8 department may petition for and the court may grant in a hearing

9 (A) two-year extensions of supervision that do not extend 10 beyond the minor's 19th birthday if the extension is in the best interests of the 11 minor and the public; and

12 (B) an additional one-year period of supervision past age 19 if 13 the continued supervision is in the best interests of the person and the person
14 consents to it;

15 (3) order the minor committed to the custody of the department and 16 placed on probation, to be supervised by the department and released to the minor's

Sponsor Statement SB 246 "Relating to the Hate Crimes"

Senate Bill 246 is being introduced to address the abomination of hate crimes in Alaska. This bill is not new. I introduced similar legislation (SB 163) during the 21st legislative session, which did not make it through the process before end of session.

Crimes motivated by prejudice, bias, or hatred continue to make the headlines in our newspapers. It is inherent in our duties as leaders to take a substantive role in eliminating discrimination and fostering a climate of tolerance.

Senate Bill 246 alone cannot eliminate bias/hate –motivated crimes, but Senate Bill 246 sends the message that Alaskans will not tolerate bias/hate-motivated crime in any form.

This bill does the following:

Provides that a person may bring a civil lawsuit for both compensatory and punitive damages against another who has caused physical injury or damage to property, with the intent to harass the person because of the individual's actual or perceived race, sex, color, creed, physical or mental disability, sexual orientation, ancestry, or national origin. A lawsuit may be brought against the parent or legal guardian of a minor who has caused physical injury or damage if it is based on reckless conduct by the parent or legal guardian.

Adopts a new crime, motivation by prejudice, bias, or hatred, AS11.76.200. It provides that any crime in Title 11 that is knowingly directed toward a victim because of the victim's actual or perceived race, sex, color, creed, physical or mental disability, sexual orientation, ancestry, or national origin, is elevated to the next higher level of offense. For example, a class B felony, such as assault in the second degree, would be a class A felony if motivated by prejudice, bias, or hatred.

A sentencing court may not suspend imposition of sentence for a person convicted of motivation by prejudice, bias, or hatred, or convicted of any offense that is knowingly directed at a victim.

A person convicted of a class A felony, may be sentenced to a term of imprisonment of at least five years but not more than 99 years.

Establishes mandatory minimum terms of imprisonment for certain misdemeanor hate crimes that are not prosecuted under AS 11.76.200, but where the court finds clear and convincing evidence that the offense is a hate crime. If a person is sentenced to these mandatory minimums, the sentence may not be suspended or reduced, and imposition of sentence may not be suspended.

Amends the aggravating factor in sentencing felony cases directed at a victim because of crimes motivated by bias, prejudice or hatred.

Requires the Department of Health and Social Services, when taking informal action in a delinquency case based on prejudice, bias, or hatred, to require the minor to perform a minimum of 100 hours of community work, and to participate in a diversity tolerance program or otherwise provide the minor and the minor's parents or guardian with the opportunity to develop respect for the ethnic, cultural, and personal diversity of all persons of the state.

This bill reflects our values and signals that crimes motivated by hate are especially reprehensible.

ANALYSIS: (Attach a separate page if necessary)
 This bill will have a fiscal impact on the operations of the Agency, but it is impossible to determine with any accuracy what that impact will be. Creating a new "motivation by prejudice" or "hate crime" offense seeking to raise the classification and penalties for the underlying crime, will result in more serious prosecutions and trials involving Agency appointments, but it is not possible to predict how many new prosecutions or more trials this legislation will generate if enacted. Furthermore increasing mandatory minimum prison sentences for misdemeanors if circumstances indicate these offenses are hate crimes, and prohibiting SIS's will result in more misdemeanor trials because of these greater penalties, but once again, it is not possible to predict this increased number. For all of the above reasons, an indeterminate fiscal note is submitted.

ANALYSIS: (Attach a separate page if necessary)
 If enacted, this bill will address several issues in law regarding charging a person with a criminal offense, sentencing that person if convicted, and establishing the capabilities of a complainant to bring a civil lawsuit against another if the action of the other person is driven by prejudice, bias, or hatred.

 Section 1 amends AS 09.55 by adding a paragraph (09.55.670) that allows an individual to bring civil action against another or against the parents or legal guardian of a minor who has caused physical injury to the individual or damage to the property of the individual with the intent to intimidate or harass the individual because of the individual's actual or perceived race, sex, color, creed, physical or mental disability, sexual orientation, ancestry, or national origin.

BILL NO. SB 246

ANALYSIS CONTINUATION

Section 2 amends AS 11.76 by adding a new section that in essence establishes the law of "motivation by prejudice, bias, or hatred" if a person commits a crime in this title and the person knowingly directed the conduct constituting the crime at the victim of the crime because of the victim's actual or perceived race, sex, color, etc. The classifications of these hate based crimes would be one category up from what the core offense would normally be, i.e.. a class A misdemeanor would become a class C felony.

Section 3 through 12 of this bill address issues related to charging and sentencing those who perpetrate "hate crimes". Contained within these provisions are mandatory minimum sentences, non-suspension of sentences, and language to deal with minor offenders.

Section 13 requires Health and Social Services to develop and implement a diversity training program for minors who have been referred to the program because of "hate crime" conduct.

The Alaska State Troopers do not anticipate any fiscal impact if this proposed bill were to become law.

ANALYSIS: (Attach a separate page if necessary)

This bill describes the circumstances under which an individual may maintain a civil action for discriminatory harassment and allows for the award of compensatory or punitive damages by the prevailing party. The bill also adds the crime of committing an act motivated by prejudice, bias, or hatred to the criminal code and provides for classification and sentencing for such offenses. The bill also adds a requirement to attend diversity tolerance training for juvenile delinquents who commit delinquent acts based on discrimination.

Passage of this legislation will have no foreseeable fiscal impact on the Department of Law.

ANALYSIS: (Attach a separate page if necessary)
 Senate Bill 246 makes several changes to the criminal and delinquency laws that increase the penalties for crimes that are motivated by prejudice, bias or hatred toward the victim because of the victim's actual or perceived race, sex, color, creed, physical or mental disability, sexual orientation, ancestry, or national origin. These changes will impact the court system because stiffer penalties will result in defendants more vigorously defending against the charges against them. This leads to longer and more frequent hearings and increases the chances that a case will go to trial. This is particularly likely when the stiffer penalties are tied to the proof elements associated with hate crimes. However, the extent of this impact is too speculative to support a fiscal note at this time. Should the impact prove to be significant, the court system may return to the legislature with a request for additional resources.

Senator Georgianna Lincoln
State of Alaska
State Capitol Room 11
Juneau, AK 99801-1182

MAR 29 2004

Dear Senator Lincoln:

I am writing in support of a bill introduced by you: SB 246, Hate Crimes Prevention Legislation. This bill is not new; similar legislation (SB163) was introduced during the 21st legislative session, but did not make it through the process before the session expired.

Hate crimes perpetrated against a person or group of persons based on the actual or perceived gender, disability or sexual orientation of that person or group of persons is a significant concern.

Hate crimes are not merely crimes against an individual, but rather crimes against the entire community because such bias-motivated crimes are more likely to provoke retaliatory crimes, inflict distinct emotional harms on victims and incite community unrest. Hate crimes are also troubling because they can strike fear in people who have done nothing illegal and are only members of an identifiable group. Thus, hate crime laws are appropriate as part of a government's responsibility to ensure equal protection is afforded to everyone.

I fully support this legislation and hope that Alaska's existing hate crimes bill is expanded to include hate crimes motivated by the victim's disability, gender or sexual orientation.

Sincerely,

Walt Monegan
Chief of Police

Written Testimony of the Anti-Defamation League in Support of SB 246, "Relating to the Hate Crimes."

Submitted on March 22, 2004 by Robert Jacobs,
Pacific Northwest Regional Director of the Anti-Defamation League

My name is Robert Jacobs. I am the Regional Director for the Pacific Northwest for the Anti-Defamation League. I am submitting this testimony on behalf of the Anti-Defamation League to urge your support for SB 246.

Since 1913, the mission of ADL has been to "stop the defamation of the Jewish people and to secure justice and fair treatment to all citizens alike." Dedicated to combating anti-Semitism, prejudice, and bigotry of all kinds, defending democratic ideals, and promoting civil rights, ADL is proud of its leadership role in the development of innovative materials, programs, and services that build bridges of communication, understanding, and respect among diverse racial, religious, and ethnic groups.

The Anti-Defamation League is proud to support SB 246, which would take an important step toward providing appropriate civil remedies and criminal penalties for hate crimes in Alaska. SB 246 would provide for additional and specific penalties for crimes committed against persons or property because of that person or the owner or owners' race, color, religion, nationality, county of origin, disability, gender, and sexual orientation. Legislation such as SB 246 has been passed with strong bi-partisan support and has become law in over 42 states and the District of Columbia.

All Americans have a stake in an effective response to violent bigotry. These crimes demand a priority response because of their special emotional and psychological impact on the victim and the victim's community. The damage done by hate crimes cannot be measured solely in terms of physical injury or dollars and cents. Hate crimes may effectively intimidate other members of the victim's community, leaving them feeling isolated, vulnerable and unprotected by the law. By making members of minority communities fearful, angry and suspicious of other groups - and of the power structure that is supposed to protect them - these incidents can damage the fabric of our society and fragment communities.

Some people ask why a crime committed against an African-American, a gay person, or a Jew - because that person is African-American, gay, or Jewish - is worse than a "random" robbery, assault, or vandalism. Aren't we all terribly violated whenever we are the victim of physical attack? The answer is, yes, from the victim's perspective, all crimes create a sense of violation. But there is a difference. A random crime is committed not because of one's identity, but because of one's misfortune. A random robbery is committed not because of who one is but what one has (money, for example). In a random crime, if that property hadn't been robbed or vandalized, it would have been that of some other unfortunate victim. It may feel personal while it's happening, but it should not be taken personally.

The opposite is true of hate crime; hate crimes are personal. They are committed specifically against another because of some innate and unique personal characteristic that is immutable: skin color, sexual orientation, religious background, and ethnic origin. Walking a different, less dangerous route won't stop a hate crime perpetrator because he or she can always find you - or your kind - later.

The randomness of the crime motivated by greed, need, drug addiction, and the like is absent from hate crimes. Therein lies the difference: as a hate crime target, one is not randomly selected, or in the wrong place at the wrong time. Victims can avoid bad neighborhoods, but they cannot, and should not, escape who they are.

Hate crimes based on a victim's race, religion, gender, sexual orientation, and disability, like other hate crimes, have a special psychological and emotional impact which extends beyond the original victim. Alaska's failure to treat a "gay-bashing," for example, as severely as it would a non-bias related assault and battery leaves members of the victim's community feeling isolated, vulnerable, and unprotected by the law. While bigotry cannot be outlawed, passage of this bill, providing Alaskans with both civil and criminal hate crime protection and remedies demonstrates an important commitment to confront criminal activity motivated by prejudice.

The fundamental cause of bias-motivated violence is the persistence of racism, bigotry, and anti-Semitism. Unfortunately, there are no quick, complete solutions to these problems. Ultimately, the impact of all bias crime initiatives will be measured in the response of the civil judicial and the criminal justice systems to the individual act of hate violence. Enactment of SB 246, along with implementation of other hate crime training, prevention, and anti-bias education initiatives, is, in the words of ADL's mandate, is a step toward "justice and fair treatment for all citizens alike."

We applaud the leadership of Senator Lincoln on this measure and urge the committee to approve this important legislation.

SB 246 - addresses
the end product of a process.

Good Afternoon;

On behalf of my Tlingit ancestors and many of my Elders who could not be here today I come to throw our ancestors voices behind SB 246, and to stand by the side of Senator Lincoln in putting this long over due Bill forward.

Our Nation and State has a poor track record of implementing the U.S. and Alaska State Constitutional Rights of equality, fairness and justice towards minority people. In this brief moment I will present samples and a snapshot of western society's unjust treatment of our people and this will reflect again, and again, why we support SB 246.

At the end of the presentation, you will realize like many of us that western citizenship, and the assimilation of Alaska Natives was not and is not succeeding like the hoped for American Dream.

You will see, there is pre-existing leadership and a mindset about Alaskan Natives within the U.S. Government bureaucracy and educational institutions. You will realize that my parents, grandparents, and great grandparents generation suffered greatly at the hands of the U.S. Government; Territory of Alaska; and State of Alaska. Many of you are probably aware that their grandchildren and great grandchildren continue to suffer through western systems today as a result of discriminatory systems and people in our society. We are experiencing this today in our own community.

- 1779- The Only Good Indian is a Dead Indian- Major James Norris

"In 1779, one Major James Norris wrote in his journal, "Civilization or death to all American savages." He meant that any Native Americans who didn't become "civilized" should be killed. Andrew Jackson (1767-1845), a famous frontiersman and Indian fighter who became president allegedly said, "Better dead than red." (Indians were sometimes called "redskins.")

- 1869- new directions in Government Policy- Board of Indian Commissioners

"The payment of money annuities to the Indians should be abandoned, for the reason that such payments encourage idleness and vice, to the injury of those whom it is intended to benefit. Schools should be established, and teachers employed by the government to introduce the English language in every tribe. It is believed that many of the difficulties with Indians occur from misunderstanding as to the meaning and intention of either party. The teachers employed should be nominated by some religious body having a mission nearest to the location of the school. The establishment of Christian missions should be encouraged, and their schools fostered. The pupils should at least receive the rations and clothing they would get if remaining with their families. The religion of our blessed Saviour is believed to be the most effective agent for the civilization of any people."

- 1880's- Charles Lummis: Indian Rights Crusader

"In the 1880s virtually everyone agreed that the only way to educate Indian children was to take them away from their homes and cut them off from their families for at least four years. At first, Charles Lummis was a believer in that approach, exemplified by the famous Carlisle Indian School in Pennsylvania. He wrote approvingly of the Carlisle School's "kill the Indian, save the child" theory of Indian education when he toured two Indian schools during his tramp across the continent in 1884. But within a year of his move to the Pueblo of Isleta, New Mexico, in late 1888, Lummis had changed his mind. Surrounded by grief-stricken parents whose children were being held against their will at the Albuquerque Indian School, cut off from their families, prevented from returning home even during summer vacations, Lummis came to regard the U.S. government's Indian education policies as an abomination."

"The first newspaper article that Lummis wrote about Indian education policy ran in the Los Angeles Times in April 1890. It was entitled "Poor Pedro, the Fate of the Indian Who Was Educated," and it began with an anecdote written in the style of a folk tale about an Isleta boy who had gone off to a government school for years and had returned to lead a tragic life as an outcast among his own people. The damage inflicted on the students was just part of the problem with the government Indian schools, Lummis asserted. "Of course the fundamental objection is the very same one that we or any other decent people would have if a superior race (self-asserted) were to come from Mars, overrun the land and force us to send our children away from home to be rid of our silly superstitions, religion and customs, and instructed in the better ways of the people of Mars," he wrote. "When I have the time and brains to do justice to so difficult a subject as this really is, you may hear from me about it."

Source: <http://www.charleslummis.com/indianrights.htm>

- Sept 21, 1887- Use of English in Indian Schools- Commissioner J.D.C. Atkins in his Annual report of 1887

"... Longer and closer consideration of the subject has only deepened my conviction that it is a matter not only of importance, but of necessity that the Indians acquire the English language as rapidly as possible. The Government has entered upon the great work of educating and citizenizing the Indians and establishing them upon homesteads. The adults are expected to assume the role of citizens, and of course the rising generation will be expected and required more nearly to fill the measure of citizenship, and the main purpose of educating them is to enable them to read, write, and speak the English language and to transact business with English-speaking people. When they take upon themselves the responsibilities and privileges of citizenship their vernacular will be of no advantage. Only through the medium of the English tongue can they acquire a knowledge of the Constitution of the country and their rights and duties thereunder."

"Deeming it for the very best interest of the Indian, both as an individual and as an embryo citizen, to have this policy strictly enforced among the various schools on Indian reservations, orders have been issued accordingly to Indian agents, and the texts of the orders and of some explanations made thereof are given below:

DECEMBER 14, 1886.

In all schools conducted by missionary organizations it is required that all instructions shall be given in the English language.

FEBRUARY 2, 1887.

In reply I have to advise you that the rule applies to all schools on Indian reservations, whether they be Government or mission Schools. The instruction of the Indians in the vernacular is not only of no use to them, but is detrimental to the cause of their education and civilization, and no school will be permitted on the reservation in which the English language is not exclusively taught."

- 1898- "Carlisle Indian Industrial School newspaper, the "Indian Helper," printed a letter by Richard Henry Pratt"

"...in which he said, "Carlisle's mission is to kill THIS Indian, as we build up the better man. We give the rising Indian something nobler and higher to think about and do, and he comes out a young man with the ambitions and aspirations of his more favored white brother. We do not like to keep alive the stories of his past, hence deal more with his present and his future."

"What he meant is that teachers should "kill" Indian children's culture and make them more similar to white children, which were considered superior. Pratt's words were condensed into the motto, "Kill the Indian, save the man."

Source: <http://www.geobop.com/Symbols/world/na/us/history/5/>

We can see the pattern of how these government laws, policies, and themes were applied to the lower 48 Indian tribes. By the time education programs came to Alaska the same mindset was applied to Alaskan Natives. However, for Alaskan Natives we should begin our review by following key events that took place in my ancestor's lives;

- Alaskan Natives were allowed to be recognized citizens if they gave up all rights and practice of their Native language and culture and learned to read and write.
- 1924 Indian Citizenship Act

"Until the Indian Citizenship Act of 1924, Indians occupied an unusual status under federal law. Some had acquired citizenship by marrying white men. Others received citizenship through military service, by receipt of allotments, or through special treaties or special statutes. But many were still not citizens, and they were barred from the ordinary processes of naturalization open to foreigners. Congress took what some saw as the final step on June 2, 1924 and granted citizenship to all Native Americans born in the United States.

President Calvin Coolidge with four Osage Indians after Coolidge signed the bill granting Indians full citizenship. Source - LOC, LC-USZ62-111409 DLC

The granting of citizenship was not a response to some universal petition by American Indian groups. Rather, it was a move by the federal government to absorb Indians into the mainstream of American life. No doubt Indian participation in World War I accelerated the granting of citizenship to all Indians, but it seems more likely to have been the logical extension and culmination of the assimilation policy. After all, Native Americans had demonstrated their ability to assimilate into the general military society. There were no segregated Indian units as there were for African Americans. Some members of the white society declared that the Indians had successfully passed the assimilation test during wartime, and thus they deserved the rewards of citizenship.

Dr. Joseph K. Dixon, an active proponent of assimilating the "vanishing race" into white society, wrote --

"The Indian, though a man without a country, the Indian who has suffered a thousand wrongs considered the white man's burden and from mountains, plains and divides, the Indian threw himself into the struggle to help throttle the unthinkable tyranny of the Hun. The Indian helped to free Belgium, helped to free all the small nations, helped to give victory to the Stars and Stripes. The Indian went to France to help avenge the ravages of autocracy. Now, shall we not redeem ourselves by redeeming all the tribes?"

So, the Indian Citizenship Act of 1924 proclaimed --

"BE IT ENACTED by the Senate and house of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That all non citizen Indians born within the territorial limits of the United States be, and they are hereby, declared to be citizens of the United States: Provided That the granting of such citizenship shall not in any manner impair or otherwise affect the right of any Indian to tribal or other property. (Approved June 2, 1924)"

What Citizenship Meant

Not all Native Americans viewed citizenship as something wonderful. Their experiences in dealing with Washington and the states did not give them much confidence in the government or desire to participate in it. Some tribes feared they would have to give up their own sovereignty and the federal government would deny its treaty obligations. In the words of one Native American --

"United States citizenship was just another way of absorbing us and destroying our customs and our government. How could these Europeans come over and tell us we were citizens in our country? We had our own citizenship. By its [the Citizenship Act of 1924] provisions all Indians were automatically made United States citizens whether they wanted to be so or not. This was a violation of our sovereignty. Our citizenship was in our nations."

On the other hand, there were Native Americans who saw voting as a right that had been denied to them too long. Maine was one of the last states to overturn state legal barriers to Indian voting. That rankled Henry Mitchell, an Indian canoe maker.

"The Indians aren't allowed to have a voice in state affairs because they aren't voters. All they [the politicians] have to do out there is to look out for the interests of the Indians. Just why the Indians shouldn't vote is something I can't understand. One of the Indians went over to Old Town once to see some official in the city hall about voting. I don't know just what position that official had over there, but he said to the Indian, 'We don't want you people over here. You have your own elections over on the island, and if you want to vote, go over there.' "

Did the 1924 Act really mean the end of the journey in the Native American's march to equality or was it merely a rest stop? By the time the 1924 Citizenship Act was passed, two-thirds of all Indians had already gained citizenship. And while all Native Americans were now citizens, not all states were prepared to allow them to vote. Western states, in particular, engaged in all sorts of legal ruses to deny Indians the ballot. It was not until almost the middle of the 20th century that the last three states, Maine, Arizona and New Mexico, finally granted the right to vote to Indians in their states. And the policies of the federal government towards American Indians continued to change and evolve."

Under normal circumstances citizenship and the right to vote would mean access and opportunity to things like a good education. But here in Alaska the Native education system was still managed from Washington, DC. and by the Commissioner of Education in Juneau.

It's amazing that schools were even built in Native communities such as Yakutat. For example, thanks to the local minister and commissioner, E.M. Axelson a small school for Natives was completed in Yakutat on Sept 20, 1929. I was surprised to find in my research that the location of the school activated the Yakutat Tlingits to petition the Commissioner of Education with a petition.

We can research and read the Governor of Alaska Reports to the Secretary of Interior from early as 1925 and we will see that regardless of having schools in Rural Alaska for Natives there was always insufficient management of the schools from Washington, DC; the Territorial Education Commissioner avoided getting involved; and there was always a shortage of operations funds and regular teachers.

In addition to issues which affected the operation of schools for Alaskan Natives there was widespread racial discrimination towards Natives which affected their acceptance and participation in the communities of which they lived. This hindered the quality of education they received.

It wasn't until 1945 the Anti-discrimination Act was passed. Prior to 1945 and even to date, our Native people were stereo-typed.

"A few lexicographers and paremiographers have also put together small lists of these invectives, and what follows is a selective number of phrases from these different sources with dates of earliest occurrence where they are available. Frequently found proverbial expressions are "To go Indian file" (1754, i.e., to walk in a single line), "To be an Indian giver (gift)" (1764), "To sing Indian" (1829, i.e., to act as one who defies death), "To do (play) the sober Indian" (1832, i.e., to remain sober or drink only very little to get the knives), "To play Indian" (1840, i.e. to not show any emotions), "To see Indians" (1850, i.e., to be in a delirium), "To turn Indian" (1862, i.e., to revert to a state of nature), "To be a regular Indian" (1925, i.e. to be an habitual drunkard), and "To be on the Indian list" (1925, i.e. to not be allowed to purchase liquor). The many proverbial comparisons repeat this negative image of the Native Americans as being of questionable ethical value: "As dirty as an Indian" (1803), "As mean as an Indian" (1843), "To yell and holler like Indians" (1844), "As wild (untameable) as an Indian" (1855), "As superstitious as an Indian" (1858), "To run like a wild Indian" (1860), "To spend money like a drunken Indian" (this text and all others stem from the late 19th century), "To stare (stand) like a wooden Indian", "Straight as an Indian's hair", "Red as an Indian", "Silent as a cigar-store Indian", "Drunken than an Indian", and "Sly as an Indian".¹¹

Stereo-typing acted as an accepted way to prevent Natives from being accepted in school and getting good jobs. Imagine that the 1945 Act was passed only 58 years ago. The grandchildren of these people are going through the school system today.

Mt. Edgecumbe High School was opened by the Government in 1946. A good description of why the school was built can be presented as;

"Boarding Schools: Tools of Acculturation"

" Boarding schools were introduced as a means to acculturate all Native American groups, including Alaska Natives. The schools in fact attempted to destroy Native village life and motivate the Native population to put an end to dispersed and isolated communities based on subsistence. The relocation of Native youth was intended to break down old village patterns, patterns that could retard the development of Natives into a "disciplined reliable workforce." (Training Corporation of America, 1966)

Alaska Native students wanting to further their education were required to attend school in one of four Indian boarding schools in the lower 48: Chemawa, OR, Chilocco, OK, Carlisle, PA, and Riverside, CA"

Source: <http://transition.alaska.edu/pt3/projects/ED478/boarderline/pastmain.html#T3>

Even though schools like Mt. Edgecumbe High School were being built there was still a lack of funding for village Territorial schools as can be seen from a resolution adopted by The ANB & ANS Grand Camp Convention in Hydaburg on Nov 15, 1947.

Titled: Resolution No. 20 Entitled: " Territorial School Subsidies"

"Whereas, native children have the right to attend public schools in the territory of Alaska as one of the paramount attributes of citizenship, and ...

"Whereas, the requested subsidy to Territorial schools can be justified on grounds not involving discrimination; namely, that the territory has not developed sufficiently to assume full financial responsibility for its school system, therefore

BE IT RESOLVED, that this convention support the request for a Federal subsidy to Alaskan Territorial schools on the grounds last stated."

Not many people today know that funding for schools in the territory came from alcohol and tobacco taxes. Establishments that sold alcohol and tobacco fought the taxes so there was always a shortage of school operating funds, especially in and for rural Alaska.

Even when Alaska became a State in 1959 much of the debate surrounding Natives by delegates at the Fairbanks convention concluded with, "The Natives were the Governments problem." So it's not surprising that 11 years after Alaska Statehood president Nixon adopted new Indian policy on July 8, 1970 condemning forced termination of Indian tribes, including Alaska Natives. This was a new direction from the government that was previously avoiding helping Native Americans.

President Nixon stated, “..we have turned from the question of whether the Federal government has a responsibility to Indians to the question of how that responsibility can best be furthered..”The Indians of America need Federal assistance- this much has long been clear. What has not always been clear, however, is that the Federal government needs Indian energies and Indian leadership if its assistance is to be effective in improving the conditions of Indian life.”

Source: Public papers of the President of the United States; Richard Nixon, 1970, pp. 564-567, 576-76.

Native education programs in Alaska have followed the same path as the lower 48 Indian education programs. So, it shouldn't have been any surprise that Alaskan Natives pressed for control and input to education programs in Alaska. John Collier, Jr. published an article in, “Cultural Influences in Alaska Native Education, Center for Northern educational Research, 1974.”

In his article he stated, “The challenge of Indian education is that we generally agree on why it has failed, but remain confused on its practical solution. Its failure is in the destructive impact of white education on Native children..”Many observers, both Indian and white, feel that removing the white teacher from the school and allowing Native culture to dominate the curriculum will solve many of the basic faults of Indian education.”

As we all know the Molly Hootch case was filed in 1972. “In August 1972, Cooke filed suit in Superior Court in Anchorage on behalf of native children and their parents in three villages in the Bethel area of Southwest Alaska (Hootch v. Alaska State-Operated School System, 1972). The first name on the list of 27 plaintiffs was 16-year-old Molly Hootch, from the Yukon River village of Emmonak.

Cooke filed the suit as a class action on behalf of all similarly situated native children in villages without high schools.” The case was settled out of court in 1976. “in May 1975, the Alaska Supreme Court affirmed this holding in a 4-1 decision (Hootch, 1975). The first claim was dead. But the state's highest court remanded the case for trial on the second claim put forward by the plaintiffs. This second claim was that the state's failure to provide local high schools in native villages constituted a pattern and practice of racial discrimination against natives in violation of the United States Constitution, federal non-discrimination laws, and the Alaska Constitution.

Attorneys for the plaintiffs, anticipating the likelihood of a remand, had already begun the laborious task of assembling evidence on the discrimination claim. While the decision on the first claim was still pending in the State Supreme Court, I was taking sworn testimony from state officials and sifting through thousands of pages of state and federal documents. And, most importantly, I was traveling to the villages to meet with parents and children to talk about their experiences with the boarding programs.

State and territorial records from years earlier to the present suggested a simple pattern. In predominantly white communities and in native communities with more than a handful of white inhabitants, if white parents wanted their children to stay home for high school, a local program was provided. In native communities, the idea of a local high school was rarely a matter open to consideration by officials. Even the tiniest white communities, with one or two or five children of high school age, had historically been provided local high school programs. Dozens of larger native communities had not. In all, over 95% of the children coming from villages without high schools were natives; fewer than 5% were whites.

At every turn, evidence mounted of discriminatory policies and actions." "In August 1975, as the plaintiffs' lawyers began to step up trial preparations, Alaska Attorney General Avrum Gross advised Governor Jay Hammond to consider an expanded program of rural high school construction — the purpose, to help defend the Hootch case. Gross wrote that a $20-million bond issue might help "counterbalance what a court may view as past transgressions by the State in rural education" and facilitate a settlement of Hootch "and thereby avoid a long and costly trial of this matter." (Memorandum to Gov., 1975, p. 3). Shortly thereafter, lawyers for the state asked the plaintiffs' attorneys to suspend trial preparations and talk about a settlement. We agreed."

"October 1976: court approves consent decree; the Molly Hootch case, now entitled Tobeluk v. Lind, is settled (Agreement of Settlement, 1976)."

With all of this history a person might ask, "What does all this mean?"

It means what President Lyndon Johnson said in his State of the Union Address, Proposing the "Great Society" Program, on Jan 4, 1965.

- "I propose that we begin a program in education to ensure every American child the fullest development of his mind and skills. "
- "Every child must have the best education that this Nation can provide."

It means what Theodore Roosevelt said in his "The man with the Muck Rake Speech," on April 1906.

"The foundation stone of national life is, and ever must be, the high individual character of the average citizen."

We can only ask that you help give our youth a first class education; to be fair-minded about their background and abilities; that you be fair in your communication with them; help them be responsible for their own lives and education; so that when they go out into society it can be said, "They are impressive!"

Subject: Senate Bill 255

Date: March 9, 2004

I would like to respectfully request that SB 255 be scheduled for a hearing before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Passage of SB 255 would reserve the possession and use of Traffic Preemption devices for authorized users including emergency response providers, police, road maintenance and public transit vehicles. The bill would make unauthorized possession or use of the device a class A misdemeanor.

Thank you for your consideration.

Senate Bill 255: "An Act relating to traffic preemption devices"

Sponsor: Senator Gene Therriault

Senate bill 255 was introduced to reserve the use of Traffic Preemption Devices (TPDs) for legitimate authorized users, including emergency response providers, road maintenance and public transit vehicles. TPDs allow vehicles approaching a traffic signal to override the normal signal control and change the light from red to green. This enables emergency vehicles to proceed more rapidly to the situation they are responding to. Unfortunately, without a change in state law, these devices are available for purchase and use by the general public and indiscriminate use could lead to accidents.

This bill is intended to keep these accidents from occurring, by assuring that only authorized personnel use TPDs. This is accomplished by making it illegal to own a TPD unless you are an approved user. In addition, authorized individuals would only be able to use the device in an official capacity, as defined by this bill. The bill also guarantees that mechanics and other repair personnel are allowed to possess and use TPDs, when installing, repairing or testing them in an official capacity.

This bill would ban the possession and use of equipment that will activate traffic "preemption" devices if the user is not involved in an emergency operation. The preemption devices send a signal to a traffic light or other traffic control device to give emergency responders priority at intersections that have been equipped with compatible equipment by changing the traffic light or device. Violation of this section would be a class A misdemeanor.

This bill will have no fiscal impact on the Department of Public Safety.

This bill makes it a Class A misdemeanor to possess or use a traffic preemption device if a person is not at the time of possession or use, operating a emergency vehicle. An exception is made for employees of a municipality or the state who are authorized to install, repair, or maintain traffic preemption devices provided use of the device is in accordance with such authorization.

Passage of this legislation will have no foreseeable fiscal impact on the Department of Law.

Dear Senator Therriault:

The Department of Public Safety supports Senate Bill 255 The Unlawful Possession or Use of Traffic Preemption Device. It is a matter of public safety that these devices are used only during an emergency response by an emergency vehicle. The misuse of these devices could easily endanger the lives of pedestrians and motorists. Possession of these devices by untrained personnel invites their abuse, with what could be tragic results. As a side note, unauthorized use of these devices could generate unfounded complaints to state and local traffic engineers who would attempt to trouble shoot traffic signals for problems that don't exist. Unauthorized use would undermine public confidence and support for continued use and expansion of traffic preemption systems.

The unlawful use or possession of a traffic preemption device warrants the punishment of a class A misdemeanor if convicted.

Sincerely,

William Tandeske
Commissioner

Dear Sir:

Thank you for you efforts in regard to Senate Bill 255.

The Municipality of Anchorage presently uses traffic preemption at several intersections and hopes to someday have a full system wide build out. At present, the system is used by the Anchorage Fire Department.

Anchorage uses the 3M™ Opticom™ Priority Control System which features Vehicle ID. Vehicle ID restricts the use of the system to Fire Department vehicles only, in other words, it is encrypted. The system also has two tiers of service, high priority (emergency vehicles), and low priority (other municipal applications). Many communities use the low priority tier to keep their transit operations efficient (buses on time). Anchorage hopes to use this technology in the near future for its transit and street maintenance operations (snow plowing). However, it is unclear to me if this would be possible under the present wording of the bill. Thank you for your attention in this matter.

SIGNAL CHANGER CAN LEAD TO HAVOC LIGHTS: EMERGENCY CREWS RELY ON DEVICE TO CLEAR PATH, SO CIVILIAN USE SPARKS WORRY

Copyright 2004 McClatchy Newspapers, Inc.
Modesto Bee
January 19, 2004, Monday, ALL EDITION

A fire engine rolling to a house fire with people inside. A police officer responding to a shooting. Paramedics headed to a major traffic accident.

All need clear paths to get to their destinations as quickly and safely as possible.

Recently, however, Riverside County paramedics approaching an intersection used a mobile infrared transmitter (MIRT) to change a signal light from red to green, only to have a civilian change it back.

While such technology might be a dream for drivers eager to sail through without any red lights, authorities say signal changers could create problems for emergency vehicles.

That's why Assemblyman Dario Frommer, D-Glendale, plans to sponsor a bill that would ban the public sale of such transmitters.

Currently, the devices are sold locally, as well as on the Internet. It's not illegal to buy or have them -- it's only illegal for civilians to use them.

"You just can't have every motorist with the ability to change a stop light at

Loc
foru
ST.
Sec

will," Frommer said. "It could create tremendous chaos."

Frommer said the transmitters should be restricted to police, fire and medical emergency personnel.

Modesto police Capt. Joe Aja said he is not aware of any incidents in Modesto when someone used a transmitter to change a signal light against an emergency vehicle.

Aja said firefighters, police and other emergency personnel have used the transmitters for years. But they were never intended for public use.

"(Police) use the transmitters for safety," Aja said. "They create a safety corridor for us and an extra level of safety."

The devices emit an invisible high-intensity strobe light that can change signals from red to green in two or three seconds from a distance of about 300 yards.

Aja said emergency personnel can use the transmitters at most of Modesto's major intersections. The devices are attached to the police car's emergency light bar, he said.

Internet availability raises concern

But the public can buy the devices for prices ranging from about $100 for a used one to about $400 for a new one. Frommer said the growing availability on the Internet convinced him the law needs to be changed.

Under the proposed legislation, anyone not working as a firefighter, police officer or paramedic would be fined if found with a transmitter or if they are caught selling one, Frommer said.

The bill would make the unauthorized purchase or sale punishable by a fine of up to $1,000. Anyone caught selling or buying two or more transmitters would be charged with a misdemeanor and fined up to $3,000.

A person with an unauthorized device who causes an injury or death in a car accident would be fined up to $10,000.

The bill also would permit law enforcement to conduct online stings.

Frommer said anyone willing to lie about their occupation can buy a signal pre-emptor on the Internet. The transmitter can be plugged into a cigarette lighter, he said.

"If the public starts using the transmitters, emergency personnel might have to start using a secondary signal with a code," Modesto Fire Battalion Chief Richard Hurley said.

Tim Gow, who invented MIRTs and owns the company that produces them, FAC of America, defended a distributor's right to publicize and sell the product online.

The advertising, he said, is aimed at public safety departments.

"We don't market to the public, and we never intended to market to the public," Gow said.

Jerry Sterner, president and chief executive officer of Sintex Security Service in Modesto, is one of 14 authorized MIRT dealers statewide.

Sterner said he sells the infrared transmitter only to police agencies, fire departments and ambulance companies.

He predicts that Frommer's bill will pass. "By midyear they no longer will be allowed," Sterner said.

Bee staff writer Daryl Farnsworth can be reached at 578-2337 or dfarnsworth@modbee.com.

SPONSOR STATEMENT FOR SENATE BILL 288

“An Act relating to certain determinations concerning placement of a child in emergency custody and temporary placement hearings in child in need of aid proceedings; and providing for an effective date.”

Current state law provides for the Court to determine, within 48 hours of removal from the home, whether probable cause exists for believing a child is in need of aid and to authorize a child's temporary placement out of the home. However, the language used by the courts in making determination varies and is often not in compliance with federal requirements. Senate Bill 288 mandates the Court to specifically use the language that continued placement in the home is “contrary to the welfare” of the child when exercising its authority to remove a child in need of aid. This legislation ensures that state law complies with federal requirements.

By requiring Contrary to the Welfare language in the first Court order following removal, the Office of Children's Services has the opportunity to increase federal reimbursement through the Title IV-E program for the care of the child and associated expenditures incurred by OCS for managing the foster care program. The Office of Children's Services estimates that passage of this legislation will result in an increase in federal Title IV-E receipts of $500,000 in fiscal year 2005.

This legislation would clarify language regarding the findings that a court is required to make at an initial hearing for a child that is removed emergently from his/her home by the Department of Health and Social Services. Currently, the court hears these cases and determines whether or not the Department has acted prudently in removing the child from his/her home. The court issues findings as to whether or not it is contrary to the welfare of the child to remain in his own home; however, the language in the court order may not reflect the exact wording that includes "contrary to the welfare" language. In order for the Department to receive federal reimbursement for the costs associated with the care of the child, the court must issue findings that specifically state that it is

"contrary to the welfare" of the child to remain in his/her current home. These findings must be made at the first court hearing. Including this language in the court's initial findings will enable the Department to increase federal reimbursement for a significant number of children who enter state custody, emergently. The OCS projects it may see an increase of approximately 5% in its Federal Title IVE penetration rate, which may equate to an estimated $500,000 in federal revenue for costs necessary to care for the child.

The Office of Childrens Services has identified an upward trend in the foster care base rate caseload. In FY2003 there was a 3.2% increase in children who received benefits from the foster care base rate program. The Office of Children's Services anticipates that the foster care caseload will increase another 3% in FY2004 and FY2005. With the additional federal receipts, the OCS intends to continue to cover the basic ongoing costs of raising a child, as well as ensure continuity of foster care base rate payments and the continued success of the foster care program.

MEMORANDUM

February 19, 2004

SUBJECT: Placement of a Child in Emergency Custody Cases
(Work Order No. 23-LS1567\Q)

TO: Senator Ralph Seekins
Attn: Brian

FROM: Jean M. Mischel
Legislative Counsel

We have made the requested change to SB 288 in one section referencing "emergency custody" of the state and have substituted it with the phrase "temporary custody." The term "emergency custody" appears in other statutory sections pertaining to, for example, public defender representation (AS 18.85.100(e)), and to temporary custody hearings in general in the same statutory section affected by this bill (AS 47.10.142(a) - (c)). We have not made conforming changes since your request was limited and since it appears that the inconsistency may have no substantive effect on those sections. However, inconsistent use of language in statutes can confuse the public or lead the court to believe that the different terms mean different things. Do you want a draft that amends the other sections too?

If I may be of further assistance, please advise.
