UNIFORM PROBATE CODE
SPECIFIC REFERENCE TABLE

Explanation: The left-hand column lists, in numerical order, all UPC sections which refer to, or are referred to by, other UPC sections.

(1) An asterisk (*) preceding a section number indicates that the section in the left-hand column is referred to BY the section in the right-hand column.

(2) An (°) indicates that the reference is to a concept or phrase rather than to a section or article number (i.e., an implicit rather than specific reference).

(3) Certain parts of the UPC should be regarded as units. These are indicated by "UNIT" in the reference table. In addition to the specific numerical references within these parts (which are listed under the "UNIT" heading) there are frequent verbal references to key words and phrases throughout all the sections within the unit. These are too numerous to list in the table; the "UNIT" heading simply serves to warn the reader of their existence. A change in one section of the unit would very likely affect at least the wording of many other sections.

Examples:

UPC SECTION:	REFERS TO OR *IS REFERRED TO BY:
2-606 (Failure of devise)	2-605 (Anti-lapse) [Reads "§2-606 refers to §2-605 explicitly"]
2-605 (Anti-lapse)	*2-606 (Failure of devise) [Reads "§2-605 is referred to by §2-606"]
3-1001 (Closing)	°3-401 et seq. (Formal testacy proceedings) [Reads "§3-1001 implicitly refers to §3-401", i.e., it mentions "formal testacy proceeding" but does not identify the section number]
