought in from every village and town in Alaska. As the birthplace of Alaska's flag, the site is extremely important to Alaska's history. Benny Benson, an orphaned child living hundreds of miles from his home had the vision to design a symbol for Alaska which is known and admired through out the world. The state flag was first raised and flown over Alaskan soil on July 9, 1927, from the flagpole at the Jesse Lee Home. Today, Alaska school children learn the story of how Alaska's State flag was created by Benny Benson, an orphaned boy who lived at the Jesse Lee Home in Seward.

5. Describe the threat to the site.

The Jesse Lee Home was closed following damage to the structures in the 1964 Alaska Earthquake, and the buildings have remained vacant since that time. The structures have been gutted and abandoned and are in poor condition. As documented by a 1999 engineer's preliminary review on the condition of the structure, the existing condition of this building is its greatest threat.

The report concluded that the lateral load capacity of the structures is minimal, and that due to the condition of the roof and interior framing, the structure should be considered unstable. The report specifically noted the following:

- * The roofing is in poor condition. Patches are missing and the building suffers from roof leaking.
- * The interiors have been stripped to expose the framing. Where the roof is leaking the interiors have significant wood rot damage. This damage is worse in the lower floors.
- * The exterior wall finish is stucco placed on vertical wood lath. The stucco is cracked and in poor condition in many areas.
- * The foundation is of cast-in-place concrete. Some of the concrete exterior walls are soft.
- * The foundation sill plates are not treated and are rotted in many areas.

The physical threat to the buildings on the site is very real and can not be overstated. Holes in the wooden shingle roof have allowed significant amounts of water to enter the buildings interior and rainfall totals for Seward are significantly high. Large sections of floor are rotted and pose a real threat to casual visitors. Higher than average winter snows could pose a threat as well. Considering that there has been no maintenance of any kind since 1964 the state of deterioration is high, and has been countered all these years only by craftsmanship and good materials. Every one of the 120 + windows are broken or missing. A previous owner removed all interior lath and plaster, plumbing and wiring. This looks bad because the interior is essentially gutted however, this has also allowed the walls to remain relatively dry and will allow future tenants to design an interior layout suited to their needs.

6. How significant is the threat?

In 1995 the City of Seward filed a foreclosure action on the Jesse Lee Home property for unpaid assessments and associated penalties and interest. As of July 1, 1997, the total owed for assessments, penalties, interest and foreclosure cost was $210,145.27. Interest on that amount continues to accrue at 9% per annum. The City and the property owner entered into a settlement agreement that would have discharged the property assessments if restoration and redevelopment of the historic structures was completed. That agreement expired on September 30, 2000, and the property owner did not complete the restoration and redevelopment of the Jesse Lee Home due to an inability to obtain financing. The City of Seward is now in a position to complete the foreclosure and obtain the property. At that point the City can either declare the property for public use or sell it. One of the options being considered by the City if it obtains ownership of the property is to demolish the structures in order to eliminate the liability to the City, and make the property more attractive for development.

6. How can the threat be eliminated?

The immediate threat of demolition could be curtailed by a rapid public awareness campaign, and education of the elected officials on the historical significance of this site. In order to completely eliminate the threat a viable use for the structure must be identified, and significant funds obtained to rehabilitate the buildings.

7. Who are the major players?

The major players currently involved with the Jesse Lee Home include the City of Seward, the State of Alaska, and private citizens.

The City of Seward is a major player because of its potential in becoming the owner of the property in the very near future. One of the City of Seward's 2001 State legislative priorities includes promoting legislation to have the Jesse Lee Home transferred to the state property inventory.

The State of Alaska is currently being approached by the City of Seward for legislative action to have the Jesse Lee Home transferred to the State property inventory. In addition, private citizens are making phone calls and sending letters to Alaska State Senators and Representatives, the Governor's Office, and the State Historic Preservation Office in order to obtain legislative funding for the renovation and restoration of the Jesse Lee Home.

At this time the United Methodist Women's Organization already running a large rehabilitation center in Seward, has expressed interest in receiving and operating an assisted living apartment complex within a restored Jesse Lee Home.

Over 500 private citizens signed a petition a few years ago in support of action to save the Jesse Lee Home. The public want to help, but feels helpless and overwhelmed by a project of this size. Their only recourse appears to be to petition their state officials and representatives.

9. Who opposes preservation of the site?

Local legend has it that a past City Manager frustrated about "What to do with the Jesse Lee Home" ordered the fire chief to burn it. The Chief politely refused.

Other than a handful of known firebugs looking for a "good burn" no serious opposition to the sites preservation has ever been detected on the local or state level.

Even the normally expected real estate developers, often around sites on the eve of their destruction, are missing. The estimated $180,000.00 price tag for the buildings demolition and removal make the 2 ½ acres future investment bleak.

10. How would listing this site as one of America's 11 Most Endangers Historic Places help save the site.

Being included on a National List of America's Most Endangered Sites would be of great help to those interested in the Jesse Lee Homes restoration and preservation. Already a grass roots effort is under way to influence Alaska's State Legislative Officials to fund such an undertaking. Recognition that many people outside the state also hope to see better things for the Home's future, would undoubtedly have a favorable influence in their deliberations. While being included on such a list is hardly an honor, a small dose of shame at the right time, administered in a helping way, could work wonders.

11. Other than listing this site, how can the National Trust alleviate the threat?

If pressure on the State of Alaska fails, the National Trust could be the Home's last hope. While we are optimistic about a State resolution to this problem, a letter of support for preservation efforts at the Jesse Lee Home from the National Trust to the Governor of Alaska would be very helpful and most appreciated.

12. How has the National Trust been involved to date? What role, if any, is there for the Trust if this site is put on the list?

Thus far the National Trust has been uninvolved in this site. The National Trust could be very helpful in the future in two ways. First of all, an article regarding this project in one of the Trust publications could help spread word of the problem. Secondly, the National Trust could in the near future provide valuable technical advice in the areas of :

1. Adaptive reuse of historic structures
2. Use of historic buildings as residential nursing homes
3. Safety issues/handicapped access issues
4. Environmental issues

Project Title: PROMOTE LEGISLATION TO HAVE JESSE LEE HOME TRANSFERRED TO THE STATE PROPERTY INVENTORY
Priority: #4 Beneficial Legislation

Funding Source:

Project Description/Justification

John Ben (Benny) Benson Jr., designed Alaska's flag while residing at the Jesse Lee Home, and the site was honored as the location for the first official raising of the Alaska state flag on July 9, 1927.

The Jesse Lee Home, which has remained vacant since it was damaged by the 1964 Alaska earthquake, has been gutted, abandoned, and is in poor condition. A recent engineer report on the condition of the building stated that the structure should be considered unstable.

The Jesse Lee Home was listed on the Alaska Association for Historic Preservation's Ten Most Endangered Properties list in 1993 and 1994.

The Jesse Lee Home has been consistently sited by Seward residents as a high priority for historic preservation, however, many residents also feel its salvation is beyond the scope of a small community, and that its status as a state historic treasure and home of the Alaska flag design should be recognized.

HOUSE BILL 96

"An Act relating to acquisition and development of the Jesse Lee Home; and providing for an effective date."

The Jesse Lee Home for Children is located in Seward, Alaska, and is rich in cultural history.

The home was listed on the National Register of Historic Places in 1995 for the critical role it played in serving the health care and educational needs of Alaska Native children orphaned during a wave of devastating epidemics. John Ben (Benny) Benson Jr. had a vision to design a symbol for Alaska while residing at the Jesse Lee Home. That vision became the Alaska State Flag.

The Jesse Lee Home site was honored as the location for the first official raising of the Alaska State flag on July 9, 1927. The home also housed American soldiers during World War II.

The intent of this legislation is to have an advisory committee determine the costs and procedures necessary for the State of Alaska to acquire, develop, and manage the Jesse Lee Home property. The Jesse Lee Home was badly damaged by the 1964 earthquake. It is hoped the property will be acquired by the State and managed in a manner that recognizes its place in the State's history because of the flag raising, and honoring Benny Benson for his role in designing the Alaska State flag.

Former Jesse Lee Orphans Home 1999

A happy ending to the Jesse Lee Home story is up to you

By Tim Szawinski

Seward

Have you noticed that there is something different about the Jesse Lee Home these days? You're forgiven if you missed it. After all, the place still looks the way it has since the Great Earthquake - better suited for the set of a slasher movie than for use as a children's home.

Commentary

Nonetheless, there are a couple of significant differences that should give those who hope for better things for one of Alaska's historic treasures reason to be optimistic. First of all, the property will soon be public land, making all of us shareholders in the Jesse Lee Home's future. Secondly, there is a very serious effort afoot in Juneau to do something important with the place where Alaska's first flag was designed and then first displayed to the world.

In a stunning development, our representative in Juneau, Ken Lancaster, has introduced a bill to the State House aimed at providing expertise and funds to solve the Jesse Lee Home problem to the benefit of all Alaskans. House Bill No. 96, if approved by the House, Senate and governor, would lead to the development of the site by the state of Alaska and its permanent maintenance as one of the state's most historically significant places.

The bill's authors acknowledge that this project should be important to citizens living throughout Alaska. After all, the Jesse Lee Home's story, like that of a great battlefield or a president's birthplace, transcends local boundaries. People all over America know the story of Benny's flag.

The bill also recognizes the site's restoration is currently beyond the means of city government. Therefore the state would take ownership and determine the best course of action, dates for action being built into the bill.

All sounds good, right? The problem is, bills don't pass if they don't get support, and that's why a happy ending to this story really is up to you.

If you agree with Rep. Lancaster that the brightest future for the home lies in the hands of the state of Alaska, please help him make it so. In order for him to get this legislation through, he really needs you to contact him and let him know your feelings.

Not so long ago, more than 400 of you signed a petition in front of the post office to "save the Jesse Lee Home." Won't you all get involved one more time? Can't Ken Lancaster expect hundreds of letters, e-mails, faxes or public opinion messages (see the friendly folks at the Legislative Information Office next to the Chamber of Commerce for addresses, phone numbers, POM information) from the residents of Seward, Moose Pass and Cooper Landing? Perhaps a teacher or two could encourage their students to get involved. It's your site now and only your help will make the Jesse Lee Home a place we can be proud of.

Rep. Lancaster's mailing address in Juneau: Rep. Ken Lancaster, Alaska State Capitol, Room 421, Juneau 99801. The Legislative Information Office phone number is 224-5066.

Beyond repair

Jesse Lee Home's fate may be in state's hands

By Nancy Erickson

Seward Phoenix LOG

A new player has appeared in the quandary of what is to become of the historic and deteriorating Jesse Lee Home.

House District 8's new representative Ken Lancaster introduced House Bill 96 last week that would pave the way for the state to acquire the property on Phoenix Road and manage it in a manner that recognizes the site's role in Alaska's history.

The home was opened in 1926 as an orphanage for Alaska Native children who either lost or were temporarily separated from their parents because of the deadly tuberculosis epidemic sweeping the territory at the time. It was there that John Ben "Benny" Benson Jr., a 13-year-old boy from Chignik, combined images of the Big Dipper, the North Star and the forget-me-not flower to design the Alaska state flag. The flag was first officially raised at the site on July 9, 1927.

But the orphanage and the 2 1/2 acres it occupies have been vacant since the 1964 Good Friday earthquake, slowly succumbing to the climatic elements of its maritime environment.

After many attempts at private development, the property is now in foreclosure by the Kenai Peninsula Borough for delinquent property taxes, said Jeff Sinz, borough finance director. According to state statute, the borough could deed the property to the city after the foreclosure process is completed. But the city doesn't appear to be interested in assuming liability for the property, nor does it have the resources to develop it, said City Manager Scott Janke.

"I don't think the property is worth more than the estimated $180,000 it would cost to raise it," Janke said of the two-story structures.

But what is to become of the orphanage — which housed many children who remained in Seward, married and raised families of their own — is an emotionally charged issue, sharply divided between those who believe the buildings are structurally sound and capable of refurbishing and those who don't.

Lancaster graduated from high school in Seward in 1961 and had friends who resided in Jesse Lee, he said. He even has a state flag signed by Benny Benson hanging on the wall of his office in Juneau.

The concept of state ownership of the property was resurrected by local historian Tim Sczawinski amid discussion of the home's fate during a January Planning Commission meeting.

"You always hear talk about liability and money," Sczawinski said during the January meeting. "Nobody ever talks about history. I could give you a half-hour lecture on the history of it. What's wrong with approaching the state? Our state flag was raised here. Don't we have any pride?"

Seward Museum curator Lee Poleske agrees state ownership is a good idea.

"As far as commemorating the design of the flag, that's a state event, not a local event," Poleske said.

But what the state would do with the property if it does assume ownership is not clear, said Lancaster.

HB96 wording deems, "Appropriate management would include the erection of a monument honoring Benny Benson for his role in designing the state flag and development of the site as a place where community events and ceremonies could be held."

The building itself may be another matter.

"Unfortunately, it's not repairable, according to the city," Lancaster said.

In a telephone interview from his Juneau office last week, Lancaster said his bill has support among some of his colleagues and expects it to take the full legislative session, and maybe into the next, before it comes to a full vote. "It won't be a quick process," he said.

Those wishing to comment on the bill can contact the Seward Legislative Office at 224-5066.

House bill would enable state to take over Jesse Lee Home

SEWARD (AP) -- The historic Jesse Lee Home, opened as an orphanage in 1926, has sat empty, slowly succumbing to the elements for 37 years.

But a bill introduced in the Alaska House would enable the state to take over the home and manage it in a way that recognizes its contribution to the state's history.

Ken Lancaster introduced the bill in early February. He said the bill has support among his colleagues but may not come to a vote until next session.

"It won't be quick process," Lancaster said.

The Jesse Lee Home was opened in 1926 as an orphanage for Alaska Native children who either lost or were separated from their parents because of a deadly tuberculosis epidemic sweeping the territory at the time. It was there that John Ben Benson Jr., a 13-year-old boy from Chignik, came up with the design of the Alaska state flag, which was first officially raised at the site on July 9, 1927.

After many attempts at private development, the property is now in foreclosure by the Kenai Peninsula Borough for delinquent property taxes, said Jeff Sinz, borough finance director.

State law would allow the borough to deed the property to the city after the foreclosure process is completed. But the city doesn't appear to be interested in assuming liability for the property, nor does it have the resources to develop it, said city manager Scott Janke.

"I don't think the property is worth more than the estimated $180,000 it would cost to raze it," Janke said.

Local historian Tim Sczawinski raised the issue of state ownership of the

P&Z Agenda Statement

Meeting Date: January 2, 2001

From: Rachel James, Planning Technician

Agenda Item: Jesse Lee Home Property

Situation

In 1995 the City filed a foreclosure action on the Jesse Lee Home property for unpaid assessments and associated penalties and interest. Following that, the City and the property owner entered into a settlement agreement that would have discharged the property assessments if restoration and redevelopment of the historic structures on the Jesse Lee Home properties was completed. That agreement expired on September 30, 2000, and the property owner did not complete the restoration and redevelopment of the Jesse Lee Home.

The City is now in a position to complete the foreclosure process and obtain the property. At that point the City can either declare the property for public use or sell it. This information was presented to the City Council at its October 5, 2000 meeting, and the City Council forwarded the issue to the Planning and Zoning Commission for a recommendation.

Property Description

The property consists of Lots 15A and 15B, Jesse Lee Heights Subdivision, Addition No. 4. Combined together the two lots total just over two and a half acres.

The remaining Jesse Lee Home buildings are located on Lot 15B. Lot 15B is a 72,268 square foot parcel which is primarily accessed off of Phoenix Road. The northeast corner of the lot also adjoins Benson Drive. Lot 15A is an essentially vacant, 43,449 square foot parcel that is accessed off of Benson Drive.

Zoning & Allowed Uses

Both lots are zoned Multi-Family Residential (R3) which allows for a wide variety of uses including:

Housing

Single-Family Homes
Townhouses
Duplexes
Condominiums
Apartment Buildings
Nursing & Retirement Housing

Commercial

Hotels & Motels (by CUP)
Hostels
Convenience Grocery Stores

Other

Senior & Teen Centers
Emergency Facilities
Parking Lots
Public Playgrounds
Schools

Depending on the intended use of the property, the land could be subdivided into lots of 7,000 square feet or greater.

Property Background

The building on the west side of the property (closest to Phoenix Road) is Jewel Guard Hall. It was built in 1925-26. The building to the east of Jewel Guard Hall is the Balto Building. It was constructed in 1937.

The Jesse Lee Home was listed on the National Register of Historic Places in 1995 for two significant reasons: 1) the critical role it played in serving the health care and educational needs of Alaska's native children orphaned during a wave of devastating epidemics, and 2) because the home fostered many children who have distinguished themselves in a wide variety of fields. The most famous of these is John Ben (Benny) Benson, Jr., who, while residing at the home, designed Alaska's flag. The Jesse Lee Home in Seward was also honored as the site where the flag was first officially raised on July 9, 1927.

Following is a list of known owners and projects that have been proposed for the Jesse Lee Home since its closure after the 1964 earthquake.

- 1965 - Alaska Children's Services (Methodist Women's Home Missionary Society) transferred ownership to the City of Seward
- 1970 - Development Corporation of America purchased and proposed development that included condominiums, apartments and a convention hall
- City of Seward had ownership at some point during this time
- ±1973 Last Frontier Inc. purchased and proposed development of a hotel
- ±1981 City of Seward had ownership at some point during this time
- 1984 M&I Partnership (Frank Irick & Mary Bellenir) purchased and proposed development of the home into condominiums and time shares. Frank Irick received a CUP for this project that expired in 1984
- 1991 Billy "Blackjack" Johnson started a movement to raise $400,000 to purchase the home, and preserve the site as a historical building/museum
- ±1995 Seward Senior Center proposed to restore the buildings for senior housing. According to Judy Martin, who was the Director of the Senior Center at that time, two engineer reviews were completed at that time with conflicting results as to whether the structures could be restored
- 1996 Daniel Claugus, in agreement with Frank Irick, obtained a CUP for a hotel complex. He obtained two extensions and the CUP expired in 1997. According to a 1998 letter from Mr. Irick, Mr. Claugus was unable to obtain financing.
- 1998 Frank Irick obtained a CUP for a hotel complex that expired in 1999

- 1999 Dale Lindsey hired Franklin & Associates, Consulting Engineers, to examine the condition of the building and provide a preliminary opinion as to the feasibility of converting the structure into either a hotel or office building. That evaluation determined that the structure should be considered unstable, and that a significant engineering effort would be required to establish the required structural capacity of the building. The report concluded that, rebuilding the structure will require substantial work and material effort involving all of the basic structural components and will be a relatively expensive undertaking.
- 1999/2000 Yvon Van Driessche, in coordination with other organizations and businesses, examined renovating the building for a rehabilitation school for children.
- 2000 Presently the Seward Unitarian Universalists are examining the possibility of coordinating with the national organization, and other non-profit organizations to restore the structure

City Plan References

1. Comprehensive Plan (1990)
Encourage development of affordable housing for Seward's growing housing needs including single and multi-family housing. Continue to encourage the redevelopment of substandard or abandoned housing by enforcement of building codes to require removal - at owners expense - of all unsafe or substandard structures.
2. Strategic Plan (1999)
Encourage the recognition, rehabilitation and preservation of historic sites and buildings.
3. Historic Preservation Plan
Continue to monitor Jesse Lee Home status and support the efforts to save it. Seek statewide support.

Fiscal Note

If the City decides to sell the property, any proceeds would be used to pay the City's costs in acquiring the property including the delinquent property taxes and special assessments. Any monies left over would be given to Mr. Irick. According to a December 1999 letter from Frank Irick, the approximate cost for demolishing the structure is 185,000.00.

Recommendation

Commission hear public testimony and discuss the Jesse Lee Home property in order to provide a recommendation to the City Council.

MEMORANDUM

DATE: October 5, 2000

TO: Honorable Mayor & Members of Council

THROUGH: Scott Janke, City Manager SA

FROM: Rick L. Gifford, Director of Finance RG
& Administrative Services

SUBJECT: Jesse Lee Home Properties

The City of Seward had an agreement with Frank Irick, owner of the Jesse Lee Home properties, that would have discharged the Jesse Lee Home assessments if restoration and redevelopment of the historic structures on the Jesse Lee Home properties were completed by September 30, 2000. Please see the attached "Factual Background -- Jesse Lee Home Special Assessments" provided by city attorney Brad Meyen for background history. The agreement has expired and Mr. Irick did not complete the necessary restoration and redevelopment of the historic structures on the Jesse Lee Home properties.

For your information, there are two lots involved with the Jesse Lee Home properties. As of July 1, 1997, the total owed for assessments, penalties, interest and foreclosure costs was $210,145.27. Interest on that amount continues to accrued at 9% per annum. In addition, Mr. Irick has not paid all of the 1999 Kenai Peninsula Borough property taxes or any of the 2000 property taxes leaving a total due by November 15, 2000 of $2,206.68 which includes taxes, interest, penalties and other fees.

The following are several options available to the City with regards to the delinquent assessments and the property for further discussion with the City Council:

1. The City has already foreclosed on the property, however to complete the process the City needs to request a Clerk's Deed from the Superior Court. Now that the agreement has expired the City may complete the process. Once the City obtains the deed to the property, the City will be responsible for the property and will need to take basic safety measures to secure the property. This could include boarding the lower level windows and doors and posting no trespassing signs on the property. We also believe that fencing will be necessary. Once the property has been obtained through the Clerk's Deed and secured, the City has several options:
 - a. The City could declare the property for public use and proceed to develop the property for such use. The City would need to pay the delinquent property taxes to the KPB.
 - b. The City could sell the property. The proceeds would be used to pay the City's costs in acquiring the property including the delinquent property taxes and special assessments. Any monies left over would be given to Mr. Irick.

2. The City could do nothing with the property. If the City did not obtain the Clerk's Deed on the property, the property would remain in limbo for a couple of years when the Kenai Peninsula Borough (KPB) may foreclose on the property for delinquent property taxes. Under the current foreclosure procedures of the KPB, foreclosed properties within cities are decided over to the cities. The City would then be in a position of declaring the property for public use or selling the property, paying the delinquent taxes and being responsible for the security of the property. If the City kept the property, the property taxes would need to be paid to KPB. If the property were sold, the property taxes would be paid first, then the special assessments. It is unlikely that the proceeds would be enough to pay all the property taxes, special assessments, other costs and still have surplus to give to Mr. Irick.

It is the administration's recommendation that Council schedule a work session to discuss the options available to the City concerning the Jesse Lee Home properties.

If you have any questions please contact myself or Scott Janke.

Factual Background - Jesse Lee Home Special Assessments

Mr. Frank Irick purchased certain property from the City of Seward, including the two lots currently comprising the Jesse Lee Home property, on December 3, 1983, for $187,500.00. On May 28, 1985, Mr. Irick entered into a subdivision development agreement with the City of Seward relating to Jesse Lee Heights subdivision addition number 2, lot 3, Seward Recording District. Pursuant to this subdivision agreement, Mr. Irick made certain improvements to the property in connection with subdividing the property into additional lots. In April 1986, the City of Seward created a special assessment district for the construction of additional improvements including paving, sewer trunk, and a water main. These assessments provided benefit to the assessed properties in addition to the improvements that were made by Mr. Irick under the prior subdivision agreement. The special assessment payments for the various lots became due under a payment plan beginning in 1987 and for each year thereafter for a period of ten years. The assessments accrued interest at 9% per annum. Late payments incurred a penalty of 10% and late interest of 12%. These payment terms were outlined in the April 1986 assessment documents approved by the City Council. No one formally objected to the assessments within the required 60 day period.

Mr. Irick sold several of the subdivided lots. The City was not receiving payment of the special assessments against several lots and filed a foreclosure action in April 1995. The foreclosure action was filed against lots owned by Frank Irick, Manfred Dietrich and George Atkinson for all special assessments, interest, penalties, and late interest owed for payments from 1987 through 1994. The court issued a decision in the City's favor and a judgment of foreclosure on March 27, 1996 for amounts owed from 1989 through 1994. (The court deleted payment of assessments that were due in 1987 and 1988 because the six year statute of limitations had expired prior to initiation of the foreclosure proceedings.)

Mr. Irick and Mr. Atkinson appealed the judgment of foreclosure against their properties. Although the City believed the court's decision was sound, the City entertained individual settlement proposals at that time. George Atkinson's settlement agreement required payment of all assessments (except for 1987 and 1988), including the additional years of 1995 and 1996, together with interest at 9%. Payment was to be made within 90 days of settlement. Mr. Atkinson made the payments and redeemed his property.

Manfred Dietrich entered into a settlement agreement which provided a credit in the amount of $8,792.36 in exchange for a pedestrian and bicycle path easement across his property. This left a balance owed of $23,232.70. The agreement also provided for a release from the lien against Mr. Dietrich's property if $15,000 was paid by a certain settlement date. Payment was eventually made and the property redeemed.

Mr. Irick's settlement agreement required payment of assessments on his lots other than the Jesse Lee Home site within a 90 day period. The assessments on those other lots were paid, and the only amounts remaining unpaid under the agreement are the assessments, interest, penalties, and late interest relating to lots 15A and 15B. Under the terms of the agreement that expired September 30, 1998, the Jesse Lee Home assessments would have been discharged if restoration and redevelopment of the historic structures on the Jesse Lee Home properties was completed. "Restoration and redevelopment" under that agreement required returning the Balto building, Jewel Guard Hall, and the remaining buildings of Jesse Lee Home to a condition for human habitation or use through adaptive modification while preserving the original exterior architectural features of the property, all in such manner as to maintain its National Register of Historic Places status and in accordance with the conditional use permit issued by the Seward Planning and Zoning Commission on May 3, 1996. The agreement was extended to September 30, 2000 in exchange for Mr. Irick's agreement to comply with the terms of the conditional use permit dated August 28, 1998, which included construction of a pedestrian/bicycle path.

Factual Background - Jesse Lee
Home Special Assessments

In sum, the City has foreclosed the property and Mr. Irick may redeem it by paying the assessments and foreclosure costs or he may receive a discharge of the assessments by restoring the property according to the terms of the agreement. Following September 30, 2000, if Mr. Irick has not fulfilled his responsibilities, the City may acquire a clerk's deed to the property and may either sell it (and pay Mr. Irick the excess profits from the sale), keep it and dedicate it to public use, or keep it for other purposes. If title to the property is kept by the City and not dedicated to public use, Mr. Irick may repurchase it within ten years. The repurchase amount shall include all assessments, interest, penalties, and costs.

AN ACT RELATING TO AWARD OF A HIGH SCHOOL DIPLOMA TO CERTAIN WORLD WAR II VETERANS.

This bill recognizes that many 17 year-olds left school to join the United States armed forces or the Alaska Territorial Guard in order to fight in a war that threatened the stability of the world. When they returned home, many did not return to high school and did not receive a high school diploma.

In order to recognize their service to this country, many states have joined together to pass legislation similar to the bill now in your committee. This effort is aptly named "Operation Recognition".

The Department believes there are less than 150 veterans that would fall within the guidelines of this bill.

In order to receive the diploma, veteran or a family member will need to meet the following:

1. attended high school and left to join the U.S. armed forces or Alaska Territorial Guard,
2. never received a high school diploma, and
3. actively served during August 7, 1940- July 25, 1947 and either was honorably discharged, was released because of a service-related disability or died in active service.

Veterans or their families will need to apply to the Department of Education for the diploma.
